Home builders are not hard to spot in our section. You see them daubed with paint or plaster. Florence Fett is doing some plaster work, and Gladys Stahly has been painting storm windows and screens in her new breezeway. . . . Clara Heaston has been away from work due to the illness of her father. We wish him a speedy recovery. . . . Halloween isn't here yet, but can anyone tell me why Bertha Bernau was wrapped up in a Indian blanket the other night? . . . Leon Radamaker says when he shoots a squirrel he wants the credit. It seems Herbie Jehl is getting this credit some way. . . . Edith Venrick has been home ill. Old man Flu has her again. . . . Brownie, Ed Bowser and Bill Putt were talking bowling the other day. Bill said, "How can you tell what a ball is going to do when the first one goes in the gutter and the second makes a strike?" Maybe that comes later. Brownie said a fellow bowler threw a ball, and it went down the next alley and made a strike, and demanded that it be counted. We didn't hear how that turned out. Clarence Didier still hasn't worked that puzzle and says suggestions are welcome. . . . The girls were wondering what made Gilliom so sweet, and found out it was the honey he was selling. . . . Ralph Snyder, Louis King and Herbert Grage are our newest around here. Welcome, fellows. . . . Harold Mettler has some new Beagles for trial. Maybe we will get that rabbit fry yet.

We missed our good friend Jack Lea, who attended a convention in New York. We hope you had a wonderful time along with all the business. . . . James Key has purchased a television set. We are all looking forward to spending an evening with you. . . . Professor Jim Miller has accepted a job on the Hermetic Line. Good luck, Jim. . . . Elvie Dafforn came into work a little messed up the other morning. His excuse was he was looking for the light switch in the dark. . . . Tom Woodward doesn't have as much trouble with people stealing melons from his garden as he does here at work when he brings them in for his lunch. Hope you didn't get too hungry, Tom. . . . Sorry to hear that Garnet Marshall is suffering from a fractured foot. . . . Luella Washler, Betty Schoeff, Donna Cozart, Marjorie Moser, Marcella Nicodemus, Marilyn Langwell, Virginia Keesler, Cecelia Ferguson and Mary Blanchard have joined the Friday night bowling league. Lots of luck, girls. . . . Our friend Dick Shull is now driving a new Chevrolet. How about a ride, Diek? . . . What is this we hear about Noel Smith at the Bluffton Street Fair? . . . Sorry to report that Virginia Mileski is off work due to illness. . . . Maud Waikel must have been very hungry as she ate all of the plums that Betty Funk brought in and to make matters worse Maud replaced the plums with damaged coils. How did you make out, Betty? . . . We have nicknamed Don Beghtel the "Ice cream kid." . . . The question of the week: "What awakened Arietta Denny from her nap in the bath tub?" Sleeping in a tub of water is against all safety rules, Arietta. . . . Inez Hall is better known now as the sweater girl. . . . Mary Edgar has left the company and gone to Florida to live. . . . Lucille Dreyer has left our group to become a full time housewife. . . . We welcome Mary Clibon to the Blanket Warmer Section from second trick. . . . Florence Gamble has returned to work full of pep following her recent illness. . . . For a minute we thought Becky Wagoner had a new job as sweeper, but we were wistaken. . . . Cecelia Langwell thought she was having machine trouble. After investigating the matter, she found that some one had just misplaced the broom. . . . Betty Baker had a wonderful dream. Just how does one feel after winning a beauty contest, Betty? . . . Elma Berger gave a dinner party Thursday for some of her friends. Everyone had a good time and enjoyed the dinner very much. Those present were: Blondie Frankart, Edna Lobert, Garnet Borne, Mamie Baysinger, Luella Frane, Cecelia Carrig and Dorothy Myers. . . . Mary Taflinger is now in the hermetic gang on second trick. . . . Good luck to Glen Geist, who has left us to go out to Pennsylvania. . . . Some people sure are fortunate to have television, but to get Alaska, that's really something!

Wakes in Time

Who was that good looking gentleman Edith Carder was seen with at the new recreation center the other night. . . . Happy birthday to Virginia Reed, Alice Yant, Don Niles and Joye Boyd. . . . A very speedy recovery to Margaret Bischoff and Doris Brager, who are on the sick list. . . . Becky France is back to work again after two weeks' vacation, and Maggie Moore had her third week. Maggie was lucky to hit the jackpot when she came back to work. . . . Everyone is quite happy over the news that Charlotte Stanford has gotten her release from the Army. Hope you are home for good this time, Charlotte. . . . St. Joe school is putting on a dance Friday night to pay for their ball diamond. Jerry McKown wants all of his G-E friends to come and dance. We hear he plays that fiddle pretty good. . . . Where did John Hunnicut get that bright shirt he was wearing Monday. . . . Bernice Gasper's face was pretty red when she saw one green and one blue anklet she had on the other day. . . . Belated birthday greetings to Kenny Martin. He went to Milwaukee again over the week-end. . . . Doris Walker was pretty happy from getting a set of twin nieces. . . . Elsie Logue is in Colorado spending a vacation. . . . Lena Stumpf went to Walton Lake for the week-end. . . . Eddie Andrews was to the zoo over the week-end and gives some very interesting reports.

Dessie George will be meeting herself coming in the gate Saturday morning. We'll all take a few extra winks for you, Dessie. . . . Marie Bruggencate wants to know who's who, while Bud Kissinger wants to know where he stands. . . . Believe it or not, our electric razor blows the beard off. Just ask Betty Collier. . . . Don Meyers works in Bldg. 4-2. What makes everyone think he works in Bldg. 6-2? . . . Dessie George should take better care of her purse. Joe might not be around to climb the ladders next time. . . . Fern Yoder went home early Friday night to spend the evening with her brother who is home from the service. . . . Anyone wanting her hair cut, see Kay Dolan. She did a very good job on Thelma Kammeyer. . . . Babe Gephart's little daughter went to the Bluffton Street Fair with her daddy. She had a lot to tell Babe. . . . Woody Platt is just too popular on second shift, so they are transferring him on days. . . . Sorry we're late with this, Whitey, but you see, we did know your name and are putting it in the news. Wilmer Finger, Mayor of Hoagland. How's that, Whitey?

OUR VERY OWN. Joe Taylor, who has a 1¼ hour program every Saturday from 12:00 to 1:15 p.m. over WGL, has been considering Wimpy Lemper as a featured soloist until it was rumored by his wife and friends that Wimpy couldn't sing for sour grapes. However, Wimpy's better-half has let it be known that he is quite a yodler, especially when things don't go just right. For example, there is the saw that we told you about. Wimpy sent it to a Chicago firm to be repaired because the guarantee had not run out. After waiting about six weeks, he finally got it back by paying $23.20 in COD charges. He could have had it repaired in two days right here in town for only 14 bucks. Boy, did he ever yodle! . . . WE OVERLOOKED the name of Amil Beck as one of our assistant reporters. Sorry, Amil. . . . WELCOME to Leona (she would rather be called Jane) Ache, who is replacing Barbara Cross in the dispatcher's office. Barbara is being moved to the production office. Jane had no more than started to work when Bill Rohe suggested to her that she buy a new Cadillac with her first check and commute him back and forth to work since she is a neighbor of his. Disregarding this character, Jane, we hope you will like the rest of us. . . . WHAT HAPPENED to that little brush pile you had on your upper lip, Charlie Siders? Didn't the blond girl friend approve of it? You told us that whatever you said was it.

Helping Hands—G-E employees will have the opportunity to wash the lather of civic responsibility from their hands by joining the Community Services Fund next week. The Fund will aid such organizations as the Children's Day Care Association, where children like the two little girls above can learn to live and play together. The Fund drive opens Monday, Oct. 8.

The Man of Distinction—Lee Witte, Bldg. 4-5, strolls nonchalantly to another working day with Pat O'Brien and Willis Dillman, both of Bldg. 4-5. Fellow employees were just becoming accustomed to the beard which Lee grew for the Monroeville Centennial, when he came to work on the second day of the Centennial celebration in a complete Sunday-go-to-meeting outfit of a bygone era.

Pep Talk—Lowell Ray, Bldg. 4-6, gets ready to bowl with his team, Alternators, while Denton Manecke, Bldg. 4-6, of the A. C. team, offers enthusiastic advice for a successful bowling season. ←

On TV For G-E—Featured performers on the G-E sponsored Fred Waring TV show are the husband and wife team of Sylvia and Keith Textor, who are entering their second season of singing, dancing and acting on the show.

NEW PRODUCTS DIVISION FORMED AT FORT WAYNE

Fun at TAB Day—Members of the Company's Test, Apprentice, Business and other training courses were guests of Fort Wayne management Saturday at an all-day outing in Municipal Beach Park. The event opened at 9:30 a.m. with a parade for the opening ceremony and flag raising. The remainder of the day was spent in sports competition between four color teams. C. H. Lang, G-E vice president, was the principal speaker. The trainee quartet shown above includes (l-r) Jim Duff, Joe Duehmig, Bob Silk, all of Bldg. 12-2, and John Oldenkamp, Bldg. 4-6. (More TAB Day pictures on page 12 of this issue.)

W. C. Wichman Named General Manager Here

William C. Wichman has been appointed general manager of the newly-established Component Products Division, which will have its headquarters in Fort Wayne, it was announced last week by Robert Paxton, executive vice president, Industrial Products and Lamp Group.

One of six newly-organized operating divisions, the Component Products Division will include the Fractional Horsepower Motor Department, Specialty Transformer and Ballast Department and Fort Wayne Works Service Department. These six divisions will replace the Large and Small Apparatus Divisions, which have been discontinued.

Two Departments Established

A Financial Department and a Law Department have been established within the new division here. Mr. Wichman has appointed Carl W. Moeller manager of the Financial Department and Douglas S. Moore counsel of the Law Department.

C. H. Rinne has been appointed by Mr. Wichman to succeed the latter as general manager of the STAB Department.

The Motor and Generator Division headquarters will remain in Schenectady. James M. Crawford has been appointed general manager of this division by Henry V. Erben, executive vice president, Apparatus Group.

Vice Presidents Named

Concurrently, John W. Belanger and Nicholas M. DuChemin were elected vice presidents of the Company, Ralph J. Cordiner, president, announced. Also, Mr. Belanger's appointment as general manager of the Company's newly-created Defense Products Division was made known by Mr. Cordiner. Mr. DuChemin was recently placed in charge of the Company's Manufacturing Services Division.

The other new divisions are the Turbine Division, with headquarters at Schenectady; Transformer and Allied Products Division, with headquarters at Pittsfield, Mass.; Measurements and Industrial Products Division, with headquarters at Lynn, Mass., and Switchgear and

Doing Our Share the Easy Way

By now, all of us have heard of the welcome change that has been made in handling appeals for funds from worthy health, welfare agencies and drives.

In place of the repeated and separate drives of the past, one solicitation for funds will be made next week from all G-E employees. The new plan, known as the G-E Employees Community Services Fund, was worked out by a committee representing both labor and management.

Although this one major solicitation plan is a fairly new idea, it has been given whole-hearted cooperation in all G-E plants where it has been put into effect. It seems assured that the one-time solicitation idea will go over big with G-E people here.

We all want to do our share toward maintaining community services—to help make our country a better place to live, work and do business. However, constant drives within the plant are an annoying and a time-consuming way to pay our community rent. Furthermore it is costly to the agencies who must make continual requests for funds.

The new Community Services Fund will give each and every employee the opportunity to fulfill his obligation to his community at a minimum of inconvenience.

Too Many $$$—Too Few Goods

When a nation has a large supply of money and a shortage of goods, people behave just as a crowd does at an auction.

The auctioneer holds up an article—a watch, for instance. Somebody bids $10. You think it is worth about $20, but you know it's the last watch in the sale. You bid $25.

The other man bids $30. Knowing, as you do, that the watch is worth only $20, you nevertheless want a watch. Besides you have a month's pay in your pocket. You bid $40, and the other man bids $50.

That's the way inflation works when money is plentiful and goods are scarce. It works that way whether you're buying a watch at an auction or canned beans at a grocery. Inflation is too many dollars chasing too few goods.

SUGGEST A WAY TO STOP IT

Investigate Waste on Your Job!

Each one of us is always dealing in three precious commodities—time, materials, and supplies. Look around. Do you detect needless waste of any of these on your job? Can you think of a way to eliminate this waste? Write up your idea and send it in to the Suggestion Committee. You'll collect cash if your suggestion is worth-while.

Q. Since I am near-sighted, distant objects appear blurred, and they are still blurred when I look at them in a mirror, with the mirror close to my eyes. Why does this happen, if the mirror surface reflects a true image?

A. A mirror reflects rays of light, but it does not form an image at its surface. If the mirror is flat, it image appears just as far behind the glass as it actually is in front. When looking at such a reflection, your eyes have to focus for the distance from your eyes to the mirror, plus that from the mirror to the object.

Q. What is electromagnetic induction?

A. This is usually demonstrated by a coil of wire connected to a sensitive meter for measuring electric current. If a magnet is pushed through the coil, the meter shows that a current is flowing. The effect is the same if the magnet is fixed, and the coil moved. This was discovered independently, about 1830, by Joseph Henry, in the United States, and Michael Faraday, in England. It was one of the basic discoveries in the history of science, and the principle is used today in all electrical generators.

TRAFFIC TIPS

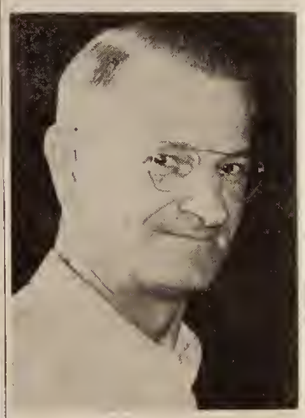
I shall never trust a stop light
Or a through street anymore.
For I've found there still are people
Who don't know just what they're for.

In the future, I'm mistrusting
Any traffic light that's green;
When I cross an intersection,
It will be when I have seen.

And my faith in corner stop signs
Has experienced quite a drop,
Since I formed a new acquaintance
With a guy who failed to stop.

He was wrong, the cops informed me,
Since I had the right of way.
But because I trusted stop signs,
I've a banged-up car today.

After this, when I'm approaching
Any traffic intersection,
Even though I have the right of way,
I'll look in each direction.



And if any car is coming,
From the left or from the right,
I shall hold it in suspicion
Just as long as it's in sight.

How am I to know the drivers
Aren't color blind or drunk?
Who am I to gain this knowledge,
When my car's a pile of junk.

You may think I'm pessimistic,
But you'll change your mind a lot,
When your Chevrolet or Buick
Gets what my DeSoto got.

So, I close with this reminder,
When you're hit, you must confess,
Even though you had the right of way,
Your car is still a mess.

Transformer Tattler

Ralph Smith Is New Editor Of 26-4 Column

A Smith named Ralph is the new division editor for the WORKS NEWS column, "Transformer Tattles." The new editor, known as the Westbrook Pegler of Bldg. 26-4, replaces Gladis Getts, who left the Company recently.

Ralph came to the General Electric Company in 1920 as a winder in Specialty Transformer and Ballast Divisions, Bldg. 26-3. In 1931, he became a group leader in the same division. Ten years later, he returned to the winding section, Bldg. 26-4, where he is working at the present time.

Likes Gardening

When the weather is nice, anyone passing 1909 Drexel Ave. will find Ralph working busily in his yard. Gardening rates second to traveling for this division editor. He gets a big kick out of starting on long trips with his wife and not planning the itinerary ahead of time.

PRESIDENT REPORTS CLUB IN 'GOOD SHAPE'

Board Opens 25th Year Of G-E Club Operations

To launch the G-E Club's 25th season of operation, the first board meeting of the year was held Thursday, Sept. 27. Reporting to a joint meeting of board members and newly-appointed committee chairmen, President R. W. Kent stated prospects are very favorable for an expanded and successful 1951-52 season.

Mr. Kent declared that the switch from candy wagons to vending machines in most plant locations has been very well-received and predicted that the Club's financial condition would show marked improvement as a result of the change. He estimated that within the next few months, there

Smith disclosed today.

Ab Martin, Works manager, will address the Power Press and Forging Section Wednesday, Oct. 10, at the Congress Hotel. His subject will be "A Safe Department Makes a Supervisor Feel Good."

Carl Rehling, Bldg. 20-2, and Henry Carnall, Taylor St., are alternate delegates to the five-day conference. The delegates and alternates were elected at a meeting of the safety committee Wednesday, Oct. 3.

The purpose of the convention is to offer first-hand knowledge of new programs and ideas for accident prevention in industry, schools, homes and on streets and highways.

Herschel Smith, safety engineer, and Loyd Bodenhamer, assistant safety engineer, will also attend the conference.

350 Solicitors to Begin Rounds For Community Services Fund

IUE-CIO, IAM-AFL Endorse Employees' Services Plan

Approximately 350 solicitors will begin "Operation Community Services Fund" Monday. During the coming week, the solicitors, selected by division chairmen, will contact every employee at the Broadway, Taylor St. and Winter St. plants to give them the opportunity to serve their community by joining the fund.

Under plans set up by the organizing committee, employees will be able to meet all their community obligations by contributing to this one drive. A small amount will be deducted weekly from the gross earnings of each employee joining the Fund and turned over to the Board of Administrators of the Fund, for distribution among the many local agencies.

Local 901 Approves Fund

John A. Lea, first vice president of Local 901 IUE-CIO, expressed his organization's approval of the plan in the follow-

Control Division, with headquarters at Philadelphia.

Entered Business Course

Mr. Wichman entered the general office business course at Schenectady when he came to the Company in 1928. He became supervisor of costs at the Erie plant in 1932. Two years later, he joined the auditor's staff, Works accounts, at Schenectady. In 1938, Mr. Wichman was appointed assistant Works accountant here. He became Works accountant three years later. His appointment as assistant to the manager of the Fort Wayne Works was made in 1947. That same year, he became manager of the STAB Department here, which was the position he held at the time of his present appointment.

A graduate of Iowa State College, Mr. Wichman received his B.S.M.E. degree in 1928.

The Wichmans and their two children reside at 826 W. Lexington.

BTC Graduate

Mr. Moeller joined the General Electric Company's Business Training Course in 1935. After completing the course in 1937, he became a member of the traveling auditor's staff and spent two years on assignments in Latin America. In 1944, he was named works accountant at Bloomfield. Two years later he transferred to Philadelphia, where he had a similar position.

From 1947 until 1951, Mr. Moeller served as accountant for the Switchgear Divisions in Philadelphia. He was transferred to Fort Wayne in 1951 as assistant to the manager of engineering, FHP Motor Department. This was his position at the time of his present appointment.

Mr. Moeller graduated from the University of Minnesota in 1935 with a B. A. degree in business administration.

Mr. and Mrs. Moeller and their two children live at 137 W. Branning Ave.

Mr. Rinne came to the Company in 1930, when he entered the Business Training Course at Schenectady. He was a traveling auditor from 1933 until 1936. That year, he became a staff member of the president's office, executive department, New York City.

Served with I-G-E

In 1938 Mr. Rinne was associated with International General Electric, New York City. One year later, he transferred to the Bloomfield Air Conditioning Department. Returning to Schenectady in 1942, he worked on war projects accounting and in the Works accounts division, Apparatus Department, general office.

Transferring to Fort Wayne in 1947, Mr. Rinne was appointed assistant Works accountant. Later that year, he became accountant of the STAB Department. Two months ago he was appointed manager of finance in the same Department, his position at the time of his present appointment.

A graduate of Indiana University, Mr. Rinne received a B. S. degree in business administration in 1930.

Mr. Rinne, his wife and three children, live at 2312 Forest Park Boulevard.

Only the little woman who lugs the groceries home would ever guess it, but it takes about two acres of farm crops to feed one person for a year. That's the average in the U. S. In other countries, several families may have to get along on the food from two acres.

C. H. Lang Speaks at Danville

DANVILLE, ILL.—Stressing the vital role played by small business in American production, a General Electric officer said here that of the $550,000,000 in defense contracts held by the Company, more than half of that figure will go to some 17,000 subcontractors and suppliers.

Speaking at ceremonies marking the production of the 25-millionth fluorescent ballast at the Company's Danville plant, Chester H. Lang, G-E vice president, said that many of the 17,000 firms are small businesses, which in turn deal with thousands of others.

Stating that a survey of the nation's defense business would reveal that "big business and small business are working together", Mr. Lang said that it is only because of this teamwork that mass production has been possible.

Cites J-47 Engines

He cited as an example the Company's production of J-47 jet engines. More than 4,000 suppliers are contributing to the engine program, and 60 per cent of the dollar sales volume paid by the Air Force to General Electric for turbojet engines during the past year went to subcontractors and suppliers, he said. These firms are located in 41 of the 48 states.

Decrying the "talk about big companies hogging defense contracts," the G-E vice president said that a recent sampling of the Company's suppliers revealed that more than 80 per cent of those companies answering the questionnaire came under the official definition of a "small business," a company employing 500 persons or less.

As an example of the importance of subcontractors and suppliers in the production of a non-defense item, Mr. Lang pointed to the Company's plant here which produces ballasts used to stabilize the performance of fluorescent lamps. "The fluorescent lighting industry is a pretty good example of how many business of all sizes and kinds team up to bring a scientific discovery to a state of public usefulness with maximum speed, minimum waste, and widespread economic benefits," he said. He singled out the fixture manufacturers as having played an especially important part.

John C. MacQueen Named to New Post At Lockland Plant

John C. MacQueen has been appointed manager of Employee and Community Relations at the Lockland Plant, K. Houseman, manager, has announced.

Mr. MacQueen was supervisor of personnel at the Fort Wayne Works from 1946 to 1949. He transferred to Schenectady in 1949 and became supervisor of personnel services, his position at the time of his present appointment.

Born in Prescott, Ont., Mr. MacQueen graduated from Clarkson Tech in 1937. He joined the General Electric Company that same year as a Test Engineer.

Pensioner Parade

Mrs. Eleanor Paetz recently returned from a month-long tour of southern California with her son and daughter. During the tour, she saw several national parks and attended ballets. The highlight of her trip was attending the Ice Capades, where Mrs. Paetz saw many movie stars and shook hands with Joan Crawford. . . . Employees of Bldg. 19-1 recently received the following thank you note from Mr. and Mrs. Roy J. Brown, who are now in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.:

"Fellow Employees in Motor-Generator:

Dear Friends,

In our small way, may we thank each and every one for the gifts presented to us. The luggage is beautiful, and we are very proud of it. The binoculars have already scanned the oceans on several occasions. We shall always remember your kindness and generosity. All we can say is 'thanks a million' for the consideration you've shown, which proves as always, 'folks are nice people' after all.

Gratefully,
Roy John and Hilda Helene Brown."

Methods, Planning Training Group To Hold Meeting

The Fort Wayne Works will be host to members of the Advanced Methods, Planning and Wage Rate Program, Group III at their second quarterly meeting next Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday. The theme of the meeting will be "Improvement," with talks, discussions, and factory tours in each division.

The group purpose is to train for leadership in the field of methods, planning, and wage rate. Members acting as hosts at the meeting are: W. H. Wyckoff, Specialty Transformer and Ballast Department, chairman; B. L. Embick, of the Philadelphia Works, and N. W. Cook, of the West Lynn Works, co-chairmen.

Members of management will address the group at the various sessions.

Up to $175 for surgery is paid by the Insurance Plan according to a schedule of operations.

PLAN FOUR-DAY CONFAB—Members of the Advanced Methods, Planning and Wage Rate Program, Group III, who will be host to members of the program from other General Electric Plants at meetings next week, are shown above as they go over final plans for the four-day series of conferences with H. R. Korte, Supervisor of Wage Rate and Planning, STAB, and R. W. Lutticken, Supervisor of Education. Left to right: B. L. Embick, N. W. Cook, Mr. Korte, W. H. Wyckoff and Mr. Lutticken.

George Hauck, who seldom makes our column, was off sick last week. Thinking each day he would be able to get back to work the next, he found himself in the pink of condition by Saturday. He decided he would go to church on Sunday. You can believe it or not but the church burned down that day. . . . Lyle Claphan came up with the terrific score of 260 last Thursday evening at the Club alleys. He has now been changed from anchor man to lead-off man. One little thing—the 260 was the total for scores of 60, 73 and 127. It seems he had considerable trouble mastering Charles Briggs' gutter ball. . . . Ozzie Nahrwold is back after a week in the wilds of Canada where he had three days of good luck at fishing and then the weather dry-docked them for the balance of the week. . . . John (Red) Braden, who in years gone by was quite a figure at the Bluffton Street Fair with his prize winning porkers, is in New York enjoying the World Series. . . . Yesterday, Harry Combes celebrated another birthday. Congratulations, Harry. How about your driving licensc? . . . Louie Watt is again returning to the hospital for more X-rays and treatment. . . . John Bastian hopes to be back to work soon.

SHIPPING: Have you heard the terrifying saga of the half open can of sardines? The horrible tale was told by Bob (Get Away Cats!) Jellison. He was desperately trying to get a can of sardines open by brute force, when suddenly the can flipped out of his hands, did a somersault in mid-air, and landed upside down on both Robert and the floor. . . . OK, Fred Heaston, we believe you, now, about those tremendous apples you grow. Fred brought in a couple of samples. They were all he could carry those giants. . . . "Irish" birthday greetings to Helen Elbert today. . . . TELEGRAPH: Welcome to Norma Behning. Norma hails from Ossian, Ind. . . . Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Milo Rider on the arrival of little Richard E. Rider Sept. 26. Momma Rider will be remembered as just Barb to most of us. . . . We are happy to hear "Bing" Diller is recuperating very nicely from his latest "de-tailed" operation. . . . That beautiful pin and earring set Donna Duncan was sporting last week was a gift from her sailor boy friend Bob. . . . Are you in need of some golfing lessons (miniature, that is) consult Helen Nelson. She plays a mean game. . . . Welcome to our new maintenanee man, Mr. McManiman. . . . The William Wattiers took in the Notre Dame game last Saturday. Now all we want to know is, "Who won?" . . . Belated birthday greetings to Lueille Werling, who refused to devulge how many candles were on the eake. . . . MAILING: Birthday greetings to Don Leiteh, Keith Mast and Garland Helland. So sorry we missed you, boys. . . . Happy birthday next Tuesday to John Pranger. . . . YOUR "ED" (Fall Up the Steps Crace) is back on the job with no crippling effects from her latest experiment. Phyllis decided that since most people who fall on stairways fall down the steps, it would be interesting to see what the results might be if one was to fall up the steps. Through all her efforts, the best she could do was one black and blue shin and one shin with a lump the size of a goose egg.

NEW HOBBY: It has come to light. Doris Koenig has a new hobby of collecting Teddy Bears, of all things. . . . HICCOUGH! Do you have a eure for hiccoughs? If you have, please tell Joe Burnett. It seems that he has them at the most unfortunate times. . . . SOMETHING NEW HAS BEEN ADDED: Don Sipe is the Don Juan of the Shipping Section. He is now trying to master a mustaehe. It looks like a football team, eleven on a side. You have to be close to see it. . . . "SORRY" and we admit it. Regarding Okeleah Stetler's engagement, she says the fellow hasn't asked her yet. We are sorry, Okey. . . . TRAVELING AGAIN: The three musketeers, Doris Koenig, Norma Bower, and Barbara Hurst, were really traveling last Saturday evening. . . . A week-end trip through Michigan with a special stop over at her former home town of Midland will be enjoyed by Betty Reichert. . . . Alice Gerber was a visitor in Bluffton recently. She attended the Street Fair. . . . VACATIONING: Clyde Jones is taking his extra week of vacation this week. "Barney" Rempp is replacing him. . . . The extra day of vacation will give Ernie Lake some extra time to work on the improvements he is making at his country home. . . . Guy Koos is planning to spend part of his vacation visiting with friends, and incidentally viewing the World Series on a friend's television. He also expects to see the sights in Brown County. . . . We hope that Frank Gillig had a pleasant vacation. We missed him. . . . ABSENTEE: Deola Foreman is still on the sick list, and an unfortunate tumble caused Helen Britzenhofe to spend several days at home pampering a sprained ankle. . . . We also missed Delores Landis, who had to stay home to care for her son, who is ill. . . . RETIRING: William Hunt was pleasantly surprised at lunch Thursday when he was presented a gift from the gang with whom he eats. Bill, all of your G-E friends want to wish you lots of luck and good health. So long, Bill. . . . WHICH CAR IS LARRY'S? Erman Johnson says, "If you want to know which car is Larry Franklin's, all you have to do is look inside. It will either have some apples or a coon hound in it." . . . PLEASE HELP! Leonard Meyer is back at his job of patching again, but this time he had to do it without the help of such willing volunteers. . . . GREETINGS: It's happy birthday to Charles Miller this week. May you have many, many more, Charles. . . . RETURNED: John Loshe and Esther Strickler returned to work after several weeks of illness. Hi, folks! Good to have you back. . . . WHY SO SECRETIVE? Now, Vilas, you might have known we would find out sooner or later that you are a grandpa. So congrats to you and the proud father, Dick Bollinger of Bldg. 1. . . . ILL: Harvey Hileman is an absentee due to illness.

Jets Out of the Night

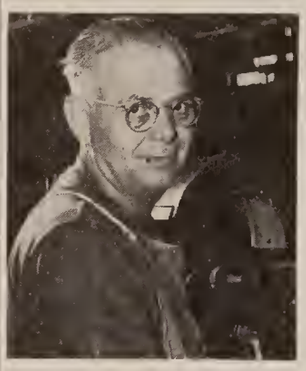
Geneva Curtis told us of her most embarrassing moment when she removed her dentures. . . . Betty Collier wants someone to buy the things for her. Betty said she could buy a candy bar, but she would appreciate a "glorified hamburger." . . . Catherine Stanton has really been working overtime —giving the interior of her house a new coat of paint. . . . Connie Harris has returned after spending some time in Alabama with her parents. . . . Ruby DePew has been absent a few days this week. . . . Thelma Dammeier's husband has his hands full these days bathing his twins and putting them to bed. Then Grandma sent him seven goldfish to rock to sleep afterwards. . . . Betty Collier has a new use for fur trimming. . . . Woody Platt knows how to get free cokes. Watch that, Woody, Felix Newman has a nickel you can borrow. . . . Dessie George should do a good job explaining what we are supposed to finish, or, no doubt, it would be the wrong thing. . . . Geneva Curtis has some sore muscles. Since her measurements didn't quite suit her, she tried exereises. . . . It was good to see Kaye Meyers from Bldg. 26 on our floor. Come more often, Kaye. . . . Kay Dolan had a new head dress the other evening when it rained. . . . Vivian Chrisman has decided it doesn't pay to chew her finger nails. She can't even glue imitation ones on so they will work to crease insulation. . . . Marie Bruggenerate is the cleanest person we've met in some time. She even washes her money.

Hats off to Clarenee Gardt and John McKee. Their section won the good housekeeping trophy for last month. We must say their section was really shining. From the looks of things, they will be getting it next time. . . . We have all wondered what it would be like to be locked out of the house and the keys inside. Margaret Kenyon had to get a handyman to get in the window for her. She was afraid the Fire Department might cause too much excitement in the middle of the night. . . . If you noticed how happy Rennie Phelps was last Thursday. It was beeause she went to visit her daughter and son-in-law at Canton, O. . . . Elma Wise visited her mother in LaGrange over the week-end. . . . Anyone desiring help with a cement mixer see Irene Drabenstot. By the time Irene gets through helping her husband, she could be helpful to someone else. . . . We are losing five of our night girls to the day shift. They are Ruth Raidy, Wanetta Shoaff, Zeta Worthman, Ann Cuellar and Willa Mae Bryant. . . . Does Irma Beard really need that "Miracle Power"? . . . Mary Biehl went to her son's at Muncie and from there visited with a sister at Cambridge City last week-end. . . . Bob Huhn attended the Indiana-Notre Dame game in South Bend. . . . Homer Huser has more activities now. He has to have a big piece of pie for a 9:30 lunch. . . . What's this about Fred Seip trying to unlock the wrong car? . . . We wish Erma Fredrick a happy birthday. . . . Adele Wietfeldt spent Sunday in Defiance, O.

Inquiring Reporter:



"DO YOU THINK THE OFF-STREET PARKING GARAGE BEING CONSIDERED BY THE FORT WAYNE BOARD OF WORKS WILL HELP THE CITY'S PARKING PROBLEM?"

MARY LOUISE PFLUEGER

Bldg. 31-1

"I think it is the only solution to Fort Wayne's parking problem since there is a definite limitation of space available. It has worked in other cities—why not in ours!"

WILLIAM W. OBERLIN

Bldg. 4-1

"The off-street parking garage may help to alleviate parking problems, providing rates are not too high. The Engineers Club has recommended parking meters. Let's try them first."

ARTHUR L. GALLOGLY

Bldg. 26-1

"Yes, off-street parking garages are the answer to Fort Wayne's parking problem. However, such a project should be self-supporting and not an additional burden to the taxpayer."

PHYLLIS SCOTT

Taylor St.

"No. The proposed site is not near enough to Fort Wayne's shopping center and it would be impossible to locate a single parking facility that the shoppers will want to patronize. Also, the capacity of the presently proposed garage seems inadequate for a city the size of Fort Wayne."

HARRY CONNER

Bldg. 10-1

"I like off-street parking because there is less chance of my car being damaged and it saves time looking for a parking space on the street. I think the garages being considered are a good solution to this problem."

DECATURITE RETIRES—William (Bill) Hunt (center) received a deluxe jacket from the "eating gang," and a radio and a well-filled wallet from his fellow-workers, and lots of best wishes from everyone at the Decatur plant, when he retired Oct. 1. He spent most of his 27 years of service with the Company in the Electro Plating Section.

Transformer Tattles

by Ralph Smith

Thanks to Lucy Keller and Ann Cerne, west end, for their good help in gathering news for this column. . . . Edward Koontz has taken a position in Bldg. 26-5. Good luck, "Edderd." We hope you have quit worrying about someone wrecking the "Sidney." . . . The girls on sealing in the Green Room were having a bang-up time with their bubble gum. What is it, girls—your second childhood? . . . Louie Kearns buys eandy and lets it lie around. The girls eat it for him. . . . We have lost one of the girls in the Green Room. Norma Baker has gone upstairs to do filing. . . . We welcome Jack Breitenbach. . . . It cost Berniece Kratzsch 50 cents to park on the street at Bluffton last Saturday night. She thought those parking meters were decorations of some kind and didn't put a nickel in the slot. . . . Bob Montes says he hurt his hand playing football.

The Transformer Skating Party is going to be held Thursday evening, Oct. 11, at the Roller Dome Skating Rink. Everyone welcome.

We wonder if John St. Clair will try to cut down on his coal bill this winter. We saw him taking three electric blankets home last week. . . . Betty Armstrong. what's this we hear about you getting a mud plaster—something new? What's wrong with the mud pack—old-fashioned? . . . A happy birthday for Betty Harkenrider. . . . "Muscles" Freeman must have traded his Tarzan clothes for his new Roy Rogers outfit. . . . (A MAN'S WEDDING RING WAS FOUND ON THE TERMINAL CLEANERS' TABLE.) . . . It has been noticed that Tom Freeman always parks his car at his father's cottage at the lake. Is he afraid he can't get out of that swamp where his cottage is? . . . Jane Maloney was transferred from bushing assembly to the connecting bench. . . . The fellows in the stockroom think Fletcher Cumbey is the only fellow in Fort Wayne who can carry a piece of apple pie in his pocket a half a day and not mash it. . . . Mike Dunscome attended the wrestling matches Wednesday evening. He says the girls put on a good show. . . . Famous last words of Joe Troendly, "Aw, you never had it so good" and "Some day I'm going to have a Roadmaster." . . . Evangeline Baker didn't get to work until 9 o'clock Thursday. What happened, Eve? . . . Our sympathy to Dewey Snyder, whose father died last Tuesday night. . . . For your information, Phylis Borkenstein, in the Green Room, is the new Class B, MBA secretary. She replaces Gladis Getts, who left the Company. . . . Rose Ann Peters attended the Baer Field ceremonies and party Thursday night. She says there were just "gobs of men!" . . . We welcome Harold Jones to Planning.

It could only HAPPEN HERE! Recently Edgar Waldschmidt started merrily on his way to his summer home in Michigan. Approaching the main thoroughfare of Coldwater, a kind soul blindly backed out of his parking space and ruined two perfectly good fenders and doors of the Waldschmidt Mercury. To add insult to injury, it was pouring down rain. Disgustedly he tried to start the car and found that the fenders seemed to interfere with the tires turning, so he got out in the pouring rain, took inventory of the situation and treked over to the filling station for help. After 30 minutes' work in the rain, Mr. Waldschmidt asked the attendant the extent of his added injuries and much to Edgar's surprise he said, "Oh, make it two-bits." And he thought ALL of his luck was bad. . . . STRANGE SIGHTS: At 11 o'clock, Sept. 20, a strange sight was observed. Herschel Smith was seen at the corner of Creighton and Gay streets throwing a casting line and reeling in imaginary fish. . . . Irene Meyers searched for the top sheet on her bed at the Elex conference and quietly (?) blamed innocent Lois Miller. . . . MIDDLE AISLE: Tomorrow morning A. E. Leider will middle-aisle it when his daughter Joan will be united in marriage with Donald Mansfield at Decatur. . . . TAB DAY: Again the weatherman smiled on a G-E activity, for Saturday was a perfect fall day for Tab Day. Ken Michael judged the basketball throw, and the Green team did not win. . . . I. H. Freeman was conspicuous by his absence as a judge of the singing. Last year's results seemed to disqualify him as a committee member. . . . Ray White went out early, complete with glove for softball. But, his team lost to the green GOLD team. . . . Neal Hench judged the baitcasting. He demanded to know the score often, to aid in his calling the decisions(?) . . . W. E. Holmes and R. J. Hoffman were expert bartenders. . . . Ab Martin umpired the final game with professional like gestures. . . . A. E. Leider and Don Brayer proudly displayed the Red cap signifying they were on the winning team. . . . Marc Junk captained the winning softball team. Carl Olson was the Red's most avid rooter. . . . Dick Kent NEARLY won the basketball for the Green team. They lost the play off when Kent went to see Holmes for a refill. . . . Ivan Rinehart did his usual good job of keeping things going. . . . Berdell Smith got quite a workout setting off the bombs. . . . What happened to Bob Lutticken's tie? He must have figured the water was too cold for swimming. He drove the convertible with the baton twirlers. That is nice work if you can get it! All in all, it was a perfect day.

Details from DRAFTING

by E. E. Ellenburg

Molly Hile took the big step last week and became Mrs. Robert Kline. The newlyweds left Saturday for Pocatello, Idaho, where Mr. Kline is employed by the Union Pacific R. R. At a party held in Molly's honor Friday, she received a pair of crocheted pillow cases and a light green wool blanket. . . . I should have known better than to let someone else write the column for me last week while I was on vacation. But now that the damage is done I will try to answer some of the questions asked in the previous issue. I am driving all parts of my car except the trunk lid which is undergoing a major overhaul at Arnold's Repair Shop. Whether it can be classified as a car or not is a debatable subject but there is still a standing invitation to anyone in Transformer Drafting to take his car through the gears with mine. . . . As for Tony and his nickels, I hear that J. Hilfiker is the one who is getting nickels in the mail. . . . George Houser, who was drafted into the Marines, is now at Boot Camp at San Diego, Calif. . . . Anyone who has extra safety pins please donate them to the "Homer Meeker Emergency Fund." If we have a large enough response perhaps Mr. Meeker will not have to leave work in the middle of the day again. . . . All you bowlers who want to improve your scores, see Bob Berghoff for bowling lessons. I hear that he has been reading books on the subject. . . . Wendell Miller please note the above paragraph. . . . Question of the week: Why is it that a car bumper that stays only a few inches off the ground for years suddenly jumps up and hits Maurie Cox in the nose? That's what he gets for pushing his wife in a post hole. . . . Welcome Chelcie Basham and Evelyn Herman. Hope you'll be able to put up with us.

FETED AT RETIREMENT—Fern (Passwater) Huber (center, front row) recently was a guest at a luncheon celebrating her 29 years' service with the Company and also her retirement. Among those attending the party were (front row, l-r) John Welch, Mrs. Huber and E. W. Lankenau and (back row, l-r) Dwight Girod, George Buckley, Ray Leitz, Roger Schuster, Lou Nelson and Ray Johnston. Mrs. Huber worked in the shop from 1921 until 1925 at the Decatur plant. At that time she joined the Payroll Section. She has been cashier of the Decatur Plant since 1937. Mrs. Huber will take up full time household duties in her newly-furnished home in Willshire, O.

If you prefer, you may arrange to have your Life Insurance paid to your beneficiary in monthly payments over a fixed period of years instead of in a lump sum.

G-E DEATHS

Henry Carpenter, 57 Dies in VA Hospital

Henry H. Carpenter, 57, died Tuesday, Sept. 25, at the Veterans Administration Hospital. He had been in the hospital one day.

Mr. Carpenter came to the General Electric Company in 1942. He was a coil winder in Bldg. 26-1. This year, he transferred to building standard cases in the same building.

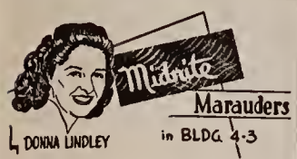
Surviving are his widow, five daughters, one son, a brother, two sisters and five grandchildren.

The Rev. H. H. Backs officiated at services which were held Friday, Sept. 28, at the Elzey & Son Funeral Home, Waynedale. Burial was in the IOOF Cemetery, Roanoke.

Auto Injuries Fatal To Decatur Employee

Dwight F. Felty, 30, of the Decatur plant, was fatally injured at approximately 3 a.m. Saturday, Sept. 29, in an automobile accident on U. S. highway 224.

Enroute west, Mr. Felty apparently lost control of his car, which plunged down an embankment and then rolled into a field. Mr. Felty was pinned in the wreckage.



He was taken to the Adams County Memorial Hospital, at Decatur, where he was pronounced dead upon arrival. He suffered a broken neck and a fractured skull.

The victim's wife, Mildred, who was with him at the time of the accident, suffered shock and chest injuries. She was taken to the hospital. Mrs. Felty's mother and sister, who were also in the accident, suffered minor injuries.

Mr. Felty came to the Decatur plant Sept. 14, 1950. During his employment with the Company, he was an inspector.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by four sisters.

Funeral services were conducted Monday, Oct. 1, at the Black Funeral Home. The Rev. J. Clair Peters, of Huntington, officiated. Burial was in the Riverside Cemetery, at Geneva. The American Legion conducted military rites at the cemetery.

Welcome back to Faye Fritzinger. . . . The stork has been a mighty busy bird. He left little girls at the Sparks and Sarazin homes and boys at the Reichard and Meckstroh homes. All the mothers are former co-workers. . . . WARNING TO THE CAFETERIA! Keep all toothpicks under lock and key when Martha Scott enters. On each visit, Martha Stocks comes up with enough to last until the next visit. At this rate, there should be a general pickup in the toothpick industry. . . . The Dick Clancy's have named their baby girl Pamela Sue. . . . Jo Lee Zimmerman really has her troubles. She had to go home the other night and clean house. When they put up the stove, they blew soot all over Jo Lee's clean house. . . . Eddie Cooper will be just a little leary the next time he sees a cop. That was a reckless ten bucks he had to fork over. . . . GOOD NEWS: Emma Bultemeier has left the hospital and is feeling much better. . . . NOTICE: Anyone having any leaks to fix, contact Cliff Garvison. He is up on all the latest methods of fixing leaks of all kinds. . . . Helen Thieme believes in taking life easy on one's birthday. She says she was a lady of leisure on her birthday. Friend hubby took her out to dinner. . . . Amy Dull was treated with a luncheon at the Berghoff. Happy birthday, girls. . . . Delores Nichols says she is learning how to cook. But anything worth learning, Delores, is worth learning the hard way. . . . Someone please inform Mary Lou Street and Joan Armstrong that in this part of the country, we do wear shoes. . . . What was so interesting for Bob Markey that he almost went down on all fours? . . . That flu bug has got hold of Roger Reed.

The men had better watch out at the corners when Gladys Pantazin is on her way out in the evening. There was almost a casualty a week ago Friday. . . . Clarence Morris has returned to work after being ill for a week. . . . Bob Robertson has joined the square dance group. We think he will make a wonderful caller. . . . We wish a happy birthday to Peggy Bandt. . . . We welcome Verna Makin in Group 17 x 54. . . . Goldie Waikel had quite a siege of hives last week, but was able to return to work this week. . . . If anyone has overhead garage doors to hang they had better not call on Bob Johnson, or maybe it would be OK now since he has had experience. Howard Householder says he can't afford to carry insurance. . . . Bill Brown attended the square dance at Busco Saturday night. . . . Ruby Stoops entertained the Birthday Group to a Taco supper. The girls came in Mexican costumes. Those enjoying the meal were Hilda LeCoque, Sydonna Fox, Marguerite Stahl, Elinor Laux, Gladys Pantazin, Ruth Cavender, Peggy Bandt, Jackie Keller, Frances Walker, Lona Cook and Selma Voight. Ruby was assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Richard Braun, and daughter-in-law, Mrs. Harold Stoops. Ruby is getting quite famous for putting on her Mexican suppers. She prepared a supper down at Bluffton Saturday night for Marguerite Stahl's Home Ec Club and a visiting club from Harrison Twp. There were fifty ladies present. This is the third year she has been asked to prepare the supper at Bluffton. . . . The boys are wondering what gave Ed Fiedler the sudden headache at 7 o'clock last Friday. Has he forgotten how to count? . . . It seems that Charley Briggs is still receiving the fur pieces. Boys, why are you being so mean? Can't you spare one little squirrel? . . . Hillard Moore spent Sunday at his lake cottage. . . . Howard Householder has been very mean to the euchre players. He is trying to get a pair of shoes for dress now. . . . Clyde Boyce needs a few more games to finish paying for his new oil heater. . . . Dick Walters isn't feeling so well lately. He doesn't get enough sleep even when he goes to bed at six o'clock without his supper.

G. F. Schlund, R. L. Stauffer Get New FHP Motor Dept. Appointments

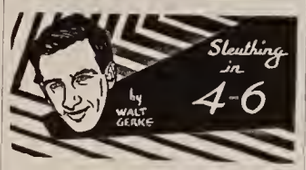
G. F. Schlund

G. F. Schlund has been appointed assistant to the supervisor of shipping, Fractional Horsepower Motor Div. 9, according to an announcement by Production Manager A. J. Rose, and Richard L. Stauffer has been named assistant to supervisor of production (order service) in FHP Div. 1 by Superintendent R. L. Spitler.

Mr. Schlund entered the apprentice electrical tester's course when he joined the Company in 1927. After graduation in 1930, he became a designer in FHP Motor drafting. In 1941, he transferred to requisition engineering drafting.

He moved to the production methods division in 1942, where he became a production leader in 1945. Four years later, he transferred to FHP Div. 13, Taylor St. as a production clerk, which was his position at the time of his present appointment.

Mr. Schlund completed the four-year academic course at Concordia College and is a member of the Apprentice Alumni Association.



The Schlunds and their three children live at 2311 Lynn Ave.

Mr. Stauffer came to the General Electric Company in 1942. At that time he worked in Div. 15, production. Five years later, he transferred to the central production office at Winter St., where he worked until his present appointment.

A graduate of Indiana University, Mr. Stauffer received an A.B. degree in 1932. He and his wife and one son live in Harlan.

VACATION TIME: Third week vacationers next week are Walter (Duke) Brake and Katherine (Katie) Gardt. Lucky people! . . . CONGRATS: Happy birthday to Paul W. Lange Monday, Oct. 8, and George Schroeder, Tuesday, Oct. 9. Paul has two celebrations this month, his birthday and his 25th year with the Company, which he is celebrating Oct. 16. . . . HURRY BACK: We are sorry to report that Walley Clayton is again confined to his home due to illness. Walley tried coming back too soon and decided it would be better to stay home until he is really able to come back. Recuperating at the Methodist Hospital is Paige Thompson. Paige underwent surgery a week ago today, and we hope by this time he is up and around. He won't be back to work for some weeks yet. . . . "SMALL FRY": The DC Division should be able to design some beautiful motors now with the aid of E. M. Stanbery's "Small Fry" Modeling Clay Kits. Stan ordered some modeling clay through the purchasing division and now has some very attractive clay in pastel shades, plus the cutest little plaster molds. . . . HOWDY: Welcome to Herschel Axtell, a test engineer in the Developmental Division, and Don Harbour is back with us again, from Bldg. 17-4. We'd like you to meet W. Glenn Engstrom, who hails from Tacoma, Wash. He holds a degree in Electrical Engineering (graduate of Washington State College). He spent his last test in STAB, and, girls, he has the most beeyootiful dark auburn hair, and he's single, too, (of course, I'm giving this information only to the single girls around Bldg. 4-6). We'd also like to introduce Irving F. Anderson, new drafting trainee. Although Harold Struver still maintains a desk in the DC Division he is now a draftsman apprentice and works for Mr. Wolf. . . . DOG SCHOOL: Ray Jones has enrolled his dog in Dog Obedience Class. While David and Mr. Jones take it easy on the side lines, Mrs. Jones takes over as trainer. . . . WE WONDER: What handsome man in C. J. Herman's group has been using "Knobby's Restorehair" on his upper lip? . . . CONGRATS: To Don Cochran, of Sales, who became the proud father of a girl, weight 6 lbs. 5 oz., born Oct. 1. There must have been a mix-up in the delivery because a boy was ordered. Anybody got any suggestions for girls names?

We are glad to have Tommy Williams back with us after a week's illness. . . . Norm Wolf went to St. Louis over the week-end, says he had a wonderful time. . . . Harold Mosshammer says life really does begin at 40. He became forty last Saturday, but we think he's only kiddin'. . . . Dallas Patten is all smiles this week as his daughter gets married Sunday. . . . Olka Johnston is on vacation this week and we do hope she is enjoying herself. . . . We were sorry to see "Pinky" Pinkerton go to Bldg. 6-2. . . . We hear Maxine Herbst is very charming when it comes to those southern guys. . . . We're also sorry to hear Betty Bertch is leaving. . . . Oscar Schelper's house is so peaceful again since his "Daisies" are scattered all over the states. He is talking of adopting a girl, so any single girl can apply. . . . Going past Dallas Patten's house Saturday we noticed a great big stove in his garage. We are wondering if he has to keep it hot in there so his car will start on these frosty mornings. . . . Woody Winters is still wanting more help to build that house. Woody will furnish all transportation to and from Roanoke. . . . Did CC run in a stone wall or what? Johnny DeWald used to come in and tell us what they did on Saturdays but Monday he was very quiet, in fact not a word.

Vacationing

WELCOME: Mary Crosby transferred from Div. 13 to Customer Billing; Sally Harber and Ruth Walsh are new co-workers in Purchasing; Bob Matthews, a TE, transferred from Sales to Purchasing. We hope you all enjoy your new positions. . . . RECKLESS: Ruth Graft, Payroll, should be more careful, or was she only trying to prove her strength? While she was taking her relief in the ladies' lounge she tried to adjust the venetian blind, and guess what happened. She broke the cord and there the blind hung diagonally. See what I mean? She's either reckless, or showing her strength. . . . A vote of thanks to Pat Holmes for his time and effort, from the members of the recently defunct "slush fund" in Customer billing. Your efforts were really appreciated, Pat, too bad it didn't work out. (Since I work in Sales, I wonder if someone in Customer Billing would mind telling me what this is all about!) . . . WEDDING BELLS: The very best of wishes to Janet Leitch, who was married Sept. 29 to James Johnson at Churubusco in the Charter Oak Methodist Church. May you both have many years of happiness. . . . We welcome Pat Brueggeman back to the Sales file room It's wonderful seeing you for we have all missed you. I really appreciate it since Pat and I work together. . . . Belated birthday greetings to Margaret Barkman of Purchasing, who celebrated Sept. 24. May you have many more happy birthdays. . . . FAREWELL: Harry Mentzer, Purchasing, has left the Company. We all wish him lots of success in his new job, and let your old friends hear from you once in awhile, Harry. . . . Mary Mishler, formerly of Tabulating, now works in Shipping. Last Friday the people in Tabulating had a "Johnny Mozetti" dinner for her in the office at noon. She was presented with a Ronson lighter. Come up and see us when you get the chance, Mary, after all it isn't a long trip, really it isn't. . . . Ingrid Swanson had a vacation at the lake last week, and we sure hope she had a nice time. While she was gone, Marge Albee, otherwise known as "Poodle", replaced Ingrid. We wish to compliment her, for she did a fine job, or at least she tells us she did. . . . Many thanks to Marge Clark, who has helped us out for the last few weeks in Sales. It sure has been fine working with you, and I do hope you have the time to call us once in awhile, for we would like to hear from you. . . . Sales bids farewell to TE Guy Bradley. He is now in Bldg. 19. We sure will miss his beaming around our office, for it has been swell working with him, even if he never is awake until mid-morning.

Squares Wives To Hold Potluck

"Autumn Leaves" will be the theme of the next meeting of the G-E Squares Wives Club Tuesday, Oct. 9, in the club rooms on East Berry St. Members will entertain their husbands at a potluck and bridge at 6 p.m.

Mrs. W. W. Brooks is chairman of the party. She will be assisted by Mrs. Robert Rowe, Mrs. Lewis L. Nelson, Mrs. E. W. Auman, Mrs. Charles Koomjohn, Mrs. Charles Cutshall, Mrs. Herbert Gould, Mrs. Henry Albert and Mrs. W. M. Rowan.

It is a Socialist idea that making profits is a vice. I consider the real vice is making losses.—Winston Churchill.

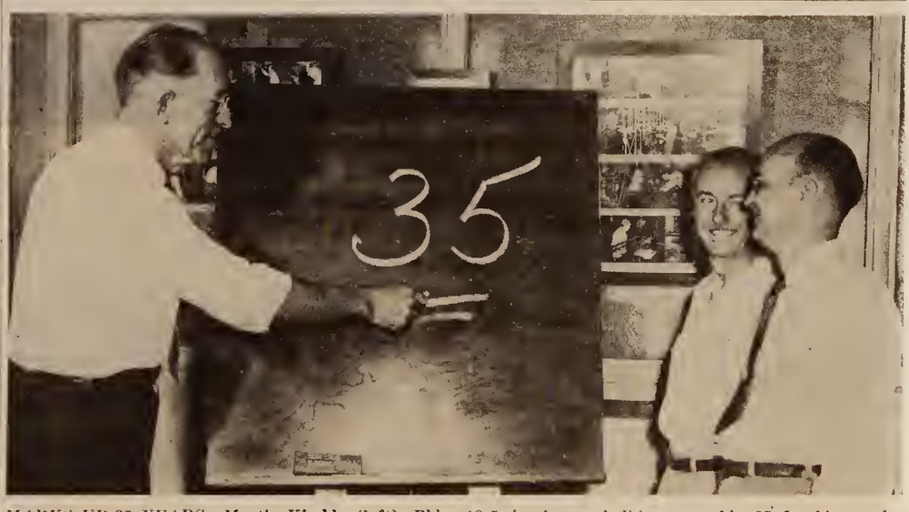
A bouquet to Loretta Bloom for last week's column in my absence. . . . Faye Nicholas passed out candy and cigars to celebrate her recent marriage. . . . It looked like Paul Gruber was celebrating something, with all those gift packages he brought to work recently. . . . Bea Marsh and her hubby hit the floor the other morning when their alarm went o . Bea was throwing cold water in her face trying to wake up, while hubby was in the kitchen getting the coffee started. It wasn't long before they found out it was only 2 a.m. . . . Did anyone notice Mary Louise Hartman eating that big carrot? Just like Bugs Bunny. . . . James Key came to work with a band aid on his chin. Probably resulted from the scuffle to get the best seat in front of his TV set! . . . Jean Turner has announced she will quit working. Jean is one of our reporters. Mary Smith, on second trick, has volunteered to help with the news. . . . What's this about there being a beauty parlor in the Blanket Warmer Line? There's some nice looking operators back there! . . . If you have heard a lot of "oohs, ahs and whistles" the other day, it was because "Buz" Gnau was showing his manly chest. . . . Zella Cluts and Ruth Durnil have become grandmas. Zella has a grandson and Ruth, a granddaughter. . . . Julia Scheuman, Helen Griffin and Mary Call have joined the Lead Section. . . . I thought Hermetic Stacking had acquired some new girls, but they turned out to be Bill Leech and Bob Hoffman. . . . Howard Churchill has informed us he has become draft bait! . . . Loretta Miller has headed for the hills again. She's visiting her daughter in Tennessee. . . . Some people sure have troubles. Marge Leiter couldn't get the door of her new apartment open the very first day she got home from work. A neighbor boy, with a boost and a kick here and there, managed to get Marge through a window. It cost Marge 50 cents and the door opened anyhow. . . . Elaine Nicodemus celebrated her birthday recently. Elaine believes it's fine to have riders, but when you have to wake them up in the morning, that's too much! . . . During her illness and for her birthday, Bea Marsh received some gifts and cards, for which she wishes to thank everyone. . . . Peggy Deel has a very strange hobby. She talks to dummies in department stores! . . . Donna Murphy has been elected secretary of the girls' bowling league. . . . Have you noticed Rita Yager seems to be walking on air lately? A letter from her one and only is the answer. . . . Want to meet the best looking guy in town? It's Don Edwards. If you don't believe it, ask him! Wal now, there's room for discussion there. What say fellows? . . . Looks like Norma Smith might be draft bait, too. She was offered a two year hitch in the "Wacs."

Former Newsboy

Earle Bartling To Edit 'Pickups' From Bldg. 26-3

Earle Bartling, new division editor of the WORKS NEWS column, "Pickups from 26-3," states that his journalistic experience goes back many years to the time when he delivered newspapers as a boy.

Earle came to the Company in 1942. From that date until the present, he has been a dispatcher in the STAB Department, Bldg. 26.



Active in high school sports, Earle used to play on several local industrial basketball teams. Now he explains that he has passed from a participator to a spectator of sports.

The Bartlings and their daughter live at 635 Florence Ave.

Pick Ups FROM BLDG. 26 - 3

By Earle Bartling

A potluck dinner was held for Martha Hamilton, who has retired. We all wish Martha the best of luck. It was a wonderful meal, girls. . . . When the bus made a sudden stop, a bowl of potato salad slipped from Blanche Kanning's lap. Upon hearing this and fearing there wouldn't be enough for dinner, Zelma Kuyoth began chewing her fingernails to curb her appetite. . . . Bill Edmunds, on his fourth trip to the table, found what he thought was a chicken leg, someone had overlooked. After eating half of it, he discovered it was the neck. . . . A large crowd of children were lined up at the merry-go-round at the Monroeville Centennial when all at once, as if by some unseen force, they were shoved right and left. Who should appear at the head of the line but our own little Mac McKeeman. Mac claims he was buying a ticket for some other child, but we wonder. . . . Ilene Young was wondering who the grey haired lady was who was staring at her. Later she discovered it was her reflection in a mirror on the new vending machines. . . . We have seen many good acts at the fairs this year, but the best of all was here on our own floor when Joe Walker put on his crying act, shedding invisible tears. . . . We are all glad to hear that Mrs. Chilcote is recovering from her recent operation. . . . If Frenchy seems tired and sleepy lately, it is because he is staying up all hours of the night trying to figure out what all the buttons are for in his new Cadillac. It has more buttons than Heinz has varieties. . . . Happy birthday to Anne Wible, Gertie Kummerant, Art Rall and Tom Hildebrand. . . . You have all heard of western rodeos. Murry Sherman put one on for his neighbors. One of Murray's hogs escaped from its pen. While chasing the hog, a calf also escaped. Murry then started after the calf which ran into a tractor and knocked itself cold. May we suggest it would be much safer for him to go back into the dog business. . . . We've heard of it raining fish worms, but we had a shower of fruit the other morning. Be careful where you throw your banana, Gary. . . . Congratulations to Nona Hedges and her husband on their wedding anniversary. "Dr." Stella Wells was among those who attended the dinner at the Van Orman Hotel.

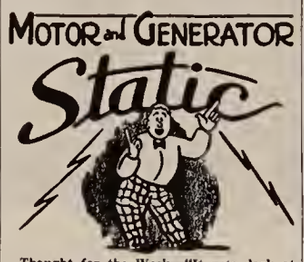
Robert Berghoff to Manage 1951-52 Squares Cage Team

Robert R. Berghoff has been named manager of the Squares basketball team for the 1951-52 season, Squares athletic director C. A. Krasienko said today.

Bob will assist Coach Jim Walley in organizing and managing this year's team. A graduate of Purdue University, Bob has been with G-E since 1948. He is now employed in the Specialty Transformer and Ballast Department, Bldg. 26-2.



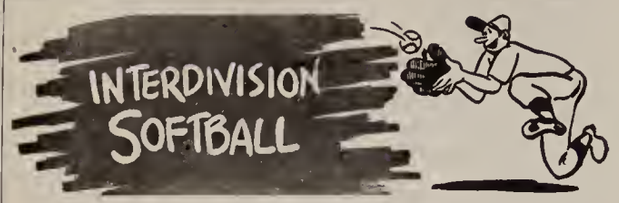
Cage Manager

Fifteen candidates reported at the first Squares team meeting of the year, Berghoff reported. The first practice of the year will be held next week. Any Squares members wishing to try out for the team should contact Mr. Berghoff on ext. 510.

We are sorry that Monna Lee Fork has been on the sick list. . . . It is a good thing Moe checked in the mirror before he came on the floor Friday. He had his shirt on inside out. . . . Happy birthday to Zara VanSkylock, Sept. 25, and Bill Crain, Sept. 28. . . . Margaret Ekelberry held sewing class in the rest room one day. Come to find out it was "Ripped to the Stars." . . . Andy swore off wrestling. It almost laid him up. . . . Ray Snyder uses his checks to start a fire. Due to an unfortunate accident, Ray is without his MBA check. . . . Another year has rolled around for Theresa W. She said she doesn't mind as long as she has that little band-aid box in sight. It helps to solve the aches and pains. Happy birthday, Theresa. . . . Ask Delores S. if she likes meat with her cocoa. . . . Pat Patterson was in need of a bucket and scrub brush the other day when he spilled red permafill all over his pants, the table and floor. . . . Cris Cormier does a pretty good job with cookie baking. In fact, the girls liked them so much that they won't care a bit if you do it again real soon. . . . MYSTERY: Fred Clark didn't get back for the euchre game Friday noon. He said he thought he had left his car motor running and went down to check. When he came back he had a big sack, but wouldn't reveal the contents. . . . Arnold Sprunger is driving around in a new Pontiac. . . . Welcome to Beatrice Webster. . . . Carl Metker brought Mel DeLeve in a dozen eggs and Crouse rejected them as all out of rounds. . . . Jane Tarman was really excited the other day. She had bought a '48 Dodge the night before. . . . Irma had a wonderful time on her vacation, and we are glad to have her back again. . . . Jack Stricat decided to press his pants. He turned on the electric pants presser and decided to have a sandwich while it heated. But after his sandwich, he forgot the pants and went to bed. Tuesday morning the presser was smoking, and it was sitting on a box of 25 shells.

Thought for the Week—"It gets dark at five in New York—and sooner than that if you haven't paid your light bill."—Bugs Baer.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES: Epitaph in Kansas: "He was so busy practicing, he had no time for preaching." . . . Salt Lake City pet shop, specializing in Dachshunds, has this sign in its window: "Get a Long Little Doggie." . . . Menu notice in Milwaukee: "Broiled Baby or Roast Turkey with Dressing." . . . Placard alongside railway roadbed in Israel advises, "Don't pick flowers while the train is in motion." . . . Classified ad run by Wall St. firm looking for secretarial help: "The opportunities are unlimited—most of our executives are bachelors." . . . Inflationary note by a Detroit bank being remodeled: "This bank enlarging quarters." . . . Betty Lupton just purchased a 1949 four-door Buick. How about a ride, Betty? . . . SPEAKER: We are informed through the grapevine that M. W. Brosius has become quite a speaker, and is in great demand. In fact, he flew in from Indianapolis several days ago just to address a meeting of G-E employees. . . . CONGRATULATIONS: We congratulate Richard G. Saunders and Marilyn Welsh, of Massillon, O., on their approaching marriage, which will take place Oct. 12 in Rochester, N. Y. . . .



SETS A MARK—Neal Hall, Bldg. 4-6, rolled a 663 series to lead the season's three-game totals so far this year. He set this mark while bowling for the Aircraft team in the Office League.

Decatur Club To Sponsor South Bend Trip

The Decatur G-E Club will sponsor an excursion to the Southern Methodist-Notre Dame football game Saturday, Oct. 13. The two-bus caravan will leave the main gate of the Decatur Plant at 8:30 a.m. and stop enroute for lunch before the game.

Tickets may be purchased from Jay Moser, Chuck Cook, or George Laurent.

We are very sorry that Wilma Echtenkamp is leaving today. Her husband, a test engineer, is being transferred to the East. Good luck, Wilma.

The Firemen eliminated the Small Motor team in the last game of the season, 18-1. This gave them a perfect record of 12 wins and no losses for the season and the Interdivision League championship. The winners wasted little time in sewing up the game, scoring two runs in the first inning and five in the second.

Small Motors came up with a bad case of jitters, making several expensive errors. However, most of the runs were scored on good solid pokes. Morkoetter had three for five including a home run and Osbun had two for four, also including a homer, for the Firemen.

The Firemen have a team which will have to be reckoned with for several years to come. None of their players are exactly kids anymore, but strangely enough, fellows like Mel Kestner, with a world of experience behind him, never seems to slow down. There isn't a weak hitter in the club. Art Lindenberg, their manager, coach, third baseman, etc., does a swell all-around job. He not only plays a good game, but he holds the team together and keeps it hustling all the time. His pitching staff consists of Jerry Webber. He has no relief pitcher because he needs none. Jerry is very stingy with base hits and free passes. The Firemen have not lost a league decision in two years.

Box Score:

FIREMEN	AB	R	H	SMALL MOTORS	AB	R	H
Osburn	4	2	2	Smith	2	0	0

Memos FROM TAYLOR ST. SHIPPING

By Barbara Schuckel

Out of the 57,000 people who attended the Notre Dame game Saturday, seven were Phyllis Clifton, Joyce Greiser, Marilyn Spice, Carol Kissinger, Betty Bartley, Dee Hahn and Barbara Schuckel. . . . Audrey Bradfield is wearing an awfully big ring around her neck. It's a man's ring yet to boot. What does that mean, Audrey? . . . Bernadette Collis was on the sick list last week. . . . Jo Quinn entertained guests from Florida last week. It was the first Jo had seen these friends for nearly four years. . . . Ruth Croket brought her wedding pictures to work for us to see. Ruth has been married since August. . . . Mary Mishler is back in our office again. We don't know yet if it is permanent but we would be very happy to have her back. . . . Ed Sembroski called last week from Regional to let us know that he is still in existence. We're all happy to know it. We miss him. . . . Johnny Welch was surprised when he picked up the phone and heard Helen Risser talking. It wouldn't have been so strange except for the fact that the two phones are on different extensions. It almost caused a four-way conversation.

ing letter to K. W. Michael, chairman of the organizing committee:

"With the organization of the Community Services Fund, the employees of the General Electric Company will be given an opportunity to fulfill their community responsibilities.

"The citizens of this great nation have at all times responded to the needs of the less fortunate, and to the building of a better and a greater country through community projects.

"I am sure their response to the Community Services Fund will be overwhelming.

"Both individually and as vice president of Local 901 IUE-CIO, I appeal to not only our membership but to all employees of the General Electric Company in the Fort Wayne Works to give freely to help make this drive an overwhelming success."

J. P. McFeely, president of Lodge No. 70, IAM-AFL, also endorsed the plan in the following letter to Mr. Michael:

"Inasmuch as it has been the desire of Friendship Lodge No. 70, International Association of Machinists, for some time to discontinue the present set up of numerous drives each year for contributions to various charities, we more than welcome a plan such as proposed by the organization committee to be known as General Electric Employees Community Services Fund of Fort Wayne.

"Especially since distribution of funds will be made by representatives of all divisions and policies of the organization will be determined by the members, we believe this plan will result in more fair distribution of funds and, through employee control, the plan should boost individual interest in community and civic needs.

"We, therefore, sincerely believe that if all the local employees will sign the pledge cards when presented and take an active part in the organization, we will have a far better plan for helping the unfortunate in our community."

will be complete vending machine coverage.

Improvements to the G-E Club building are continuing to be made. In the past few months the entire club has been repainted; alleys, gym floor and stage have been refinished; new steps have been installed in the entrance; pool and billiard tables repaired, and lounge furniture has been recovered.

Gym Improvements

In the gym, insulation has been applied to cover the walls to improve the acoustics, a new public address system and stage footlights have been added and new gym chairs have been purchased.

An electrically-driven movie screen will provide clearer and bigger motion pictures. A new automatic foul-line detector is one of the most spectacular additions to the bowling alleys.

Committee chairman, appointed by the president with the approval of the board for this year are: Frank Newport, Bldg. 19-1, Boxing; Gordon Smith, Taylor St., Entertainment; Denton Manecke, Bldg. 4-6, Golf; Ervin Huth, Bldg. 20-2, Athletics; Les Shroyer, Bldg. 31-2, Bowling, and Virginia Molden, Publicity.

. . . Bernadette Collis said she can't get enough food in her when she eats in the cafeteria. We believe her. Friday she went down and ate a big meal. She spent most of the afternoon eating the lunch she had brought. . . . Kathline Roush has finished a few more inches on that stocking. Just keep it up, Kathy. You should have them both done before Christmas at the rate you're going.

CAUGHT IN THE ACT—Vivian Peden, Bldg. 18-1, is shown above doing some last-minute rehearsing at home for her part of Celia in the current Civic Theatre production, "As You Like It."

The boy beat the man again in bowling. The boy in the case is Lloyd Parrish and the man, his dad Ivan. Lloyd ended his bowling in the Small Motor League with a 202. The best Ivan could get was 198.

Ed Bauer rolled the high single game for the evening, a 213 count. Frank Gitter got lucky on his last ball, had a Brooklyn hit and carried it to end up with a 201 count.

The red hot Dubs are still burning up the alleys, winning three more games and now lead the league with an eight-won, one-loss record. It must be the strategy the boys discuss after the game that is keeping them in the running. H. Hoffman's wife had to fill in at the euchre game at Tommy's. Something happened to Orval Doherty.

Tools and Office are tied for second place with a 6-3 record. Sorry, there were no 600 counts this week, But it won't be long. The pins are just starting to fall.

Monday Night Ladies' League

There is a lot of activity, but the results just weren't up to par. Always dependable Marge Huber had the high game, a 176. Kay Baade also had a 176. Helen Wagner and F. Miller (husband Bill, please note) both had 172 counts.

Pepperettes still lead the league with a 10-won, two-loss record. Tied for the next spot are Handicappers, Sugarbowlers and Team No. 4 with 8-4 records. Team No. 4 had to win three games to get into the tie spot. It sure doesn't pay to lay off bowling. Ilo Matter found out the hard way. Ilo missed a couple of weeks due to a bad cold and someone polished the alleys while she was gone. The ball just wouldn't behave.

Decatur Bowling

Our friends from Decatur are collecting those 200 games. In the G-E Fraternal League, Appleman had the high game, a 228. Close behind was Schultz with a 218; Reinking, 210; Faulkner, 209; Briede, 202, and P. Hoffman, 200. G-E Club came from behind to win three games from West End. Elks defeated K of C in three games and Moose-Burke dropped three close games to Peterson Elevator. Kitson rolled 221, 167 and added a big 234 for a 622 count.

The Packers won two from Office and Stators won two from Flanges. Two hundred scores were rolled by Briede, 201; McIntosh, 204; Schuster, 203, and Laurent, 207.

Monday Night Office League

Schlink led the way with games of 225, 176 and 231 for a total of 632. Hall had a little trouble in his last game and ended up with a 172 which added to his first and second games of 237 and 206, giving him a 615 for the night's bowling. Kelso had the high single game for the night, a 241. Other high games were rolled by Ivan Parrish, 221; Don (Plunger) Stoneman, 210; Don Waldrop, 210; A. Johnson, 208, and R. Getty, 201.

Standardizing and Aircraft are still game and game for first place. Both have a 11-won and one-loss record. Motor-Generator and Amplidyne are running close behind with a 9-3 record each. Ed Whipple really had eyes on his ball Monday night. He picked up that tough 6-7-10 split.

Interdivision League

The Hot Shots were really hot defeating Regionals three games. Tools also won three games. They beat Doodle bugs. Shoes really make the man and we can also add the bowler. Walt Siedel, after 15 years of bowling with the same pair of shoes, finally broke down and bought a new pair. After one week in which to break them in, Walt started to bowl and he had a series of 196, 206 and 200 for a total of 602. Walt's only comment was, "All I have done, I owe to my new shoes."

Just to prove that you don't need new shoes to roll a 600 series. Les (Jughead) Shroyer started with a 185 and ended with a 208. His lucky game was a 234. We still don't know if Shroyer even had on shoes. Les' series total was a 627.

Other 200 games were kegled by Kuntz, 202; Lindeman, 224; D. Miller, 218; Parrish, 214, and Thiele, 204.

The revamped Brouwer's team rolled a single game of 1,026. Hermetics are leading the league with an eight-won, one-loss, record.

Transformer League

The Coils and Toys are tied for first place with a three-won, no-loss record. The M's and Autos are in second place tie with a 2-1 record. Sordelet really keeps the pinboys busy racking up a couple of nice 229 and 209 counts. Downie and Witzigreuter also had 200 counts, having 203 and 204 respectively. Sordelet leads the league with single high game of 229 and three game high of 586.

Masonic League

The Doric team is still rolling along in front of the league. After Tuesday's night smoke cleared away, they were still out in front with a 10-won, two-loss record.

Crabill rolled the high game of the evening, a 224. Bronsperry had a 210 and Peters collected two games over the 200 mark, a 206 and 202. Harris and Summerville had identical counts of just 200.

Bowling Notes

It has been requested that bowling at the G-E Club alleys start at 6 p.m., effective Oct. 8. This is being done to improve the late shift bowlers starting time.

Frosty days are here again and things are looking up. We are glad to welcome some of our former coworkers back. . . . George Soule must have dressed in the dark. He wore his shirt wrong side out. . . . Nellie Bellamy paid us an all-day visit last Thursday and attended the farewell dinner for Frances Wilkie. . . . Little Michael is issuing his calling cards from the Don Bufink home. Congratulations to the new parents. . . . FOOD IN THE REFRIGERATOR: That new refrigerator with all the latest gadgets will be well filled according to Nettie Huhn. . . . If you are going fishing and need some pretty red worms, contact Jenny Zimmerman or Elizabeth Wert. . . . Birthday greetings to Talitha Shultz, Gertie Beekner and Hazel Lockwood. . . . LOST, STRAYED OR STOLEN: One unused all-week sucker. See Walter Kryder, Leo Unincorporated. . . . Ellen Dittlinger spent a quiet week-end doing a little fence stretching. . . . Luella Knoche will have to hang a sign on the back of her car, "Hit Us Easy," so the next time someone decides to smack her it won't keep her from work. . . . Wilma Burkholder's boy friend has been showing her what a good cook he is. . . . One of the girls talked to Louie Kalika, and he said to tell us all hello. His wife remains about the same. Hope to hear that she is improving. . . . We're glad to hear that Mildred Huntine's daughter is home from the hospital. . . . Our sympathy to Esther Fox in the death of her mother.

Our high pressure salesman, Jim "Seat Cover Charlie" Buchheit, has a new selling angle. Believe it or not, he's selling seat covers to people who don't own a car. Glenn Camp is a prospective customer, Jim. . . . Bob (TV) Hirschmann reports that his television hasn't been coming in so well lately. Maybe someone swiped part of your aerial, Bob. . . . Ed Gruber is now wearing the decoration won for him by the energetic people in his section. His section was the first one to fill its quota of suggestions in the One-for-One-51 campaign in the General Tool Division. . . . Clayton Racquet had a couple of unusual hitchhikers in Chicago over the week-end. They were Chicago detectives. . . . Glenn Staight's little daughter has a new angle on "cleaning" fish. In helping to change the water on their goldfish, she added a little "bubble bath" with fatal results. . . . We were glad to have Bill Jeffries drop in for a visit last week. Bill is looking very good, too. . . . Frank Hoffman didn't keep his new car new very long. Pushing the accelerator when he should have been pushing the brake caused a noticeable difference in the appearance of the front end. . . . DIE PLANT: Archie Wright has left for sunny Florida to establish his home there. Good luck, Archie. . . . Bill Lloyd, John Schuchhardt and Bob Bryan had a busy week-end pouring the foundation of Bob's new garage. . . . Don't forget the Die Plant party tonight, boys. . . . What's this we hear about Willie Garman using his prestige in the Apprentice Alumni to win card games? . . . If Dick Hemrick misplaces his lunch once more he will show up wearing a chain with the lunch box hooked on the end. . . . LATEST FISH STORY: Eighteen-inch bass, weighing two and three-quarter lbs. was caught by Don Hoffman. . . . Don Alcott saved money by installing his own furnace. To prove it he showed us a nickel he found in the furnace. . . . Bob Truelove enjoyed his third week's vacation by driving a tractor around his yard. But his wife Mabel didn't appreciate walking behind it. . . . Kurt Martin and Gene Denig disappointed Henry Frey by giving him a fish pole to take along on his fishing trip to Canada. The pole was about fish bowl size. . . . EXPLANATION: Harold Hoffman, after finally convincing his wife they needed a newer model car because of the repair bills, bought a 1948 black Dodge without a mark on it. A couple days later he heard a sickening noise while parking. Harold had a tough time explaining that dent in his back fender to his wife. . . . Rainy Lepper and Ralph Foust caught enough fish last week in Northern Michigan to hold a fish fry for the Tool Division. Set the date, fellas. . . . John Roemer is spending his vacation week working on his new home. . . . Was Harold Hoffman trying to cook a fish dinner on his lamp last Friday? . . . One member of the Drafting Section has taken on an outstanding hobby—flying. George Luker will now be known as "Junior Birdman." . . . The Bob Brodricks are being kept in constant suspense by their little daughter, who Bob claims, isn't afraid of anything. Just recently she rode her tricycle down the cellar stairs to the first landing.

I suppose you all have your breath back after that fast inventory we had Friday. Clarence Didier says he is glad this was his last inventory. . . . Margaret Parisot and Bert Brown both have new bowling balls. We should see home high scores after they talk to their balls hard enough. Margaret has had hers out, and she said she amazed herself. . . . Herbie Jehl got a new rabbit dog from Howard Mills. He says he must train Herbie as well as the dog. Herbie yelled so much at the dog that he got scared and ran away. . . . If any of you have any plumbing you want done, contact Dorothy Swank. . . . L. Radamaker is busy with politics. They got him on the Food committee. Now he wants to know what he can get that he doesn't have to cook. . . . Margaret Parisot passed out some pineapple upside down cake, and it was very good. . . . I will try and do better next time, but I do need your help gang. . . . Happy anniversary to Herbert Grage; 30 years, isn't it? I found out via grapevine. I won't make that mistake again.

COPYRIGHT 1950 CARTOONS OF THE MONTH

Marjorie Hahn missed a real bargain. She came to work on Monday morning wearing a new blouse and told the girls of her wonderful buy. Monday evening one of the girls saw blouses just like it at a store downtown for 41 cents cheaper than Marjorie paid for hers. Wednesday morning Alice Claymiller, Rena Hullinger, Opal Brayton and Maggie Bopp all turned up at work with blouses just like hers only all in different colors. . . . Mary Nute will spend the week-end in Chicago. All we can say is Chicago will never be the same again! . . . Glen Schwartz is to be congratulated. He became a grandfather for the eighth time Sunday. He was more excited about this one than any of the others, as it was almost born in the car. His daughter couldn't make it to the hospital so they had to get her back in the house and before the doctor or anyone else got there he had a new granddaughter. The grandfather recovered sufficiently to get to work on time Monday. . . . Eileen Johnson left last Friday to start knitting booties. A party was held for her at Thelma Harter's home in Waynedale and she received several gifts. . . . Ross Sonday is in the Marines and on his way to San Diego. . . . We express our sympathy to Ethel Yunker in the death of her mother. . . . John Figley needs a special invitation from his boss to work. In fact, his boss wrote him about it. . . . Jay Michel, back from his vacation, said he caught a lot of bass. . . . Dick Crickmore caught half a dozen bass at the lake at Kendallville. . . . What are you going to do with the two fish you caught Saturday, Joe Adam? Is it enough for a meal? . . . This article was given to me and if I don't run it they will call me "chicken." We are still wondering what the big attraction was at the Bluffton Fair that fascinated Glen Schwartz every night and brought our division editor (that's me) back up on the floor saying, "It was really a work of art!" . . . We all said goodby and good luck to Edith Minich who returned to Bldg. 17-3. We also welcome Billy Gawthrop in 1 x 79. . . . Maureen Brake got a parakeet for her birthday. It was a pleasant surprise, especially since she received it a month ahead of time! . . . Welcome back to Cathy Traugher, who has been ill. . . . Margarite Smith was sure happy when Harlan beat Leo! . . . Glad to see Mary Parent and Marge Rollins return to 1 x 79. . . . Roger Williams must be warm blooded. He went around in just his shirt sleeves Saturday night at a wiener bake held at the farm of Mary and Joe Parent. He ate about two dozen hot dogs. Maybe that accounts for it! . . . Congratulations to Bob Erickson, who will marry Shirley Beady, of Huntington, Oct. 21. She is the daughter of Dart Beady, who works in Bldg. 17-1. . . . Leah Coolman's sister who was injured in an auto accident has been moved from the Warsaw Hospital to the St. Joseph Hospital. She is still in a very serious condition. . . . Welcome to Jinny Beverforden and Deloris Daugherty, who came on days recently. . . . Birthday greetings to Eleanor Gligor, Oct. 4; Gladys Shellenberger, 4; Robert Black, 8; Joan Romary, 10; Louis Clark (retired), 14; Ruth Nordyke, 21; Bonnie Birely, 20; Ethel Yunker, 22; Sherman Wolf, 16; Gilbert Walker, 12; Glen Fernwalt, 22; Lucille Schriener, 23; Stella Mailand, 23; Arcola Metker, 24; Beulah Briner, 29, and Mattie Reynolds, 31.

Community Services Fund Launched

Agreement Reached With I.U.E.-C.I.O.

Wage Hike Retroactive To Sept. 15

As the news went to press representatives of General Electric and the IUE-CIO were meeting in New York to attempt to put into writing details of the agreement which had been verbally reached in a meeting held October 5.

The terms of the new agreement provide for a 2½ per cent wage increase with a minimum of 3½ cents per hour and an escalator adjustment providing a 1 per cent wage increase for each 1 per cent increase that had taken place in the Cost of Living Index from March 15 to September 15, 1951. The Bureau of Labor Statistics' Cost of Living Index for September 15 will probably be released by the Department of Lahor within the next few days.

Other terms of the new agreement call for a straight wage reopening on next March 15 with any adjustment then, not necessarily to be made on the basis of the

AEP Schedules Potluck Picnic Sat., Oct. 20

Advanced engineering program alumni will get together for a potluck picnic Saturday, Oct. 20, at 1 p.m. in the home of A. F. Ordas, J. L. Oldenkamp, social chairman, announced this week.

Contact men who are in charge of arrangements are C. E. Strecker, STAB Department; Mr. Ordas, Large Motor-Generator Department; J. A. Walley, FHP Motor Department, and E. R. Boynton, Winter St.

Mr. Ordas' home is located near the DeKalb-Allen county line north on U. S. Highway 27.

BLAZE BUSTERS—A G-E volunteer fire-fighter demonstrates how to put out an oil and gasoline fire by fog application. Nineteen similar demonstrations were given at the Fire School Tuesday.

DEMONSTRATIONS HELD AT TAYLOR ST.

225 Attend Fire Safety School Observing Fire Prevention Week

A crowd of over 250 persons witnessed the Industrial Fire Safety School at the Taylor St. Plant Tuesday. The spectators represented 38 industrial plants and organizations from the surrounding area.

Held in observance of Fire Prevention Week, the demonstrations here were one of the highlights in the city's fire prevention program. The school was under the supervision of G-E Chief Ernest Hanauer, assisted by the G-E fire brigade.

Works Manager Ab Martin welcomed the group. City Fire Chief Edward L. Uebelhoer and George Hood, chief of Fort Wayne's fire prevention program, represented municipal fire agencies.

Latest Methods

Nineteen demonstrations were presented showing the latest developments in industrial fire safety. These included the laying of large and small hose lines, sprinkler head operations, handling of salvage covers demonstrations of all types of portable fire extinguishers, chromic acid flake fires, the right and wrong way to handle magnesium fires, and uncontrolled rubbish fires. The City Fire Department demonstrated evacuation by escape shoot.

Chief Uebelhoer stated that 40 per cent of all industries that are forced to close because of fire never reopen.

"It is more important today than ever before that we keep the steady flow of production intact so that the economic status of the United States will remain at a high level and keep our nation strong on the home front," he said.

Assisting with the arrangements were the Chamber of Commerce Fire Prevention Committee, the Fort Wayne Fire Prevention Bureau.

First-Hand Information

Ivan A. Martin, manager of the Chamber of Commerce safety council, reported very favorable reactions to the school. "Plants who don't have and even those who do have volunteer fire departments gain a lot of first-hand information on operating within a plant," Mr. Martin explained.

This week, Oct. 7-13, has been observed as Fire Prevention Week throughout the nation.

The local program was sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce Fire Prevention Committee, the Fort Wayne Association of Insurance Agents, and the Fort Wayne Fire Prevention Bureau.

350 Solicitors Work to Put Fund Over Top

Community Services Fund solicitors, 350 strong, began contacting all employees this week in the current drive to end all future fund-requesting campaigns at the Fort Wayne Works.

Prepared with the "whys and wherefores" of the new plan, secured at the initial kickoff meeting last week, solicitors set contacting every G-E employee as their goal.

K. W. Michael, chairman of the organizing committee, indicated at press time that reports show considerable interest in the new plan for employees contributions to charitable causes and the intent of the Fund has been well received.

Question Answered

Some questions have been raised as to the advisability of the set schedule of contributions for the Fund. It was explained that enlistment of employees in the Plan is a membership campaign, and, that similar to other Company

The Old Spinning Wheel Tells A Story Of Progress In America

Most of us have, at one time or another, stopped to look in the window of an antique shop. There we've seen (with fancy price-tags on them!) such things as old spinning wheels, battered copper kettles that hung in open fireplaces in the days of yore.

People buy antiques today purely as decoration, and they pay high prices for them because of their hand workmanship or out of sentiment for the past. But those antiques are valuable, too, in that they remind us how far our country and our way of living have advanced—through our everlasting striving to make life better for every American.

The antiques show us how the march of American invention and industry has benefited us all in another way—in jobs. How many hundreds of thousands of men and women, for instance, today work at the great cloth-weaving machines which have replaced the old spinning wheels; how many more thousands work at machines which take that cloth and make it into shirts, dresses, coats and suits which make Americans the best dressed people in the world, at prices all of us can afford to pay.

The beautiful old relics of our past, then, are show-pieces of our industrial progress—the venerable ancestors of today's modern machines which produce better things of life for us all, and make millions of jobs in so doing.

Even A Stopped Clock Is Right Twice A Day

We've always liked the tale about the Florida man who ordered a barometer by mail. When it arrived, he found the needle set at HURRICANE. He tapped the instrument, shook it, even pounded it—but to no avail. Then he threw it angrily into a corner and sat down and dashed off a blistering letter to the barometer company. He went down to the Post Office to mail it, and when he got back the instrument had disappeared. So had his house.

All the story demonstrates is the advisability of counting up to 10—or even 20—before you give voice to that criticism, issue that rebuke, or dictate that sizzling complaint. Sure, after you've taken time to cool off, you may find that the other fellow deserves what you have in store for him. But better think about it calmly before you decide to let go with that blast. Because it's fairly unusual for anybody, or anything, to be 100 per cent wrong.

The change of time which comes twice a year disrupts everyone's schedule to some extent. 'Twas Monday the first day of work on the new time when Ruth Bullerman glanced at the clock (which hadn't been changed) and proceeded to prepare for lunch. Much to her surprise, and embarrassment she was just one hour early. The question is, did Ruth eat two lunches that day? . . . Art Rowe (an enterprising salesman) is now going into the collar business. Art neglected to say if they were shirt collars or horse collars. . . . After scaring all the girls in the office Sir Mouse finally has been caught, and Ginny Winegart beams with pride when you say "she caught it" (with a mouse trap, of course). Avenel Stanton wasn't kidding when she said she's scared of mice. After Ginny caught Sir Mouse, it was taken over, in its trap, and displayed for Avenel. Avenel took one look and came out with the loudest, longest scream ever heard in the Transformer Division. . . . Our newly married man, Lou Goehring, is now campaigning for "Safer driving habits for all teenagers." Lou was on his way to Danville for our "Silver Ballast Day" when a teen-ager smashed into his car, shoved the car in the ditch and proceeded to drive away. Thanks to Art Rowe, the culprit was apprehended and we hope for Lou's sake will stand the damages to his car. . . . LOYAL BASEBALL FAN Ted Lamm came in to work with a long face because his favorite team lost that day. Ted wasn't discouraged, he just bet on the other team the next day. . . . The boys in Transformer Sales were treated to candy by Kathleen Schafer recently. Kathleen having received the candy as a gift from an unknown admirer.

Pauline Stocks To Edit Bldg. 6-2 "Jets" Column

Pauline Stocks is the little lady who records the activities of employees in Bldg. 6-2, second shift, in the new division column, "Jets Out of The Night."

Pauline says it's just like being back home to be working in Bldg. 6-2 again. She started working in this location when she came to the General Electric Company in 1942. She transferred to Taylor St. four years later. After working there for a few months, she returned to Broadway to work in Bldg. 17-3. She moved to Bldg. 6-2 on second shift in August this year.

In her spare moments, Pauline likes to crochet. She also enjoys any kind of ball game and followed the baseball world series with much interest, rooting for the Giants all the way.

Pauline and her husband, a city fireman, live at 2709 Broadway.

SORRY

Been on vacation
Poem isn't written
So I guess this week
Here's all you're gitten.

Two little verses
Both of them short
Sorry but that's all
I have to report.

ANVIL CHORUS FOR RETIREMENT—Herman Rosenhahn (left), Bldg. 20-1, is getting ready to strike the iron Joe Nidermeyer is holding. This act was one of the last before Mr. Rosenhahn forged ahead to a new life of leisure and retirement. He first came to G-E in 1942 as a blacksmith at the Taylor St. plant. During his G-E career, he has been a tool dresser, core stacker, mover, window washer, and since 1949, a blacksmith in Bldg. 20-1.

Her husband called her from Chieago on a return trip from California. Marie forgot to eome to work. . . . Fern Yoder also celebrated a wedding anniversary. She enjoyed supper with her husband and son Jerry. Many more happy anniversaries, girls. . . . You should have heard your columnist giving Clara Wisel instructions, or should we say deseriptions, of a city she had visited. . . . SOUP TO NUTS: The placers really enjoyed the potluek lunch Tuesday evening. There were chicken, angel food eake and what have you, even toothpicks. Joe Tricker says his girls are very efficient. The credit, so she says, goes to Dessie George. . . . Did you see the juggling act? It was none other than Don Meyers, Bldg. 4-2, balancing eokes on a hoe. . . . APOLOGIES TO WOODY PLATT: He reminded us that his free coke was quite expensive. It eost him a dime and he didn't borrow it from Felix Newman, either. We're sorry; we were misinformed, Woody. . . . Kathleen Clark, with the help of Kay Dolan, almost had to work overtime Friday night. She says she is so good she never gets her name in the paper, so here it is, Kathleen. . . . Aldena Harris thinks Dessie George should have a twin sister—one just like our Dessie. . . . WELCOME: We welcome Mildred Cutehin from Taylor St. to seeond shift. . . . Margaret Wolfe came to work Monday afternoon with a sparkle in her eyes eaused by a lovely diamond on her third finger, left hand. . . . Who is over in Bldg. 6-2 running around with a lawn mower? Just ask Woody Platt. . . . Jaek Murphy enjoyed a week-end in Benton Harbor, Mich. . . . Joe Tricker is quite brave. He caught a live loeust Friday evening. . . . Fern Yoder is going to Terre Haute Sunday to visit friends.

HERE 40.0129722 YEARS—While William D. Schultz (left), Bldg. 4-3, was on vacation in September, he passed the 40-year mark at G-E. By the time he came back to work, he had actually completed 40.0129722 years. Mr. Schultz is pictured showing a giant service certificate to (l-r) F. L. Korte, Howard Taylor and R. L. Spitler.

Elex Reveals Final Plans For Interclub Conference

As plans for the third annual G-E women's Interclub Conference enter the final stage, members of the 14 women's clubs participating in the convention, have been completing their preparations for the two-day meeting, Irene Meyers, Elex Club advisor, reported today.

Each of the elubs has charge of a eertain seetion of the plans for the Conferenee, whieh will be held Saturday, Oct. 20, and Sunday, Oet. 21, in the Waldorf-Astoria, New York City. In addition to this, eaeh club is preparing an exhibit to illustrate its most outstanding project. A hat depieting the personality of each club, will be displayed at the Hattie Carnegie Luncheon, Sunday.

Exhibit Prepared

Bess Brown, Bldg. 26-2, is preparing the Elex Club exhibit. The Elex hat will be made and worn by Betty Puff, Bldg. 4-6. Mamie Allen, Bldg. 17-1, will represent the elub in the Round Table discussion Saturday afternoon. She will discuss serviee. Mary Zirkle, Bldg. 17-3, will be in charge of placing all elub exhibits in the hotel's Astor Gallery.

Rosemary Miller, of the Decatur GeCode Club, is in eharge of preparing the elub's exhibit. The hat representing the personality of the GeCode Club will be designed and worn by Eloise Knoll. The Deeatur club's speaker in the Round Table discussion is Norma Bower. Dorothy Shaffer, of Decatur, will be toastmistress at the Presidents' Dinner, Saturday evening.

Members of Partizan Chapter will be represented on the panel discussion by Clara Cooper. The Chapter exhibit is being planned by Myrtle Bennett, Helen Thiele and Mildred Van Horn, who will also design and wear the elub's hat.

Apprentice Ass'n Square Dance Tickets Available

plans, membership is based upon stipulated contributions.

Examples of this are the G-E Employees Mutual Benefit Association, the group insurance plan and the pension plan. To hold membership in any of these plans, an employee is required to contribute a definite sum by payroll deduction. This is either a fixed fee or a percentage of earnings. Similarly, in the Community Services Fund, membership is based upon a fixed schedule of contributions dependent upon the individual employee's earnings.

Last year the Community Chest raised $54,000 by payroll deductions, and since the need is so much greater this year, employees here have been asked for a larger amount.

The minimum requests on the Fund for the coming year are $85,000, Mr. Michael explained. The organizing committee felt that in order to have this sum of money available to the Fund, it was necessary to set the contribution rates as they are.

Plan Importance

The importanee to G-E men and women as a group and to the community as a whole of the acceptance of the plan by all employees was emphasized by Mr. Michael. He said that year after year, employees have accepted their responsibilities to support the welfare needs of the city by contributing to the Community Chest.

Employees in other industrial plants who have adopted the all-in-one type of fund appear to be well-pleased with the plan, Mr. Michael said, because it answers the chief criticism of former methods of enlisting support for the less fortunate members of a community.

Jack A. Lea, first vice-president of Local 901 IUE-CIO, and J. P. McFeely, president of Lodge No. 70, IAM-AFL, have endorsed the plan and urged employees to join.

N. Y. Send-off Party Slated by Partizans

Members of Partizan Chapter of Elex Club will get together for a New York Conference Send-off Party at the home of Zelma Rodemeyer, Tuesday, Oct. 16.

The three members attending the Interclub Conference and who will be feted at this meeting are Clara Cooper, Myrtle Bennett and Mildred Van Horn. Hostesses for the meeting in addition to Mrs. Rodemeyer are Louella Tarman and Margaret Pentz.

Up to $100 will be paid toward the total cost of special hospital services, anaesthesia, and ambulance services each time an eligible pensioner is in the hospital for a different cause. This is subject to the $500 maximum payment.

UNWRAPS RETIREMENT GIFT—The lady behind the huge bow is Bertha Albrecht, who retired Sept. 27 after 25 years of service. Shown helping Miss Albrecht unwrap presents her co-workers gave her is her foreman, Gene Fosnight. She first eame to G-E in May, 1926, and did armature work in Bldg. 4-5. Then she transferred to Bldg. 4-1 and later Bldg. 4-3 to place leads. Sinee 1935 she has been placing eoils. From 1946 until her retirement, Miss Albreeht has Worked at the Taylor St. plant in FHP Motor Div. 17.

First of all, we extend our deepest sympathy to Lou Ann Engleman in the recent death of her grandfather and also to Naomi Longsworth in the death of her brother. . . . Was Lois Burry exceptionally tired on the day of inventory or was it the way she was carrying those stators? . . . We welcome Zeta Worthman to the day shift and hope she likes it. . . . Joan and Loretta were sun fishing in the aisle the other day. I didn't hear if they caught any, but they must of had a good time. They don't have long now. . . . Jerry McKown doesn't appreciate his presents he has been finding in his car. Sell them Jerry maybe there will be a little profit in it. . . . Ernie Raypole needs all kind of troubles to make him bowl good games anymore. . . . The news of the week is Norm Wolf is on a diet to get his figure back. Too late now, Norm . . . Stella Evans is quite proud of her seven-month-old granddaughter Debrah Ann Evans. . . . We hear Gene Foster has a new nickname "Petroleum." . . . The only way for Oscar's group of men to win the ball pool from the women was to gang up on them. . . . Dallas Patten had made so many trips to the church he has a path worn. Every time he starts his car, it goes that way. . . . We wish a speedy recovery to Mary Schmenk. . . . Welcome baek to Mary Satterthwaite, who has been ill. . . . Charlie Penn is fishing on his vacation in Wisconsin. . . . Lucy Fiechter's husband sure is trying to get her back in the groove, especially after taking her to Indianapolis this last week-end. . . . We are sorry to lose Don Niles to Bldg. 4-5 and Stephanie Baszezak to Bldg. 17-3. . . . Welcome to Art Kurtz, who is leading operator on test. . . . Oscar Schelper played ball Saturday like all little boys. As a result, he got it in the back and couldn't make it into work. Didn't your mother tell you there would be days like that, Oscar?

Graduate Machinist-Toolmaker

Bieber Completes Apprenticeship

Clifford A. Bieber graduated from the Apprentice School Friday, Oct. 5, after completing the machinist-toolmaker course.

A member of the Arcola (Ind.) High School class of 1944, Mr. Bieber came to G-E immediately after his graduation. He worked in Bldg. 17-1 as an automatic screw machine operator and spot welder.

He served in the inactive reserves of the Army Air Force from October, 1944, to August, 1945, at which time he went on active duty. During his year and half service, Mr. Bieber saw overseas duty in France and Germany. He was discharged in 1947 with the rank of staff sergeant.

After his discharge, he first took a business course at the local Indiana University Extension Center. Mr. Bieber returned to G-E in November, 1947. He worked in Bldgs. 17-2, 17-3 and at Taylor St. before enrolling in the Apprentice School in 1948.

He is married and has one daughter. The Biebers make their home at 2056 Phenie St.

O. Connor and Bert Brown took Bill Putt bowling the other night. Ray Smith donated one dollar for a thirst quencher for Bill Putt. From what I hear, there was a scramble to see who would buy the drink. I don't know if the dollar ran out, or just why Connor and Brown were seen drinking out of the same bottle. . . . Dallas Smith has a new way to get Leon Radamaker take a ball ticket. He just threatens Leon with a change of vote this next election. . . . Ruth Lange treated last Wednesday with a very delicious salad, and it wasn't her birthday either. . . . Paul Winters said he didn't know why, but he believed he had spring fever even if it is October. . . . Art Bienz is on his third week vacation next week driving through Missouri and Kansas. Dallas Smith would like to get hold of a flange squeezer. . . . Friday morning Paul Winters was rushing down the aisle to find the rope or rags burning when he bumped into Bill Grub with a big black cigar. Paul says it still smells like rope burning. We didn't hear Bill's answer. . . . Edward Willey injured his eye and had to be taken to the hospital and the steel was removed. We wish him a speedy recovery. . . . I bet the next time anyone asks Louie Pflueger to hold open his pocket he won't be so obliging, especially if anyone like Dorothy Swank has a tea kettle in her hand. . . . Frank Fogwell never gambles unless it's a sure thing. He was going among the girls Thursday trying to bet four to one New York would win the Series. It seems he had no luck. Better luck next time, Fogy. . . . Clarence Didier should put in overtime. These stator meetings at Taylor St. hold him into his lunch hour every day. There is a conscientious man.

Lost, Strayed or Stolen—The swimming season is over except for members of the polar bear club. Now we find that Mike the life guard in the picture hanging over J. K. Eady's desk has been removed. All that is left is what appears to be a shadow. Where is Mike? Who can tell us? . . . Afishing He Did Go; Way Up in Northern Michigan—No strikes—no bites. Regusted, home came Paul Meyer. Now for a change of scenery Paul and Jerome Omlor took their families down to Brown County. We haven't heard whether they will try fishing while down there. . . . Speed Demon—Rumor has it that we have an artist in our midst. One who challenges anyone to disrobe in less time than he can. Of course, it has been said that Red Morgan had the assistance of a very disgusted wasp, when he broke all records for speed. . . . Vacationing—Guy Lister, Carl Smith, Bob Miller, and George Buckley enjoyed their extra vacations last week. . . . No Driver's License; Hmmm!—Why didn't someone tell us this? We always thought that you had to have an operator's license to drive in the State of Indiana. Now we find out that Ed Deitsch forgot that he had a birthday and drove with an outdated license more than a year. . . . Treasure Is Where You Find It—Some are hidden while others remain in sight. Where is it? Have you seen it? I wonder if it was pushed into the wastepaper can and taken away? No, it was safe at home where it had been left. What? Nothing less than Emma Goldner's purse. Of course, her money had been left in the purse so Emma didn't spend any that day. . . . Week-End Visitors—Emma Goldner spent the week-end in Detroit with her brother. . . . Business beckoned so Dora Mae Fairchild hastened to South Bend. . . . Forest and Ada Owens will spend the week-end visiting relatives at Boswell, Ind. . . . John Schurger and family spent the week-end with relatives in Chicago. . . . Cathryn and Dick Steele attended the Indiana-Pittsburgh football game last week-end. . . . Congrats!—Mr. and Mrs. Erman Johnson celebrated a wedding anniversary. . . . Birthday Greetings—To Clarence (Happy) Meyers, Lucile Foor and Bernice Weigel. . . . Illness—We are glad to hear that Virginia Holtsberry is feeling much better. Hurry back, Virginia. . . . Louie Drake is also much improved and hopes to return to work soon. . . . We are glad to welcome Harvey Hileman back after an illness. . . . An ear infection has kept Clara Ellen Noack at home. . . . Illness has also kept Miriam Moore at home. . . . Lillie Hammond, retired, is still confined to the hospital. She is recovering from injuries received in an auto accident early this summer. She hopes to be able to leave the hospital soon although she will have to hobble on crutches. . . . We have been informed that Floyd Brandyberry, retired, is seriously ill at his home in Monroe. His many friends at G-E wish him a speedy recovery. . . . Welcome—To Ethel Myers, who has been transferred to the Switch Department. . . . On Leave—Jeanette Ehinger has taken a leave of absence due to the serious illness of her mother. . . . Our Sympathies—To Miriam and Ed Meyer and Ruth Nicodemus upon the death of their brother and brother-in-law, Dwight Felty. . . . Taxi, Taxi—Have you noticed Vida Lammert arriving to work early several mornings? Could it be that she got to ride those days? How about telling us the name of your driver, Vida? No secrets, please! . . . Voted 5 to 1—"Squirt" Sprunger wore the prettiest shirt in the Test Room. . . . Congrats!—Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Gehres upon the arrival of twins, a boy and girl. Doyle works in the Payroll Section. . . . A speedy recovery to Mary Fennig, who had minor surgery recently.

BIRD WATCHERS: Fay Russell and Joe Troendly are shooting a match with Ralph Braden at the Southwest Gun Club on Jubilee Day. They are spotting five birds for Ralph. . . . We're glad to have Jenny Conrad back with us after her short illness. . . . Helen Hunt was married last week-end. We all hope you will be very happy, Helen. . . . Pat Moran Hockaday left the Company last Friday. We are all sorry to see her leave. . . . GOOD OLE DAYS: Otto (Cadillac Salesman) Braun was heard telling some of the younger guys about the "good ole" days back in '03. He told them all about the General Electric when it was just a small place. . . . Berniece Kratzsch spent last week-end in the Windy City. Did you find your way around all right in such a big place, Berniece? . . . Happy birthday to Carrie Krauter, Virginia Meier, Lillian Jackson, and Mildred Hindenlang. . . . Congratulations to Rose Ann Peters. She received her diamond Oct. 3. That makes the one corner of the Green Room look like a matrimonial section. . . . All of us welcome Keith Woodley to the packing section. . . . ENTERTAINER: Al Topp is really throwing his money around these days. He treated Mrs. Topp to dinner at Coney Island for their wedding anniversary and had two hot dogs and a plate of beans. It cost him all of 90 cents. How could you be so generous, Al? . . . Welcome to Bldg. 26-4 from Bldg. 17 are Irma Kekly, Violet Martz and Leona Rauch. . . . Marian Boerger, formerly of the Stamping Section, had an eight-pound baby boy last week. . . . Harold Rhine told us that Otto Braun's coffee makes awfully good paint remover. We'd like to know more about this. . . . MIMICS: Have Bob Enz and Ed Englert do their imitation of Tom (Tarzan) Freeman for you. They're really good. Emil Schurenberg has been having trouble locating this so-called Tarzan. I guess he doesn't recognize Tom in his cowboy suit. . . . Carrie Krauter's big smile last week was brought on by the telephone. She was a winner on the Dinner Winner program. . . . We are sorry to hear that Irma Kekly's brother and sister-in-law died in an airplane crash near Auburn. . . . Leo Klejnot is so happy with his three weeks' vacation he is going to get next year. He is gloating all over the place. . . . MOVING DAY: What is this we hear about Dutch Norwalt moving out to the Bowser Flats so he can be near Al Topp? . . . We think our test has gone western. First, Tom Freeman comes in wearing his cowboy suit. Then little squaw Bailey comes in with her moccasins on. . . . Corporal Klejnot certainly hasn't forgotten his Army training. Ask him about his knack for passing the buck. . . . The people in the office are wondering if there shouldn't be a world's series between Edna Bailey and Norbert Sordelet at the end of the bowling season. Edna's 222 and Norb's 229 ought to entitle them to something.

VACATIONERS: Walter Schelper and Victory Beers sure know when to pick their vacations for nice weather. They both picked last week. Walt headed for Minnesota. When he got to Illinois and saw the telecasts of the World Series, he didn't get any farther. Vic went to the New England States for his trip. He reports a fine time. . . . We have had several cards and a letter from Gurney Lindley, who retired recently. His address is Rosa Mary Court, No. 38, Brownsville, Texas. He reports the fishing and the weather are both fine there. . . . Walter Schuler is back on the job again, after several days' illness last week. . . . TWO-LETTER MAN: It is with great pride that we of the tool room nominate Lyle Claphan as the two letter man of sports. In fact, we feel he is the only one who can qualify in both bowling and golf with the identical score of 60 in each game. . . . Ralph Solt's son Donald was operated on last week for appendicitis. He is recovering in fine shape.

Gloria Kumfer left us Friday. She received a beautiful manicure set as a gift from the office. . . . Bud Mendenhall has trouble with his straws. They always get bent in the middle before he has a chance to use them. . . . Ruth Stier may not be Irish but she has their luck. She bought tickets for a dinner for her friends. One of them won a set of silver as an attendance prize. . . . Maxine Householder had car trouble the other night—no keys! She had plenty of help, but the car just wouldn't go without the keys. . . . Dorothy Favorite and Clarence Schafer both spent last week on their vacation. They're back again and already to settle down for another year of work. . . . Carol Harrington is recovering nicely from last week-end. Her 15-year-old cousin tried to teach her the new "be-bop," and Carol threw something out of place. . . . Dee Hahn has more trouble keeping track of her belongings. They turn up in the funniest places, too. . . . Don Ferber should open a "complaint department." It's right down his alley. . . . Any of you girls reading this interested in going to St. Mary's College, South Bend? It's just across the river from Notre Dame. Carol Kissinger, Dee Hahn, Betty Bartley and Barbara Schuckel report that the ratio is one to ten or 500 girls to 5000 boys. . . . Fred Wheeler's name turned up on 200 inventory cards he didn't even write. Jean Smith just followed the sample card too closely, so Fred appeared to be a much busier man than he was. . . . Vivian Grepke Rietdorf is back with us slightly tanned and very happy. . . . Judy Krebs is on vacation now. She's just going to relax at home. . . . Vi Schnieders is back on her old job and happy to be there. She was doing Vivian's work.

"Although Mark Purcell hit it last year, I disagree with him this year, and I predict a cold wave in November, with snow, a white Christmas and an early spring."

ERVIN MORE
Bldg. 19-1

"The large number of brown and light-colored caterpillars seen this year with only a few black ones mean a mild winter, but I always predict a white Christmas regardless."

FRANK MATTHEWS
Bldg. 22

"I predict that we will have lots of snow and ice and a white Christmas, but not severe as it was last winter because the leaves are pretty heavy on the trees and the wooly worms are thick on the highways."

CLARA BALLARD
Bldg. 26-4

"Since my knowledge of meterology is nil, and my average for carrying an umbrella at the proper time only slightly higher, I am confident that my prediction will bring on an all-time high for ear muff sales in Fort Wayne. My prediction: Brr-rrr-rrr. Sorry, Mr. Purcell."

ELMER E. LAMLEY
Bldg. 17-3

"According to our past summer, I would say it would be an open winter. We'll have very little real cold weather."

PICK-UPS from BLDG. 26-3

by EARLE BARTLING

Mary Wiliamson has returned from her vacation after visiting her daughter in Virginia. She said the strongest thing she could find to drink was weak Nescafe. . . . TOO EARLY—Blanche Kanning can't remember dates very well. She was making plans to attend a wedding Sept. 8, only to discover it was to be October 8. . . . Doris Reinhold really knows all about baseball. The radio commentator said, "Foul ball, it fell into the stands." Doris thought the player fell into the stands and wondered if he was injured. . . . MUSICIAN—Ronald Noble really plays a mean mouth harp at noon, all free, too. . . . They tell me Carl Noland should always call 505 before he leaves the floor. . . . If you want a free ride to Indianapolis, ask Andy Gullim how he does it. . . . FOUND SECRET—Charlie Conklin has discovered the secret of the Atom Bomb. You take an old hair tonic bottle, add some thinner, put on the cap, set it in the basement and run. . . . Jim McGee has received word that his uncle has sold his business in Chicago and is returning to the old country. It will cost Jimmy cold cash to spend his week-ends there now. . . . Virgil Buchannan is refusing all orders for "Sunday Quills" until he gets his own king-size quill in operation. . . . PROF. RUMP—Dick Pump must be getting absent-minded. He was almost to the time clock when he realized he didn't have to ring in. . . . Dale Stucky, a former employee in the winding stock room, reports he sold his entire corn crop at a high price. He even sold the ears with the red cobs. It looks like a rough winter. . . . We believe we have seen everything now after seeing Ed Bangert counting coils on inventory day. Inventory is now only a subject to fill the lull in a dull conversation. . . . We wonder what that loud, rumbling noise was around Lola's winding machine. . . . GETS "DRY COKE"—Lena Forker really likes her cokes dry. As soon as the cup dropped down in the machine, she grabbed it and began to drink while the coke was going down the drain. Lena says she can drink more that way. . . . "Pealy" Pequignot's new home will soon be completed, so everybody get your axes, hammers, etc., and get ready for the house warming. . . . If you wish to do your Christmas shopping early, see "Muscles" Raucci. She promises immediate delivery

Top FLOOR TOPICS BLDG. 26-5

by JACK LEA

Howard Shipman came out of the Clyde Theater the other night and found to his surprise his car wouldn't start. The starter didn't work—no lights—no radio—no nothing. In fact, there wasn't any battery under the hood! The thieves were kind enough to leave the screws and clamps. . . . The employees of Bldg. 26-5 responded warmly to the plight of Tommy Larry. He has been in the hospital, unconscious for the past 20 weeks. A collection of $54 was taken up and delivered by Al Norr. . . . There's always one case every year. Charles Pearson forgot to set his clock and came to work an hour early. Quiet up here that time of the morning, eh, Chuck? . . . Paul Gruber and Les Baker have done all right since the installation of the candy, coke machines, etc. They get more handouts than anybody. . . . Elaine Nicodemus and Katherine Parkins celebrated birthdays recently. A potluck was given for Mary Blanchard and Norma Smith, who also celebrated birthdays. . . . We have word that Bobette Shaw, our former office girl, is the proud mother of a baby girl. . . . We are glad we don't have to visit Smitty at the hospital. His car is a wreck but he came out all right. . . . A shower was given last Friday for Pat Hoffman and Lucille Dreyer. Pat and Lucille wish to thank Pat G., Marge Lehman, Lela W., Norma Smith, Jane M., Elaine N., Polly (just call me Baldie!) Auer and Bea Marsh, for the nice gifts. . . . A "shower" was also held at Lea's mansion for no particular reason. The guest list included (guests, did I say?), Harold Josse and wife, Bill Mills and wife, Kenny Fisher and wife, Dick Hurst and wife, Val Sitcler and husband Paul and Estella Frantz, Dorothy Campbell, Maxine Bakle, Howard Winters, Dick Pierce, Walt Mertz, Howard Shipman, Mr. and Mrs. Orville Langhor, Sharon Dasher, Audie and Fred Willett, Carl Hanson and wife and Irene Slater. If I left anyone out, I apologize. "Critter" Kryder was expected, but for some unexplained reason disappointed a few people by not showing up!

from Maxwell St. . . . We are glad to see Whitey Lieberenz become a member of the dispatching organization. We hope he likes it. . . . Tony Tosconi reports eight new pups at his home. Anybody in the market for one, see Tony.

DETAILS from Drafting BLDG. 26-2

by ED ELLENBURG

Pete Eberhardt is now the chief tailor of Transformer Drafting. The quality of his work is excellent. Anyone who saw Les Redding's pretty blue tail Friday will know what I mean. . . . Maurie Cox is having hat trouble. Either his head grew or his hat shrunk. Friday the durn thing just wouldn't fit. (His hat, that is.) Mauric thought at first that maybe someone had put paper inside the band but then he decided that no one up here would do a thing like that. . . . Mr. Meeker wishes to take this opportunity to thank all who contributed so generously to his "Safety Pin Emergency Fund." Keep up the good work. . . . "Whiskers" Becker caused a lot of excitement last week by shaving. Says Whiskers, "I can't see what is so unusual. After all, I've been shaving for two years, (and I cut myself both times). Next time I'm even going to use a blade in the razor." . . . Wanted: A pair of hinges for the door to the drafting room. The way people open and shut that door all the time, the hinges we have now won't last long. . . . Everyone in the recreation section was surprised when Tony went on his vacation and didn't take Jim Filhiker along. But now Tony is back and Jim is happy. It looks like everything will be all right in the end. . . . And while we are on the subject of ends, this is it for this week.

17-3 NEWSIES by WILHELMINA BEETH

Our "We wish you happiness mat" is out for Paul Beaver and Mary Lou Regan, who said "I do." . . . We also wish happiness to Helen McPherson, who middle-aisled it. . . . HOT ZIGGETY: We hear that Doris Ryan uses A-1 as a mouth wash. . . . We have seen everything after secing canned pencil shavings on Charlie Rice's desk. . . . Ethel Keller says she is grandma again. Her dog Sandy has 10 little puppies. . . . VACATIONS: Margaret Monnot was on vacation last week. . . . Walter Kryder is vacationing this week (and so are we). . . . Stella Kempf and Charlie Rice will vacation next week. . . . Bill Ort is in business again. He is now making 20-foot poles for people you couldn't touch with a 10-foot pole. . . . Birthday greetings to Mary Wright, Lucille Allen, Verna Kohart, Dorothy Johnson, Ida Sinn and Barbara Longbrake. . . . Dick Gleim visited us last week. He looks real snazzy in his uniform. He tells us he will be on his way to Germany next month. . . . Pete Hecker has a new lazy man's car. It's a Chevy. . . . INSTRUCTIONS WANTED: Hazel Lockwood needs a course in "How to drive a stake and not hammer yourself." . . . Floetta Zartman could use a little instruction on not stepping in the paint bucket and getting well painted. . . . Margaret Stuck needs to know how to paint a garage without painting her hair. . . . It must have been some show to make Nettie Huhn scream. . . . Velma Scibt spent last week-end in Cincinnati. Gertrude Martin visited in Brown County. . . . Florence Hawk, a former coworker, has been ill for quite some time. She is slowly improving. How about sending her a card? The address is 140 E. Creighton Ave. . . . Rose Hughes has been at the Lutheran Hospital. We hope to hear that she is also improving. . . . We see that inflation has hit Bill Ort's tee shirts.

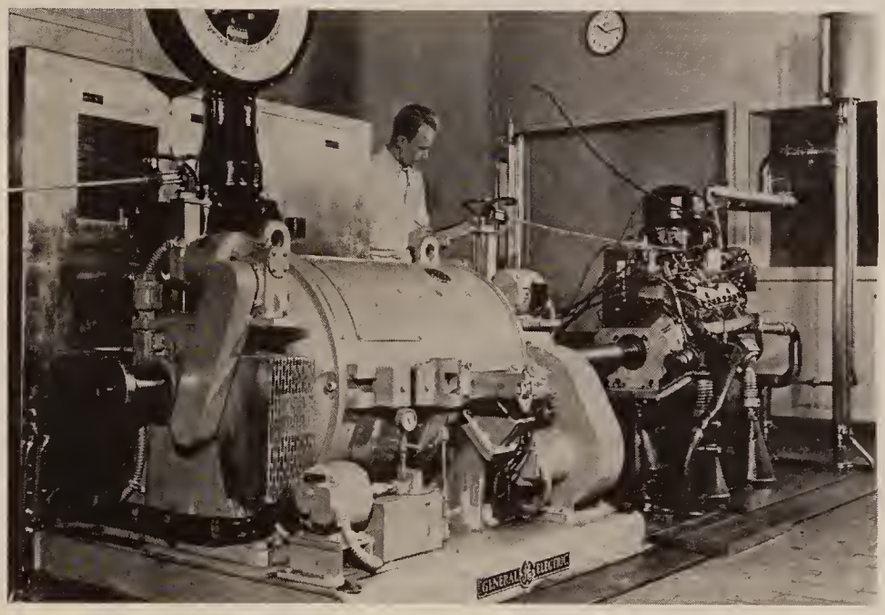
Large M-G Products Serve U. S. From Coast to Coast

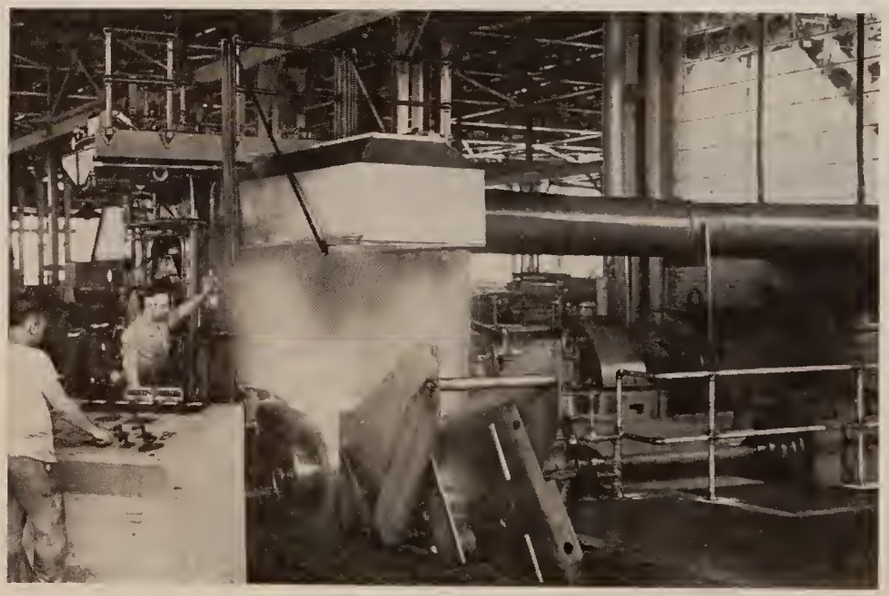


Throughout the United States, G-E motors and generators are putting a beat in the pulse of industrial America. Across our nation, Fort Wayne-made products of the Large Motor and Generator Divisions are turning wheels in industry.

In the far Northwest, Fort Wayne motor-generators are helping transform great trees into wood and paper products. In the Midwest, the automobile industry uses G-E motors for testing engines, and on the Eastern Seaboard, an air station laboratory's wind tunnel depends on Fort Wayne motors to put gigantic blowers in motion. A steel corporation in New England uses G-E motors to operate its mills.

Employees of Large Motor and Generator Divisions make possible these far-flung operations in U. S. business. The pictures on this page illustrate how employees here are contributing to our national industrial life—how the products of their hands and minds are working throughout our land.

G-E MOTORS AT WORK running a machine which peels a 114-inch fir log to a thickness of 1/10 of an inch in a plant of the Pudget Sound Plywood Inc., at Tacoma, Wash.



TO TEST HORSEPOWER of a Ford V-8 automobile gasoline engine, the Ford Research Laboratory at Dearborn, Mich., uses a G-E ball-bearing cradled D-C Dynamometer.

BLOWERS IN HUGE WIND TUNNEL at Langley Memorial Aeronautical Laboratory, Langley Field, Va., are put in motion by Fort Wayne produced G-E motors.

DETROIT STEEL CORP., Hamden, Conn., puts a G-E reel motor and a main drive motor to work operating a cold-strip mill.

GETS RETIREMENT SEND OFF—Frank Quinn (second from left), Bldg. 6-4, is shown at the big retirement send off his G-E friends gave him. Shown in the picture with Mr. Quinn are (I-r) F. L. Gale, Mrs. Quinn and R. L. Spitler. Mr. Quinn retired Sept. 21 after 47 years of service. He began his G-E employment in 1904 as a machine and bench hand. In 1916 he became an instructor and later was made an assistant foreman. At the time of his retirement, Mr. Quinn was working in Bldg. 6-4 on special assignments out of FHP Motor Div. 10.

Norman G. (for Gold-fish) Prince, retired general foreman of the LMG Armature and Field Coil Section, and Manford Lee, also retired leading operator of the DC Armature Coil Building Section, were surprise visitors in Bldg. 19 Oct. 4. Both gentlemen are enjoying their retirement, living the life of Felmlee, or Riley, we should say. Both spent the winter in Eustis, Fla., at the estate of Mr. Prince. In a few weeks, Mr. Prince will be returning to Florida and Mr. Lee may follow him later. . . . Central Florida boasts of several ex-G-E people, one, Ira Kellogg, retired DC design engineer, is now one of Mount Dora's most prominent citizens, and Toppy Moffatt, retired designer of electric shovel generating sets, who spends his winters there, helping Mr. Prince harvest his annual crop of a trainload of grapefruit. . . . Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Yordy on their new son, Galen Arthur by name. . . . We're sorry to hear of the illness of Monte Kelsey's wife and Pearl Forshea's husband. The last report we have is that they are much better. . . . Russell Prince is a patient at the Methodist hospital. At present he is allowed no visitors. . . . Cecile Hinton underwent surgery at the Methodist hospital. . . . Luella Boyce is recuperating at her home. . . . Ann Fairbanks is in Warsaw, due to the illness of her mother. . . . Eileen Gault is on a two weeks' vacation. She expects to visit at St. Louis, Mo., and parts of California. . . . William (Bud) Steffen underwent surgery at St. Joseph hospital. . . . Bob Stute and wife are vacationing in Florida. . . . Wedding bells rang for Fred Wenk recently. We wish you happiness and lots of good luck.

COMPLETES 40 YEARS—Herbert C. Wiegman, Bldg. 4-6 (right), was honored at a luncheon Friday, Sept. 21, on his 40th anniversary with G-E. Shown congratulating Mr. Wiegman is E. A. Martin.

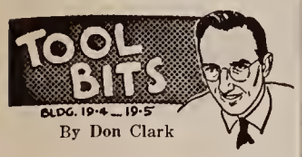
Ruth Hine and her husband spent last week-end in St. Louis sightseeing. When she returned, she drove through the coal yard to compare the prices of coal. . . . Vickie Hyre was fishing at Evans Lake in Michigan over the week-end. The catch must have been so big that they had trouble getting home, and Vickie didn't make it to work Monday morning! . . . Nice to see Mary Sitko back at work after a brief illness. . . . Ardola Metker is on her vacation at last. She isn't taking a trip as she and Carl planned because there are chickens to take care of! . . . Harold Struver Jr. son of Helen Struver is leaving for the Air Force on the 15th. We hate to see you go Bud but know you must. Take good care of yourself and lots of good luck. . . . Here is the saga of the check stub: Paul Ginder eashes his checks at a grocery quite often. The other week he signed his check and handed the grocer the stub, which he cashed and sent to the bank. The stub even passed the cashier at the bank before the error was caught! . . . We hope Maxine Insley is well soon. . . . Don Mason is a great Canasta player. In fact, he plays until the wee hours and then is too sleepy to find his own car. . . . What happened to John Figley's family picture? The place doesn't look the same since the picture was taken down. . . . Del Winters who is on a month-long vacation in the west got caught in a snow storm and had to drive back 30 miles to get on a road that was clear! . . . Someone must have had a lot of extra grease. Everything John Figley touched last week got his hands greasy. If looks could kill several of the guys wouldn't be here today! . . . Sam Taylor didn't notice that he had two different socks on last week until he got home, so this week he has to wear the mates. The best thing about it is that none of the guys noticed it either! . . . Frank Voirol's son, Glen, who has been in training in California, is home on a one-month leave. . . . The boys in Jacobs group are wondering why John Figley brought in an apple, a carrot, and a beet and laid them on Jake's desk for Sam Taylor. Could it be that the apple was to keep the nerve doctor away; the carrot to strengthen his eye-sight; and the beet for more iron in his blood? We know that Sam has done quite a bit of worrying the past week. Jake was sure surprised when he came in Monday and these vegetables had deteriorated in his desk drawer and attracted many added visitors. . . . Barbara Tschannen and Joseph Spieth are planning their marriage. It will take place in November. Best of luck, kids. . . . Billy Gawthrop reports her husband and little boy are just recovering from the measles. Watch yourself, Billy, it's your turn next. . . . LaDocia Clinger is getting things in shape for Evelyn Tolliver, who is coming from California to visit her. . . . Fern Painter is doing her Christmas shopping early. She is also doing her shop-lifting early. I bet Fern's face was red when she returned some merchandise she had absent-mindedly walked off with. Too bad her husband happened to be with her. Now she'll never live it down. . . . Modene Smith and her husband celebrated his birthday last week. She says she is getting so old that she can't take these late hours anymore. . . . Unis Steinbacker had all the girls on leads out to her house for a melon party. She said she never saw so many seeds in her life. . . . Mary Warren won't be driving their truck for a while. She is still cleaning mud off her shoes and the truck wheels after getting stuck. . . . Welcome to Theresa Thieme, who joined 1x79. She came from Winter St. . . . A welcome to Dorothy Edgar and Charlie Hendrickson. . . . Tom Flickenger is working in Bldg. 6-4 now. . . . Congratulations to Alverta and Daily Fogle on the new boy at their home. . . . We sure will miss Florence Rekeweg, who quit this week. A lot of health and happiness is wished for her. . . . What's this about Ruth Theurer spending her third week of vacation in Florida. Go ahead and go, Ruth, but be sure to come back.



Paul Clark will have to be a little more awake when he comes to work in the morning. Three mornings last week when the elevator stopped at the third floor, Paul got off and had to walk to the fourth floor. . . . Paul Brandt has had trouble bowling four years. He is left-handed and has been using right-handed shoes until someone wised him up last week. Now with his new shoes, watch his score go up. . . . The Airliners won two games last week, even though Ralph Lee tried to give them away. . . . Congratulations to Les Hubbart on hitting the jack-pot for his suggestion. If you haven't received your free coke yet, see Les. . . . Pondo isn't talking again. The other morning none of the fellows brought their lunch, so they raided Pondo's lunch bucket. Results, Pondo went without lunch, except for four little crackers Moe brought him from the cafeteria. . . . Andy is buying a hot rod this week. He will be busy all winter getting it in shape for races next year. . . . Lillian Shaffer and her husband were driving Sunday. She discovered an apple grove and wanted to stop for some. Her husband picked up the apples while Lillian picked up the poison ivy. . . . Harriet Minch lost out when she put a nickel in the coke machine. The coke came out, but there was no cup to catch it in. . . . Dick Horn turned down the overtime last Wednesday. He figured if he worked, his wife would have that opportunity to stop down town and get the new hat she wanted. He thought he'd be money ahead if he just went home. . . . Don Burns and Erwin Z. had better find a card game that they can win once in awhile. They claim to be a couple of card sharks, BUT! . . . Ruth Reed is on vacation this week. . . . Fred Sarasien was on vacation last week. We have all anxiously been waiting his return. He then can explain the post card sent to Betty T, that has had everyone in a dither. . . . Maybe we could talk Virginia McCoy into a demonstration of the dance she won in the contest at the Moose picnic. . . . Esther M. wasn't in a hurry. She just had her tools put away, evertyhing cleaned up and ready to go home at 2 p.m. one day. . . . The smoke coming from around Melinde D. last Friday was just her motor burning up. . . . Delores S. completely ignored the car horn every night. When the girls tried the wolf whistle, her head turned in a hurry. . . . Ruth Pressler has been on the sick list. . . . Now we have a basketball team called the Airliners. Lots of luck, fellows, and we'll sure be rooting for you. . . . Millie had a heck of a time last Friday. Although it was pretty warm, she wore a sweater most of the morning. It seems the zipper broke on her dress. . . . Ed Mollins has a new house on wheels—a DeSoto.

Red (Harold) Braden says, "That old T.F. (tired feeling) is called spring fever in the spring. But at this time of year, it is just plain laziness." Believe me, there are a lot of us lazy right now. . . . And speaking of fall, aren't the leaves pretty now so long as you don't think about who is going to rake them? . . . Vern Castle has a nice little wagon to go with that tractor up at the lake, or maybe he is going to haul his fish in it. . . . On vacation this week are Bob Esterline and Walt Kryder. Since both live in the country, it's a cinch they have plenty of work to do right now. But knowing Walt like we do, it's a good bet that he will take time out to listen to some ball games. . . . Clara Theisman is being married and leaving to be with her husband at Fort Riley, Kan. The girls of the office were entertained at a shower for Clara at the home of Martha Cox, a former time clerk. We wish the best of everything for the young couple. . . . It's a close race between Fred Fenner and Paul (Doc) Dannecker. We're talking about the miles they get out of their pipes, of course.

We wish Adele Weitfeldt and Elsie Jones a very happy birthday. The girls passed candy and cake which was very delicious. . . . Al Telschow went deer hunting last week in Michigan. He reports all he got was sticks. . . . Marilyn Leatherman and John Roose have left our division for Broadway. . . . Can you imagine Dollie Fodge walking from Broadway to Taylor St. to diet? . . . Was Ernie Palmer's face red when he took a seat at a table and a group of girls came in and sat down with him. . . . Bob Huhn spent sometime hunting for the alarm clock ringing in his home. Finally Bob went outside and found it was a burglar alarm ringing down the street. . . . Ruth LaPradd had a birthday dinner for her daughters Sunday. . . . What's this about some certain fellow making a trophy for the winning ball team and keeping the trophy? . . . Irene Drabenstot entertained company from Detroit over the week-end. Irene's mother has been visiting in the Drabenstot home this past week. . . . We wish Mary Rose many more birthdays. She received many nice cards and gifts. . . . Art Luessenhop has a new DeSoto.

By Don Clark

Gale Bowser's new intelligence is because he attended Indiana University two days while visiting his sons. . . . Dick Working passed the cigars this week. "It's a boy," says Dick. . . . Ralph Steward was chief cook and bottle washer at a wiener bake held in his back yard the other evening. . . . We don't know who taught Les Hines to play euchre. According to the gang he plays with at noon, he still has a lot to learn. . . . Elmer Sauerwein's most embarrassing moment came when Adahlene Lewis asked for his time card. Elmer insisted he turned it in. Was his face red when he reached down and pulled it out of his apron! . . . Lloyd Welbaum is spending his third week's vacation rebuilding his bathroom instead of driving to New York City. . . . Jim Cavanaugh and Charlie Shipman played nine holes of golf in one hour and 20 minutes last Friday evening. They shot good scores of 41 and 44 respectively. . . . Henry Frey had a nice fishing trip to Canada. Everything was swell until Hank sneezed while fishing. Is there anyone in the Tool Division who would dive 40 feet after his set of false teeth? . . . Jack Schemehorn claims he's lived in Fort Wayne 30 years and has always parked on Calhoun St. Last week he parked on Calhoun as usual but something new was added. He got an invitation by the Police Dept. to "Come over to my house." . . . Carl Einsiedel thinks a Cadillac is the best car on the road. The only thing wrong is he had to lengthen his garage two feet. . . . Those aren't all termites in the pattern shop. The suggestion bug is busy there too. The occasion for Ed Gruber's happy smile came from his people turning in suggestions. The Die Plant also has almost reached its goal. So be ready—the bug may be looking for you. . . . They have some good material for the coming safety meeting. Art Thieme, our head safety man, fell off his front porch and sprained an ankle. We hope you ankle mends quickly, Art. . . . The gang thanks Mr. and Mrs. Reiney Lepper for the swell fish fry they put on Friday night. Highlights of the party were: Elmer Ueber got lost and almost missed out on the fish; George Spittler's new card games; Walt Greiner's frequenty inquiries; Frank Druhot's luck; the dancing of Hubs Suelzer; Charlie Abbott's guitar playing, and singing. . . . Doris Poe, our bride-to-be, was honored with a wedding gift and dinner Tuesday evening at the Colonial. . . . Attention! Office girls using the east stairway, be careful of the door. The hinges have been oiled by gallant Robert Roy. . . . The report on the Die Plant party of last Friday was that it was a great success. John Bartle's house of magic was enjoyed by everyone. Gus Ausderan furnished music with his mouth harp while Maurice Guenther kept time with a makeshift drum. . . . We are glad that Dick Burns is not a marriage counsellor. When he explains the rudiments of matrimony, the girls are almost convinced against taking that trek down the aisle. . . . George Spittler isn't saying how he's going to spend his last week of vacation.

Basketball League To Meet Monday

A meeting will be held in the G-E Club lounge, Monday, Oct. 15, at 4:45 p.m. to discuss the coming season's play in the Interdivision Basketball League.

Ray Quinn, league manager, has stated that anyone wanting to enter a team must have a representative at this meeting.

Mable Miller is very fond of pickled hot peppers and claims to be able to eat a peck of these pickled peppers any day. Last week-end she met her Waterloo. A friend served her with some very special hot ones. In fact, they were so terribly hot that she was unable to eat more than one bite. Her husband even offered to buy her a new winter coat if she would eat them, but no soap. Mable said she would forego the peppers and purchase her own coat. . . . Allen Plasterer has purchased a used motorcycle. It really is a venerable machine, having a belt drive which he is trying to convert to a chain drive. In fact, the old two-wheeler has many ailments and needs. It takes up all of his spare time running around to all of the junk yards trying to find the necessary parts to put the old boy in running order. We honestly believe that he would have saved money by purchasing a later model. . . . Austin Reimund had a very peculiar experience the other day. It seems that he operates a small kennel at his home. The other day he decided that it was time to give the kennel a thorough cleaning. Being busy on the inside, he failed to notice the neighbor's big dog enter the yard. It, being in a playful mood, jumped against the door which slammed shut. The latch, which was on the outside, snapped. There was Austin securely locked in the kennel. He tried every manner of means to draw his wife's attention but to no avail. Finally after much struggling he got the door open. Then he procceded to the house to find out why friend wife did not hear his calls and release him from the dog house. Perhaps that is where she would like to keep you, Austin. . . . Most of us are aware of the fact that Ward Grim and William Mauger are bosom pals. Ward, knowing that Bill is fond of cigars, makes a special effort to see that Bill is well supplied with them, both new and used.

New officers have been elected and assumed their duties in the Apparatus League for the 1951-1952 season. Robert Branning has been named president; Ross Smith, vice president, and Charley (Pappy) Briggs will toss the figures around as secretary-treasurer.

Team No. 11 with 11 wins is leading the league. They have lost only one game. Lyle (Muscles) Claphan is the only golfer-bowler in existence who shoots the same score in both sports. He shot a high 60 in the Blind Bogey Golf tournament and kegled a 60 on his first night of bowling.

Paul Billue really waxed hot on a pair of alleys to end up with a pin heavy 247 count. This is just 100 pins over Paul's average. Small Motor League bowlers remember Paul as the bowler who always won the chickens the Club gave to bowlers at Thanksgiving and Christmas.

Wayne (Windy) Boester, who carried Don Dimke in the ABC last spring, collected a 222 count. Bob (Sore Thumb) Blomker rolled a 221. J. Young had a 213 and E. Townsend ended up the 200 counts with a 201.

Transformer League

The Coils and Toys are running game and game for first place with the Coils getting a one-game advantage last week. They now lead the league with a five won, one lost record. Toys have a four won, two lost record.

Rinne and Hobbs had 208 counts each. H. Fritz kegled a 211; Hamilton hit 215 for the evening's high count. The hard working secretary H. C. Meeker counted a 210. Furliners in the league were Berghoff, 74, and Ellenburg (Junior), 98.

M. Robertson in the commercial section has a bowling ball for sale.

Ladies Monday Night League

Handicappers won three games and are now in a tie with the Pepperettes for first place. Both teams have a 11 won, four lost record.

Eileen Curtis had a good night. She not only made a 2-7-10 split, but she ended with high game for the night's play, 185. Ann Lee kegled a 184. Bertha McCorque and Doris Pogue had identical games of 176. Justine Courdet got a 175 count.

The Fivers had the high three-game, a 2,104 count and also the high single, a 773.

Friday Night Ladies League

Liz Schearer kept the pins toppling and collected a 533 on games of 169, 176 and 188. Grace Plattner broke into the double century club. She got a 200 right on the nose.

Team No. 8 is leading the league with a 11 won, one lost record. Team No. 4 is in second place with a nine and three record. Ida Witte converted the baby split, 6-10.

Owls to Organize Cage League Wed.

There will be an organizational meeting for an owl interdivision basketball league Wednesday, Oct. 17, in the G-E Club lounge. Bob Crosley, league manager, will preside over the meeting which will begin at 2 p.m.

All second and third shift employees interested in playing basketball this year are requested to attend this meeting.

Decatur Plant Bowling

The Monday Night league shows the Packers winning two games from Flanges and Office winning two games from Stators.

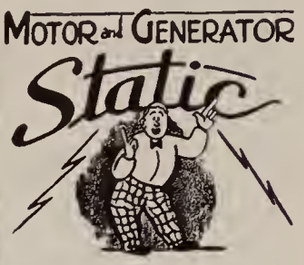
Briede posted a 200 game. August collected a 201, and Porter kegled a 202 count.

In the G-E Fraternal League, Peterson Elevator took three from G-E Club and Teeple Truck Line headed K. of C. in three games.

G. Schultz hit the 600 series with a 607 on games of 226, 167 and 214. H. Murphy, on games of 214, 194 and 202, had a 610. J. Petrie's high single game of 263 combined with a 188 and 151 gave him a 602. Petrie's 263 is high single game in the league so far this year.

Two hundred scores were bowled by Baumgartner, 212; L. Hoffman, 204; O. Schultz, 223; Appleman, 210, and Stenry, 234.

Small Motor League



First place in Small Motor League is all tied up. Three teams have nine won and three lost records. Dubs, Tools and Office are the three teams tied for the No. 1 spot.

A. Koorsen collected a 219; Frank Gitter, 200, and Ray Lindemuth, 204. Bill Miller has been taking lessons from his wife. So what happened? Bill got a 205. Thanks for the help, Frances.

Masonic League

Doric is leading the league with a 12 won and three lost record. Fellowcraft is in second spot with a 9-6 total.

Double century bowlers for the evening were Altevogt, 200; Gidley, 201; Lauterberg, 211; Strahlem, 213; Huges, 215; Crabill and Peters, 219 each. Frank (Lefty) Quinn, the old southpaw, really had the ball hopping. He racked up the league's high single game for the season to date, a 235.

Thought for the Week—"A college education at least keeps the boss' son away from the business for four more years." —Ben J. Sallows.

ONE-SECOND SERMONS—A fallen lighthouse is more dangerous than a reef. . . . God promises a safe landing, but not a calm passage. . . . The only people you should try to get even with are those who have helped you. . . . A virtue and a muscle are alike. If they are not exercised, they get weak and flabby. . . . A famous minister explains that prayer gives us a psychological "road map" by which to reach happiness and success, but the "gasoline" for attaining those destinations must still be furnished by the individual himself. . . . We are indeed thankful for the three following contributions sent to this column, as we have pointed out many times, each member of this division is also a reporter. Unless you help bring in the new., there will be no news, as we cannot do it all ourselves. . . . WE WONDER TOO—Ray Klug has been wondering why he only gets two and one-half glasses from his frozen orange juice. Next week, he is going to add the water. . . . MUSCLES—Lou Behm now holds the title of "Mrs. Muscles." During inventory, she picked up a piece of copper tubing and asked the weight. The caller said 600 lbs., looked at Lou and weighed the bar again. . . . SWEET TOOTH—Some people have been wondering why their birthday candy supply needs replenishing so often. It could be contributed to the sweet tooth of J. L. O'Brien. . . . OF MICE AND MEN—One of the lads from Accounting approached us with a smile and this story. During our recent inventory, Carl Koester was vested with the responsibility of hanging "Do Not Inventory" tags on non-product parts in Bldg. 22. Noting the number of mice running around the building, Carl made his great decision, the one that almost made a wreck of him. He decided they came under the non-product classification and darn near killed himself trying to capture and tag the little creatures. . . . ANOTHER MILESTONE—Ed Foley, our smiling Irishman, celebrated another birthday Oct. 6, and was the recipient of many eards and gifts. All day Friday packages arrived from his many friends (?) throughout Motor-Generator, packages Mr. Foley refused to open while anyone was around. However, he reports it was a marvelous birthday, the nicest so far. In Mr. Foley's life, so far covers a considerable distance. He also thanks all who sent him gifts and promises to do as much or more for them during the next year. . . . Question directed to Mr. Foley—Where do you file women's magazines and apples?

PIN BOYS WANTED

Employees' sons are wanted for pin boys at the G-E Club alleys, Charlie Wilt, Club manager said today. Boys must be 16 years of age or older. Apply directly to Mr. Wilt in the G-E Club.

TWO KINDS OF WORK—AND PAY

The important work of the world is made up of what men do and what machines do.

MEN

The American worker doesn't use just his muscles. He works with his mind too. And he gets paid at the going rate for the value of the combination of skill, care, and effort he puts into the particular kind of work he does.

He cannot in fairness be penalized for poor selling, reckless finance, unwise risks, lack of research, inadequate equipment, poor judgment as to what product to make, or even plain bad luck on the part of management. Likewise, he cannot in fairness lay claim to any of the profits that arise from the better handling of these matters by one management as compared with another.

He does not think it fair for him to be subjected to the uncertainties or the ups and downs of profits and losses occurring because of acts or forces beyond his control. He insists he be paid the going rate for what he puts into the work—regardless of whether his employer is unable to make both ends meet or is making a little or a lot of profit as compared with the fellow across the street or in the next town—and he is right.

MACHINES

The machine does a different kind of work, and that work gets paid for—if at all—on a different basis.

Power plants, factories, tools, designs, and advanced methods not only take most of the hard work out of work, but also multiply a given amount of human attention and energy into a vastly expanded output over what would be possible by hand work alone. The machine a man runs may use 100 or 1,000 times the power he himself could exert.

Where an individual actually causes some of this increase in output—through the skill, care, and effort he puts into the work at his particular job rather than through the extra work the new machine does—he is rewarded accordingly in his day-to-day pay, whether others of his fellow employees are making similar advances or not and whether the business is or is not making a profit.

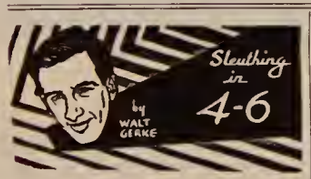
But that steady rise in output per worker—which we have come to expect to more than offset the sharp decline in physical effort and hours of work—is due almost entirely to the constant application of the new equipment and technology provided by management with shareholders' money.

These mechanical multipliers of human effort are provided out of the savings of people who deny themselves the products and services their money could buy at any given time; and who take the risk of getting a future reward in the form of profit. They make it possible for the American worker to produce—and buy with his pay—the extra things like the food, clothing, housing, autos, radios, inside plumbing, movies, and a thousand other items which make him the envy of the rest of the world.

But those who have risked their savings do not get 100 or 1,000 times what the worker gets. They get much less than the worker. Their "pay" is not only small in comparison, but is irregular and even uncertain. For they have taken the risk of getting only what, if anything, is left after all others have been paid for their goods and services. They do not get any specific going rate or any "cost-of-living" adjustments. Their pay may—and frequently does—go down while the pay of the worker is going up.

AT GENERAL ELECTRIC

After we had taken care of all our more than $693 million of outside expenses and taxes for the first half of this year, General Electric had about $490 million left to pay for the two kinds of work.



It took about 86% of that—or $420 million—to pay the new high going rate to our more than 200,000 employees for the skill, care, and effort they put into their work. This was more in total—and more per employee—than in the first half of last year.

The remainder of that $490 million—or about $70 million (equal to 5.9 cents per dollar of sales)—belonged to our more than 250,000 shareholders for the use and risk of their savings in supplying arm-lengthening equipment and methods. This was less than was left for the shareholders in the first half of last year. It was also just about one-sixth of what was paid to our employees—and yet was for getting a heavy and important part of the work done.

And, of course, the shareholders didn't actually get even the 5.9 cents earned per dollar of sale. For, as usual, they put a good part of their earnings—2.3¢ per dollar of sale this time—back into the business for the strength and growth which mean greater future security and opportunity for General Electric employees.

GENERAL ELECTRIC COMPANY

A. B. Bourneuf
Vice President
EMPLOYEE AND PLANT COMMUNITY RELATIONS

BACK AGAIN: Glad to have Walter Hahn back with us again. He was absent about three weeks due to illness. . . . GOOD LUCK: Harold Struver decided to enlist. He now works for Uncle Sam's Air Force. He signed up for four years. Good luck to you, Harold, and drop us a line now and then. We like to hear from our boys in service. . . . We hear quite frequently from Lawrence Diller. His most recent letter acknowledges a package from Elex which was gratefully received. . . . CONGRATS: To La-Donna Gulley upon her engagement to Charles Warrick. . . . WATCH REPAIR: Anyone needing watch repair, see Chris Flanigan. Of course, you may have to take it to the regular repair shortly afterwards. It is good practice for Chris! . . . FORGETFUL: Paul Berghorn was in Pittsfield last week and left his top coat. Someone was nice enough to send it back. . . .

Forgetful

VACATION TIME: Owen Vaught is going to St. Louis next week on vacation. . . . BYE BYE: Last Friday we bid bood-bye to Neil Hall, test engineer, and Fred Chruscz, engineering assistant reporting to Sam Moore. Fred is on a leave of absence, helping his brother while the latter is recuperating from an automobile accident. . . . WELCOME: To Donald L. Ellenberger, who joined our drafting personnel this last week. . . . Good-bye to Robert Sharrow, who is being transferred to AC Section. . . . Welcome to Rita Alspaugh, who left the file room, to work in the Developmental Division.

Something new has been added. Five new drafting desks replace old style drafting tables. The tops of the new desks lift up so prints can be put inside. A small drawer on the right provides space for drawing tools and a deep drawer stores data books, etc. Storage place for rolled prints is found at the back of desks. The lucky people to get new desks are Don Kaiser, Ralph Oplinger, Wayne Bergman, Wallie Chinworth and Paul Perry. Wayne says he is going to raise rabbits in the little room for print storage. Pop Noll rates a new "custom built" drafting board to fit in his corner. . . . New faces in the drafting room include Wanda Brudi, Jack Baumgardner, Ray Karr, and Ed Hagadorn, apprentice. Ed is one of our "Silver Star" boys back from Korea. . . . Dick Cacciatore quit drafting because he was unable to start school at Indiana Tech., his main reason for being in Fort Wayne. . . . Homer Carson left the Drafting Section to take Manufacturing Training Course. . . . The M-G girls entertained Elaine Harlan and Florence Knight at a luncheon this week. Elaine will leave next week to go to Texas to be with her husband. Florence Knight is also quitting, but she has no immediate plans for the future. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Claude Charles were looking over the goodies in the bake shop last Saturday. Says Claude, "Don't you think we should buy a cake in case we have unexpected company?" Says the Mrs., "I'm not expecting any unexpected company." . . . Jerry Vodde was on leave from the Service this week. He stopped in to see all his friends in drafting. . . . Winter is here. Charlie Brown is wearing his gay flannel shirts.

A man is judged by the company he keeps, but a woman is judged by the company she's just left.

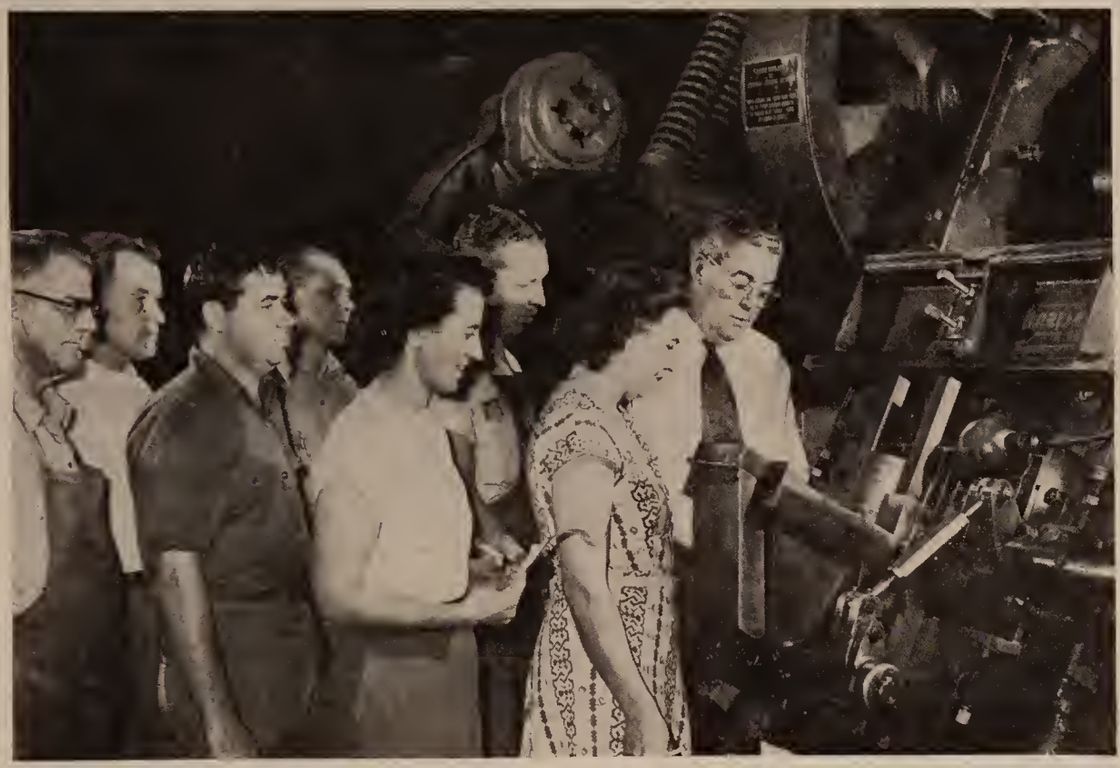
Noel Bolinger and friend had a nice catch of fish in a new bag hanging outside the boat. When they arrived back at the cottage, the fish, bag and all, were gone. . . . Ruth Peek and her husband spent the week-end in Columbus. . . . We welcome Ruth Clark and Joyce Dodd in group 17x52 and Vadas Putt in 17x54. . . . Linda Wahrer and Vadas Putt spent the week end in Cleveland shopping. The stores closed too soon to suit them. They started shopping in the morning and helped close the stores in the evening. Laura Gerber was very pleased over the candy they brought her. . . . We wish Dorothy Weiler's son-in-law a speedy recovery from his recent operation at Stockton, Calif. . . . What is in the package Mary Shreve has been bringing in and taking home again for over a week? . . . Dan Bishop brings in the Sunday paper each Monday morning. He then spends each noon the following week reading it. Isn't some of the news a little stale by Friday, Dan? . . . If you have something you can't get rid of, give it to George Ryan. He will raffle it off for you. . . . We wonder what happened to Louise Sinn's peacock. We haven't heard anything about it for some time now. . . . We are quite concerned about Hilliard Moore. We are afraid there is going to be a lost time accident because of the loss of some fingers when he takes a chew of tobacco. Be careful, Buck. . . . Elmer says he bets they will have to take inventory over this year because Ed Fiedler went home at 8 a.m. yelling, "Where's Walter." . . . Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stahl and Mr. and Mrs. Michael Mercurio spent the week-end in Cleveland. . . . We are anxious to see the pictures which were taken of Sydonna Fox, Al Reidenbach, Elinor Laux and Earnest Chaney in their finest bib and tucker at Mr. and Mrs. Roy Brubaker's wedding reception. . . . Bob Johnson is having quite a lot of trouble with his Frazier shimmying. The boys say that if he would take the square wheels off it would run much smoother. . . . Al Seifert bought a new tilt-back chair. He says with winter coming on he can sit back and enjoy the radio. He only wishes we could have better TV reception in Fort Wayne.

RETIRES FROM THE FORCE—Art Nickerson, plant guard (left), turned in his badge Sept. 28 and retired from the force. E. C. Koch, a fellow guardsman, is shown saying so long to Art. Mr. Nickerson began working for G-E in 1918 as a bench hand in Bldg. 17-2. He then worked in Bldgs. 17-4, 19-4, 17-2, 4-4, 19-1 and 19-5. He has been a member of the Plant Protection Division since 1930.

SHIPPING: What's this! Some stranger fellow treated Doris Smith to a coke. . . . Wanted: Another vacation for Sarah Harris, and does she need it! She added a column of figures as long as your arm with speed and accuracy on the adding machine. She glanced up for the total, and lo and behold no tape. . . . We all enjoyed our short visit from Beverly (Springer) Staley Monday. . . . Skating can be a very dangerous pastime. Georgie Mechling got the black and blue knees to prove it. . . . A great big howdie to our new duplicator Joan Leslie. . . . Birthday greetings to C. L. Saurbaugh next Monday. . . . TELEGRAPH: Norma Jean Durnell, who was transferred from Receiving. Hope you like it, Norma. . . . Anniversary greetings to Eleanore Blake and hubby. Did she get some mighty fancy greetings! . . . RECEIVING: Everyone is following in Joe Rygowski's footsteps as he ambles toward the coke machine. Some are trying to mooch a free drink. Others are trying to learn the secret of how Joe puts in a nickel and gets a coke and four nickels in return. Old honest Joe will, no doubt, return the excess money to the owner of the machine. . . . Norma Jean Durnell has left us to work in telegraph. That was the occasion for the picnic in the park last Friday. Hope you liked the gift, Norma. . . . Bob Younghouse is the most well-read person in Receiving. . . . Frank Parker was so excited about being on vacation this week that he couldn't keep the ball game scores straight. Dwila Parish finally got him on the right track. . . . Harry Price has been having trouble with an elbow injury. You'd almost think he had started his Christmas shopping, already. . . . MAILING: The drive-in did a rushing business from mailing last Friday night. I wonder if the featuring of 15 short comics had anything to do with it. . . . Jerry Crowell was one of the lucky ones attending the Stan Kenton show Sunday. . . . Jim Weingartner spent the week end at South Bend. . . . Our sympathy to Jack Woodcox on the loss of his new thermos bottle, and just when we thought we had him all set.

Charm Class To Hear Personality Lecture



The third in the series of cultural and charm classes sponsored by Elex Club will get under way Monday, at 8 p.m. in Room 20, Bldg. 16-3, when Miss Helen Rioridan, teacher of English and physical education at St. Francis College, will be principal speaker.

Miss Rioridan, who is also business manager of the Civic Theatre, will discuss, "How Can I Improve My Personality?"

GUN BOATS: Have you looked at Cletus Lothamer's shoes lately? He just bought a new pair and we were curious as to the weight and size. We had him take one off and we found them to be size 11, 2 pounds 4 oz. each, 13 inches in length and width four and ½. Boy what an understanding! . . . RIGHT SMART picture we saw of you, Mary Agnes Clark, in Sunday's paper announcing your engagement and approaching marriage to PFC Gerald Johnson. Congratulations, Mary Agnes. . . . OBJECTED: Paul Kemph objected going to a meeting and to the dispensary because he forgot to wear his teeth and shave. Let's see, such objections should rate something, probably solitary confinement. . . . WEDDING RECEPTION: Cy Ort went to a wedding reception the other night. After arriving home, he found out he had filled his pockets with chicken bones. How did that happen, Cy? . . . OLD ENOUGH: Mrs. Leo Elward has finally decided that Leo is old enough and can drive well enough that she let him buy a new Plymouth. His co-workers have been telling Leo that a Plymouth is just the off-spring of the Maxwell. Leo came back with this one. The Maxwell may have been its daddy, but he's sure the Tin Lizzie wasn't its mother. . . . DON'T FORGET to keep praying for our boys and girls over in Korea. They are having a pretty tough time.

Electric Personalities

Safety at Work—Members of the safety committee of Div. 14 at Taylor St. who are looking over a safety device on a punch press are (l-r) Theodore Childs, Forest Grim, James Zuber, Carl Humsoth, Loretta Runyon, LaVerne Amstutz, Agnes Brown and H. A. Carnall.

It's So Easy—Says Ruth Oetting, Bldg. 4-6, as she tries out the new General Electric tank sweeper at the Employees' Store. The sweeper complete with attachments (Ruth not included) is $69.95.

Bowling Champ—Getting in some practice at the G-E Club alleys, Art Smethers, Taylor St., displays the form with which he won the 1951 State All-Events Bowling Championship last May. He accumulated a total of 1,865 points in the meet.

Lucky Number 340—Dorene Tully, Taylor St., is shown receiving a ticket entitling her to free meals at all Elex Club dinners for the 1951-52 year from Mabel Fisher, Elex contact girl. Dorene's membership card with No. 340 on it was drawn to give its owner the free ticket.

SERVICES FUND PLAN CHANGED

A Big Hug for Papa—Ray Huhn, Taylor St., brought his suggestion award total for the year up to $1,385 this month and his wife Helen is mighty proud of her inventive husband. His latest idea for a change in cover dies amounted to $200. Ray has had 10 out of 18 suggestions accepted this year and two are still pending.

Set Contributions Out; Employees To Choose Amount of Donations

The set schedule of contributions has been removed from the Employees Services Fund constitution and a plan devised whereby employees may subscribe any amount they choose within the schedule. This action was taken by the Fund organizing committee this week when it became apparent during the first week of solicitation that employees were definitely opposed to the plan's dictating amounts each member should subscribe to the Fund.

The committee today appeared determined to revise the plan to meet with all employees' approval. Special meetings were called during the week to change the constitution and remove the source of employee criticism.

Re-Canvass All Employees

Beginning Monday, Oct. 29, solicitors will re-canvass every employee on the Fort Wayne Works payroll. Those who subscribed to the plan in the original drive will have an opportunity to join the new plan. Membership cards will be returned to them and new ones

1951 Idea Payoff Hits $27,000 Mark

So far this year, more than $27,000 in suggestion awards were paid out to employees, A. C. Hartman, suggestion secretary, announced today. He also stated that a number of divisions have reached or exceeded their quota of "One for One in '51."

Two hundred and sixty-two employees shared $5,412.50 in suggestion awards during the month of September. The list included 46 employees from the Works' branch plants.

Michael Supp, a Danville, Ill., employee, copped the largest award of $500. Through Mr. Supp's suggestion, die life was increased by predetermining die strokes.

Next on the list is Ora Eyer of the Tiffin plant, who received $350 for his suggestion pertaining to a rotor polishing machine. This was an additional award to a previous one in which he suggested and submitted a plan to build a machine to polish the end rings on hermetic rotors. Max W. Lydy, Specialty Transformer Div. 94, was the top man on the Fort Wayne list by getting a $250 award. Mr. Lydy suggested shipping transformers

People of Good Will Can Live in Peace

When we plan a trip to Canada, we never think of our neighbor to the north as a foreign country. We don't need any passports—only some identification so that our own immigration officers will let us across the border on the way home.

And the Canadians feel almost that way about the United States. When Britain stood alone against Hitler after the fall of France in World War II, it was to the United States that the Canadians looked for protection in a world gone suddenly mad.

This harmony between the United States and Canada is unique in world history. For more than 100 years there have been no forts guarding the 4,000-mile border. The few fortifications that existed in Colonial days either have fallen in ruins or been turned into parks which give pleasure to all comers. A Canadian in New York City may visit any spot open to American visitors. A New Yorker in Quebec may wander around the citadel with a guide to show him points of interest.

Trust Keeps Peace

The chief reason for the harmony between the United States and Canada is that the two nations trust each other to keep the peace. It would never occur either to a Canadian or to an American that a war-like "invasion" was being planned across the border. But they know that if either country were invaded by an enemy, Canadian and American troops would soon be fighting side by side. The feeling is so deep that it doesn't need any treaty to express it. Last year U. S. companies invested $167,000,000 in Canada without any fear that a dictator would confiscate it. The Canadians welcomed the investments, knowing that the business operations would be carried on under Canadian law, without any interference from Washington.

Common Goal

This mutual friendship and cooperation between our two countries is proof that people as individuals, groups and nations can live in peace and harmony when, with freedom and democracy as their common goal, they sincerely want to do so.

If two countries can live side by side in such friendship, surely individuals can do the same. Families who know their neighbors are men of good will are not suspicious regarding the boundary lines of their property. Employers and employees who see that their mutual interest lies in the profitable operation of their company on a fair basis for investors, management, and the public, have nothing to quarrel about.

Hatch A Good Idea And You Hatch Competitors

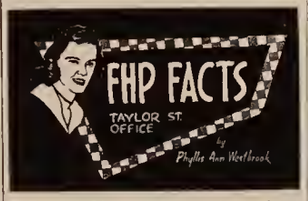
In 1934, the automatic blanket was initially developed by General Electric. Today there are 12 other companies making electric blankets in competition with G-E.

In 1935, General Electric first demonstrated fluorescent lamps to a group of Navy officers. In 1938, the first fluorescent lamps were offered for sale. Today, they are being manufactured by a number of companies.

The first turbine-electric drive for ships was proposed and designed by G-E engineers. Today four companies in this country build this type of ship-propulsion equipment.

After several years of laboratory development, General Electric began production and sale of the Disposall kitchen-waste unit in 1935. Today 14 other companies are in this field.

The first practical X-ray tube, developed at General Electric years ago, is now a highly competitive business for seven manufacturers.



In 1926, a practical household refrigerator with a hermetically sealed unit was put on the market by General Electric. Today, 34 companies are manufacturing household refrigerators with hermetically sealed mechanisms.

Here goes Edith Venrick again making the news. Clara Heaston, Gladys Stahly and Edith got on the bus the other evening and all sat down, Edith with her dime in her hand. The conductor eyed the girls and then called Edith to come up to the front and deposit her dime. . . . Cece Onion just about ran off with all the ball game winnings. Alvina Doehrman and Ivan Ford managed to win one each. . . . Herbie Jehl says, "Phew!" He's doing Arnold Bienz's job while he is on vacation. . . . Gladys Stahley, being short, has a hard time reaching for material, so Margaret Parisot getting the feel of things gave her some assistance. The gang has asked them to demonstrate, but so far they have refused. . . . Clarence Didier still has not worked that puzzle and has now offered one dollar for the answer. He says it can't be done so he is safe. . . . John Walters was seen going down the aisle at a great speed. When asked the reason, he said they finally caught up with him. . . . Bill Morton's son still has his arm in a sling, but is coming fine. Herbie Jehl and his dog are going out for training Saturday. He says, "we both need it." . . . Hen's eggs or pullet eggs, what's the difference? Edith Venrick even brought some out for proof. . . . Gladys and Ray Stahley are celebrating their fifth year of "Two can live as cheap as one." Congratulations. . . . Lloyd Runyon tried to pull a fast one on yours truly. Don't know, maybe he did. Anyway I got the motors. . . . The girls all thought Ruth Lange was going to take the afternoon off and take in a show. She was only pretending as she went to the cafeteria for lunch. What we didn't know was that she pounded her little finger.

Ralph Hemminger returned to work after several days vacation with his son, who is on leave from the Navy. He also had a busy day Oct. 4. Ralph celebrated his birthday, anniversary, birth of a grandson and also had a hair cut. Best wishes and congratulations on all counts except the haircut which occurs more often. . . . Herm Norris celebrated his birthday the same day.

Birthdays Galore

We have quite a few birthdays, which are Bertha McCague, Oct. 9; J. H. Staak, 9; Mildred Schrader, 13; Dorothy Crest, 16; and Marilyn Franke, 21. May you all have many more. . . . A birthday party was given for Imogene Walter the other day. Handmade napkins in a birthday motif were a festive touch. Gene received a lovely handmade necklace and a Kleenex corsage. Ice cream and cake were served.

Shows Off New Lunch Box

Main Bain displayed her new lunch box which she says the Production Office bought for her. I guess she was pretty lucky during the World Series. . . . Remember Joe Zasa, who formerly was with Sales? I thought you all no doubt would enjoy hearing that he has a brand new daughter, weighing 7½ lbs. Bet he's sure proud. Remember how he was about his little boy sometime ago? . . . Sales welcomes Rubin Tschaekofski and W. W. Barnett, who are now on test with us. How do you both enjoy working with us as much as we enjoy having you.

Charlotte Feted

The girls in Sales had a shower for Charlotte Scott last Friday. The hostesses were Clara Jo Billue and Beth Young. Charlotte had to celebrate it by getting her foot hurt at work. Hope you are soon good as new, Charlotte. She is getting married Oct. 20 to Jim Jellison, who also is in the Sales Section.

Ionena Foster To Report News From Bldg. 4-4

The lady with the friendly smile who gathers news in the exchange plant repair and return section of Bldg. 4-4 is Ionena Foster, the new division editor of "Floor Lore in 4-4."

Ionena worked in the production office at Winter St. when she came to the Company in 1940. Two years later, she transferred to Bldg. 4-6. In 1946, she moved to the fourth floor of Bldg. 4 to work in the office of exchange plant repair and return section, her present location.

With hobbies of traveling, photography and raising pedigreed dogs, Ionena has few spare moments. In her travels, she has been in a majority of the 48 states. She is historian of the YWCA Co-ed Camera Club and is especially interested in color photography. She also does her own developing in the basement dark room of her home. Two toy Pomeranians are her pride and joy. Ionena lives at 2518 Reed St.

SIX MINUTES MORE

Thirty-six minutes,
That's six minutes more.
It isn't so much,
But it's more than before.

It's twenty per cent
Of the thirty we had,
And twenty per cent
For a gain isn't bad.

I'm still a bit puzzled,
Because I'll be jiggered,
If I can determine
Just how it was figured.

But I now eat my lunch,
Though I still musn't talk,
And I don't have to run
Anymore, I can walk.

A time study shows
That with six minutes more,
I can eat just a dozen
More bites than before.

That, measured in victuals,
You'll find if you try,
Is about what you get
In a small piece of pie.

So now for desert,
I have just time enough,
Unless it should happen
The meat's running tough.

But I overcome that
With a neat little trick
I find, I can eat
Mashed potatoes real quick.

That's one thing I don't Have to chew when I eat,
And it lets me recover
Lost time on the meat.

Of course, when it's winter
With ice on the ground,
And I'm forced to move slower
In getting around;

And it takes a bit longer
To go and come back,
I may have to carry
My lunch in a sack.

I'm sure I won't like it,
But most of you do.
So I guess I can eat
From a sack, same as you.

When necessity pushes,
There's always a way.
If there wasn't, I'd sure
Be a hoho today.

This shortened-up lunch,
Let me hazard a guess,
With six minutes more,
May become a success.

If it doesn't, it shouldn't
Be much of a chore,
To open it up about
Six minutes more.

And if that doesn't do it,
It's plain to be seen,
We might as well make it,
An hour, fifteen.

Now don't pound your desk
And start letting off steam,
That's not a suggestion,
It's only a dream.

New Division Counsel Assumes Duties Here

Douglas S. Moore, newly-appointed Counsel for the Component Products Division, assumed his new duties in Fort Wayne this week. He is now located in Bldg. 18-3. Mr. Moore came to Fort Wayne from Schenectady, where he has been serving in the Law Division of the Apparatus Department.

A native of Paterson, N. J., he attended Cornell University, receiving an A. B. degree in 1941. He received his LL.B. degree from Cornell Law School in 1943, graduating with distinction.

Mr. Moore was admitted to the Bar of the State of New York in 1943 and became a member of the Bar of the Supreme Court of the United States in 1946.

After three years of general law practice in New York City, he became associated with the General Electric Company in 1949. He belongs to the Order of the Coif, national honorary law fraternity, and is a reserve captain in the Judge Advocate General's Corps.

Mr. and Mrs. Moore and their three children plan to make their residence in Fort Wayne.

Arrives in Fort Wayne

Gen'l Manager To Address Squares Tues.

W. C. Wichman, general manager of the Component Products Division, will be the guest speaker at the annual Squares Club stag dinner, Tuesday, Oct. 23, at 6 p.m. in the G-E Club.

"Management as a Profession," will be discussed by Mr. Wichman. Musical entertainment will be provided by a male quartet. All members are invited to attend the dinner, William A. Rutledge, chairman of the stag committee announced.

97 Women Board N. Y. Train Today

Ninety-seven members representing Elex Club, Partizan Chapter and the Decatur Ge-Code Club will attend the third annual women's Interclub Conference at the Waldorf Astoria, New York City, tomorrow and Sunday.

The conferees from this area will board special coaches of a New York-bound train, at 5:27 p.m., Central Standard Time, this afternoon.

R. J. Cordiner, president of the General Electric Company, and L. R. Boulware, vice president in employee and plant community relations, will be the principal speakers.

Representatives from 14 women's clubs throughout the Company will attend the convention.

Ab Martin, Works manager, will be guest speaker at the Sunday luncheon. I. H. Freeman, supervisor of personnel, will also attend.

Erie Suspends Fund Dues For 3 Months

Membership contributions to the G-E Employees Community Services Fund at the Erie Works were suspended this month for the balance of 1951. Announcement of the "dues" suspension was made by the board of administrators, who reported that all financial commitments to community welfare activities have been fully met for the year.

For three-months the fund will be on a non-collect basis. This provides members with approximately a 25 per cent dividend on their yearly membership.

A similar provision is incorporated in the constitution of the proposed Community Services Fund here at the Fort Wayne Works.

Elex Club Plans November Dance

"Punkin' Pace" is the theme of a fall dance the Elex Club will hold Friday, Nov. 16, in the Van Orman Hotel Ballroom from 9 to 12 p.m., Mary Saxton, chairman of the dance, announced today.

Bill Miller's orchestra will provide music for the semi-formal dance. Tickets will be $1.20 per person, and may be secured from contact girls.

Charles Munson Dies In Lutheran Hospital

Charles W. Munson, 61, died Thursday, Oct. 11, at the Lutheran Hospital. He had been ill since March.

Mr. Munson came to General Electric Company in 1940. He worked as a universal mill operator in Bldg. 26-5. Several years later, his division was moved to Bldg. 19-5, which was his location at the time of his illness.

Surviving are one brother and two sisters.

Squares Open Season With Halloween Dance

The G-E Squares Club will open their fall season with a Halloween Dance, Saturday, Oct. 27, at the Squares Hall, Joe G. Behm, chairman, announced today. Jerry O'Marrow and his orchestra will provide music for the dance, from 9 p.m. to 12 p.m.

Tickets have been distributed to members, Robert Berghoff, chairman of ticket sales, stated. Test engineers may secure tickets for the informal dance from their social chairman or from any Squares member. Tickets will also be on sale at the door the evening of the dance.

Wayne Henderson, chairman of the decoration committee, said that the theme of the dance will be carried out in the decoration of the Hall.

Hit Suggestion Jackpot . . .

MAKES $100 ON SUGGESTION—Ralph C. Remenschneider (center), Wire Mill, is shown receiving a suggestion award check for $100 from F. A. Arnold (left). John Ruhl looks on. Mr. Remenschneider developed a warning device which tells the operator of a wire breakage in the annealer.

GETS $150 FOR IDEA—Arthur Kurtz (right), FHP Motor Div. 15, is pointing out to Frank Fann various features of his suggestion application. Mr. Kurtz received $150 for his idea to make changes in brake testing in order to test amplidynes more efficiently.

Idea Payoff

with the cover off so the customer could make connections without dismantling the product.

A consistent suggestor, Raymond Huhn, FHP Motor Div. 14, was paid his 10th award. He advised changes to dies which eliminated an unnecessary operation in making covers used in FHP Motor Div. 17 and was awarded an additional $200. Helen Rockstroh, Danville plant, made $195 additional for her improved method of stacking transformer cores.

Gets $165

Lester Hubartt, FHP Motor Div. 1, received $165 in addition to a previous award for suggesting a better way of testing aircraft motors. Two FHP Motor Div. 15 employees, Donald E. Mosure and Arthur G. Kurtz, each got $150 for their suggestions. Mr. Mosure's idea enabled workers to eliminate an excess operation in slotting screws. Mr. Kurtz's suggestion pertained to changes in the test brakes, whereby an improved method of testing amplidynes was found. An award of $100 went to Ralph C. Remenschneider of the Wire Division. He designed a warning device to tell the operator of wire breakage in the annealer.

Ninety-five dollars went to Donald W. Halls, Danville, for an idea to reuse band saws to prolong the blade life. James W. Ward, Wire and Insulation Division, devised a better way of making tubes used in the Wire Mill and received $75 for his idea. Another Danville employee, Katherine Elliott, received $57.50 for suggesting a better way of stacking transformer cores.

Limit Switch Idea

Charles Rupel, FHP Motor Div. 14, was paid $50 for his suggestion to put a limit switch on ovens to increase the oven operation efficiency. Doyle D. Miller, Robert B. Green and Paul L. Conrad, STAB Div. 91, each received $50 for their suggestions. Mr. Miller suggested that an air spray be used in precoating steel, while Mr. Green devised a method of loosening punchings coming from the annealers. Mr. Conrad suggested that punchings be placed on a wire to prevent sticking during the annealing process. Fifty dollars went to Clarence Aanson, Danville plant, for suggested changes of specifications on transformer windings. A Motor and Generator Department worker, Loyall Weist, was paid $50 for suggesting a better method of treating coils.

Joseph B. Howard, FHP Motor Div. 15, suggested that screws used in bearing supports be heat treated. He received $45 for this idea. An award of $45 went to Elvern Seitzinger, DeKalb plant, for suggesting an improved way of repairing new clean-up stators. William Nicholson, also of the DeKalb plant, was awarded $45 for his idea of an improved operation of the dies for end shield trims. He also received a $25 award.

Uhl Draws $40

A suggestion to combine operations by putting a radius on the mill cutter brought $40 to Gerald Uhl, FHP Motor Div. 14. James F. Sarasien, FHP Motor Div. 1, received $35 for an idea which called for an improved method of assembling bearings to shafts.

Robert O. Kerr, FHP Motor Div. 1, received a $35 award. He suggested a better way of facing commutators that reduced the number of rejections. Thirty-five dollars was paid to Gladis G. Getts, STAB Div. 94, for her advice on a way to insulate coils thus reducing losses. Harold J. Sorg, Wire and Insulation Division, suggested an improved way of using collapsible spools in the Wire Mill. He received $35 for this idea.

An award of $32.50 went to Lewis Hutchinson, FHP Motor Div. 15, who suggested that the excess bakelite in brush holders be reamed before tapping. This reduced cracking. Robert Gerdom, FHP Motor Div. 14, was paid $30 for his suggestion to eliminate stamping certain motor parts. Another FHP Motor Div. 14 employee, Theodore S. Childs, received $30 for his idea to change trim dies for unit bearing cases.

Three More $30 Awards

Loren Wood, DeKalb plant, was awarded $30 for his suggestion pertaining to end cap blanking dies. A STAB Div. 91 worker, Charles H. Minton, earned $30 for his idea to oil sheet steel by the use of rollers. Herman Bertsch, Wire Mill, received $30 for his suggestion to eliminate the use of unnecessary recording machines.

These employees received awards amounting to $25: Robert J. Griffin, FHP Motor Div. 16; Herman C. Brandt, FHP Motor Div. 16, and George E. Corell, STAB Div. 94.

Two hundred and twenty-five other employees received awards ranging from $5 to $25.

"Today, more than ever before," Mr. Hartman said, "We are anxious to get suggestions that will conserve materials, reduce scrap and re-work."

"This must be done by suggesting better ways," he went on to say, "Get a suggestion blank from the suggestion box or foremen and submit it today. Join the thousands of G-E employees who have been benefited by their suggestions."

Fund Change

will be filled out. The new solicitation will give each employee an apportunity to join the revised plan and subscribe whatever amount seems proper to him.

Employees were reminded by the committee that they have the right to cancel their contributions at any time, upon written notice two weeks in advance of the date they wish contributions to cease.

The Community Services Fund offers employees an opportunity to meet their community obligations by one easy method. Employees themselves will operate the fund through their elected representatives on the Board of Administrators. These administrators will distribute the funds to worthy charitable and benevolent agencies in the community on the basis of merit.

The organizing committee consists of Ivan O. Standish, John Lea, IUE-CIO representatives; Theron Kitchen and Robert Branning, IAM-AFL representatives; H. B. Leach, C. E. Slater, Ivan D. Rinehart, and K. W. Michael, management representatives. They reported that the all-in-one plan idea has met with almost unanimous approval by employees and they are confident that the revised plan will be supported whole-heartedly.

Celebrates Anniversary

O. L. Weitzman Marks 45 Years

Oscar L. Weitzman, manager of the Winter Street Plant, recently completed 45 years of continuous service with the Company.

Mr. Weitzman was born in Fort Wayne and attended public grade and high schools here. His long career at G-E began in 1906, when he started to work in the prepayment meter division of the Fort Wayne Works. One year later, Mr. Weitzman enrolled as a machinist and toolmaker apprentice. After completion of this course, he continued to extend his training through Indiana Extension Courses, attending night school classes and taking courses in mechanical engineering.

Apprentice Supervisor

In 1916 Mr. Weitzman was appointed Assistant Supervisor of the Apprentice Department, and three years later he was made Superintendent of that Department. In 1928, he became engineer on machine and tool design for the Refrigeration Division, where he continued until June 1941. He was then appointed superintendent of the Power Drive Division at the Winter St. Plant, where anti-aircraft radio controlled gun fire equipment was made for the Navy.

In August, 1945, Mr. Weitzman was made Assistant to the Manager of Manufacturing in the Winter St. Plant of the Air Conditioning Department, and several months later was appointed Manager of the Winter St. Plant.

ON FURLOUGH: A ten-day furlough was spent by Neal Hesher visiting the home folks. How about it, Neal, did you have to capture and tame "Frosty" for the folks? . . . WE WONDER: Is it a daily habit of Emma Goldner's to iron her dress at noon? Emma, was it just wrinkled or did it get wet? . . . OH WHERE, OH WHERE CAN IT BE? She started out on a week-end trip with a suitcase. While making a telephone call in Toledo she forgot to tie it down or put an anchor on it. Results—when Marcia Martin went to get her suitcase, it was gone. Marcia was left with only the clothes she was wearing. . . . SOMETHING NEW: Have you noticed the new headgear worn by Walt Lister? Very outstanding both in color and design. Could he be trying to start a new fad? . . . GREETINGS: To Betty Reichert, who celebrated her birthday recently. Thanks for the cookies, Betty. They were certainly enjoyed by the gang. . . . SO LONG, JUNE: June Christen has left us to take up a full-time job as a homemaker. . . . RETURN: Mabel Eyanson is back on the job after several weeks' leave due to illness. . . . Bernadine Meyers was back on the job again on the second shift. . . . ON THE SICK LIST: Mary Fenning spent some time at home recuperating from surgery performed on her foot. . . . Art Denig, parts man for the KC Line, is confined to his home this week due to the fact that he can't say a word out loud. . . . Herman Bienz is absent because of illness. Miles Jones is replacing him. . . . Clyde Jones is on the sick list this week. He can't talk above a whisper. . . . Grant Fry was forced to take a few days off last week when he connected with a wheelbarrow on the wrong end. Grant, not being used to handling one of those animals, came out second best and sustained an injured back. . . . VACATIONING: Pete Fairchild is taking a week of vacation and is probably working on his new barn. . . . Mickey McDougal is back after a week of vacation in the Smokies with Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Kreischer. They do say that the main excitement of the trip was the shower that Lloyd took with his underwear on. Must have been a pretty cold shower. . . . We hope that Curt Baxter has a pleasant vacation. We do hope he gets his corn in the crib. Not exactly our idea of a relaxing and restful vacation. . . . BACK ON THE JOB: We are glad to see Forest Owens back again. Forest reports that he does not care for such vacations, but would rather be able to stay on the job. . . . WRONG WAY CORRIGAN: They tell me that Wayman Patrick is collecting tickets and red ones at that. It seems that he overstayed his leave down town one day. Of course, that is not as bad as the time he went to Florida and got turned around in Tennessee and drove about a hundred miles out of the way. In fact, he started back toward Decatur. . . . CONGRATS: Max Case, son of Ike, is the proud father of a baby boy. Max is the boy who works on the winding machines. . . . NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC: There is now a new body and paint business being started by Don Sipe and Eugene Schindler. The boys have hung out their shingle and their motto will be "You Wreckem and We'll Fixem." . . . WRONG ROAD THAT'S ALL: When Frank Rawley goes to a ball game he really goes and when he comes back he never is in a hurry. Take for instance last week when he took the long way back and went from New Haven to Van Wert then to Ohio City and into Willshire and finally back to Decatur. He says he was not lost, just got on the wrong road. . . . YOU ARE JUST AS YOUNG AS YOU FEEL: We saw Ralph Stanley riding the ferris-wheel with his grandson. We noticed that they did not repeat the ride, but we are sure Ralph enjoyed it very much.

TRIPLE PLAY: Andy, Pondo and Paul gave an exhibition on bowling last Thursday evening at the G-E Club. They each rolled a 111 game. We heard every alibi in the book as to why they couldn't get more. . . . That great Airliner bowling team lost all three games last Thursday. High man was Ralph Lee with a sizzling 439. . . . Elmer (Gumdrop) Harshman is having his teeth pulled. From the looks of him, he isn't going to have an easy time. . . . If you hear a lot of noise on the floor, don't get frightened. It is only Windy Boester. He claims he couldn't miss Thursday night. The pins just seemed to fall with anything he threw at them. Nice going anyhow, Windy, we all would like to get a 604 count. . . . Our very best wishes for a lifetime of happiness to Delores Gladbach, who will become Mrs. Jack Daniel Souderquest tomorrow. . . . Merle Kessler might not move around too fast, but we never knew he could stand still long enough for a spider to spin a web around his shoulder. . . . HAPPY BIRTHDAY to Joan Romary, Wednesday, Oct. 10. The girls gave her a beautiful blouse. Also to Marie Martz, Friday, Oct. 12. The girls had a surprise potluck for her with cake and even flowers. . . . Imogene Zimmerman's husband, who is in the Marines, is home on leave. . . . Best wishes to Wava Lee Miller who was married Saturday, Oct. 6. . . . Florence Rekeweg extends her many thanks to all of us for the lovely piece of luggage given to her last Friday. We are all sorry to see you leave, Florence, but we wish you a lot of good luck. . . . CHICKEN FEAST: Dale Hippensteel has been promising the boys some fried chicken and fresh cherry pie from his farm. Wednesday night he came through. The boys really enjoyed it, Dale. . . . Our deepest sympathy to Lee Raver in the death of her father. . . . Chet Kowalski was back to the plant for a visit and walked through to say "hello." . . . Millie K. had an unexpected visitor Tuesday, one who followed her everywhere she went. That's what happens when you feed stray dogs, Millie. . . . Hazel, I suppose you are glad fall is here so you won't have such a hard time getting your grass mowed. Two dollars an hour is a lot of money. . . . Kathleen Beckman slipped on the dewey grass and fell on her way to work. It has been suggested by a co-worker that we get together and buy her a cane. . . . Lillian Shaffer's daughter will be married tomorrow. Our congratulations to everyone. . . . Ray S. won't have any Beechnut tobacco all next week since Carl didn't give him his dime back. It is a good thing the ball game is over. . . . We wish a speedy recovery to Evelyn Partee's mother, who is in the hospital. . . . Ask Delores G. to sing "Cold, Cold Heart" to the tune of "Cool, Cool, Cool of the Evening."

By Don Clark

We find that Louise Hegerfeld is well qualified for giving first aid. Not only has she completed the first course but has nearly finished the advanced course. . . . From the last nine weeks of suggestion activity it appears that the suggestion bug cannot be stopped, even by DDT. It has now invaded the Die Plant and has chased them over their goal. Traces of his work has also heen found on the fourth floor where Leo Schlaudroff's section is within two suggestions of the goal. . . . ANYONE WITH A HEADACHE see Bill Stetzer. He no longer needs any aspirin tablets, now that he has those new "specs." . . . We enjoyed a visit from Everett Kelley, who is at the Veteran's Hospital. All are looking forward to having you back soon, Everett. . . . Bob Benz has found that it's more economical to have a battery charged at a service station rather than let the motor run all night. . . . Now that his wife has her driver's license, Paul Shive has been seen walking home from work. Just can't win eh, Paul? . . . We were all glad to see Frank Hoffman looking so good when he stopped in last week. . . . Our congratulations to Russell Kensill on that fine baby boy. . . . Since Vernon Burke only drank seventeen of those free cokes last week he is keeping his eye on that machine. . . . Al Nebur finally found out how old his 1935 Buick is. He wanted an extra set of keys made but no one earried such out-dated blanks. . . . WANT TO GO INTO BUSINESS? Del Stickler will gladly sell his egg faetory right now. . . . When Ralph Foust showed John Neukam and Max Baron how to shoot squirrels, John had an alibi. His glasses were exceptionally dirty. . . . Chet Reynolds stiffness came from riding over the week-end but not horses. He was riding the roof of his house while painting the metal flashing. Melvin Jaekson Schemehorn bought a G-E blanket to keep him warm. Now that he has a new furnace he has decided to let Old Tip, his dog, have the electric blanket in the basement, thanks to Tip's good friend Ralph Steward. . . . Otto Brunner or some member of the Maennerchor caught a fish with a set of false teeth up north. They have its head mounted, teeth and all. They claim this is the same set of teeth Hank Frey sneezed overboard on his vacation in Canada. . . . Jim Ehresman was best man at his cousin's wedding. Everything went off swell except at the start the sexton forgot to light all the eandles. Jim proved to be the hero by furnishing matches to the nervous sexton. . . . Ron Allen paid us a visit while home on furlough from Camp McCoy, Wis. . . . Mart Walsh was sad when he sold his cow Tootsie. One of our operators slipped out to the Walsh Ranch and diseovered Mart smiling and sitting on a rocking chair on the porch while Mrs. Walsh had the tractor out back plowing. . . . DIE PLANT: Frank (Madame) Staley is exercising his soothsaying ability by telling you the month of your birthday. . . . The boys presented Archie Wright with a billfold and wishes for good luck as he left for Florida last week. . . . Carl Click spent the week-end in the Smokies.

Inquiring Reporter:

"WHAT DO YOU THINK THE SOLUTION IS TO GETTING RID OF THE CORRUPTION IN COLLEGE SPORTS?"

ROSS DOMER

Bldg. 17-3

"Higher moral standards and a better code of ethics in everything would indirectly help. Directly, a return of college sports to their real amateur standing, with strict rules and required obedience to those rules plus the elimination of subsidies, would go a long way in correcting the corruption."

JOE EIFRID

Taylor St.

"Get them out of the big arenas and stadiums and put them back on the college campus where they belong."

DAVID RHOADES

Bldg. 27

"My opinion of this situation is that if players can't keep the respect and loyalty of the sport clean, they should be banned from further sports competition for the rest of their college and professional careers."

ROY SUITS

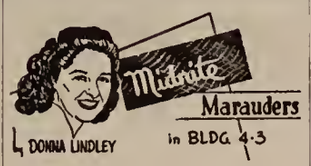
Bldg. 22

"I do not think gambling in the U.S. will ever be stopped, but if the law would clamp down on gamblers and fine them heavily enough, it would check the corruption in college sports."

HELEN WAGNER

Bldg. 26-4

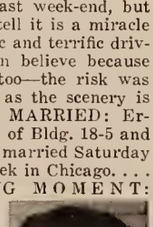
"To get rid of the corruption in college sports, we would have to investigate the source and eliminate all persons who 'use' the less fortunate for their benefit. As long as high ranking officials can be 'bought off,' so will our college athletes."



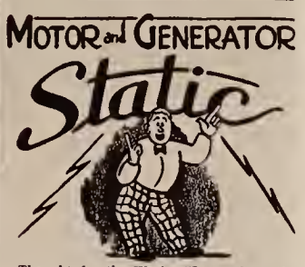
Otto (wrong again) Braun was almost a defendant in a libel suit last week. It seems he has trouble remembering who was in what branch of service and what particular rank they held. . . . The men in Cost seem to be very happy over their advancements. Congratulations to all. Also, to Clifford Thompson, who is replacing Norbert Sordelet. Norb is going to be a foreman in Bldg. 26-5. . . . Welcome to Beverly Stauffer in the Cost section and goodbye to Lois Borberg, who is being transferred to Bldg. 26-3. . . . The Al (Millionaire) Topp and Tom (Tarzan) Freeman feud is progressing beautifully. It's hard to tell just who is ahead at this stage of the game, but it makes some very juicy items in the WORKS NEWS. Al complained that it's so swampy around Tom's cottage that he was afraid of getting his car stuck in the mud. Tom said that at dinner time, Al wasn't a bit afraid the cottage would sink and seemed to enjoy the free meal immensely, taking two or three helpings of everything within reach. It seems Al forgot all about his diet with all those free eats around him. . . . A flash report about the skating party. Everyone seemed to enjoy the party, so we will have another one in three or four weeks. There were approximately 130 people. . . . We extend our sympathy to Lillian Jackson in the death of her mother and also to George Schacht in the death of his father. . . . Shirley Martin went to the Smoky Mountains last Saturday through Monday. She had a great time and would like to go back. . . . The "Gutter Ball Girls" were really going over the top on their bowling scores Wednesday evening. Gladys Payne bowled 20, Pat Culter 32, and Jane Stanford 52. Doris, Novella, Dorothy, Maxine and Margaret bowled over a hundred. They were the teachers. . . . Say, Mike Dunscombe, why is your wife such a good cook and baker? . . . It seems odd that Ben Keller and Mel France are off the same day. Is Mel out driving the tractor to help get in the soy beans? We also can't find Archie Rian. Wonder where he goes when Mel helps on the farm? . . . Goodhearted Jenney Conrad. She won some money, so she took Violet Gerber, Ethel Shroyer and Florence Converset out to dinner one day last week. . . . Betty Armstrong just couldn't wait to hit the skating rink floor. Also, Helen Mueller, you are not supposed to lay on the skating rink floor waving to people. Don't you know you could get run over? . . . Happy birthday to Ruth Sitton. Her birthday was celebrated with chocolate turtles. The girls, say, "Thanks." . . . Russ James swallowed a mouthful of chewing tobacco while fishing the other day. Sueh sputtering and coughing you never did see. What was the trouble, Russ, did the big one get away? . . . Wonder why Leo Klejnot plays hide and seek with the coffee pot on Wednesday, his day to wash it. We think he is trying to make us believe he doesn't wash the dishes at home. . . . We welcome Vivian Spindler and Janette Smith to the stacking table, and also Mary Saylor from second trick. . . . We hear that Bob Enz and Lawrence Klaren are going in the undertaking business with Klaren's new black car. . . . One day last week, Roy Hosler asked his wife why she didn't put some chicken in his lunch. She had, but he had thrown it in the waste paper hasket.

Where's Mel?

Howard McVay sure had troubles at home when he tore his basement floor out and didn't have the automatic washer and everything ready to put back. It was lucky you found a man to mix and pour your cement, Howard. Otherwise you'd have to build that doghouse a little bigger. . . . Tommy Williams went to the lake over the week-end and says she had all kinds of luck fishing. She and her party caught 62 and all were big ones, so she says. . . . Goldie Tuck went to Michigan for the first time Sunday. . . . Dallas Patten wouldn't be so good at weather predicting if they would take his drug store calendar away from him. He wants a white Christmas so he can track rabbits. . . . We were sorry to lose John Dewald to Bldg. 6-2. . . . Don Niles was given a going away present and also a big dinner last Friday. We are very sorry to see Don go. . . . Elsie Logue is going to New York today with the Elex Club. . . . Iris Allen was in for a while the other day and is recovering very nicely after her auto accident this summer. . . . We heard Loretta and Red were planting trees on their lots the other night after dark by the aid of car lights. As a result, Loretta's trees aren't very straight. . . . Ruth Leverton went to Michigan to the football game. She was so interested in other things she doesn't even know the score. . . . Vera Fletcher takes the prize this week. She had to drive to Michigan to find a picnic table to use. Vera says they were all gone in Indiana. . . . We're glad to have Mary Bishop back with us. We hear Ruby DeBolt is feeling much better and plans to come back soon. . . . Evelyn Markley splurged this last week-end. Tell us how you did it, Evelyn. I'd like to have those things, too. . . . Happy birthday to Laura Krauskopf. She says she's 16 plus.



Congratulations to Ida May Pratt, who became Mrs. James Humbarger last Friday and to Mary Lou Street, who will say her "I do" to Berl Fellows tomorrow. We wish you a lifetime of happiness and the best of luck. . . . Welcome back to Jo Lee Zimmerman, Vida Craft, Margaret Hey, Delores Johnston, Angie Mello, and Ann Hershberger and Mary Alice Lindemuth. . . . How many miles do you have on that new Chevy, Betty Zollars? . . . Helen Thieme was just a bit absent-minded when she called Maxine and then asked to talk to Maxine's husband. . . . Welcome to De Royal Bailey, Marlene Hiles, Jean Stein and Henry Noble, who are all new to the division. . . . That was a lot of trouble Clarence Norris had to go to just for a jar of cream. We suggest the corner drugstore would he far less trouble, Clarence. . . . Maxine DiGregory wondered why the door just wouldn't open. She was pushing instead of pulling. Better read the signs next time, Max. . . . Mary Ann Miles had one of her most embarrassing moments lately in the cafeteria. It seems Mary Ann spilled a whole tray of food. We looked around for Mary Ann, and there she was under the counter. . . . Happy birthdays to Mary Alice Williams, Mary Jo Briggs and Reggie Engeman. . . . We often wondered how Dale Stalter would look in a crown—a crown of armatures, that is. Velma Lecoque spilled a whole board of them and they landed right on Dale's head. . . . Richard Clancy was presented with a toy parachute. We just wondered if Dick was figuring on jumping? . . . Delores Nichols is sporting a pair of her husband's bright yellow socks. . . . We wish a speedy recovery to Laurine Kraus, who has undergone major surgery in the St. Joseph Hospital. We are all thinking of you, Laurine. . . . Helen Thieme is just about recuperated from the accident she had on her birthday.



NEW NAME: It is ever changing. Component Products Division has now made Small Apparatus Division passe in Fort Wayne. Last week was moving week in Bldg. 18. First our new general manager W. C. Wichman is now located in Bldg. 18-2. With Matilda Collins, he may be reached on Extension 305. Our new Financial Department has been fully established under Carl W. Moeller, who, with Marilyn Mattes, may be reached on telephone 2451. C. H. Matson has moved to Bldg. 18-4, and W. H. Holmes to Bldg. 16-3; R. J. Hoffman, Edna Miller and Cliff Bieber to Mr. Wylie's office in Bldg. 18-1. Helen Gellert moved across the hall with C. R. Olson. . . . Pluma Dennison reported to K. W. Michael Monday to replace Doris Lehman, who is leaving to take over her home duties. The newly-established Law Department will also be located in Bldg. 18-2. We have put forth a little extra effort in dusting off the welcome mat with so many changes. . . . VACATION: Mary Cooper is spending the week in Washington and New York, and Irene Offenloch just returned from the southland where she and her husband toured the Great Smokies and the Skyline Drive into Washington. This was Irene's first attempt at driving through the mountains—her only comment was "nothing to it". . . . Ruth Fritz and her husband enjoyed the week-end in Chicago. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wylie were in Barberton, Ohio, visiting their son. . . . Al Tharp, of Bldg. 18-4, is enjoying a trip through Minnesota and Canada—reports no luck in fishing. . . . Ed Hagadorn states that he took in Brown County last week-end, but that he lived to tell it is a miracle with all the traffic and terrific driving. (That I can believe because we were there, too—the risk was worth the effort as the scenery is beautiful). . . . MARRIED: Ernestine Ferguson of Bldg. 18-5 and Bob Munna were married Saturday and spent the week in Chicago. . . . EMBARRASSING MOMENT: Venus Fann says she was checking the paint job she had done on the dummy fireman's head on display at 18 gate last week, even to the eyes. She opened the closed eyes when suddenly the dummy asked, "How do I look, Venus?" Who? Ernie Hanauer! . . . NEW DRIVER: Are you nervous? Just ask Gladys Beverforden if she was when she took her driving test. Just be careful and we're sure that you will make a perfect driver. . . . Donna Holle, Employment Office, made a flying trip to Chicago, Sunday, to see her boyfriend off to Camp Carson, Colo. What was the matter, Donna, we hear he only made the train by six minutes. Did you really get lost?

TOO BAD: Last week when we wrote of Carl Koester's attempt to tag the mice in Bldg. 22, we expected a violent reaction. However, Carl's only complaint was that "Hercules" Weaver escaped mention. "That stabber in the back was helping me and he turned in this story," Carl remarked, "He even made like a piece of cheese to attract the mice so I could capture and tag them." . . . OUR ORACLE SPEAKS: Our oracle, Bud Fisher, was elated when Don Archbold reported meeting his uncle "Pappy" Archbold on a recent trip to Florida. "Just think," Bud reports, "Don said Pappy complained because he made poor time driving down. Claims his wife wanted to stop along the road to pick oranges, grapefruit, and cotton."

Wonder how it feels to have so many candles on a birthday eake to melt the frosting. Mary Janc knows exactly how it feels. Different arrangements will surely have to be made next year. . . . J. Edgar Hoover is missing a sure thing by not having Elmer Mesing working for him. Recently, while attending a fair in Southern Indiana, Elmer recognized a fellow that has owed him a small amount of money for quite some time. He didn't get his money but he still spotted his man. . . . We are glad to hear that Frank Mann has been released from the hospital.

The Boleslaw Biegas Find a Home In the Land of Hope and Freedom

Listed on employment records as a man without a country, Boleslaw Christopher Biega, Bldg. 26-2, has led a life packed full of adventure, intrigue and unusual circumstances.

Born in Warsaw, Poland 29 years ago, Bill, as Mr. Biega is known to his American friends, came to the United States in January, 1951. However, the time interval between these two events has filled his life to such an extent that Bill says, in his very British accent, "I shouldn't mind spending the next 29 years quite peacefully."

Educated in England

Beginning his life peacefully enough, Bill completed his grade school education in England, where his father was stationed in the diplomatic corps. Hence his British accent. He returned to Poland with his family to complete his high school training and was in his first year of college when the Germans entered his native land.

While he continued in college, he also became part of the Polish underground movement which was formed after the invasion. After completing a training course in this movement, he became an instructor of diversionary activities. Bill states that his duties in this extra-curricular activity consisted of "working against particularly obnoxious officials as quietly as possible."

Graduated During War

Upon completion of his college course in electrical engineering, Bill received his B.S. degree in 1943, in name only. There was none of the formality and ceremony which mark college graduation in normal periods. At that time, the invaders weren't appreciative of the Polish system of education. Although the Germans tried to change and eliminate the system, teachers and professors altered their methods little, Bill says, except in reports to German officials.

"It wasn't a good idea to have an actual degree in your possession at that time," Bill explains. So a student who had completed his work was told to see one of the professors, who shook his hand and told him that he had a degree.

Of Weddings and War

It was in 1944, during the uprising against the Russians, that Bill and his fiancee decided to get married. A battalion chaplain was found to perform the service. An altar was rigged up by friends of the couple in a paper shop. In the midst of the fighting in Warsaw, Boleslaw and Alicia, dressed in makeshift uniforms with pistols in their belts, took time out from their country's struggle to become husband and wife.

Instead of going on a honeymoon, the newly-weds returned to the battle, where Bill was wounded. He spent his honeymoon in a German prison camp, located 30 miles east of the demarcation line in Germany, where the United States armed forces and the Russians were to meet.

After being a captive in the prison hospital for seven months, he was freed in April, 1945. Bill and some of his friends took the shortest possible route to the American side of the demarcation line and joined the Polish army.

Safety in London

He spent one year in Europe as a liason officer and because he held this position, he was sent to England. Shortly afterward, Bill was demobilized. His wife joined him in London, where he got a job in his profession.

He applied for entry into the U. S. via an imigration visa in 1947. Four years later, when it was approved, Bill and his family, which had grown to two boys, Mark and Peter, came to Detroit, where the people who sponsored the Biegas' entry into the U. S. live.

After working in Detroit for five months, Bill was interviewed for a position with the General Electric Company here. However, when he was being interviewed at the employment office, Bill had some unusual answers to the usual questions.

In reply to the question, "Where were you born?", Bill said, "Warsaw." This seemed all right since there is a Warsaw, Ind., but when he was asked where he received his education, Bill replied, "Poland." Then it was realized that Bill was not born in Warsaw, Ind. Bill was no longer a citizen of Poland and would not receive U. S. citizenship for several years, so he became a man without a country.

Since Bill is not a citizen of the United States, he was investigated and approved by the F.B.I. Then he went to work in the engineering section of the Specialty Transformer and Ballast Department, where he is now located.

Although the Biegas now live at 2321 Wells St., they do not forget their friends and relatives in Poland. Through letters they receive from these people, they keep informed about life in the land they once called theirs.

Poland today is a nationalized government controlled by Communists, Mr. Biega says. Prices are very high and the black market flourishes there. Bill's mother-in-law, in Warsaw, bought enough coal to last her family through the winter with money she received by selling three pairs of nylon hose the Biegas sent her on the black market.

Although we think little of taking our letters to the post office sealed, Polish citizens must take any letter going out of the country to the postmaster unsealed.

Bill assures the American people that Polish citizens do not need to be re-educated. They need to be given a chance to operate their country themselves. And so, the Biegas are very thankful for the opportunity to live in a land operated by its citizens.

EVENTS OF THE WEEK: Ruth Bullerman left for one week's vacation which she is spending at home. . . . Bob Triplett was seen entering the cafeteria with a box of Kleenex under his arm (his lunch in disguise, no doubt). . . . Kathleen Schafer won the $25 baseball pool and states that she's "salting it away." . . . Walt Riedinger comes in every day with news as to the whereabouts of Frank Ondrovik (Rapid City, S. D.) . . . Harold Pritchard will be back next week after two weeks' vacation, part of which was spent in Southern Illinois. . . . Joe Coughlin cheered "Old Notre Dame" on to victory last Saturday when he attended the Southern Methodist-Notre Dame game. . . . Maury Robertson is leaving us today and is going to Washington, D. C. for a job with NPA. Best of luck, Maury, and don't forget the old gang back at G-E. . . . Our deepest sympathy to Avenel Stanton on the death of her father. . . . Bldg. 4-6 sends cheers and advice to Wes Brooks. At a reeent Squares potluck, the desert (a beautiful eake) was abducted. The eulprit was never found, but we hear (so Bldg. 4-6 tells us) that Wes Brooks knows the whereabouts of hoth the kidnapped and the kidnapper. What say, Wes?

Guilty Party?

SHIPPING: Have you heard "The Bob and Ray Show" on Saturday night? If you haven't, don't fret. Just have Barbara Nichols describe it to you. She's almost as good as the original. . . . O-h-h is Georgie Meehling's face red? Fire drills get Georgie so upset and nervous that she has trouble controlling her feet. As a result, she fell up the steps getting back into the building and ended up with a very neat split in her skirt. . . . We seem to be having an epidemic of falling on the steps of late. The latest victim was Dorothy Johnson, who did a lovely paneake on the steps and ended up minus both heels. However, Dutch (just call me eobbler) Wilson was right on the job and mended the broken heels in nothing flat. . . . Eva Westrick visited the Queen City (Cineinnati to you all) over the week-end and reportedly left everything in good shape there. . . . Greetings and salutations on their birthdays to Ludella Conrad today and Emma Meyers next Thursday. . . . MAILING: Dan Leiteh has always thought he knew lemons when he saw them. Alas! He got fooled, because this lemon was in the form of a car and within a week after purchase, literally everything went wrong with the jalopy. . . . Minta Cole had her son and brand new daughter-in-law as house guests over the week-end. . . . RECEIVING: Today is the last day of Paul Thomas' two-week vacation. The big mystery question is this: Why did Paul come into the plant on the first day of his vacation? It might have been from force of habit. Then, too, he might have been checking to see if his faithful truck was still where he had parked it. . . . Frank Parker's vacation is going to be longer than he expected. He had the misfortune of fracturing his wrist so he won't be around for a spell. . . . Bill Brown, another on the injured list, suffered a painful hand injury last week. However, Bill has been able to work. We actually know how it happened. So don't believe any wild stories about how he met up with a mountain lion or a Bengal tiger.

Coineidenees happen around G-E at times. One of the most unusual reeently is that 79 employees, no more—no less, were taken into the Quarter Century Club each quarter of this year.

REPORTS 35 YEARS—Harry Parker (right), tester in FHP Motor Div. 13 and veteran WORKS NEWS reporter, celebrated his 35th anniversary Oct. 1. At the time Mr. Parker was on the sick list and several of his friends visited him to congratulate him. Shown with him is Walter H. Sunier.

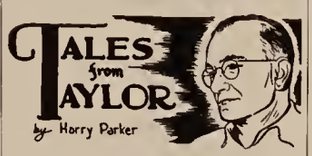
Here we are at the close of another week and Harold (Pat) Patterson is off to Michigan again for a week-end of fishing. . . . Ted Schlup had a mishap the other day. His dog had worms, so he gave the dog worm medicine—the poor dog died. . . . Ray Smith has the bad habit of misleading people. It seems like he sent Guy Geiger down after a die stretcher. Guy spent almost two hours looking for it. They had to send a few men to find Guy. . . . Jerry Stanger and his wife are going on vacation this week. They will be at Little Long Lake. However, it seems Jerry's fishing is confined to the basement. . . . Russ Miller seems to like his work so well that he forgets to go home at night. He has gotten into the habit and says here for about 14 or 15 hours a day. He hopes that someday he will be able to go home about 3:30 just to see what it is like.



"GOOD LUCK, GEORGE"—Says G. F. Bond (left), to George Langenbahn (right), while Paul Merkert looks on. Mr. Langenbahn left last week for retirement after 35 years of service with the Company. He first began as a sheet metal worker in February, 1916. Later he became a leader and checker. Since that time, he has worked in Bldgs. 26, 27 and 6-1. At the time of his retirement, Mr. Langenbahn worked in the Shipping Division, Bldg. 6-1.

Jets Out of the Night

by Pauline Stocks

Ruby DePew has been absent several days due to injuries received in an auto accident. We wish you a speedy recovery, Ruby. . . . We have all enjoyed the lovely scenery pictures Felix Newman brought in to show us. It really makes us want to take a vacation in Canada where they were taken. . . . BEST WISHES: Our best wishes this week go to Jack Murphy, who said, "I do," and was married Friday to Betty Lundy from Winter Haven, Fla. Betty and Jack came to Indiana the last of June. . . . Congratulations are also due Vivian Keever, who was married to Irvin Miller last Sunday. . . . Our columnist is quite anxious for Halloween to arrive. She said it was fun taking her grandson out last year and saying, "Trick or Treat." . . . How about that? You should see those colors blind. Kay Dolan has rated a lovely pair of red oxfords with bright orange ties. . . . Geneva Curtis has returned to work after being off a few days due to illness. . . . BUSY CLARA: Clara Wisel tops the list in getting around. She attended two weddings and a funeral last Saturday. . . . Ask Kay Dolan about being an uninvited guest at a birthday dinner. . . . Connie Harris is going to be careful the cops don't get her. She's afraid of a reckless driving charge. Anyway she is getting her driver's license, so she will be safe. . . . Dilla Carper is our helper on second shift and the placers really appreciate someone sweeping for them. Dilla comes to us from Winter St. . . . Wedding gifts were presented to Vivian Miller and Jack Murphy, who were married recently. . . . The group helped Evangeline Gephart celebrate her wedding anniversary last Friday evening by having a lovely potluck lunch. Many more happy anniversaries, Babe. . . . Joe Tricker states he enjoys the potlucks but he's afraid of his weight. . . . Lelah Ryan may be good but anyway we'll put it in the paper so everyone knows it. One of these days, we'll catch you off guard, Lelah. . . . Dessie George added a note to Fire Prevention Week by proving a cigarette can burn up and yet not fall off the ash tray she bought. . . . WELCOME: Erma Smith, from Taylor St., has joined our happy group. Hope you like us, Erma. . . . Birthday wishes for Elvert Maggard. . . . David Jones is the proud father of a baby daughter named Janice Leah. . . . Darwin Fran missed a day's work last week because he was moving. . . . Dessie George likes to do interior decorating, but not with four-hour drying enamel.

DRY COOKIES: It seems that Art Miller, of our plating section, will eat anything that his wife hands out to him. One evening last week, he and Mable were purchasing their weekly supply of groceries. One of the clerks handed her several milk-bone dog biscuits. She immediately handed them to Art, saying, "Try these." He proceeded to eat them. After they were consumed, he turned to Mable and said, "Those were pretty good cookies, but a trifle dry." Then the laugh was on him. Art, perhaps it does not always pay to eat out of your wife's hand. . . . STRANGE NOISES: Joe Long reports that there are some strange wild animals roaming about after dark in the vicinity of his home on the Leesburg Road. He tells us that whatever they are they play tunes on his wire fencing. After playing several tunes, they retire to the trees where they proceed to snap off large limbs. He has made several efforts to spot them with a powerful searchlight, but so far has been unable to catch a glimpse of them. He tells us that in the evening he sits close to the door. Then when the dog barks viciously, he dashes out, but they continue to elude him. So the music and tree limb snapping continues. . . . G-E's NIJINSKY: Evan (Turtle Soup) Morris was sure doing his stuff at the Churubusco fair. He continually haunted the dancing arena, and the dance that he put on was out of this world. He became the envy of all the young swains. Because of his expertness in the art of terpsichore, he captured all of the young ladies' attention. In fact, they all wanted to dance with him and no one else. He, being so thrilled over his present popularity, is now thinking seriously of taking up the ballet. . . . GRANDDAD DID IT: Ralph Dunlap pulled a fade-out on his young grandson one evening last week. It seems that the lad brought a football with him when he came to visit grandpop. He was kicking it about the yard when Ralph came out and said, "Here let me show you how to kick that thing." Giving it a lusty kick, it proceeded across lots and through a neighbor's window. At this juncture, Ralph dashed into the house, leaving the little fellow to take the blame. However, it did not work out that way. When the irate neighbor confronted the lad, he said, "I did not do it, but my grandpappy did."

People of Div. 17 really took advantage of the nice weather over the week-end. Alma Witte went to the Indiana University campus to live the life of a co-ed for the week-end. She said it was fun for two days, but she is afraid she couldn't keep up with them all the time. . . . Charlie and Estell Gable also went to college over the week-end. They went to Madison, Wisc., to see the Ohio State-Wisconsin game. He sure had some mighty black circles under his eyes Monday morning. It must have been the lack of sleep. . . . Dick Pinkham and his brother flew to New York City over the week-end. Dick said for playing navigator for the first time he didn't do bad. At least they made it there and back and didn't even get lost. . . . Peg and Bob Turschman were in Indianapolis over the week-end while George Bridges is taking his third week's vacation and is planning a trip to the Smoky Mountains. . . . We were very sorry to see Perry O'Neill leave our office last week. However, we didn't have to say good-by because he didn't go far away—only up to Mr. Gale's office on second floor. We really do wish you the best of luck on your new job, Perry. . . . After the coming week-end Bob Hull and family will be residents of Huntington, Ind. . . . Fidelis Birchmeyer, of the Employment Office, is back to work this week after a 11 weeks trip to Switzerland. They were visiting Mr. Birchmeyer's parents. Although we haven't had a chance to talk to her yet, from the cards received they must have had a wonderful time.

We are all sorry to hear of Charlie Donahue's serious injury and hope for a speedy recovery. . . . We are glad to report that Jim Hixon is coming along fine but will probably be confined in bed for several weeks yet. He had a rough time while listening to the World Series. It was in the last of the ninth with the hases loaded. Just as a long fly ball was hit, a nurse wheeled Johnny to the X-ray room. They tell me his temperature went up higher than the fly ball. . . . We are also glad to hear that Winnie Coate's grandson is recovering nicely from his injuries. . . . If anyone has some extra bird seed at home, please bring it in for Sharon Dasher and Bob. We believe they need it. . . . Art Pequignot should tell Doris where he goes every morning at 7:30 so she could quit worrying about him. . . . Several of the winders were present at a cleaning demonstration by Mac McCrea. Nice work, Mac, only why not clean all the cahinets now? . . . Winding Section would like to know how the sardines Bob Heyn ate enjoyed the bananas he ate five minutes later. . . . The Baker sisters and Cora spent last week-end on a trip on the Skyline Drive through the Blue Ridge Mountains. . . . Congratulations to Helen Landry and her husband on their wedding anniversary; also to Les Redding and his wife for the same reason. We wonder why Les doesn't carry a stock of anniversary presents in case he forgets "again" next year. . . . There are all kinds of colds; but if you want to know how to get an enjoyable cold, ask Jane Eiler. . . . If any of you musicians would like to plug the song hit of the week, contact Tony Toscani. His latest song has so much feeling. . . . Wonder why a person having no use for scales at all would buy two 25-pound scales. Anybody in the market for them, see Billie Tucker. It seems there is a lady in the finishing section who doesn't care for dentists. When they called next, Billie had disappeared. Maybe she was just there to sell scales. . . . Some of the girls got up at 4 a.m. to clean ten chickens. Please tell us when and where the big dinner is to be held. . . . No matter how much some people sprinkle their grass, it just won't grow. So Helen Greshman decided to sprinkle the street and passing cars to see what would happen. . . . The prize understatement of the week was made by Freddie Leinker. When seeing a test set going up in smoke, he said, "There must be a short in it." . . . In Bill Mowery's case, it was "The mind was willing hut the feet were weak." Bill was all ready to run at 11:36 only to discover he was tied up with a venetian blind cord. . . . Lois DeBolt is really serious about her work. During the fire drill she even carried an armload of folders out with her. . . . How about the pet rooster, Lois? . . . We have a new "muscles" gal in the office in the person of Catherine Bailey. They tell me she is even trying to get on the moving gang, thereby saving one truck. . . . We all wish Nellie Martin lots of happiness in her new home. When is the housewarming, Nellie? . . . Happy birthday to "Meat Ball" Schuster.

Birdseed Wanted

Wayne (Windy) Boester is really going all out this season at the Club. Windy is leading the Apparatus League with an average of 183. He was able to boost his average with games of 207, 175 and 222 for a total of 604.

Don Alcott had the high game for the night's effort, a 232. Fred (Roundhouse) Schafenacker collected a 218; E. Peckham, a 217; J. Horner, 216; J. Young, 203; Pete Dannecker, 200, and the old master, Vic Rump, 206.

Lyle (Crossfire) Claphan is now sharpening his squirrel hunting eye on the club alleys. He picked off the No. 10 pin with his first hall and the No. 7 pin with his second ball, leaving the rest of the pins on the alley. (Editor's note: The squirrel season closed last Tuesday.)

Ladies' Monday Night Bowling

At last there are no more team numbers. All the teams have names. Team No. 8 will be known as the Bowlerettes and Team No. 9 have become the Hard Niners.

Pepperettes are still going strong winning three games from the Handicappers to continue at the head of the league with a 14 and four record. The Finettes won three games from Keglerettes and are now in second place with a 12 and six record.

Ruth Keen cleaned her ball and that was all that was necessary. Ruth started out slow with a low 136 but bounded back with a 201 and and 168 to end up with a 505. Doris Pogue scored a 188; Marian Wolf kegled, 174 and 178; Bill Frain, 177 and Margie Huber and Bonnie Wolf had identical scores of 175.

Transformer League

The Coils are in top position with a seven won, two lost record, followed closely by Autos with a 6-3 standing. Rinne collared a 203 and H. Meeker stowed away a 212.

Masonic League

Doric is still out in front with a 14-4 record. Gavels are in the second spot with a 11 win and seven loss total. Squares and Corinthian are battling for third position with records of 10-8 each.

F. Peters, starting out on the low side with a 158, warmed up in the second game and collected a 232. Keeping the pace going, he was just one pin off in his third game for a 231 for a total of 621. Ed Crabill started out below the 200 mark with a .175 but counted with a 202 and a 224 for a total 601.

H. Hickman had a 214; Larson, 235; Gidley, 229; Lauterberg and A. Hickman, each had 211; E. Habiley, 210; Neuman, 208; M. Mailey, 206; Somers, 204, and Harris, 202.

Decatur Bowling

Stators were on a winning streak in the Monday Night League defeating the Rackers in three games. Office won two games from Flanges.

Laurent and Kitson had the only 200 games of the night. Kitson rolled a 210 and Laurent had a 213.

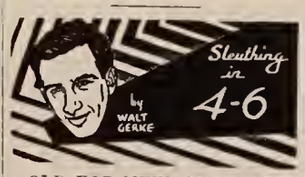
In the G-E Fraternal League, G-E Club waxed hot and scored three wins against the American Legion. Elks won two from Peterson Elevator. K of C won two from Moose-Burke, and West End Restaurant won two from Teeple Truck Line.

J. Berry, on games of 222, 187 and 195 had a 604. O. Schultz, with counts of 220, 225 and 177, scored a 622.

Top honors for the night went to Lankenau The Kid, better known to most of us as E. W. Lankenau, recently retired Decatur G-E plant manager. Enno led the G-E Club to three wins over the American Legion team. Disproving the old adage that "youth holds sway," Enno started out with a 213 only to run into trouble in the second game. He was only able to collect a 164. But this is when a kegler starts. Enno wanted a 600 count and he went after it, adding a big 256 to his first two games for a grand total of 633.

Kid Lankenau

The 200 scores were collected by Kitson, 223; Strickler, 215; P. Hoffman, 202; Baumbartner, 214; Wolpert, 224; Lord, 205 and 211; Faulkner, 215 and 216; Zelt, 224; Laurent, 215; Andrews, 209, and Appleman, 201.



Small Motor League

The Tools have taken over the No. 1 spot in the Small Motor League with a 12 won and three lost record. The Dubs are close on their heels with a 11-4 standing. Ray Lindemuth's Office team is in the third spot with a 10 won, five lost record.

Dick Bucher used his eagle eye and picked up the 4-7-10 split. Jack Margarum just got into the double century club. Jack's even 200 was rolled in the second game. E. C. Holmes is getting the kinks worked out and gathered a 203. Leo Reffelt counted the evening's high game, a 218. Walt Kammeyer had a 202.

There is an opening for a bowler in the Small Motor League, Wednesday nights.

BOWLING BALL WASHETERIA—Walter Niemeyer, Taylor St., tries out the new automatic ball cleaner recently installed at the G-E Club. For ten cents, G-E bowlers can put back a shine on their favorite balls.

OLD FOR NEW: Maurice Bennett replaced his good metal chair with an old wooden one. Benny put on so much weight at the wiener bake that he broke the good chair. . . . CON MEN: Walt Gerke and Chuck Kelso got the man so upset about shorting them on the number of cups that they escaped with several more than the order called for. . . . FALL WEDDING: McMillen Park Pavilion was the scene of the fashionable wedding of Ella May Snazzlesnout (played by Marge Walker) and Lem Lubberfoot (played by Jim Walley). The pavilion, lying in the midst of rolling lawns, swimming pools and skunk oil works, was sweetly scented with hot dogs, baked beans, onions, potato salad and sweet cider. The bride wore an above-knee-length cotton gown and cheesecloth veil. The groom wore his best set of buck teeth and overalls. Pappy (Don Miller) was accompanied by Ma (Marylis Redding), his best jug and shooting iron. Grandma Lubberfoot (Harold Buck) was on hand for the occasion. She wore a new ankle length plaid dress and used a store boughten cane. The nuptials were read by Marryin' Sam (Walt Gerke) of Mud Hollow; a duet was rendered by Sadie Saddlefoot (Carl Lommatzsch) and Alf Sackfeed (Chuck Kelso). The Lubberfoots will make their home in the abandoned sawmill shed on Hog Wallow Creek. Lem's pet pig will join them there. . . . HAPPY DAY: Dent Manecke and Kenny French are back from a nice vacation. . . . WELCOME: To Jean Westerfield and Joan Cablentz, they are starting as draftsman in the A. C. Div. They came here from Carl Brandt's drafting training class. Also welcome to Mary Kinsiel of the Engineering File Room, and Sharon Shearer. . . . Welcome to A. E. Tucker, new T. E., who hails from El Monte, Calif. A graduate from California State Poly, he holds a degree in electrical engineering, is married, and is very much interested in rocket research and astronomy. . . . BACK AGAIN: We are glad to have Walley Clayton back with us after being absent four weeks due to illness. . . . GIFTS: Harold Struver was presented with several gifts on his last day before entering the Air Corps. Among them with a dop kit, which Harold said would make him a nice makeup bag. . . . THIRD WEEK: Paul Lange sure did his third week vacation up right. After returning from a nice trip through Brown County which he thoroughly enjoyed, he proceeded to sprain his ankle while removing screens from the windows in his home. Hope it doesn't prove too serious, Paul, and that you'll be back with us soon. Furthermore, didn't you want to celebrate your twenty-fifth anniversary with the Company? . . . GOOD PICTURE: We were all very proud of our glamour gal, Ruth Oetting, who so charmingly posed for a picture in our Employees' Store. I'll bet it made a lot of eligible young men's heart throb, Ruth. Nevertheless we are very proud of you. . . . TAKE A LESSON: Harry, did you teach the little woman how to fold the check properly? . . . GOOD-BY AND GOOD LUCK: To Virginia Frazer and Irene Abbott, who are leaving us this Friday. We want to wish you all the luck on your new ventures.

TIMES ARE TOUGH—While there's a shortage in the pin-boy market, G-E Club manager Charlie Wilt is getting to be quite a hand at setting up the maples. Charlie and his aching muscles are begging for some employee's son of 16 or over to help out. In the meantime, set 'em up in the other alley, Charlie!

Membership In Volleyball League Open

Teams are now being organized in the men's volleyball league, Hubert Myers, league manager, announced today. Anyone interested in playing on one of the teams should contact one of the following team managers:

Bill Burtzner, Winter St. team, Ext. 206.

George Cowan, Taylor St. team, Ext. 255.

Harold Wilkeson, Apprentice team, Ext. 398.

Roy Soughan, Transformer team, Ext. 385.

Jack Jennings, Small Motor team, Ext. 707.

Bob Rescorla, Training Test Engineers team, Ext. 2186.

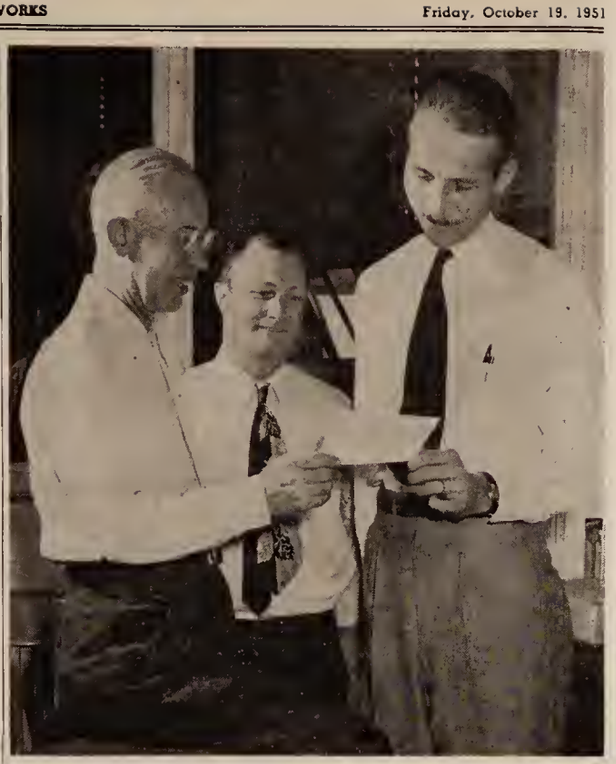
A group will also be formed for those who wish to play for exercise only and not in league competition. Anyone interested in joining this group should contact Hubert Myers on Ext. 750.

Girls' Basketball Team

Any G-E women interested in playing on a G-E basketball team in the City League have been asked to contact Betty Puff, Bldg. 4-6, or call her on Ext. 726.

Avery Spade dropped a nickel in a coke machine last week. Since all the cups were used up, the coke had no place to go except the floor. After scratching his head and worrying for awhile, he hung his head and went back to work. Since this happened, it has been reported that the tincup at the town well in Hamilton is missing. . . . Everett Lindeman had illusions when he was down in Brown County over the week-end. He thought he saw Mary Sitko riding on a motorcycle down there. . . . CORRECTION: It is Mattie Fansher, who has a birthday Oct. 31, and Jeanette Weirick has one Oct. 25. . . . Joyce Schroeder is pretty happy these days. She is driving a new robin-egg blue Oldsmobile. . . . Frieda Knoche spent the week-end in Lansing, Mich., with her niece. . . . Margaret Fuelling found a dangling gold earring. She thought that she would advertise it by wearing it, thinking the loser would spot her, and after all she does have two ears and one earring wouldn't do her any good. Wouldn't you know it, that was the day we had a fire drill. She was all the way back at work before she remembered she had walked outside with just one earring on. . . . Irene Williams forgot her key the other night and found herself locked out, so she had to go get her brother to crawl in the window to let her in. . . . The stork has been a busy bird. It delivered a girl Kathleen to the Gene Haifley home and a girl Sharon Delores to Margaret Marnio, a former coworker. Congratulations all the way around. . . . Paul Hendricks is eating red peppers for his health but he reports that so far it hasn't helped him much. . . . Robert Reed has been released from the hospital and is at home. He was in a serious auto accident. Glad to know you are on the mend, Bob. . . . Jay Walker was pretty happy when the Yanks won the World Series last week as he came out ahead, but poor Willard Smith had to hurry home to LaGrange and pay up before the sheriff came calling. It wasn't quite that bad but he did want the Giants to win. . . . Esther Pape came back from her vacation which was spent in Chicago. . . . Del Winters said he saw so much on his month's vacation in the West that he doesn't know just what he liked the best or what was the prettiest.

Theron Kitchen took a pretty nasty fracture of the arm while cranking "ye olde lemon crate" and has been going around all dressed up with a lucite brace. Kitch says he may just leave it on for the winter. It will come in handy to de-ice his windshield. . . . Anyone interested in light hardware just see "Honest John" Red Braden. He is getting stocked up ready to go into the business. His latest line is an assortment of padlocks at a reasonable price. . . . Our two-letter man, Lyle Claphan, is always out trying to make the headlines. For some people, it's hard to keep in there, but not Lyle. For him, it's easy because he is always doing the difficult. Last week, he was practicing a new way to make the 7-10 pin split. He threw the first ball and got the No. 7 pin. Then he threw the other ball and got the No. 10. Now he is trying to figure out how to get the other eight pins. . . . John Bastian is back on the job after recovery from that appendectomy. . . . Now if Louie Watt just gets back on the job, the old euchre games will all be back in full swing. So, come on, Louie. . . . Jim Duff is rapidly learning that there is a right and wrong way to use a saw blade.



IDEA BRINGS $50—Loyall Weist (right), Bldg. 19-2, is shown being congratulated by Lee Anderson. Mr. Weist submitted a suggestion to treat coils by an improved method. This idea brought him $50.

Henry (Spider) Webb, an old time operator, was showing Grace Hunt how an old time operator operates! . . . Ruby Brandt opened up a restaurant the other day for the gals on finishing. Hot dogs and coffee were served. No casualities have been reported as yet! . . . Overheard: Hazel Bennett asking Louie Sordelet. "Do I walk like a pigeon?" . . . Nine out of ten times you ask Bill Mills for a cigarette he'll pull out a sample package. . . . Mildred Schoeff was intending to bring a container of milk into work. As she left for work she carried out a sack to throw in the garbage. Yep, she threw the milk in the garbage instead! . . . We hear Polly Auer has a new Chevy convertible. . . . Don Zumbrum made arrangements to have Howard Shipman pick him up at the Davis Auto one morning. While Don was impatiently waiting, Howard was at Guy Means. Howard finally remembered where he was to pick up Don. . . . What about Maude Waikel falling asleep in a chair and not awakening until 3 a.m.? . . . This is the time of year we men enjoy, when the gals start wearing all those different colored sweaters. Those home made sweaters are the best though. Ask Pat Marler for further details. . . . While we're on fashion notes, who could look better than Mary Mullins in blue jeans? . . . The "Rainy Eight" had a surprise birthday party Saturday night for Cecelia Carrig and Elma Berger at the home of Luella Frane. A delicious supper and a wonderful time was had by all. Cecelia remarked one time, "Nobody can surprise me!" . . . Anyone wanting to know how to put on a blouse without unbuttoning it, see Elma Berger. She doesn't want to wear out the buttonholes! . . . Edna Hall has returned to work after a two weeks' illness. . . . It was reported that Mary our matron was the last one out and the first one in, during the fire drill. . . . Elaine Marks is back on the stacking bench after six months' leave of absence. . . . Bea Adams seem to have a difficult time sitting down. Could be, those two shots Bea got for the flu, have something to do with it. Anyhow we know where the shots were administered! . . . The second trick wolves are wondering where Phyllis, on the finishing bench, got that shirt. . . . Bonnie Ayers told us she knew how when she graduated from grade school. She didn't say what she knew though. . . . Maurice Green successfully tried to wear her bean soup the other night. You're supposed to eat it, Maurice! . . . How about that, Mildred Smith? Putting your clock card in the box on Monday night. . . . Who are those new glamourous boys with the sharp glasses? None other than Delmer and Gail.

Did anyone see moths flying around on Hoagland Ave? If you did, they came from Clark Holme's billfold. He finally broke down and bought a new Mercury. They also furnished him with goggles and duster. . . . Would someone please direct Cozy Walper the nearest route to Roann. She started on a fifty mile trip for some apples, and ended with 160 miles and no apples. . . . Sarah Moore spent the week-end baby sitting with her nieces. . . . Beverly Numbers was presented with a birthday cake and gift in the cafeteria Friday by some of her friends. They were Ollie Ragan, Mary Shreve, Veloris Shull, Clara Gidley, Goldie Waikel and Lois Burry. . . . Laura Gerber has given Linda Wahrer permission to look up her friend George in New York. Linda will be attending the Elex Conference and is looking forward to meeting George. . . . There are a couple of bachelors in Test and Shipping who would like to know what Doyle Sheets' charm is. Could you help a couple of boys out, Doyle? . . . Mr. and Mrs. Paul LeCoque and son attended a family reunion at Snow Lake Sunday. It was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ebbon Brown, who will soon be leaving to spend the winter in Florida. . . . We wouldn't be surprised if Elinor Laux would soon retire on her winnings at the horse races in Chicago Saturday. . . . We wish a happy birthday to Sydonna Fox.

GOT HER FISH: Every time Nila Hansen, Payroll, had an opportunity she reminded Carl (Snuffy) Junk about the fish he promised her. The other day Snuffy finally kept his promise and brought Nila three dried-up blind robins (smoked herring). Satisfied, Nila? . . . CRICKET BUSINESS: Bill Rohe has started raising crickets in an old abandoned fish pond Bill told us that to raise them to become very large you should feed them tomatoes, old rotten apples and old newspapers. But, be careful what kind of newspapers you feed them. To keep them well and happy, only feed them the funny papers. It seems that everytime he fed them the political section they took sick and died. To those that he fed the funny papers, they thrived and grew so large that they invaded his home. At night he couldn't get any sleep because of the noise that they made tramping all over the place. When Bill went to the dispensary the other day, the nurse remarked to him that he looked like he needed rest and sleep. Bill remarked, "It's not from what you are thinking, because I don't go out nights anymore. It's them crickets that keep me awake." The nurse promptly came up with the solution. She knitted booties for the crickets and sent them to Bill. So once again everything is serene in the home of the William Rohe's, they get their sleep while the crickets hold an all night jamboree. It's simple when you use your noodle. . . . ONE BORN EVERY MINUTE: Florian (Jake) Arnold, who belongs to both the Foremen's and Supervisors' clubs, was one of those who paid one buck to the Foreman contact man for a ticket to see the "Voice of the Turtle." He could have gotten it free from the Supervisors Club. . . . FIRE: Mike (stuffed sturgeon) Kees went out on his back porch the other night to get a breath of fresh air. Looking over towards West Main St., he thought he saw the biggest fire he had ever seen. Going up on the roof of his home, he found that he was looking at the electric "Wayne Feed" signs on the Allied Mills Building. . . . SQUARE DANCE: Eddie White went to a square dance the other night and before he could come in to work the next day his wife had to massage him from head to foot. . . . ATTENTION ALL WIRE MILL EMPLOYEES: L. T. A. (Lost Time Accidents):

Of L. T. A. we had four
For the rest of the year we don't need more Four L. T. A. so far are four too many
For the balance of the year we don't want any.

Last year's production of fish canned in the United States exceeded 900 million pounds for the first time. Packs of both canned sardines and canned tuna set new records.

One thing at a time and that done well
Is a very good motto, as many can tell.

"See if ya can get in a little overtime this week, huh, dad? I've got a big date Saturday night"

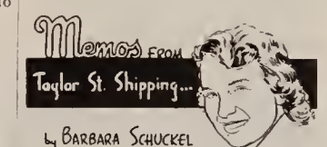
HITS 40 YEAR MARK—Fred Volmerding (right), Bldg. 4-6, was honored at a luncheon on his 40th anniversary with General Electric. He is shown being congratulated by (l-r) R. C. Hanna, K. R. Wheatley and W. H. Weikart.

Alma Raymer missed a day's work last week because of a cold. Ruth LaPradd tore the liganients in her knee while she was covering her flowers so old Jack Frost wouldn't get them. We're sorry, Ruth, but glad to see you were able to work. . . . Fred Seip is a lucky guy. . . . We wonder why Homer Huser doesn't get some roller skates so he can get around faster. . . . The Assembly group wishes to welcome Charles Drury and Pres Chaney to the 51 frame line. . . . Did you hear Pres Chaney and his Indiana Travelers on the radio Sunday morning at 8:30? . . . Guy Livingston lost his good ring last week and was lucky enough to find it again. . . . We heard that Erma Fredericks and Flo Sizemore were lucky winners. So glad you won, girls. . . . We understand that Harley Springer, Art Luessenhop, Charlie Prine and Fred Seip talk a better game of horseshoe than they can play. They proved it by playing. What were the scores, boys? . . . Olen Shank is getting ready for sisco fishing. He saw four of them go by the pier. . . . Another zero for Al Telschow on his deer hunting trip. Next time take your fish pole along, too, Al. . . . We say it's never too late to learn. Adele Wietfeldt baked her first angel food cake the other day. . . . We wish Mahel Sinn lots of luck. She has left us to work in Bldg. 4-5. . . . Helen Fraser celebrated her birthday and received some nice gifts. We want to wish you many more happy birthdays, Helen. . . . All the inspectors and testers are sorry to hear that "Ducky" is leaving to accept a position in Div. 15, Bldg. 4-1. Good luck, Ducky. . . . Hazel Dilworth spent Sunday in Muncie. . . . Virginia Free spent the weekend in Lima, O. . . . Lu Heekman visited her sister at Warren last Sunday. . . . This is just a little poem in honor of our girls who left us to go on the day shift.

OUR OLD PALS



Estella, Ruth, Erma, Flo and Theo,
We sure miss you a lot
When it's time to eat our candy bars
Or boil the coffee pot.

And then when quitting time is nigh
And nearly time to go,
We miss your smiling faces
Standing in the row.

We hope you like your daytime johs
And we wish you lots of luck,
And hope you'll still stay in the line
For those good old G-E bucks.

SO LONG: Last Friday, Harold Bowker turned in his tools and said so long. He is going to be a fulltime farmer. Is that the way to start a life of ease? . . . BUSY CUPID: Little Danny Cupid was busy last week-end. Marjorie McDonald became Mrs. Donald Hirons and Edna Churchward became Mrs. William Pennysoff. We wish you both lots of happiness. . . . Gladys Lutz went to San Diego, Calif., to attend her daughter's wedding. . . . George Soule tells us the first time he had a neck tie on he stood in one place for three hours. He thought he was tied. . . . INTRODUCTION WANTED: Hazel Lockwood would like to be introduced to Audrey Young. . . . BIRTHDAY GREETINGS TO Minnie Barr, Laura Gross and Lela Doehrman. . . . Wonder why Velma Seibt is looking forward to Christmas? . . . WHAT PRICE GLORY? We wondered why the WORKS NEWS disappeared so fast last Friday. We hear that because Elmer Lamley's picture was in it he was trying to sell the NEWS for five cents a copy. . . . Joe Jensen must do shoe cobbling as a sideline. He was seen mending a shoe for one of the fairer sex the other morning. . . . Arthur Behning is another one who has a new Chevy. . . . HOME FROM KOREA: Virginia Pelz's son has arrived home from Korea. . . . We are glad to hear that Iley Souder's daughter continues to improve. . . . Anne Gibson had the misfortune of injuring her hand on a winding machine. . . . Our sympathy to the Cletus Lothamer family in the death of their son.

Welcome back to Marjorie Reeder. Marjorie worked at G-E several years ago for about three years. . . . If there was a talent scout around, he would soon have his eye on Carol Harrington—for a circus, that is. She's always clowning around. . . . Judy Krebs has returned from her vacation and Mary Wakeman started on hers this Monday. . . . Carol Kissinger, Betty Bartley and Jo Quinn were down with colds last week. . . . It's too bad Barbara Harvill can't have an hour in which to eat her lunch. She could eat as slow as she pleased. . . . Ruth Crockett recently received the best news in her life. She was shocked when her husband was called for duty. He was to leave last week. They were ready for his departure when they received a notice that he was deferred. Chuck is a student at the Bible College here in Fort Wayne. . . . Bud Mendenhall is recovering at home from injuries received in an auto accident last week. . . . Someone should tell Edith Swain that staples are not to be eaten. She swallowed one Friday but she'll survive. . . . If you have missed a good movie see Phyllis Clifton. She can relate the entire show without missing a scene. . . . Several of the girls and their men folk enjoyed a hayride and wienie roast Saturday night at the Wakeman farm in Churubuseo. . . . Carol Kissinger has a way of being up with the chickens in the morning. She just doesn't get to bed until she is sure they are up.

G-E Club to Hold Fall Revue Nov. 17-18

The annual Fall Review will open the 1951-52 entertainment season of the G-E Club, Saturday, Nov. 17, and Sunday, Nov. 18, Gordon L. Smith, entertainment chairman, announced today. Performances will be given Saturday at 7 and 9 p.m., and Sunday at 1, 3, and 5 p.m. in the auditorium.

Five professional acts have been booked to present five performances for employees and their families. This will be the first scheduled G-E Club program since the redecoration of the club building.

Accordion Artists

Featured in the Review are the Tu-Tones. These two accordion artists, Mario and Lee, offer music and comedy. They have appeared on several television shows and at theaters in many large cities throughout the United States.

Another of the acts, which employees will see at the Review, includes the Rudenkos, who are juggling artists. The two members of this team, Igor and George, perform many juggling feats. They are currently appearing at the Chicago Theatre, in Chicago.

Club Changes

Employees will find improved acoustics in the club this year. A loudspeaker system has been installed; new stage lights added, and curtains cleaned and repaired.

Beginning Monday, Nov. 5, tickets will be available at the G-E Club candy stand and the Taylor St. employment office. Employees may secure tickets for themselves and their families by presenting their Club membership cards.

Tentative plans for the entire G-E Club entertainment program were also revealed by Mr. Smith. A series of six square dances has been planned. The first of these will be held Saturday, Dec. 8, in the G-E Club gymnasium.

The annual Kiddies' Christmas Party is slated for Saturday, Dec. 22.

G-E President Ralph J. Cordiner Speaks At Women's Interclub Conference in N. Y.

Ralph J. Cordiner, president of General Electric, called upon delegates to the third Interclub Conference at New York's Waldorf Astoria Hotel Saturday to set a goal of establishing women's clubs in at least half of the Company's plants.

How-do-you-do President Cordiner—Dorothy Shaffer, toastmistress for the Presidents' Dinner, meets Ralph J. Cordiner, President of the General Electric Company, at G-E women's Interclub Conference.

"I am selfishly thinking of the Company when I challenge you to form more clubs," he told the 160 delegates representing 14 G-E women's clubs at the week-end conference.

"In 1930, the ratio of women to men was two to nine in the General Electric Company," he declared, adding that "today, with women constituting 30 per cent of all employees, we realize the importance of women in industry."

The G-E president credited the Fort Wayne and Decatur plants with helping to form many midwestern Interclub chapters. Their example is a challenge to other clubs, he said.

Mr. Cordiner, who was principal speaker at the "President's Dinner" Saturday night, was introduced by Dorothy Shaffer of Decatur, who acted as toastmistress.

In behalf of the various G-E women's clubs which make up the organization, Miss Shaffer named Mr. Cordiner honorary president of Interclub. He also was presented a gavel decorated with colors of the various clubs.

Lemuel R. Boulware, vice president in charge of employee relations, opened the Conference at luncheon Saturday. He was introduced by Elizaheth York of Syracuse.

Sales, Wages Up, Net Profit Down In First Nine Months of G-E Year

For the first nine months of this year General Electric Company's sales of $1,694,084,000 and its pre-tax earnings of $286,936,000 exceeded by 25 per cent and 36 per cent, respectively, the previous record levels for this period attained last year, President Ralph J. Cordiner announced today. However, due to an increase of 105 per cent in the provision required for federal taxes on income, the net profit of $85,936,000 earned in the nine months' period this year was 24 per cent less than the $112,919,000 earned in the corresponding period a year ago. These net profits were equivalent to $2.98 and $3.91, respectively, per share of common stock issued.

"Per dollar of sales, federal taxes took 11.9 cents out of each 16.9 cents of pre-tax earnings, leaving only 5.0 cents as net profit for our stockholders in the first nine months of this year," Mr. Cordiner pointed out. "Expressed another way, provision for such taxes was equivalent to $6.97 a share of common stock, or two and one-third times the $2.98 per share of net earnings available for dividends in this period."

More Income Taxes

Provision for federal taxes on income for the first nine months of this year totaled $201,000,000, or 105 per cent more than was required in the corresponding period last year. In the third quarter, because the enactment of a new tax bill incorporating such changes appeared imminent, provision was made for increases in taxes based on the following assumptions: that combined normal and surtax rates would be increased from 47 per cent to 50.75 per cent, and that the over-all tax ceiling would be increased from 62 per cent to 68 per cent, both retroactive to Jan. 1, 1951. These changes involved additional taxes amounting to $13,100,000.

Youth

(The following is quoted from a framed text, said to hang over the desk of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, between the pictures of Washington and Lincoln.)

Youth is not a time of life. It's a state of mind. It's a test of will, a quality of imagination, a vigor of emotions, a predominance of courage over timidity, of the appetite for adventure over love of ease.

Nobody grows old by merely living a number of years. People grow old only by deserting their ideals. Years wrinkle the skin, but to give up enthusiasm wrinkles the soul. Worry, doubt, self-distrust, fear and despair . . . these are the quick equivalents of the long, long years that bow the head and turn the growing spirit back to dust.

Whether 70 or 16, there is, in every being's heart, the love of wonder, the sweet amazement of the stars, and the starlike things and thoughts, the undaunted challenge of events, the unfailing childlike appetite for "What next?"

You are as young as your faith, as old as your doubt . . . as young as your self-confidence, as old as your fear . . . as young as your hope, as old as your despair.

So long as your heart receives messages of beauty, cheer, courage, grandeur and power from the earth, from man and from the Infinite, so long are you young.

When all the wires are down, and all the central places of your heart are covered with the snows of pessimism and the ice of cynicism, then, and only then, are you grown old indeed . . . and may God have mercy on your soul.

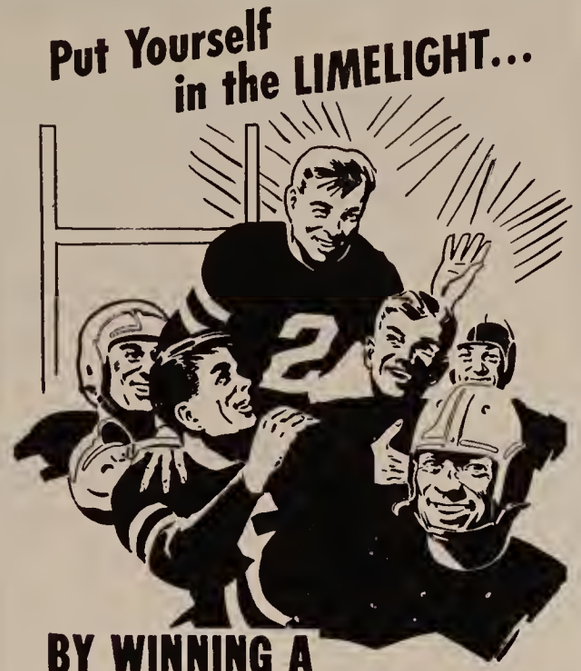
Things ARE Different, and We're HAPPY, Gramp!

"Things are sure different today than they were in my day!" Many a grandfather has said these words, with a reminiscent shake of his head.

And every grandson to whom they are spoken might well respectfully reply, "Yes, thank heaven—things sure are different today!"



For instance, the average grandfather who worked in a plant earned something like 22 cents an hour. Today his grandson, in the same plant or one like it, will be making around $1.42 an hour, with a weekly wage of around $56.

Where grandfather in his time thought nothing of putting in a 60-hour week (and sometimes 72 or 84 hours a week!) on the job, his grandson, on an average, will work 40 hours a week—usually being paid time and a half or double time if he works 48.

Grandfather, going to work early in the morning, returning home late at night, never heard of such things as group insurance, workmen's compensation, vacations with pay—to name a few benefits the average grandson today enjoys and takes as a matter of course!

BY WINNING A SUGGESTION AWARD

Now at the height of the football season many a young fellow becomes a hero overnight. Fellow collegians and the general public alike cheer him because that little bit of extra effort he put forth made victory possible. With a little extra effort you can put yourself in the limelight, too. By submitting a winning suggestion, you can collect cash and the admiration and applause of your fellow workers. Do it today.

SPECIALIST

A specialist has been defined,
Though maybe not in poem,
As just an ordinary guy,
A dub away from home.

Let's turn the thought around a bit
And try to find the rub.
Let's say, at home, a specialist
Is still a local dub.

This means in our community,
We overlook a lot.
It means we don't appreciate,
At home, the skill we've got.

A boy or girl with talent,
In our local neighborhood,
Must prove it first away from home,
Before we think it's good.

In other words, that little boy
You see most every day
Just can't become a specialist
Until he moves away.

Those kids you know across the street,
Let's call them Jim and Dick,
Which one, when he's a doctor,
Would you call if you were sick?

The chances are that neither one
Will ever cheek your ills,
You'll likely get a stranger
To dish you out your pills.

A local man can make a speech
A hundred miles away,
And be acclaimed with loud applause
For what he has to say.

But if he'd make the speech at home
Where he was born and raised,
And anyone applauded,
He would really be amazed.

It's hard to be a big shot
With the folks a fellow knows;
It's difficult to understand,
But that's the way it goes.

We'll listen to a stranger
And decide the guy is good,
But he may be still a yokel
In his local neighborhood.

But even though you have to leave
To get a famous name,
Your neighborhood will claim you
When you've won your way to fame.

I suppose it's human nature,
But it doesn't make much sense,
I guess, like cows, we just prefer
The grass across the fence.

1635 Broadway
Fort Wayne, 2, Indiana

Dear Mr. Michael:

With the organization of the Community Services Fund, the employees of the General Electric Company will be given an opportunity to fulfill their community responsibilities.

The citizens of this great nation have at all times responded to the needs of the less fortunate, and to the building of a better and a greater country through community projects.

I am sure their response to the Community Services Fund will be overwhelming.

Both individually and as Vice President of Local 901 IUE-CIO, I appeal to not only our membership but to all employees of the General Electric Company in the Fort Wayne Works to give freely to help make this drive an overwhelming success.

Respectfully submitted,
John A.C. Lea
John A.C. Lea, 1st.Vice Pres.
Local 901 IUE-CIO

Employees who would like to see repeated and separate drives within the plan eliminated will have a new opportunity to join the revised Employees Community Services Fund next week.

Solicitors will again contact all employees with new membership cards, designed so employees may choose the amount of their weekly contributions. (The original plan calling for set donations from each member was discarded last week after employees objected strenuously to scheduled amounts of contributions.)

The organizing committee reported that a goal of 70 per cent of all employees is necessary to insure the plan's success. If the goal is reached, an elected board of 16 administrators, will handle all funds and allocate contributions to deserving community social welfare agencies.

Duties of Board

Among the Board's duties are appraisal of all requests for contributions in the light of the agency or organization's budget; to make allocations according to their findings of service and needs; to investigate complaints about the services of the recipient agencies; to regularly furnish information to members showing the extent of their contributions to various agencies, and to do all other things which will accomplish the purpose of the organization.

Membership contributions will be continuous from year to year.

Drives involving capital investment, such as a hospital building or any building fund will not be included. The only other possible exception would be an unforeseen emergency such as an epidemic or a flood.

A spokesman for the organizing committee emphasized that employees who live outside of Allen County have good reason to participate in the plan. He pointed out that in times of trouble, such as serious illness, area residents usually must come to Fort Wayne for treatment and blood transfusions. It is hoped that sometime in the future, neighboring communities can be included in the Fund after it is established.

The new schedule of donations, from which employees may choose, is so arranged as to mean a minimum of sacrifice to employees. For example, the minimum of ten cents weekly is no more than the cost of a few cigarettes, or a candy bar weekly.

There is also a provision whereby an employee may make his donation in a lump sum if he so desires. He may check the week he wishes his total contribution to be deducted.

Letters of endorsement by the IAM-AFL and IUE-CIO appear above.

"No free government, or the blessings of liberty, can be preserved to any people but by a firm adherence to justice, moderation, temperance, frugality, and virtue, and by a frequent recurrence to fundamental principles."—Patrick Henry.

INTERNATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF MACHINISTS
FORT WAYNE, INDIANA

Mr. K. W. Michael, Chairman of Organizing Committee
G-E Employees Community Services Fund of Fort Wayne
1635 Broadway
Fort Wayne 2, Indiana

Dear Sir:

Inasmuch as it has been the desire of Friendship Lodge #70, International Association of Machinists, for some time to discontinue the present set up of numerous drives each year for contribution to various charities, we more than welcome a plan such as proposed by the organization committee, to be known as General Electric Employees Community Services Fund of Fort Wayne.

Especially since distribution of funds will be made by representatives of all divisions and policies of the organization will be determined by the members, we believe this plan will result in more fair distribution of funds and, through employee control, the plan should boost individual interest in community and civic needs.

We, therefore, sincerely believe that if all the local employees will sign the pledge cards when presented and take an active part in the organization, we will have a far better plan for helping the unfortunate in our community.

Sincerely,
J. P. McFeely

George H. Knoll Appointed Buyer in STAB Purchasing

The appointment of George H. Knoll as a buyer in the Specialty Transformer and Ballast Department's Purchasing Division was announced this week by E. F. Paul, manager of manufacturing.

Mr. Knoll joined the Company in 1936 as a messenger in Bldg. 18-B. Two years later, he became a junior clerk in the Order and Stores Division, Bldg. 18-4. In 1940, he transferred to Bldg. 6-4 as a production clerk.

After spending the succeeding five years in the Army, Mr. Knoll returned to the Company as an edit clerk in the Hollywood Bldg. in 1946. He became an order clerk in the Order and Stores Division one year later. In 1948, he moved to the Purchasing Section, Bldg. 26-2 as an order clerk, his position at the time of his present appointment.

Mr. Knoll is a member of the G-E Squares Club and the G-E World War Veterans Association. The Knolls and their three children live at 1114 N. Anthony Blvd.

'Oscar Of Industry' Award To Be Given G-E Tonight

The General Electric Company will receive the bronze "Oscar of Industry" trophy tonight for having the best annual report in the electrical equipment field. This is the fifth consecutive year G-E has won the "Oscar."

Competition for the award is sponsored annually by Financial World, a weekly magazine covering the financial field. More than 50,000 reports in 100 industrial classifications were entered in this year's international awards banquet in New York City.

Foremen to Hold Fish Fry Nov. 7

Members of the Foremen's Association will hold a Fish Fry, Wednesday, Nov. 7, at the Southwest Conservation Club, Ed Klomp, president, announced today. The fry will begin at 6:30 p.m.

Tickets may be secured from contact men for 75 cents apiece.

Donald E. Rose Assigned FHP Foreman in Training

Donald E. Rose has been appointed foreman in training in Fractional Horsepower Motor Division 15, Bldg. 6-2, it was announced this week by H. G. Siebold, superintendent.

When Mr. Rose came to the General Electric Company in 1941, he enrolled in a special training course in machine operating at the Apprentice School, Bldg 12. After completing the course a few months later, he went to work in the Magneto Section, Bldg. 6-4, where he operated a lathe and milling machine and did tool grinding.

Three years later, he became a leading operator in the Small Lot Section, Bldg. 4-5. In 1951 he was transferred to Bldg. 6-2, where he was a leading operator until the time of his present appointment.

Mr. Rose has one daughter who is attending college and one daughter in nurses' training. He lives in Huntington with his parents.

Sales, Wages Up

rently are making it extremely difficult, and which, if continued, will make it impossible for corporate management to function effectively," Mr. Cordiner stated. "First is the deplorable practice by Congress of imposing progressively higher tax rates on a retroactive basis. Under such conditions, accurate financial results cannot be determined because the true tax costs cannot be recorded in the periods to which they actually relate. Second, is the failure by the Executive Branch of the Government, during the past three and a half months, to establish procedures permitting corporations to obtain the price relief to which they legally are entitled under the Capehart amendment of the Defense Production Act. As a result of this disregard for the expressed will of Congress, certain revenues, to which corporations were legally entitled, have been lost irretrievably."

Production Pickup

"As had been anticipated, the downward trend in production and shipments of consumer goods, which developed in the second quarter of 1951, continued into the third quarter at an accelerated rate," Mr. Cordiner continued. "In recent weeks, however, there has been a definite pick-up in demand and we expect to ship such products in considerable quantities throughout the fourth quarter. Production is not expected to keep pace with shipments of these items, because our production schedules will continue for some time to be governed principally by the availability of materials."

A dividend of 75 cents a share of common stock will be paid on October 25 for the third quarter of 1951, making a total of $2.25 a share in dividends for the first nine months of this year compared with $1.80 paid for the same period last year. The payment on October 25 will be the 218th dividend on General Electric common stock and will bring to approximately $64,500,000 the amount distributed as dividends for the first nine months of this year to some 254,000 stockholders.

Consolidated statements of operations for the third quarter of 1951 and for the nine months' periods ended September 30 this year and last year are shown below. The results for the current year to date are partly estimated and subject to audit as of the close of the year.

Interclub

Mr. Boulware reiterated the objectives of the Company in relation to good pay, benefits and working conditions and emphasized the desire for employees "to be able to enjoy additional dividends in the form of rewarding associations with management and among themselves. I feel Interclub is a real agency toward this end," he added.

"If we want to keep our country free," Mr. Boulware asserted, "Not only employers but employees also must constantly learn anew what's right and then do what's right voluntarily." He concluded by urging women to study economics to help carry out the objectives.

Saturday afternoon, representatives of each participating club took part in a round table discussion and exchange of ideas. Evelyn Cormack, Schenectady, served as moderator. Irene Meyers, Fort Wayne, Ellen McNair, Schenectady and Beulah Larkin, Syracuse, representing the three largest clubs, were named to a steering committee at the Sunday morning session to make plans for the future of the organization.

They will each appoint another member from their club to the committee. The committee also will have the responsibility of arranging and assigning duties to individual clubs for next year's conference.

Elex Wins Prize

The Elex Club won the prize for the best exhibit. It consisted of a ming tree decorated with small articles depicting the various branches of the club's service activities.

In the "Hat Stunt" competition, the Decatur GeCode Club took the "Oscar" for the second consecutive year. Their prize-winning hat was of blue and silver, their club colors. Its size denoted the big ideas of the club, linked chains symbolized their two sections of first and second shift members; birds represented high ideals, a lamp signified leadership, and a hand was their welcome to all girls.

Honorable mentions in the Hat contest were awarded the Lockland, Fort Wayne, Danville and Schenectady clubs.

Martin Speaks

Works Manager Ab Martin spoke to the group Sunday noon. He was introduced by Beulah Larkin of the Syracuse plant.

I. H. Freeman, supervisor of personnel, attended the conference from Fort Wayne, and John Welch, manager of the Decatur Plant, attended from Decatur.

The following women's clubs took part in the conference: DanGe, Danville, Ill.; Electronettes, Syracuse, N. Y.; Elex, Fort Wayne; GeCode, Decatur; Gem, Morrison, Ill.; Gen-e-dek, DeKalb, Ill.; Generalettes, Lockland, O.; GESC, Erie, Pa.; GEWC, Schenectady, N. Y.; GEWC, New York, N. Y.; Jills, Chicago, Ill.; Nela-Politan, Cleveland, O.; Partizan Chapter, Fort Wayne, and TEGC, Plainville, Conn. The San Jose, Calif., club entered a display and sent a memento to each delegate.

Welcome to Frank Laier, who joined us from Bldg. 4-3. . . . Congratulations to Dailey Fogle. The new member is a boy, weighing 8 lbs. 14 oz. . . . Elizabeth Malone and Esther Johnson both left us last Friday. Sorry to see you leave us, girls, but lots of luck to you both. . . . Say, Jack Stricat, how do you like your sandwiches. . . . Margaret Ekelberry visited her home in Michigan over the weekend. She and her father went duck hunting. Dad didn't get any, but Margaret, who shot a gun for the first time, downed one. . . . Congratulations to Bud Harwood. It is a girl, born Saturday Oct. 6. Cynthia Marie weighed eight pounds. . . . Happy birthday to Harriet Minch Oct. 25. She received a beautiful ring. . . . Millie K. had that first sad experience with pie baking. It was a cocoanut cream; but when she browned the meringue, the pie caught fire. Poor hubby not only went without pie, but burned his hands pulling it out. . . . One of the girls who eats with Viola's group plays tricks with her grapes. . . . Erwin Zollinger and Don Burns say that they just got so good at that euchre game that the boys split up and have turned elsewhere for competition. . . . Gerald Briggs picked up the wrong sack the other morning. When lunch time rolled around, he had a lot of cookies—nothing else. . . . Jim Tarr left us last Tuesday. Good luck, Jim. . . . It wasn't mentioned to Ray Snyder one night that he was to work overtime, so he slipped out. But alas, he received a printed letter requesting him to work thereafter. . . . Pondo started out for Canada for the week-end to attend a big wedding. Detroit was as far as the buggy would make it, so Pondo missed the wedding. . . . Some of the girls on the computer line attended a party at Nondes Miller's house one night last week. Everyone had a good time. What kind of a party? A lingerie party. . . . Come on, everyone, let's have some news next week.

Thought for the Week—"Pleasant Memories must be arranged for in advance." —Ray D. Everson.

FASCINATING FACTS: Fish have but a few nerves around the mouth and suffer little when they are hooked. . . . The human heart, rated at only 1/240th of one horsepower, circulates between nine and 10 tons of blood daily. . . . Florida usually has more thunderstorms than any other state. . . . The bear so often mentioned in Scriptural writing is the Syrian bear, distinctive for its gentle disposition. . . . Selling at the same per ounce price as a woman's bathing suit, a man's overcoat would cost about $595. . . . WRONG WAY: Madonna Bailey, who always has more trouble than anyone we know of getting caught in transit bus doors, now comes up with a new one. Miss Bailey took someone home to the south end of town the other day, started for home and ended up on the Decatur road, about three miles out. A little later on she went looking for Nuttman Avenue and ended up at Roanoke, Ind. We learn this morning on good authority that Miss Bailey purchased her car at Auburn, but has never gone back to Auburn to have it serviced because she cannot find her way. . . . THEATRICAL: Ruby LaVonne has been told repeatedly that her name sounds very theatrical. Could it be that she went to New York at some time or other to try out her talents? . . . SCOTCH: Pearle Honeck is the "epitome of frugality." We hear she tried to ride the bus on a penny last week and now is trying to escape bringing candy for her approaching birthday. . . . BAD BOY: We wonder what kind of mischief Harry Waggoner got himself into to be moved into a far corner. First he sits in the midst of women and now the best he rates is a radiator. . . . HE STOPPED: The other day Harry Hartman had to make a few calculations so decided to do them the easy way. In the Methods Section is an ultra modern calculating machine which performs miracles with figures. Harry calculated that for his calculations this machine was just what he needed. In an experimental manner he pressed a few keys, touched a button and things happened. Gears started grinding, cams started to clatter, and the carriage began jumping around. Harry jerked back in surprise, forgetting that he had a fountain pen in his hand. As a consequence his face, hand and shirt were splattered with ink. Bud Fisher, who was behind him, started to laugh. "Ha, ha, ha, that's funny," cackled Bud. Just then one of the girls inquired, "Just what are you laughing at? Look at your shirt." Bud looked. Harry's wild toss had splattered him with ink. Mr. Fisher stopped laughing.

Doctor: "Do you smile at your troubles as I advised you?"

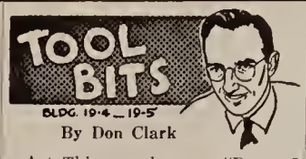
Patient: "Yes, and the boss warned me three times to wipe that silly grin off my face and to get to work."

Rumor has it that Otto (Headlines) Braun is just jealous of a certain party because he can't get Keck to wash the coffee pot for him as that party did. . . . Al (Soft drink King) Topp says the only reason he entered Freeman's cottage without fear of sinking is because he knows the cottage is built on pontoons. . . . Lucy Keller went to Detroit to see the Edison Museum and Greenfield Village last Sunday. She said, "I sure would like to go back, but to walk those 260 acres I just couldn't stand!" . . . George Harmeyer, notice: "They say bright eyes indicate curiosity. Yes, so do black eyes."

On Recovery Road

Evelyn Yoquelet is recovering from an appendectomy operation at her home near Wolf Lake. . . . We wonder why Dutch Norwalt's son-in-law and Archie Rian won't go fishing with Dutch anymore. . . . Link Braden has been appointed secretary of Al Topp's gang because he is the only one able to write. By the way, Mel France has just joined the outfit. . . . Inspector Klejnot is certainly on the job. He keeps his eye on Otto (always right) Braun. . . . Rita Osborn and Rose Ann Peters are both getting married. Rita has set the date for Oct. 26 and Rosie, for Oct. 28. Best wishes, girls. . . . Happy birthday to Gertie Hughes and Hilda Lytal. . . . Margie (Hines) Berger wants to thank the girls for the gifts. . . . We wish Nettie Englebrecht, Edith Johnson, Stacy Steele, Phyllis Heathman and Vera Everett a happy birthday. . . . People certainly bring funny things in their lunch buckets. For instance, we are wondering what the monkey was doing in Irene Shroyer's lunch box Saturday night.

Order Your Deer Meat Early



Roy Hosler wants everybody to get their order in for deer meat. Roy is going to leave for Canada to hunt deer next Sunday. This is his 14th trip. . . . Jeanette Kiger spent last week-end in Brown County enjoying the beautiful scenery. . . . What is it about Katie's desk that has a peculiar odor? Could it be the smoked herring Ed Englert hid carefully in the drawers? . . . The two pros, Ralph Braden and Joe Troendly, assistant, are going to teach Fay Russell, Dick Moore and some other amateurs how to shoot at Southwest Gun Club Sunday, Oct. 28. . . . We have a great dress designer on second shift. Evelyn Buckles is taking it up at school. You may consult her on latest fashions. . . . Leo Klejnot let the coffee pot go sour again. This week he hid it so they couldn't find it. . . . Faye Patten's daughter was married Sunday night. Faye really looked nice. . . . Our sincere sympathy to Dewey Snyder, whose father died suddenly. . . . Milton Flowers says his daughter is really growing. She weighs 12¾ pounds now.

Some Diet!

Since Kathryn Kral has gone on a diet, she eats only four ice cream bars and six cokes a day now. . . . We hear Edna Bailey is looking for a job morning and evenings now since her folks sold their cows. . . . Sharon Lash is back from California. . . . We welcome William Simonsen and Walter Schneider to the Test Section, second shift. . . . Tom Freeman ran out of gas on Broadway the other evening with that old Chevy of his. He had to borrow a dollar from Ralph Braden to get it moving. They say he hates to buy more than a gallon at a time. What are you trying to do, Tom, wean it? . . . We certainly miss Walter Ecker, who has been ill for some time. We wish him a speedy recovery. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Russell Carter have a new baby boy. Mrs. Carter is formerly Virginia Applegate of the Bldg. 26-4 office.

TROUBLES: Merrill Weaver, resident of Geneva, had trouble with his automobile one day last week. He cranked and he cranked and he said all sorts of things. Then he got a gas truck to push him for several miles in the country. Finally they stopped to see if they could find the trouble. Yeah, you guessed it. Out of gas! . . . SIDELIGHTS: Glenn McDonald is still building his home trying to get it in shape before the snowballs get him. . . . Karl Schnepp is still looking for a house to rent. . . . Chet McIntosh is taking over for McDougal. McDougal is replacing Leonard Meyer, who is confined to the hospital. . . . Ernie and Deola Foreman are moving into their new home. . . . "Ironing Board" Charlie Debolt is doubling for Art Denig, who is still on the sick list. That is why we saw Charles Cook and Jack Eady around a few nights this week. . . . Which foreman is the owner of the car to which a male member of the bovine family took a dislike? Was he very emphatic about expressing his dislikes, Carl? . . . Evelyn Plasterer rolled a 200 game recently. Nice going, Evelyn. . . . GOOD LUCK, MARCUS: If you wish to see the account of Marcus Foreman in the Saturday Evening Post, just look on page 52, and read all about him. The article is titled "Hello in the Rain." It looks as though the boy is heading for the "big time." Marcus is the son of Dan Foreman. He put labels on boxes in the Packing Section during the summer. . . . HAPPY BIRTHDAY: To Flossie Hower, Alma Fruchte, Harold Durbin, Helen Wellman and George Womack. The gang wishes to thank Lorene Geisel for the candy. . . . THANKS TO EVERYONE: Mary Fennig asked us to say "Thank You" to all of you for the lovely flowers and the many cards which were sent to her while she was confined to her home. . . . A MERRY CHASE: When does a hunter turn out to be the object of the chase? Joe Adams says that it is when you are strolling through the woods in search of squirrels and meet up with mamma pig and her little piglets. Speed records were broken by both, or so Joe claims. . . . PLEASANT WEEK-END: A trip through Brown county and other scenic spots was very much enjoyed last week by Hilda Staley, Tye Fry, Grace and Betty Reichert. If you are still expecting to receive a card from Hilda, don't look for it any longer. It might be one of those that Hilda mailed in a trash container. . . . VACATIONING: Two members of the Tool Room, Al Schneider and Oran Schultz, enjoyed their vacations recently. . . . A third week of vacation will be spent by Erna Weiland just resting and perhaps a short visit with relatives. . . . RETURNED: We wish to welcome Alice Lake and Ray Moser back after an extended absence due to illness. . . . ON THE SICK LIST: Leonard Meyer is in the local hospital where he underwent surgery. A speedy recovery, Leonard. . . . She hands out the pills for our aches and pains and bandages our sprains, but she fell a victim to old man germ. Eloise's greatest affliction, of course, was the loss of her voice. This is only a temporary thing, but always especially annoying to a woman. . . . HOME FROM JAPAN: A long awaited and happy event took place at the home of Annabelle and Tibby Gehrig Wednesday evening. Their son, Dick, returned from Japan after a year's absence. . . . HAS ANYONE AN ASPIRIN? Now what could have given anyone the idea that Frances Reidenbach was in need of one? Just how did it happen that you had that picture showing the need of aspirins?

By Don Clark

Art Thieme, who says "Do as I say and not as I do," is welcomed back to work. The broken bone in his foot is mending slowly. . . . When Al Nebur started wearing his new glasses, a newcomer stopped him near the gate and asked him, if he was the doctor. Ed Kayser thinks he looks more like "Seat Cover Charlie." . . . Bill Hoel complains every year about the tough skin on the rabbits he shoots. This year Charlie Ueber has suggested making him some tenderizing shot pellets out of old high speed tool bits.

Welcome, Girls

We welcome Edythe Gordon, who is filling in for Doris (Poe) Patton. Doris is enjoying a honeymoon way down in Florida. . . . Also Shiela Kuelbs has joined our ranks. . . . We express sympathy to Agnes Ditlinger in the death of her father. . . . We were also sorry to learn of Art Jenne's wife falling down the basement stairs. We wish you an early recovery, Mrs. Jenne. . . . Splicing movie film must be great fun according to Paul Shive and Bob Plasterer. We've heard that the most difficulty was in rerolling the film from the floor. What about the electric sweeper, boys? . . . John Snyder was tracing down a short in his car's ignition system. As he started the motor he heard a loud noise. It turned out to be a broken piston—is he unhappy!

In The Corn Belt

Del Stickler was much surprised when he went home to find the basement decorated like the middle of a corn field. His wife forgot to tell him she was fixing it up for a party. . . . John Roemer was rooting for Central Catholic when they lost to North Side. He could take the loss but couldn't take the frigid weather. . . . Walter Pook is a much wiser man now. . . . He not only has joined the married men's ranks but has also seen the sights in Florida. . . . We congratulate Earl Lenz on becoming a grandfather last Thursday. Earl is also looking forward to the return of his son who is serving with the Marines in the Philippines. . . . Fred Erb tells us he is very happy and busy in his retired life. . . . Jack Schemehorn, manager of the tool division volleyball team, is calling for more players young or old. Don Alcott, Paul Yentes and Charlie Shipman are already practicing for a winning season.

Lost, One Coat

Willie Garman thought the square dance was okay except someone mistakenly walked off with his top coat. . . . We hear that Clarence Brenner spent his third week vacation painting at home and taking in a college football game on Saturday. . . . Eric Bluhm also stayed close to home, while Mart Walsh went to Ohio and Gene Denig visited the Smokies.

Inquiring Reporter:

"DO YOU THINK THAT THE BRITISH-IRANIAN OIL DISPUTE SHOULD BE INVESTIGATED AND SETTLED BY THE UN SECURITY COUNCIL?"

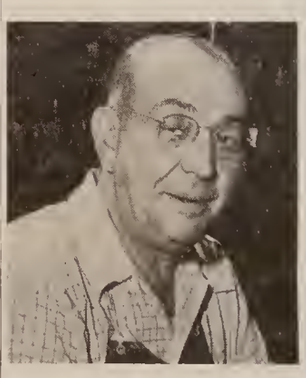
BEN HOFFMAN

Bldg. 26-1

"Since Britain developed oil in Iran, which was a blessing to the country, I feel that Iran is now biting the hand that fed her. On the other hand, the British may be just a little too selfish for their own good. I think it needs the attention of the UN for a fair settlement."

BETTY STEBING

Bldg. 6-2



"It seems that Britain has again 'locked the barn door after the horse was stolen.' She should have made a settlement with Iran long ago and returned the oil fields. However, since the dispute has grown to such proportions, the UN Council seems to be the only solution."

BOB WIRE

Bldg. 27

"If the UN is to succeed as an international hall of justice, the British-Iranian problem must surely be settled there. Then, if a fair and just verdict is reached, history will note another tolling of the bell of doom for the lecherous, socialistic British."

FRED R. REAM

Bldg. 4-5

"Any dispute that arises between two countries that cannot be settled peacefully and may lead to combat by all means should be settled by the UN Security Council."

LESLIE J. FRANE

Taylor St.

"No, I do not. I think Britain should settle their own mess. We have almost always come to the aid of the British, and I feel it is about time that they settle their own troubles."

Irma and Thata "SPECIALTY MOTOR"

Helen Gehle

Irmgard Gehle has decided to continue with her own brand of skin cream. She finds it is more dependable. Maybe Virginia Pfeiffer can explain why. . . . Rosemary Golliver needs to refresh her memory on a few history dates. It wasn't the Civil War that MacDonald was in. He isn't quite that old yet! . . . We wish the best of luck to Emmett Rasor on his new planning job. We will all miss you. . . . Jay Meichiels celebrated his birthday on Friday, and Saturday he wanted to buy a boat at an auction, but he came home with no boat! . . . Frank Voroil had a house full of family for a few days. Visiting him were his son from the Army and his daughter and his grandson whom he has seen for the first time. According to Frank there is no other one like that little one. . . . Jack Geiger's wife is in Tennessee. He is letting his whiskers grow until she returns. He isn't in any kind of a contest. . . . Rudy Trautman was presented with a big shield for his 40 years, and he is having a time keeping it polished himself. . . . Marvin Rutz is looking at the world through one eye. The other is all swollen. Which road did you get it on, Marvin?

Pre-G-E Gal

. . . The lady in the picture is none other than Beulah Briner at the tender age of 15. Beulah is leaving us next Wednesday to go on pension. We wish you the best of luck and continued happiness now that you are going to get to stay home. The following is a cute story about Beulah: She played one of those old fashioned pump organs for church when she was only six years old. After she was finished playing, she always went and sat beside her mother. Being a young child, she usually fell asleep while the minister was preaching and her mother always had to wake her up so she could play the closing hymn! . . . We of Division 1 express our sympathy to Hazel Herron on the death of her father, to Amanda Longwell in the death of her mother and to Clarence Weimer in the death of his stepmother. . . . Wilbur Stocks sure created a stir on Wayne St. last Wednesday night. He was seen carrying his grandchild down the street on that beautiful moonlight night with an open umbrella over their heads! . . . That unusually radiant smile on Mary Sitko's face was caused by the sparkler on her third finger left hand. We all wish you a lot of happiness when you and Jim Battrick get married. . . . Irma Scott almost had to follow her billfold to the kitchen. She left it on her tray and walked away. She said she didn't have much in it, but it was all hers. . . . Ray O'Brian received a nice letter from Louie and Clara Clark from their new home in Michigan. Sorry to hear that your father died, Clara. . . . Congratulations to Wilma Linker. She is a grandmother again. . . . Louie Barrows is on his third week's vacation, doing a little fishing. . . . Wonder why they call Don Nagel "Shorty?" Couldn't be that he is afraid of a little dead mouse? . . . First thing John Figley grabs for when he gets cold is his hat instead of a coat. He isn't bald either! . . . Carl Kinsey decided it didn't pay to pack his own lunch. He packed so much that he made himself sick. . . . Glad to see Berniece Johnson back at her old place after an extended illness. . . . Cathy Traughber and Mary Warren figured it would be cheaper to bring their own lunch. After eating nearly two chickens, they decided it was more expensive. . . . Mary Garrod really shouldn't make such statements, especially when it makes Billie Gawthrop fall on the floor and Helen White almost have a heart attack. . . . The girls in the lead section were surprised when they found that their honored guest Unis Steinbarger went to the cafeteria not knowing of their intention of having a pot luck dinner in honor of her birthday. . . . Edith Juillart accompanied her husband to Chicago where he was a delegate from Whitley county to the National Safety Congress. . . . Congratulations to Helen White on her birthday and to the following people who have birthdays coming soon: Olive Elliott, Nov. 1; Cora Rice, 3; Joyce Schroeder, 3; Carl Metker, 3; Margaret Erickson, 10; William Wickliffe, 10; George Prince, 11; Bertha Click, 13; Alma Merrvin, 13; Ella Staver, retired, 19; Vera Fetro, 19; Mary Reynolds, 24; Helen Struver, 25; Clara Krudop Schneider, retired, 25; Ed Glenwith, 29, and Nancy Locke, 12.

There is no teaching like a good man's life.—Ellery Sedgwick.

Shaft Shavings

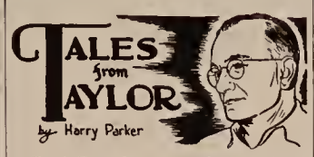
by Charlene Bloom



Leroy Cook had a dream recently that could only be the result of a distracted mind. He dreamed that Forrest Reed had been turned into a worm by means of a newly invented machine that was intended to relieve arthritis. Whether Forrest ever regained human form is unknown because Cookie awoke while Forrest was sitll squirming on the floor. However, since Forrest appeared at work the following morning we feel that he escaped from the clutches of Cook's mad subconscious mind. . . . Forrest Reed wound up a very successful squirrel hunting season. He spent his third week of vacation shooting the furry rodents near Plymouth. Forrest refuses to tell his total for fear of getting into trouble with the conservation law, but he says he did very well. . . . Mrs. Harris did things to Everett's 1951 Ford a week ago. She failed to see a truckload of soy beans and nudged it a bit, demolishing most of the front end of the car. Everett bemoans the incident, but is putting on a brave face. . . . Perk Sickafus is buying a new 1938 Chrysler for $85. All children are warned to stay out of the streets. . . . Ed Dickey gave a pint of blood last week for the Red Cross. Too bad a few more of us don't do the same thing. . . . Charlie McCormick claims he caught an 18 inch pike at Deer Lake, Minn.

Tales from Taylor

by Harry Parker

Paul Zuercher, our shotgun boogie man, sat up the other night into the wee small hours reading spook stories. Some of them frightened him so badly that he was afraid to go to bed. He finally braved the darkness and stretched himself out upon the divan of Morpheus, where he soon fell into a deep sleep. Then he began to dream of spooks and prowlers. So well did it work upon his subconscious mind that he thought prowlers were in the house. Arising, he broke out his trusty musket and went in search of said prowler. Bumping into a door brought him to the realization that it was just a dream and nothing more. . . . It seems that Jim Gambrell was required to obtain a copy of his vaccination certificate. Now being vaccinated in a city quite some distance below the Mason and Dixon line, Jim had to send for it. It seemed that it would never get here but it finally did after much worry and sweating on his part. We learned that the reason for this delay was that the distant city being located well back in the hills and the city fathers not keeping very good records of such matters. . . . Don Arnold was very busy the other day, obtaining information from his various coworkers on the dimensions and construction of chicken house and brooders. Now he is not going to raise chickens but is going to try his hand at raising those new pullet type turkeys. He tells us that the public is tired of eating chicken and wants something just a little different so he intends to make this venture with expectation of cashing in on it a year hence. . . . Brice Martin owns a nice piece of property in this city, of which he is justly proud. The other day, he was informed over the telephone that the place was on fire and that they would desire his appearance upon the scene. So Basil (High Velocity) Bowley dashed him to the scene of the conflagration in his trusty clunker. They arrived just as the firemen had completed the job of dousing the flames. The extent of the damage was a burned out flue lining, nothing more.

Sleuthing in 4-6

LOST—ERASING MACHINE: A little over a week ago the floor was washed and waxed at the south end of the DC Division. While waxing, the janitors hung Adolph Strasser's erasing machine on the back of his board. The next day, Adolph went up and told Walter Brake that someone stole his erasing machine. So, Mr. Brake proceeded to walk up and down the aisle looking for it. After awhile he gave that up for a lost cause and told Ernie Spaulding to get him another one. So, Adolph got another erasing machine. When he went to plug it in, he found something already plugged in his outlet. He traced the wire and found his erasing machine. Was he ever surprised! . . . NEW CAR: What's this we hear about L. L. Ray getting a new Packard. We hear he is having a little trouble, so we would like to send out this appeal to everyone. Wanted: One bicycle for L. L. Ray to ride to work, as his wife won't let him drive the new Packard. . . . HURRY BACK: As of last Monday we still have Paige Thompson and Paul Lange on the sick list, although we expect Paige back with us very soon. . . . EXCITEMENT: My what excitement, planning our DC Christmas party, out of five places from which to choose, we are having quite a time; we might add the suggestion sent in by Duke Brake (we know you did it) was rather 'risque' but resulted in many hearty laughs, it would have had to, coming from 'the Duke'. . . . ADDITION: The Lavergne Taylors are the proud parents of Skipper, a three-month-old Dalmatian puppy. Margaret, the Walt Gerke's are also the proud parents of a two-month-old Springer Spaniel. . . . SOME GUY: Who is the guy that collects the pretty leaves for one of the gals in the AC Division. How about this, Doris Jean? . . . FAREWELLS: We bid adieu to a great gal, Joan Cormany, who is leaving the Company this Friday. We want to wish you all the luck and success in the world, Joan, and don't forget to drop a line once in a while to your friends back here. John Harris is leaving and reports to the Motor Generator Division across the street, also farewell to Paul Waldon, we liked having you around very much, Paul, and we do wish you loads of good luck in Pittsfield. . . . CONGRATULATIONS: To James Jellison, of Sales, who was married Saturday, October 20, to Charlotte Scott, the Taylor St. Sales Section. We wish you both the best of luck and happiness.

THE GENERAL ELECTRIC NEWS

Picture Supplement

VOLUME 16 OCTOBER 26, 1951 No. 10

Revealing Exposure Meter . . . GE recently introduced the first exposure meter to be developed primarily for use with color film. Miss Leo Johns of Boston compares the size of new meter with a familiar box of matches. Although only obout one-half the size of standard-size exposure meters, GE engineers say the "Mascot" is "comparable in occuracy and sensitivity to the larger models."

The Big Day . . . Five thousond Schenectady Quarter Century Club members were guests of GE ot recent outing where they were treoted to a full program of entertainment, gate prizes, music, eats and refreshments. (Below) Among the crowds was this Q-C family, the Maroccos. Shown in foreground, from left: Joseph, Dominick, Lawrence ond Fred Morocco. The latter two are retired; Fred is Joe's father.

Golden Wedding Day . . . GE pensioner Wolter Parsells and his wife (seated), celebrating their fiftieth wedding onniversory recently, share their best wishes cards with their daughter, Mrs. John Ploch, and their grandchildren, John and Corol. Mr. Parsells retired from the Bloomfield Works in 1945.

Seasoned Sailor . . . Youngest skipper ever to win the trophy race, A. W. Everest, Jr., 13, receives the Pontoosuc Lake Sailing Club trophy from race committee choirman Noah C. Disco. Crew member for Wallie's 16-foot Comet, Nika, is his sister Anne. At right is their father A. W. Everest, Pittsfield Works.

The GE Story Goes to 12,000,000 Viewers Throu

1. Producers, directors, writers ond scenery designer develop the cammercials for the coming show every Monday. More than 135 man-haurs a week go into the detailed production planning, script writing ond getting technical approvals.

2. Producer Bob Banner, right, discusses general theme af show with Fred Waring. Routines, selection of soloists and music orrangements are warked out weeks in advance.

3. Every week GE products are checked in at the CBS studio and praduct selling points discussed by advertising agency director Bob Clear, left, and the show onnouncer Bob Hite.

Throughout General Electric thousands of men and women — in research, engineering, production, management and sales — are putting forth their best efforts to produce and deliver the best products to millions of customers.

In the advertising groups, men and women are likewise constantly striving to develop the most effective ways of carrying the story of GE products and services to millions of potential customers. A successful advertising program plays an important part in making GE a good place to work.

Every Sunday, 9-10 p.m. EST, on CBS-TV, you and yaur friends can tune in the Fred Waring Show, which is televised in 50 cities across the natian. Because of the popularity of the Waring Shaw, an estimated 12,000,000 televiewers watch the show each week, and through the commercial presentations developed by the GE advertising groups and their agencies become acquainted with the advantages of GE products.

What does it take each week to praduce a top show with 12 awards for the best popular-music program on TV? Ta stage one major number, for example, which is shown in two minutes on your screen, it may require more than 300 haurs of hard work by 13 job groups totaling some 130 peaple. Other non-staff people — seamstresses, scenery builders and truck drivers wha work outside the studio — add as much as 140 man-hours more. In all, to plan, develop and praduce the show each week, over 150 people combine their talent, time and efforts during the week-lang work schedule from Manday through Sunday's 7-8 p.m. dress rehearsal.

Pictured here are a few examples af the work it takes to produce a show that every week brings GE's message ta millions of televiewers.

4. Show choreographer Nadine Gae, seated, supervises all the fittings af gowns. Fittings must be as near perfect os possible in order to create the proper effect in the ensemble and dance routines.

5. Colleen Campbell, right, CBS-TV mokeup expert, gives the Fred Waring Glee Club girls individualized instruction in makeup so that each girl can be sure of her best face under the bright lights before the cameras

The Waring TV Show

6. Many rehearsals are necessary to attain perfection the shaw demands. Waring strives to interpret music visually without subordinating ear appeal to eye appeal.

7. Introduction of guest stars this season, like June Havoc shown here, enables building o show idea around the visitor's talents. Broadway and Hollywood stars are scheduled for future programs.

8. Nadine Gae and Marc Breaux are the featured dance team on the Fred Waring Shaw. Nadine also conceives and directs all the dance routines for the entire shaw.

9. Dress rehearsals "on camera", shown above, along with the integrated commercials, presented by announcer Bob Hite, right, are done before showtime on Sunday evenings to perfect timing and camera movements. Here last minute changes ore made.

10. Al DeCapria, at the mike, as camera director from the control room, is responsible for the plotting and directing of each one of the hundreds of camera movements in the hour-long shaw.

11. In the comfort of their homes 12,000,000 televiewers watch the shaw each week and receive an effective presentation of the story of GE products and services.

Safety-Wise Owls . . . Meeting the original wise owl is eighteen-year-old John D. Smith, a machine apprentice at the Schenectady Works, who recently became the 2000th member of the Wise Owl Club. Sponsored by the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness, the club is composed of industrial workers who saved their sight by wearing safety glasses on the job. GE has 45 Wise Owl chapters, the largest number of all companies participating in this safety incentive plan.

First For Civil Defense . . . Colonel William M. Talbot, USAF (retired), left, Director of the Warning and Communications Division of the Federal Civil Defense Administration, receives the first GE civil defense FM radio receiver to come off the productian lines at Electronics Park, Syracuse, N. Y. Paul L. Chamberlain, manager of sales for the GE Commercial and Government Equipment Department, makes the presentation.

Do You Look Like Your Job?

Just as pieces of a picture puzzle have links that connect them, so some people have facial characteristics that seem to fit them to their jobs. When we hear some one speak of a musician, a cowboy or a miner, for example, we get mental pictures of the faces of these persons.

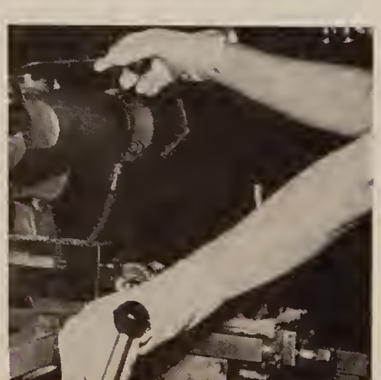
We automatically classify some faces with certain occupations because the individuals look like their jobs. On this page, are eight pictures of G-E employees at their jobs. The above pictures show the employees' faces and the lower pictures show their hands at work. Can you tell which person does which job? Object: match the faces above with the hands below. Answers: Page 9.

1—Telegraph Operator

2—Armature Finisher

3—Motor Assembler

4—Lab Technician



5—Punch Press Operator

6—Plater

7—Wire Enameler

8—Lathe Operator

Babe Gephart's little daughter asked this question. Can you answer it? If we say a pair of pants, why don't we say a pair of shirts?

Inquisitive Patty

Quite clever, Patty. . . . Fern Yoder is spending a few days in Biloxi, Miss., with her brother who is in the service there. . . . We have been wondering why it has been so quiet in Bldg. 6-2. Woody Platt informed us it was because he has been working in Bldg. 4-2 for the past week. Hurry back, Woody. . . . Dessie George likes to work in the green room so well she doesn't even come out to eat until she is called. . . . You should see the new paint job we have in Bldg. 6-2. It's bright yellow aisle markings. . . . Mildred Cutchen hopes to stay at work long enough to get out of the dog house she lives in now. Mildred hopes to start building a new home next spring. . . . Since Jack Murphy got married, Dorl Roe is a confirmed cigar smoker. . . . Thelma Dammeier's daughter is entering the hospital Saturday morning. Hurry and get well, Vividee. . . . Woody Platt bought a new coffee pot, but says it still doesn't hold enough coffee. Better get a big coffee urn, Woody. . . . Mada Caudle came to work Friday afternoon with her hair all curled up and was told she looked ten years younger. Mada thinks she should have done that long ago. . . . Marie Bruggencrate has a new escort service. . . . Dorothy Franklin and Betty Collier are trying to be very good so they won't get their names in the paper. . . . Joe Tricker has a good motto for us all to follow: "Be happy to be able to work and be grateful to be alive."

If you missed that act by Heywood Starnes, you missed seeing the acrobatic stunt of the year. It's bad enough falling down, but Heywood had to pour coke all over himself. . . . Better have a couple of firemen keep an eye on Bert Gruber. We hear she's learning to smoke. Why are you buying all the linament, Bert? . . . The Blanket Warmer Line had a wiener bake at Polly Auer's. Those present besides the hot dogs included Elaine, Ethel, Sylvia, Maxine, Becky and Jane. The event was topped with a ride in Polly's new convertible. . . . We hear Fred Dey fell asleep while doing a job. . . . Welcome to Betty Lupton, who comes to us from Bldg. 31, and to Alice Zumbrum and Bertha Nichols, transferred from second shift. . . . The second preliminary testers claim to have invented the first knee-action ash tray. I suppose it's for those king-size cigarettes. . . . You probably know that Al Miller is particular about the specials he builds. After he assembles them, Al follows them right through test, pouring, packing, etc. Then he helps load them on a semi outside. But what happened the other day? Our oven, which has been running fairly well, cracked up right when Al's specials were coming out. . . . Don't offer to engage in an ice cream eating contest with Al. He can really stow it away. . . . Garnet Marshall is back on the job after a month's illness. . . . Ruth Klopfenstine is home from the hospital now and doing fine. . . . During lunch, Pat G. and Dick S. have been putting on a free show. . . . Wonder why Norma S. and Spider Webb save their pennies. We see Bea's jar is getting fuller. . . . Why did Buck, our elevator man, come in all dolled up in a suit and white shirt? We heard something about a motor running all night and an all night poker game.

We didn't know Clark Holmes was so selfish that he won't teach his wife to drive the new Mercury. He is afraid the car wouldn't be home all the time, as he is just like a boy with a new toy. We can recommend some driver training schools, Mrs. Holmes. . . . Ruth Clark and her family spent Sunday at Sherwood, Mich. . . . We are all wondering when Doyle Sheets is going to start his charm school. There are several who would like to enroll. . . . Sydonna Fox should wear a bell when she goes to the square dance so she wouldn't be so hard to find. . . . Alberta Watt has returned to work this week after being absent last week to be with her husband who is home from the hospital. We wish him a speedy recovery.

Notice

Anyone wanting moving done consult Bob Hull in the office. He is thinking of going in the moving business. We mean he is just thinking. . . . Will someone please furnish Clyde Boyce with a box of carpet tacks to keep the heels on his house slippers, or get him a new pair? . . . Dick Watters just can't seem to get enough sleep. . . . We are all very disappointed. We thought we were going to get invited to Melvin Riley's for a chicken dinner. Now Mel says the chicken has disappeared. . . . Mary Shreve would like to know how Lois Burry taught her parakeet to whistle.

She's Excused

We'll excuse Clara Gidley for being late to work Monday morning. It isn't every week-end that she can stay at the Waldorf-Astoria. She reports a wonderful time at the Interclub Conference held in New York. Ollie Ragan, Beverly Numbers and Mary Shreve appreciated her remembrances from the Big City. . . . Herb Richter reports he had a wonderful vacation sightseeing in the southern part of Indiana.

The testers and inspectors gave a potluck supper in honor of their foreman, Ducky Drake, who returned to Broadway. The crowd was pretty evenly matched with 18 women and 17 men. A number of the foremen were in the group. We all wish you good luck, Ducky. . . . Marcella Goyer can't quite understand this income tax business. . . . Ask Homer Huser how he likes potlucks. He ate so much he couldn't get his sleep out and napped at the supper hour the next day. . . . We are sorry Almer Raymer's son was ill and she had to miss work. . . . Dorothy Hart was off work Monday to attend her father-in-law's funeral. . . . Millie Rietdorf certainly was a sleepy gal last Monday. Millie spent the week-end in Wisconsin. She had a good time but very little sleep. . . . They have a new sealing machine in the Packing Section so Johnny Swein doesn't have to work so hard. . . . Can anyone give Fred Seip some ideas on a Halloween costume, it will be appreciated. . . . The 51 frame wants to wish Ducky good luck on his new job. . . . Violet Renkenberger visited her youngest son who is stationed at Ft. Custer, Mich. . . . Anyone wishing to know how to make coffee cake ask Eva Webber, she can tell you what she did. . . . Things have quieted in the Knight household since Mary Knight's sister was married Oct. 6. . . . Rennie Phelps and Walter Williams have been off work ill. We hope to see you back to work soon. . . . Mary Biehl is leaving us to go on first shift. We will miss you, Mary. . . . It was too bad Helen Orr had the flu on her birthday. But we celebrated when she came back to work with a three-day-old cake. . . . When you hear some one saying these things, you can be sure it's Margaret Harrison saying, "I'm hungry;" Ernie Palmer saying, "You're wrong about that;" Olen Shank, "Let's go fishing!" Ray Laudenback, "My back hurts;" Al Telschow, "You bet," and Harley Springer, "Well, let's see now."

SO LONG: Last Wednesday Gertie Beekner put away her tools and started a week's vacation. This vacation was a week to get rested to start a life of ease. We wish you the best of everything. . . . IN NEW YORK: Our floor was well represented for the Elex trip to New York. Those making the trip included Mary Zirkle, Doris Ryan, Floetta Zartman, Hedy Harrison, Lorena Buuck, Jenny Zimmerman, Elizabeth Wert and Jo Alles. . . . Congratulations on the pink-bootied tax deduction at the Charles and Helen Angel home. The mama is a former co-worker. . . . MYSTERY: If you read two papers from the same day is one more interesting? Bertha Witham was seen getting a WORKS NEWS, reading it and putting it under her work bench with the rest of her stuff. Then she went out and got another copy and read that one. . . . Luella Masson has a great imagination. She says her grandson is trying to say grandma at the age of two months. . . . Emma Snyder has decided she needs coffee making instructions. . . . Eunice Zehr said they drove all the way to Turkey Run last Sunday and never saw a turkey. . . . Could you guess who? It's none other than Orville Kauffman and his dog. . . . Sally Lawrence was on vacation last week. . . . This week Frank Shidler is vacationing. . . . Anne Kensill has joined the new car class. It's a Mercury. . . . EYE OPENER: If you are sleepy in the mornings, a good way to wake up is by taking the stairs all in one step. At least when Margaret Zumbrun hit the bottom step, she was wide awake. . . . When Virgie Mayer opened the garage door, she wished she had safety shoes on. Then she wouldn't be wearing a house slipper to work. . . . Pete Heckley and Elmer Lamley must have been hungry. We hear they were eating paper napkin sandwiches. . . . Everyday, we see more familiar faces. We welcome you back and hope you stay awhile. . . . Glad to hear that Sarah Meagher is improving. . . . Our sympathy to Doris Ryan in the death of her grandfather.

HOLD THE PHONE: We were listening to Guy Oberlin trying to explain to someone the reason why it is so hard to contact other departments by phone between the hours of 11:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. Guy told them it was due to the staggering lunch periods. "Daryl Long and Mary Lynn, what you all mixing in that tea and coffee?" . . . POCKETS BULGING: Did you notice Art Gardt a week ago Thursday walking around all day with his hand on his hip pocket? His pockets were bulging with those ever-welcome greenbacks. We are happy to hear of your good fortune, Art, old boy. Let us know when you are ready to spend some of it and we'll help you. . . . THREE SPEEDS FORWARD: Al Streb has had his new Chevrolet nigh on to six months now and just found out that it has three speeds forward and only one in reverse. . . . PENNY WISE: Nolan Riley thought he would save parking lot expense by parking on a private lot only to find out the hard way that his car was towed away which cost him $4.50 plus $1.00 for a parking ticket. Why don't you take a few lessons in sign language, Nolan?

Florence Fett has a new addition in her family. Her son Jim has a new Pinto named Lucky. . . . We think Cece Onion's name should be Lucky. It didn't take a week to collect that Notre Dame bet. . . . June Allegier sent in some cookies via your reporter for the girls. They reported they were very good. June is now working in Bldg. 6-2. Happy landing, June. . . . Ruth Barnes has been carrying all her coats in to work these last two weeks. It hasn't rained yet, Ruth. . . . A. Bienz had a swell vacation and said the weather was fine, too. He was telling us about the flood district. From reports we should be glad that we do not live down in that district. . . . Dorothy Swank and Gladys Stahley will be climbing on the scales and screaming, "NO," if they don't stop eating those super sundaes at noon. . . . Ray Smith tells us the egg business is going to the dogs. The hens just stopped on him. . . . Clarence Didier was closing the window the other night when he squeezed a bat. It was sitting on top of the window and dropped to the floor. It wasn't long before Mr. Bat was boxed up. But, we don't know just what happened to him after that. . . . Bert Brown, our left-handed bowler, finally got his ball fitted to his hand. Due to his own efforts he beat Ed Bowser and Jim Carey this last week. You oldtimers had better watch out.

Be careful whom you make faces at. While his wife picked up a package on Main Street, Chick Waltemath waited in his parked car. Dick Mueller, messenger boy, passed by on his scooter bike. Chick proceeded to put his hand to his face and wave. A few minutes later a "big bruiser" opened Chick's car door. The big fellow demanded to know if the insult was intended for him. Chick quickly explained that it was meant for the fellow on the scooter. . . . Earl Elwonger picks up Claude Penn on the way to work each morning. One day Claude came dashing out of the house, then put on the brakes, stopped in mid-air, turned around and went back in the front door. He had forgotten his lunch. Claude finally came from around the side of the house. Earl wondered why Claude came from the back. Claude explained that he had to retrieve his lunch from the garbage can. He picked up his lunch sack instead of the garbage on his trip to the garbage can. . . . WHO'S NEW IN 31-2? Joan DeJean, our new AC file clerk in the AC Division, comes from Cleveland. Her husband is an engineer in Bldg. 4-6. . . . We have Marian Wolf back again on our floor. Marian is working for Paul Bohn, replacing Florence Knight. . . . Jo Anne Hockemeyer in our Sales Office, Bldg. 19-3, is quitting this week. Jacqueline Pennock will take her place. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Ed Wahl are the proud parents of a brand new baby boy. . . . James Bain is back to work in the drafting room after recovering from a recent operation. . . . Halloween will soon be here with the false faces and trick or treaters. Do you have your treats ready?

Hap Carter's G-E Club team of the Office League subdued a stubborn AC team and succeeded in winning its 21st game. This does not mean that the team has won 21 straight games. The record speaks for itself. The G-E Club's record to date is one won and 20 lost.

Ampliydnes lead the league, 18-3, and Aircraft is in second place with 16-5. The high team score was rolled by AC, a good 1,034 count.

The Double Century Club received many new members and some old timers. They are Rudy Zelt, 215; Vic Rump, 213; Orval Doherty, 212; Bill Francc, 212; Dan Ewing, 211; John Johnson, 207; Ted Appleman, 206; Toby Tyler, 203; E. Auman, 237; Gil Baker, 208; Carl Hattendorf, 201; Bob Meyer, 202, and just getting into the club with the pinboys' help, Bob Knepple, 200.

Small Motor League

The Tool team still remains on top of the pile with 15 won and three lost. The Office team is starting to close the gap and is only three games out of first place. It has won 12 and lost six.

We are glad to see Carl Brandt back in the league. Carl started out in good shape with a count of 180, 180 and 182. It could have very easily been a 180 triplicate, but Carl wouldn't throw the ball away in the last frame and picked up the two extra pins.

Tom Staley and Bob Duras have started the Plating team on a winning streak. Tom rolled a 210, and Bob keglcd an even 200. The members of the Models joined the Double Century Club with the exception of one bowler. Ed Bauer had a 202; Dick Siedel, 200; Iron Man Margarum, 201, and Ervie Haugh, 204. Kenny Williams could only get a 188, and Dick Siedel, the captain, was looking for a substitute.

Cliff Smead is getting away from throwing like a softball player and came up with a 202 count. Jim Carey was steadily picking up those spares and ended up with a 202. Models rolled a 2,700 to lead the league.

Masonic League

Doris is continuing its winning streak. It defeated Composites and is leading the league by a 16-5 record. The Gravels, Squares and Corinthians are tied for second with a 12 won, nine loss standing.

Ed Crabill had a pin heavy 651 count on scores of 224, 256 and 171. W. Larson counted with a 243; E. Smith, 219; Ned Neuman, 214; J. Jones, 209; R. Kohlenberg, 208; K. Moore, 205, and Somers, 201.

Ladies' Monday Night League

Things were a little quiet at least as far as toppling pins are concerned. The high game of the night was kegled by Dorothy Fuhs, a 190 count. Margie Huber had counts of 184 and 181 which ends the big scores of the ladies for the night.

Pepperettes are still leading the league by virtue of a close three game win over the Hard Nincrs. The Pepperettes' record is 17 wins and four losses. The Alley-gators also won three games, defeating the Gutter-bellcs.

Apparatus League

Team No. 11 is leading the league with a 16 won, two loss record. Ed (Beany) Bienz is hard on Windy Boester's heels for high average in the league. Ed brought his average up a couple of pins with a 201, 188 and 202 series. Harold (Clem) Lehman kegled a 201; Bob Blomker, 203, and Paul Brandt, 207.

Transformer League

Coils are still out in front with an eight-four record. Like baseball anything can happen, especially when four teams are tied for second place. The E-I, Autos, Bells and M are tied with seven won and five loss records.

Two hundred games were rather hard to be had with only two showing up. Rhine got 210 while Downie rolled 207.

Bowling Briefs

There are four alleys available on Tuesday nights after 8:30 for open bowling. Here is your chance to practice for the City Tournament. Don't forget, the team event will be held at the G-E Club alleys this year.

Owl Cagers Open Practice Nov. 7; League Play to Begin Nov. 21

by Bill Geist

Regular league play for the Owl Interdivision Basketball League will start Wednesday, Nov. 7, manager Bob Crosley disclosed today. The first practice sessions have been scheduled for Wednesday, Nov. 21. Games will be played each Wednesday morning at 8:30, 9:30, and 10:30 a.m. at the G-E Club gym.

The Owl basketball league held its first meeting at the G-E Club lounge Wednesday, Oct. 17. Fourteen players, including managers, were present.

Bob Crosley was in charge of the meeting. He outlined the districts or divisions to the team managers. Crosley also stressed the duties of the executive board which is composed of the team managers.

Anyone wanting more information is requested to contact Freddy Phillips, Bldg. 4-5; Bill Geist, Bldg. 17-4; Bob Markey, Bldg. 4-3, or Bob Crosley, Taylor St., extension 2576.

Jess Batchelder is quite worried now that Dale Hershberger has left. It leaves just he and Ozzie Nahrwold to take turns at being late. However, after Paul Armstrong came in late the other day, maybe Jess can get him to take Dale's place. . . . Harold Whonsetler left home with all quiet and serene one morning last week. He had just got working good when he received an urgent call to come home. On arriving there, Harold found the Mrs. trying to capture a squirrel which had entered the basement. It was playing havoc with the cans, dishes, etc., in its wild scramble to get out. Harold, remembering the old adage about the use of salt, had little difficulty subduing the critter and removing it outside where he turned it loose. Now each evening at dusk the little fellow returns and looks in the window hoping that its new friend will relent and let it in out of the cold. . . . John (Red) Braden has left to take up his new duties in Bldg. 17-4. Good luck, Red, we will be missing you out here. . . . Cecil Strong has been trying to find out how many beans it takes to make bean soup. He thinks it takes more than one lonely bean hull.

"GOOD FISHING AHEAD"—Says Fred Thieme, Bldg. 26-1, as he examines the outboard motor his co-workers gave him for a retirement present. An enthusiastic fisherman, he will be able to hook his motor on a boat and get in a lot of fishing during his retirement days. Mr. Thieme has been either a punch press operator or a set up man since starting with G-E in 1928.

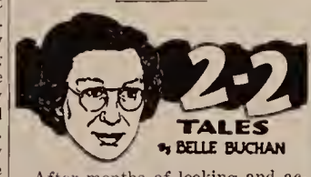
Recently one of the young ladies in our winding section found a large sum of money on a busy street in the downtown area. She immediately tried to contact the owner several times and also reported it to the police department, so soon everyone was happy. Hats off to the finder who was our own Lonnie Rockstroh. . . . On a recent beautiful Tuesday afternoon, our two Scotchmen Ray Scheibel and Max Kimble decided to find out how much mileage they could get on the ten cent city bus fare. They caught a bus on Broadway and rode to the Transfer Corner. Seeing a bus marked Harvester, they both ran to it. After stepping on many corns, they finally crowded to the middle of the bus. Max was very nervous, but couldn't even shake good until the crowd thinned out. Finally about two blocks from the Harvester, the bus driver stopped and said "that due to the tremendous vibration, the bus could go no further and would they please walk up to Pontiac and take that bus (another transfer). They finally caught the Pontiac bus, passed their homes, waved to their wives and came on to work Wednesday morning. . . . Mable Moore and Loretta Bloom say experience is a dear teacher after paying $2.50 for mint juleps. . . . While Al Rieman was eating his lunch, he noticed a terrific odor. He thought it was his sandwich, but it was okay. Finally Whitey Lieberenz noticed the odor came from a carload of fertilizer on a passing freight train but by this time Al had lost his appetite. . . . Smitty would like to know what Mac Mecrea did to receive the loving cup at the skating party. . . . Was that a check pool the boys were collecting or was Lola having another sale? . . . Audrey Oberley, Doris Hill, Helen Londrie, Viola Germann and Carolyn White spent a week-end in Brown County. All had a good time, but were kept busy chasing yellow jackets away. . . . Everyone would like to know how Bill Mowery is getting along with his broken leg. . . . A little bird told me Ernie Clark finally made LaVona get out of bed and come back to work last Saturday. How about it, Ernie? . . . Mary Williamson wishes to thank the girls for the present they brought her from Virginia. Everyone seemed to enjoy it but Zelma. . . . Girls in Ballast Stacking wish Claude a happy birthday. . . . If you are around the winding section stop and see Irma Wilkins' diamond. It really is a beauty. . . . We are glad to welcome Ernie Pfeiffer to the dispatching group in final assembly. . . . Clark Essig paid us a visit recently and looks the picture of health since his retirement. . . . Ann Wible believes in taking good care of her desk keys. She even locks them in the desk. . . . Murray Sherman says he would like to have a secretary like Whitey has. . . . The girls would like to have Art Rall bring them some candy in the future instead of the empty wrappers. . . . Whom did the shoes belong to that Lillian Mallo was shining last week?



Honest Lonnie

We are sorry to hear that Gene Mommer is in the hospital at Noblesville, Ind. Hope you are back soon, Gene. . . . Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Willard Juillerat on the arrival of Bill, Jr., last week. . . . Good luck to John Stickley, who is retiring next Wednesday. John, who works as a mason for Wallace Geller, has been employed by the Company for nine years. . . . Art Everett doesn't fish every week-end that he goes to the lake. He just hasn't brought his television set home yet. . . . Welcome baek to Leo Didion, who has heen off work for quite some time. . . . Welcome to Taylor St. to George Scott, Theodore Zinn and Jesse Rinkenberg. They all work for Pat Patterson on seeond shift. . . . Bet Pop Luebke is lonesome sinee the Daisies aren't playing ball. Wonder if he knows that there will be a girls basketball league this winter. . . . Have you noticed the imaginary spurs that Bill Schible is wearing? What's the story behind it, Bill? . . . Mrs. Schible is to be congratulated for exeeuting such a graceful fall at the square dance Saturday night. . . . Mrs. Van Auken couldn't make it to the dance, so Whitey took his daughter. A good time was had by all. . . . Is Henry (Spence) Tucker still working in Bldg. 10? We haven't heard from him in a long time. Maybe he is out looking for more stills. . . . Anyone wishing a preview of the car that will be in the big race next year, I hope you recognize Somers and his "sure thing." Place your bets now. We have proof that it goes at least 20.

Speed Demon Somers

After months of looking and accusing everyone around of having his horse shoes, Vern Castle was surprised when Harold Boles walked in and announeed that he had found them in his garage. I think Harold was pretty much surprised himself when he found them. . . . On vaeation this week are Jack Dobson and Frank Shidler. Jack is taking his family on a trip through the southern part of the state. Frank says that he is going to work awfully hard at doing nothing. . . . I guess that all of those mysterious charts on Eldon Vosburgh's office wall mean something. To me they look very much like the maps on the walls of train depots back in the days when I was a little girl. . . . We know now why Red (Harold) Braden is so good at golf. All of the other players are busy looking at those beautiful orchid colored shirts that Red wears.

COTTAGE CLOSING CELEBRATION—Several of the Accounting Department men help Herb Kammeyer, Bldg. 18-1, close his lake cottage each year. Those who paused long enough from their steak dinners to smile for the cameraman are clockwise from Herb Kammeyer (in plaid shirt), Edgar Waldschmidt, Al Berg, H. B. Leach, Phil Singleton, Bob Mace and Bob Meyer.

Side Line—The annual closing of the Herb Kammeyer cottage at Crooked Lake is always an enjoyable affair. Somehow the men manage to get the dock put by for the winter and still have a wonderful time. This year, the side line is a little tragic. You see, the game of horse shoe is really quite innocent that is, until the last game of the party. Then the four players really put some money on the dotted line. This year Edgar Waldschmidt and Bob Mace played Phil Singleton and Bob Meyers. Edgar and Bob are, self-admitted, pretty good. In order to get anyone to play with them in a moneyed game, they had to "spot" them 15 points. The odds were set and the game was on. The seore was tight 19-all when the hero, Phil, threw a ringer with his last shoe and won the game and the money for his team. It seems the experts are still wondering what happened. . . . Flex—The installation of officers last week was very impressive. We, one and all, in Bldg. 18 wish to extend to Thelma our congratulations on her sucessful year and to assure Donna of Bldg. 4-6, that she will have the full cooperation of all the girls. . . . The Interclub Conference—At the Waldorf-Astoria must have been a gala affair. We venture to say that the luncheon address by Mr. Martin was one of the best. Mr. Freeman was, without a doubt, the busiest man at the conference. Monday morning, a tired but happy group of girls returned to Fort Wayne wearing beautiful orchid corsages, a gift to each girl from Mr. Cordiner, and, believe it or not, also lovely rose corsages from Ed Maloley. My, life can be beautiful! Irene Meyers, Thelma Stone, Doris McKeefer, Marge Meyer and Marian Davies will all attest to that, I am sure. . . . Warning—Anyone driving in the 4500 block Weisser Park, Bob Hodell has painted his house fire-engine red. . . . Legal Department—is now established in Bldg. 18-2 under Douglas Moore, who may be reached on extension 2117. . . . Goodbyes were said last Friday to Doris Lehman. . . . Challenge—The solicitors will again call on the employees for contributions to the Community Service Fund. Technicalities have been adjusted to meet the desire of the majority, and it is our hope that the plan be accepted 100 per cent. I am sure that I express the sentiments of all the solicitors. . . . Vacations—Next week R. J. Hoffman will enjoy a week's vacation. The Bonds will go to Williamsburg, Va., for the week. I, therefore, say, "thank you" in advance to Ceal Romary for writing this column next week.

35-YEAR MAN—Arthur M. McNamara (seated), Bldg. 4-3, became a 35-year man at General Electric Thursday, Oct. 4. He is pictured showing a letter congratulating him on his service to (l-r, standing) Chauncey Buell, W. W. Dreyer and Edward Robin.

Ft. Wayne Works Gets Safety Council Award

The National Safety Council presented an award to the Fort Wayne Works this week in recognition of its outstanding achievement in reducing the frequency of disabling injuries for the period from July 1, 1950 to June 30, 1951. The award is in the Group A, Heavy Machinery Division of the Metals Section Safety Contest.

This is the fourth such award the Fort Wayne Works has received since 1947.

Persistence is the key to existence.

WALDORF WEEKEND WEARING BUT WONDERFUL!

With a hope, a rush and a sigh, G-E women wrote the last words in their chapter on the third Interclub Conference this week and began preparations to meet President Cordiner's challenge.

To the conferees from Elex Club, Partizan Chapter and GeCode Club, the week-end at the Waldorf seemed a short, but wonderful memory. The month of preparation spent planning the Conference, club exhibits and hats was a busy one.

Bess Brown worked on Elex's exhibit, which won first prize. A golden Ming Tree was chosen to display the most outstanding project of the club's members. Fastened to its branches were emhlems representing the many ways in which Elex serves the needy. For example, a small coal truck tied to the tree represented the coal that Elex gave to a needy G-E family.

Betty Puff caused a sensation at the Hattie Carnegie luncheon when she walked into the Astor Gallery surrounded by a large hat. Only her feet were showing. Together with the help of the carpenters, Betty and Helen Bilskie made the hat, which was four feet tall. Its size represented the fact that Elex is the largest of all G-E women's clubs. Items that the members sell to carry on their service were fastened to the crepe paper of the hat.

Members attending the Conference from Decatur took the "Oscar" given each year to the club with the best stunt to New York and carried it home again—for the second successive year. Their entry in the contest consisted of blue crepe paper decorated with silver ornaments symbolic of GeCode's personality. Eloise Noll designed and constructed the hat. When she wore it at the luncheon, she explained to delegates the meaning of each ornament.

Partizan Chapter's Mildred Van Horn designed and modeled Chapter's hat. The personality of the club was represented with ornaments placed on the crown of the hat, which was made of white foam.

When the train arrived in Fort Wayne at 6 a.m., Monday, Oct. 22, the conferees descended to return to work, weary but full of pride for a job well done.

by Barbara Schuckel

Jean Smith, Audrey Bradfield, Betty Bartley, Vi Schneiders and Barbara Schuckel attended the Elex dinner. . . . Carol Kissinger is learning to be an M/S typist. She was formerly a file clerk. . . . Jean Smith has to be more careful when she gives Bob directions as to where to pick her up. Her mistake was when she told him Miller's "Cafcteria", corner of Jefferson and Broadway. Bob ended up sitting in front of Miller's Cafeteria to no avail. Just like a man, can't follow directions. . . . Faye Alexander left for Florida Monday. She plans to go as far as Miami. . . . Gladys Sorenson is with us for a while. Gladys was formerly at Regional.

How Not To Please

Kathleen Roche was hardly an experienced cook when she got married. Kathy wanted to surprise her husband with a spaghetti dinner—long spaghetti. She thought the best way to keep the spaghetti long was to first cook it in a long pan until it would bend so she boiled some water and soaked it for two hours. When it was soft, she put it in another pan and boiled it for another hour. She placed it on the table—hubby looked at it, picked up a knife and said, "I don't like long spaghetti." Kathy is in the know now. . . . If anyone finds he is short a hecto-pen, see Clarence Schafer. He's made a hobby of collecting them. . . . We've found that Maxine Householder is quite a bowler. She's third high in the singles and second high in the series in Kendallville. Congratulations, Maxine.

Surprise

Ruth Crockett has an extreme fondness for baked squash, but not cold. Her husband jokingly placed a left-over in her lunch. . . . Don Feber will be entering the Apprentice School soon. All the luck in the world, Don. . . . Jean Smith is on a diet. Her meals consist of a hamburger, French fries, a hot fudge sundae, and a milk shake. This diet is not recommended, however, to people who want to lose weight. . . . Welcome to Joyce Horstmeyer. She'll be working on the files. We hope you'll like it here, Joyce. . . . Maxine Householder had a week's vacation, while Fred Wheeler and Mary Wakeman started back to work after theirs.

Parkview Hospital Construction Well Under Way

Clifford H. Matson, Chairman of the Parkview Memorial Building Committee, reported recently that the entire excavation for the new hospital has been completed. Mr. Matson also indicated that the construction crew was pouring concrete in the basement areas as rapidly as reinforcing steel was delivered to the site.

Reinforcing steel, along with all types of steel is difficult to obtain. Parkview, however, has been granted a preferred status and has been allocated an adequate amount of steel, copper and aluminum.

General Contractor Hagerman, appearing before a meeting of the Building Committee held in September, indicated that a coordinated construction schedule was being developed so that all contractors and subeontractors could schedule their work well in advance of their actual participation in the construction program. Mr. Hagerman also pointed out that the hospital building should be "out of the ground" by the end of the year.

"Clamping down on other than federally approved building may well benefit Parkview as materials and skilled workmen are shifted to priority construction jobs," said Mr. Matson.

General Electric employees contributed more than $150,000 to the building campaign.

Oscar Schelper was observed directing traffic at 5:30 a.m. in the intersection of Calhoun and Williams. Maybe he is practicing for a chance to get on the local P. D. . . . Eddie Andrews sure had an embarrassing moment the other day when he bent over and his pants split down the back. Results, Eddie went home at noon. . . . We're glad to have Bernadine Warner and Clara Nicholson back with us. . . . Harold Mosshammer says Eifrid and Sorg pay off their debts, but they weren't too happy. . . . Alma Welches enjoyed herself at Brown County over the week-end and Goldie Tuck went to Illinois. . . . We hear there is going to be a Halloween dance at Churubuseo Saturday night, and prizes paid to the three best dressed. . . . Norm Wolf was a visitor in Chicago, as was Geneva Harter. Neither one knew the other was there. . . . Harry Richardson goes on repair and return this next week as Ray Hill is going to Broadway. . . . Robert Winkler has joined our group. . . . Jerry McKown is going to retire and run his antique shop before too long from what we hear. . . . Marge Ulrich brought in some Black Magic perfume the other day. What we are wondering, did it help on that certain date the other night. . . . Mel Lyttle had a good picture of himself at work the other day from what we hear. If you'll bring it back we'll put it in the paper as "Mr. Atlas." . . . We thought Irma was going to drink buttermilk the other day when she came back from lunch with a bottle. Come to find out she was going to make cookies. . . . Skeeter has been having stators coming up missing after she puts them on her board. However, they are all back by time to go home. . . . We hear that Hazel has so much spare time she is taking in crocheting. . . . It seems that Joe Taylor played a request for Loretta on his show Saturday. The song was "Ain't it Silly But Ain't it Fun." . . . We want to welcome Blanche Mulligan on days.

Irene Meyers Named To State Committee

Irene Meyers, supervisor of women's activities, has been reappointed a member of the Advisory Committee on Recreation to the Indiana Economic Council by Gov. Henry F. Schricker. The appointment is for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1952.

In making this appointment, Gov. Schricker stated:

"I want to express my appreciation for the time and effort you have given to the work of the Committee and to the advancement of reereation in the state during the past year. I am mindful of the interest and leadership which must be given at the state level in this important field, and it is my hope that your eommittee will continue to exert a definite and beneficial influence in the development of reereation programs and facilities in the communities of Indiana."

For each dollar the retired employee contributed toward his pension, G-E contributed about two dollars.

What Price Life? A Pint Of Plasma

A G-E Employee Donates Blood— A pint of blood given by 40 G-E employees a week will help American soldiers to come home alive. Hazel Hardwick, Taylor St., donates a pint of her blood at the Red Cross Chapter House, corner of Berry and Ewing Streets. Employees may donate their blood on Wednesdays from 10 to 11 a.m. and from 3 to 7 p.m.

An American Soldier Gains A Life— Difference between life and death is the blood given to wounded American soldiers at first-aid stations in Korea. A national quota of 300,000 pints of blood, from which plasma is processed, is needed every month between now and next July to give life to our wounded fighting men, Secretary of Defense Marshall has stated. Employees who have not as yet enrolled in the blood program may do so by contacting Marguerite Fenner on extension 2365.

Grief visited the home of Paul and Maxine Hathaway recently when their little dog "Blitz" ran in the street and was hit by a car. After several days in the hospital, Blitz is home again and on the road to good health. . . . We're glad to have Edna Lesh back with Bernadine Mailand is on her third weeks' vacation visiting the New England states. . . . Florence Case and Mina Cleverly are touring Florida. They arrived in Miami in time for the convention. . . . Betty Creech is at her home in Churubusco recovering from an appendectomy. . . . C. W. Hale is taking his third weeks' vacation. . . . We welcome our new assistant general foreman, Leonard Reuss. Hope you feel at home with us. . . . Shirley Cunningham visited James Rehrer recently. He was busily engaged in getting his chores done for the coming winter. Shirley says, "I also found out that he hasn't forgotten how to make those delicious cookies." . . . We regret to lose our co-worker Monte Kelsey. We'll miss your smiling face and friendly greetings. Monte has been with us for 23 years. He is taking his pens.., d..e to illness in the family. We wish you the best of luck and good health. . . . Eileen Gault returned to work this week after seeing parts of California for two weeks. Eileen agrees with the old saying, "Go west, young girl, go west." . . . If you would like a picket fence, you may contact Stan Stults. He'll do everything but the painting. . . . Orville Gamble is once more a field coil winder. Welcome back, it's good to see you. . . . We're sorry to hear that Bob Stute's wife is a patient at St. Joseph's hospital, hut hope that she will soon be well again.

The Pension Plan is no gamble; you have to win something, and you cannot lose.

Martha Scott is certainly proud of the coffee she makes. It takes the hair right off your chest. . . . Carol Eastes got the worst end of the deal with her young daughter. Rohin poked Carol in the eye and she had to take a day off to recuperate. . . . Doris Doehla didn't know she had such tough ears until she had them pierced. . . . Mary birthday to Gerry Lump. . . . Anyone needing a part-time job, see Jim Lindley for all particulars. . . . A potluck was held in honor of Harold Dalman, who is going upstairs. Harold was presented with a nice gift. We all will miss you, Harold. . . . A big welcome to Otto Roehm, who will be our second trick foreman. . . . Evaline Best's ship must have come in, the way she is passing out those morsels. . . . Betty Zollars, just what did you forget the other day? . . . Wondering how that soup tasted that Rose Mary Diem and Mary Ann Miles had for supper? How about it, girls? . . . Mary Lou Fellers thanks everyone for their lovely gifts. The gang had a shower for Mary Lou and she only broke two ribbons.

Presidents' Rollcall—

Ralph J. Cordiner, president of G-E is shown at right with presidents of the women's clubs throughout the Company who attended the Interclub Conference at the Waldorf Astoria, Saturday, Oct. 20 and Sunday, Oct. 21. Volume 34 FORT WAYNE, INDIANA, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 2, 1951 No. 44

Ballot Belle—Phyllis Lupton, Bldg. 17-3, studies the intricacies of the voting machine at the county court house in preparation for Tuesday's election. G-E employees will find plenty of time to get to the polls on Election Day, with a paid holiday scheduled.

Baumgartner, Rohrbaugh Are 1951-52 Safety Ace Foremen

Sam Baumgartner, light machining section foreman, Bldg. 27, and Harry Rohrbaugh, standardizing laboratory foreman, Bldg. 20-2, have been selected by the General Works Safety Committee to represent the Fort Wayne Works at the Eleventh Foremen's Safety Institute, Thursday, Nov. 29, at the Chamber of Commerce Building, Hershel Smith, safety engineer, announced today.

Sam Baumgartner

Harry Rohrbaugh

In recognition of their outstanding safety record with the Company, Messrs. Baumgardner and Rohrbaugh will receive Safety Ace Awards at the Institute. On the certificate given these two foremen, recognition will also be given to the employees under their supervision.

The two foremen were nominated for the award by their divisional safety committee chairmen. Mr. Rohrbaugh's record shows that he does not have a single lost time accident reported for the 32 years that he has been a foreman.

Mr. Baumgartner has had one lost time accident in his section for the eleven years that he has been a foreman there. The machinery and equipment under his supervision has been recently cleaned and repainted.

The following foremen, who were nominated by divisional safety committee chairmen throughout the plant, will also attend the award dinner: A. F. Thieme, general tool division; W. L. O'Brien, inspection and test, FHP Div. 15; Clarence Gardt, FHP Div. 17; Howard Ulrich, developmental laboratory, STAB Division; H. A. Hart, FHP Div. 13; Ed David, distribution Division; Estel Grier, FHP Div. 14, and Carl Steinbacher, FHP Div. 15.

The following suggestions were offered by the Chamber of Commerce Safety Council to be considered in selecting a Safety Ace Foreman:

1. Does he properly instruct employees new on the job?
2. Does he encourage the wearing of personal protective equipment?
3. Is he active in correcting mechanical and health hazards?
4. Is he active in correcting employees' unsafe practices?
5. Does he keep posted on new developments in "Safety Education," and pass this information on to his employees?
6. Does he encourage employees to get first aid treatment, and thoroughly investigate accidents in his

Scrap Drive Extended To Meet National Need

In view of the national need for scrap, the plant-wide drive for dormant scrap, slated to extend from August through October, will be continued indefinitely, A. E. Leider, scrap drive chairman, announced today.

During the third month of the drive, a total of 96,350 pounds of dormant scrap was collected by the four divisions, Mr. Leider reported. Of this amount, 17,990 pounds was copper and the remaining poundage was steel. The October collection brings the total of dormant scrap collected during the past three months to 317,744 pounds.

To Increase Efforts

S. H. Amstutz, scrap chairman of Large Motor-Gencrator Department, stated that even though the specific drive is over, his division will not only continue its effort to collect dormant scrap, but will increase efforts to aid the national need.

Works Service scrap coordinator, W. P. Altekruse, announced that all areas in his division will be covered in November. An inspection tour will be taken afterward.

H. R. Korte, Specialty Transformer and Ballast Department scrap coordinator, reported that his division has been covered completely and scrap will be collected as equipment becomes obsolete.

The growing importance of scrap to defense production was pointed out by the Institute of Scrap Iron and Steel. A report issued by the Institute stated that 36 million tons of scrap are required for 1951. The amount of iron and steel required to support a service man grew from 90 pounds in World War I to 4,900 pounds in World War II. The Institute reports that today's requirements for members of the Armed Forces are even greater.

SERVICES FUND OFF TO FLYING START

Solicitors Report Good Response To Revised Plan at Start of Drive

With several groups reporting 100 per cent membership and many other groups going over the 70 per cent membership goal in the first day of the drive, the Community Services Fund got off to a flying start this week.

A total of 2,074 employees or 19 per cent participated in the plan during the first day of solicitation. Their contributions amounted to $21,611.

Solicitors report that employees contacted during the first two days of the drive have indicated a ready acceptance of the revised plan whereby they may discharge their community welfare responsibilities by the method of payroll deductions.

The organizing committee has stated that good reports coming in, indicate a successful campaign.

Choose Amounts

Under the new plan, employees may give the amount they choose within the schedule printed on membership cards. They may subscribe their contributions on a weekly basis or in one lump sum.

The drive, which began Wednesday, will be concluded Wednesday, Nov. 7. All employees at the Broadway, Taylor St. and Winter St. plants will be contacted by solicitors during this period.

By joining this Fund, employees will be able to spread their contributions among 23 community agencies. When employees join the Fund, they are given a card to vote for one person in their division to represent them on the Board of Administrators.

This Board will control and administer the Fund. It will begin functioning upon completion of the drive. Meeting at regular intercals, the Board will operate the Fund so that it meets the objectives and purposes of this organization and is acceptable to its members.

Membership contributions will be continuous from year to year. However, any member may cancel his subscription to the Fund by doing so in writing two weeks before he wishes it to become effective.

Individual Responsibility

We live in a time when many things bother the minds of men. Any thoughtful person who follows the news of the world finds himself perplexed. Is our foreign policy sound and intelligent? Are we following the best course to avoid another war? Where are our domestic policies leading us? What can be done to stop inflation? What has been happening to human character and morality?

And the question is then often asked: "What can I do about it?"

In the face of the overwhelming complexity of life today, more often than not the answer which the individual gives himself when he asks that question is: Nothing.

Here in the greatest country in the world individual men and women have the freedom of self-expression and individual action. But sometimes it seems we are about ready to admit our individual inability to do anything, and leave all the decisions to the selfish groups that clamor and contend for men's minds.

At such times it is well to look at some of the simplest elements in human character. A man cannot cut his way through a massive forest without first providing himself with an axe.

What Can We Do?

And so the surest way by which you and I can put ourselves in position to cope with the problems we face as individuals, or deal with in groups, or combat in the nation, is to nourish, foster, and widen our sense of individual responsibility.

If all of us will accept the idea that we have individual responsibility to our families, our communities, the groups to which we belong, our neighbors, our jobs, and our nation, then most of the great problems that now weigh so heavily upon us will be solved. For when a man really accepts the idea of such responsibility, he has established his character. He has separated Right from Wrong. He has developed the courage and the will to stand for the things that he knows are right, and to oppose the things that he knows are wrong.

He has reached the point in responsibility which Abraham Lincoln expressed so well when he had reached great maturity in his own character: "Stand with anybody that stands right, stand with him while he is right and part with him when he goes wrong."

Democracy Hinges on Character

Many earnest men throughout history have questioned the ability of great numbers of men to govern themselves for any long periods of time. They did not believe that the average man could develop his character to the point that he could practice the self-restraint and the self-reliance which men must do if they are going to live in a democracy. They believed that all democracies would destroy themselves through the lack of individual responsibility and the growth of group selfishness.

A great many men today are torn between their desire to practice individual responsibility and the enticing lures held out by many groups who want to break down and destroy the private, individual responsibility on which Western Civilization was founded. Government wants to take over more and more of the responsibilities which belong to the individual. Dictators try to seize such responsibilities by force. Selfish groups try to make it appear that individual responsibility is wicked and that only group morality is valid, and that anything the groups may do is thereby right.

Responsibility and Us

It is then we need to remember, as one writer has put it: "In our system, unlike many others in the world today, the ultimate responsibility lies not with the government, not with a dictator, but with the individual—which means us."

Whole nations of people throughout history have been led to ruin by ruthless leaders who suppressed the decent, kindly instincts of the people. Hate and suspicion have been their stock in trade. The ruined people did not exercise their individual responsibility. They submerged it. They allowed their individual responsibility to be first engulfed and then destroyed by evil men.

We can still practice it here in the United States of America, but that means standing, as Lincoln said, with any man so long as he is right, but leaving him when he is wrong.

Lo, the Poor Paleface

In a recent tribal election on a Navajo Indian Reservation in Arizona, the original Americans voted for the first time under the system so long enjoyed by their paleface brothers.

And in so doing they should have made some white American faces red—for more than 75 per cent of them turned out to cast their ballots, even though some had to go as far as 60 miles by wagon or horseback to do it. (Note: In last November's elections, only a little more than 60 per cent of us paleface registered voters took the trouble to go to the polls!)

Charlene Bloom To Edit Bldg. 19 "Shaft Shavings"

A pretty, redheaded lass, known as "Charlie" to employees in Bldg. 19-3, is the new division editor of "Shaft Shavings." She is Charlene Bloom.

When she came to the General Electric Company in September to work in an office in Bldg. 19-3, she was Charlene Boyer. October 13, of this year, she was married to John Bloom. Her husband is a corporal in the USAF and is stationed at Baer Field.

Although "Charlie" is kept busy in her double role of employee-housewife, she enjoys dancing very much in her free time. She takes great pride in her pedigreed black cocker spaniel, Duchess of Miss Muffett, or Muffie, as Charlene calls her.

The new editor and her husband live at 724½ High St.

The following employees have entered the Armed Forces: Calvin C. Lea, Roy H. Schmidt, Edward R. Price and Walter R. Mankey.

Among employees who have been discharged from the service and returned to work at the Company and Harold R. Meyer, Art Voelker, Lamar Sutton and Frank Clear, Jr., of Decatur.

William L. Teegardin, former Taylor St. employee, has completed his schooling at Memphis, Tenn., and has been transferred to Texas. He sends greetings to former co-workers on second and third tricks in 14x3, Taylor St. His present address is:

COST REDUCTION

Do you know that cost reduction
Means reduction in the cost.
I can almost hear you saying,
"Holy smoke, this guy is lost."

Well, I know it may sound silly,
But a lot of things are tossed
To the folks in cost reduction
That just don't reduce the cost.

If by spending fifty dollars,
We can save twice that amount,
Then we have a cost reduction
Anyone can safely count.

But if when we spend the fifty,
We just think 'twill do the trick,
Then it isn't cost reduction
Until some one makes it stick.

We may think we have a way to do,
Our job a little quicker;
A scheme to make production move
Along a little slicker.

But it isn't cost reduction,
Unless, somehow in the end,
We can prove we get more benefit
For what we have to spend.

You may have a scheme for saving time,
But saving time for what?
If you fail to use the time you save,
You haven't saved a lot.

But if the time you save improves
Our service or production,
Then turn it in, and be assured
You have a cost reduction.

Sometimes our cost reductions
Become a little funny.
We make a change supposed to save
Our Company lots of money.

Then later on we change it back
The way it was before—
And here's the part that's funny
It's supposed to save some more.

So you see a cost reduction
Must some how reduce the cost.
If it doesn't, then accounting
Has been nicely double-crossed.

D. A. Garton Appointed Foreman in Bldg. 4-1

Donovan A. Garton has been appointed foreman of Potter & Johnson machining, Bldg. 4-1, second shift, H. G. Siebold, superintendent, announced this week.

Mr. Garton joined the specialist training school when he came to the Company in 1942. A few months later, he transferred to Bldg. 4-1, where he was a mill operator. He entered the armed forces in 1943 and returned to the Company in 1945 to work at Winter St. At that time, he operated a hand lathe and Morris drills.

In 1949, Mr. Garton went to Taylor St. to work in the stator section. One year later, he returned to Bldg. 4-1 to become a P & J operator. At the time of his present appointment, he did set up work on P & J machines.

The Gartons and their two children live on a farm near Tocsin.

KINDLING AVAILABLE

Kindling orders are now being taken at both the Broadway and Taylor St. Employee Stores. Truckloads of kindling will be delivered anywhere in the city for $2.

Golfing Session Slated For Squares Stag Tues.

Bill Wright, professional golfer from Wright's Driving Range on the Bluffton Rd., will be the featured speaker at the G-E Squares stag Tuesday, Nov. 6, C. A. Krasienko, athletic chairman announced today. The stag will be held at 8 p.m. in the Squares club rooms.

Mr. Wright will give instructions and demonstrations of proper stance, swing and other golfing problems. Following his talk, an open discussion will be held. Members interested in correcting golfing faults may ask questions and receive professional advice and help.

The second part of the program, according to Mr. Krasienko, will consist of a 15-minute table tennis exhibition between Lore Ferverda, of Taylor St., and Jack Kirlin, Bldg. 26-2.

Bob Turschman Named Vets Dance Chairman

Robert Turschman, Taylor St., was appointed general chairman of the dance committee of the G-E Vets Association this week, George Ellison, project chairman, announced. The Vets are making preparations for a dance to be given this fall.

ELEX CHARM CLASS

Miss Vivian Kronenberg, fashion coordinator at Wolf & Dessauer, will be featured speaker at the Elex Club charm class, Monday, Nov. 5, at 7 p.m. in Bldg. 16-3, Room 20. Miss Kronenberg will discuss how to cultivate charm. She will be assisted in her demonstrations by a model.

This will be the sixth in a series of classes on charm and personality sponsored by the Elex Club for women employees. There are four more meetings scheduled in the course.

Old Timers Hold Annual Meeting

The G-E Old Timers Club, composed of women who were employed by General Electric prior to 1916, held their annual meeting Monday evening at the English Lutheran Church of the Redeemer.

A chicken dinner was served and tables were decorated in keeping with the Halloween season. Following dinner, a community sing was held. Mrs. Freda Bowers, committee chairman, and her husband showed colored movies and slides of Florida and the Western states.

Several attendance prizes were distributed and the remainder of the evening was spent with games and music.

Three of the group are still employed at G-E: Irene Offenloch, Bldg. 21; Lois Miller, Bldg. 18-3, and Emily Guth, Bldg. 21.

Another committee, with Mrs. Flora Bloemker Sommers as chairman, was appointed to make plans for a similar party next year.

Squares Wives To Hold Benefit Pancake Supper

The Women's Division of the G-E Squares will have a benefit pancake supper at the Squares Hall, Tuesday, Nov. 13, Mrs. Richard Hamilton, ways and means chairman, announced today. Supper will be served from 5:30 to 7 p.m.

The proceeds of the benefit will be given to the Scholarship Fund of the Allen County Parent-Teachers Association, Mrs. Richard Thomas, chairman of the supper, reported.

Tickets are available for members and their families. They are 75 cents for adults and 40 cents for children. They may be secured from contact men of the G-E Squares Club, or by contacting Mrs. Thomas.

The committee in charge of arrangements has asked that each person attending bring table service for themselves.

Members of this committee are the Mesdames R. H. Johnson, Orval A. Doherty, J. F. Formanek, W. C. Wichman, Samuel Macy, J. C. Hamilton, Chester Smith and J. E. Martz.

Have you ever heard the saying, "Times change?" So has Jim Ryder. . . . Wedding bells will soon be ringing for Polly Frahning. It will be about Thanksgiving. . . . Doris Stearns is on days. . . . Amy Dull is in the hospital recuperating from an appendectomy. . . . Happy birthday to Don Ritter, Jo Lee Zimmerman and Hazel Maxons. A potluck was held for Jo Lee. She has hired a truck to haul her gifts home. . . . We all know that Bob Griffin was married recently, so you just can't keep a secret. . . . Alice Justus has moved into her new home. She likes it fine, but, oh, the work. . . . Carol Eastes was looking for some taffy apples and, of all places, in the office. . . . The stork left baby girls at the Boneff home and the Luna home. Both mothers are former co-workers. . . . Kay Vondran is answering to the name of Red since she added a little something extra to her hair. . . . Helen Thieme won't be quite so hasty the next time she gets a telephone call. . . . Welcome to Grace Hill, who is new in the group. . . . Bonnie Clawson received a telephone call and was all smiles afterwards. . . . We should inform Lucille Heatherinton that in case she doesn't have any pencils, the Company furnishes them. You needn't use your eyebrow pencil, Lucille. . . . Howard Pfeiffer seems to have lost a good pal of his. Hmm, but a belt is a bad thing to lose. . . . The Pennsylvania Railroad has something that belongs to either Martha Scott, Betty Zollars, Vida Craft or Helen Thieme. Come on, 'fess up, girls.

Elex Club Completes Arrangements For Thanksgiving Dance Nov. 16

Final arrangements have been completed for the Elex Club semi-formal dance, "Punkin Pace," Mary Saxton, general chairman, announced this week.

Bill Miller's orchestra will provide music for the Thanksgiving dance, which will be held in the Van Orman ballroom, Friday, Nov. 16, from 9 to 12 p.m.

Tickets may be secured from contact girls for $1.20 per person.

Martha Zuber and Thora Robinson, who made arrangements for tickets and the door, reported that two complimentary tickets will be given to the contact girl having the highest sales.

Therese Lindenberg and Ramona Ireland were in charge of securing the band and the hall. They also arranged the publicity. Betty Puff and June Getty are co-chairmen of the decoration committee.

Former FHP Sales Manager Receives New Appointment

Arthur W. Bartling, former Fractional Horsepower Motor sales manager, has been named manager of product sales practices for the General Electric Company's Apparatus Sales Division, William V. O'Brien, commercial vice president and general manager of the division, has announced.

The Apparatus Sales Division is the distributing organization through which the majority of products of the apparatus and industrial products operating departments are sold.

Until his appointment as head of the new department, Mr. Bartling had been general sales manager of the firm's Small Apparatus Division at Lynn, Mass. His new headquarters will be in Schenectady, N. Y.

"The Oscar"—How many of you gals would like to own an original model chapeau? They can be made to express any personality or mood that you may wish. Eloise Noll and a committee of GeCode girls seem to be able to decorate a hat with almost anything or everything as the GeCode Hat has very well demonstrated. The hat won the "Oscar" again tbis year at the inter-club conference in New York. This is the second year that the local girls have brought home the award. If they can do the same next year, "Oscar" will be a permanent resident of Decatur. . . . Traveling — Florence Brandyberry and Helen Wellman spent the week-end touring southern Indiana. They also visited the "Little French Village." Their only regret was that they did not have more time. . . . Duty Calls—Eddie Noonan answers, even if it is jury duty. Now, Ed, remember—let your conscience be your guide. . . . Sidelights—We have been told that there is some friendly rivalry going on between Rita and Marcia. How about giving us some details concerning the object of the, shall we say, contest? . . . Our Sympathy—To Marcile Jones and her family upon the death of her sister-in-law. . . . Hi, Gramp!—Have you noticed the especially big smile that Fred Busse is wearing? The reason? He has another grandson. . . . Something New—Don Wait has changed bis apron styles from the red towel variety to the latest pin stripe model. . . . Best Wishes—To Mary Reed, who is leaving us this week. She is going to be married Nov. 3. She will live on a farm and spend ber time sorting eggs instead of sorting washers. Good luck and much bappiness, Mary. . . . On Vacation—A lucky few still bave vacation time coming to tbem. Dick Bogner and "Duffy" Heller are enjoying tbeir vacations this week. . . . Pickups—Just why did Miriam say "Oh, I'm a dumb bunny." Let us in on the secret? . . . Another mystery along the line. Where is the apron? "Nellie" Schug wonders if his apron will ever appear again, and, if so, in what condition. . . . Congrats—We extend our best wishes and congratulations to Mary and Louis Fennig on their wedding anniversary Oct. 19. . . . Birthday Greetings—To Edna Callow. You know you don't look a bit older, Edna. "Thanks for the candy." . . . Returned—Margaret Amsbaugh has returned to her job after being absent due to personal illness. We are glad to have you back, Margaret. . . . A Speedy Recovery, Curley—Curley Reynolds dropped in to say "Hello." She tells us that she is regaining her health slowly and hopes to be back with us soon . . . . Forgiven—It seems as though Ruth Fennig and Norma Johnson usually come back to work together after lunch, but one day recently Ruth's boyfriend Dick brought her back to work and Norma was left standing on the corner. It was not until Ruth sat down at her desk that she remembered she was to pick up Norma. So, all excited, Ruth ran to get Norma, but she had already came to work with someone else. It's all to be expected because Ruth has had too much excitement. Dick has recently returned from overseas and they are to be married very soon. . . . To Be Back Soon—We have heard from James Strickler, who sends us the good news, that he will soon be discharged from the armed services. James says that he is anxious to get back with his old friends and he is cspecially anxious to return to his old spot in the Aeolian Choir.

Howard Mills is looking around for an empty house for a business investment. What kind of an investment, Howard? . . . I suppose all of you saw Gladys Stahly in the latest creation in earrings coming from New York. . . . Leon Radamaker knows how many hot dogs there are in 100 pounds, since he has been on the refreshment committee for these political rallies. . . . Clarence Didier, never being a pappy, can help the babies in the apartment building when they get the tummy ache. He can also baby sit. He likes it, too. . . . Jim Carey has been very busy this last year to do any Saturday bowling. What's the reason, Jim? . . . The Christmas committee met the other night to make plans for the annual party at the Varsity Club. . . . Paul Winters was all excited about the party Bertha Burnau was having at her home. Wild rabbit was served. Paul got confused someplace along the line. . . . We bid a hearty welcome to all the new people in our section. Hope they like us.

One evening last week, William Hartman, who lives on the Sand Point Road, slipped into the bedroom unseen by his wife. Then he came out attired in his pajamas. His wife said, "Billy, I wanted you to get some gasoline put in the car before you retire." So he jumped into the family clunker intending to get the gas at his neighborhood station. It was closed, so he proceeded on to Waynedale where he had the tank filled. On the return trip a state trooper signaled him to pull over to the side of the road, which he did. He wondered what traffic law he had disobeyed. The trooper informed him that one of his headlights was out and asked him to get out of his car and see. Then Billy had to admit to the patrolman that he was attired in his sleeping garments and would take bis word for it. At this the trooper got a big laugh, then said to him, "I suppose you have your driver's permit with you." Bill had to admit that it was home in his trouser pocket. The trooper, being a good sport, remarked, "I will not give you a ticket, but be sure and get that headlight replaced." . . . One would not think that boiled ham was higb priced if he could see the three double-duty sandwiches Herman Hanke consumes at his mid-morning lunch. Honestly, they would put the ones that Dagwood build to shame. There are two one-half inch slices of ham in each one, plus lettuce, onion and a slice of tomato. We wonder what he eats for dinner and suggest that he had better stay single. No married man can afford such sandwiches. . . . One evening a few weeks ago, John Weber was out visiting friends. In the interim it became quite foggy and John got lost. Observing the tail lights of a car just ahead of him, he decided to follow that car. They proceeded in this manner for quite some distance when suddenly the car ahcad stopped. Mr. Weber gave it quite a bump, saying to the driver, "Why don't you signal when you are going to stop." Whereupon the driver informed John that he did not think it necessary as he had just driven into his own garage.

Eleanor Huffman won't be hanging storm windows for a while, at least until her recent bruises are healed. She fell off the ladder. . . . Edith Jularriat really gets around. Her latest trip was to Indianapolis, accompanied by her daughter Mitzi Lou. . . . Our sincere sympathy to Ella Frans, whose soldier brother was buried last week. . . . Lorinda Byerlein won the prize at a recent canasta party. It was about time she won one, too! . . . Welcome to Marge McKerring, who joined the testers this week. Also Norma Pardu, who is in 1x50, and Barbara Tschannan in 1x79. . . . Congratulations to our former co-worker, Dorothy Boneff, who became the mother of a baby girl recently. . . . So glad that Esther Poppe is recovering from a minor operation and won't be off work so long. . . . Rosemary Golliver is a lucky one. She had a birthday last Friday and since we didn't work, she didn't have to treat! . . . Charlie Hendrickson is going into the pig business. He bought his oldest daughter a pig and the odd part is that he is going to have to teach it to eat. He has to shove the feed right under its snout before it will eat! . . . Gus Rutz is on his vacation this week and is attending the Rabbit Show at Springfield, Ill. . . . Dick Blust is driving a '51 Chevrolet. . . . Helen and Pappy Struver have a new Ford. This amazes me, because they were not going to have another Ford. It was going to be something else this time. I guess the salesman was too fast a talker. . . . Cecil Foor went fishing last Friday and all he got for his trouble was one bluegill! . . . Bill Widdifield ran out of time. He didn't get to finish his chicken fence. The gate still has to be put on. . . . I'm wondering if Louie Barrow has any relatives who are jockeys? There was a T. Barrow riding the horses at Churchill Downs and he sure looked like Louie! . . . Ed Kirschner says that the volunteer firemen at Preble even have water to fight fires with. . . . Ruth Kilgore got a letter from Lillie Benz, who lives in California now. She says she is just fine and getting around the state quite a bit.

The purpose of the G-E Employees' Savings and Stock Bonus Plan is to provide a convenient way to purchase Government bonds, provide employees with a high rate of interest on a safe investment, and to give employees an additional incentive to save by giving them General Electric Stock.

G-E DEATHS

Dies Unexpectedly

Heart Attack Fatal To Roy D. Hart, 55

Roy D. Hart, 55, died unexpectedly Saturday, Oct. 27, at his home, R. R. 4, Albion, following a heart attack.

Mr. Hart joined the Company in 1942. He worked on the heat run in Bldg. 4-3 and became an inspector in the same building. Four years later, he moved to Taylor St. to assemble FHP motors. In 1949, became engaged in processing of armature cores, which was his position at the time of his death.

Survivors include his wife, two sons, four grandchildren, one sister and one brother.

Services were conducted at the Garrett Church of Christ, Tuesday, Oct. 30. The Rev. Jesse Gump officiated. Burial was in the Emery Cemetery, near Garrett.

Omer J. Hinton, 73 Dies In Retirement

Omer J. Hinton, 73, died Monday at 11:15 a.m. at the St. Joseph's Hospital.

Mr Hinton came to the General Electric Company in 1922. At that time he went to work in Bldg. 10-1 as a carpenter. He worked in this job until he was pensioned in 1945.

Surviving are onc son, two daughters, one sister, six grandchildren and eight grcat-grandchildren.

Funeral services werc held Wednesday at the D. O. McComb & Sons Funeral Home. The Rev. J. Frank Lansing officiated. Burial was in Oaklawn Cemetery, Ossian.

Harley W. Arnett Dies In Methodist Hospital

Harley W. Arnett, 64, died Wednesday, Oct. 24, at the Methodist Hospital. Mr. Arnett, a G-E pensioner, retired Aug. 1, 1947.

When he came to the General Electric Company in 1929, Mr. Arnett was a brick mason in Bldg. 10-1. He also worked in Bldg. 10-1 as a helper and a janitor. Five years later, he transferred to Winter St. to work as a yard man. In 1939, he returned to Broadway, Bldg. 4-1, as a helper. Mr. Arnett moved to Bldg. 20-1 in 1940 to become a mason. He worked there until his retirement in 1947.

Harry Bailey came to work late one day recently with his shirt buttoned up wrong. He left about an hour early the same day. Now Harry blamed it all on the children, saying they had put water in his fuel oil. We wonder if he wasn't mixing his water and oil to cut expenses. . . . When Anna Allman talks on the telephone, she evidently doesn't know when she is talking and when she is listening. She tried talking into the wrong end of the receiver. . . . A group of finishers had a surprise chicken supper for Chloa Weitzman on her birthday. She was so excited she couldn't even blow out "16" candles. She must be getting younger everyday. . . . We also wish a happy birthday to Dorcas Klinker and Helen Coryell. . . . We wish Tom Hildebrand and Orville Shellenbarger a speedy recovery. . . . Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Nate Hartman on the birth of a nine-pound baby boy. Purdue's loss to Notre Dame last Saturday spoiled a very happy week for Nate. . . . Ireta Gillie came to work Monday morning with a big smile on her face. It seems she has a new son-in-law. Congratulations. . . . The girls in Finishing are sorry to hear Cleo Dicks has had two of her pet kittens killed on the highway. . . . Ruth Redman spent the week-end at Pokagon State Park taking pictures of the beautiful trees. No swimming, Ruth? . . . Lois DeBolt reports that her pet rooster has been killed. . . . Have any of you noticed Prof. Dick Rump's new glasses? . . . If any of you have an old crutch around home, will you please loan it to Jimmy Quinn for a year or so until his knee heals? . . . Joe Walker had his corn removed during the vacation. Joe says anyone can step on his foot now and it won't hurt him at all. Try it, folks. . . . "Pealy" Pequignot has gone to Canada deer hunting and visiting relatives.

We welcome Charles Baron and Art Brown who have returned from Broadway to be with us again. . . . Cozy Walper, Clarabelle Whitman and Gladys Pantazin called in the Ross Strodel home last week unexpectedly. Mr. and Mrs. Strodel were relaxing in the parlor. Ross was very surprised to see his girls drive up when he thought they were safe at work. . . . Bob Robertson and Bob Heinzelman are saving shoe leather these days. They both fell down stairs and they were sober too. One has a sprained elbow and the other a sprained heel. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Herman Buesching and son from St. Louis spent last week with Virginia Buesching. . . . Marie and Dorothy Braun from Greenville, Ohio spent the week-end with their aunt Elinor Laux. . . . Linda Wahrer and Ruth Peek report a wonderful time in New York. Their only regrets are that they didn't have more time to see more shows. Linda says, she thinks Laura Gerber had things all fixed up for her because she met George on the train. . . . Lona Cook and Selma Voight treated the birthday group to a turkey supper with all the trimmings at the Cook Home Saturday night. Ruby Stoops was the guest of honor. Those enjoying the evening were Jackie Keller, Peggy Bandt, Selma Voight, Gladys Pantazin, Betty Pion, Ruby Stoops, Francis Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Paul LeCoque, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stahl and Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Cook. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Farrell, of Chicago, spent the week-end with his sister Sydonna Fox and family . . . We are wondering if Ed Bandt is trying to make a mountain out of a mole hill with that pile of dirt in his yard.

DEEPEST SYMPATHY: We would like to offer our sympathy to Walter Brake on the recent death of his father. . . . BACK AGAIN: Paul Lange finally returned to work after his extended vacation. What some people won't go through to get an extra vacation! . . . BYE BYE: Good-by and good luck to Sue Walton, who is leaving us today to return to the University of Cincinnati. We expect to have Sue back with us again next spring, so study hard. . . . CONGRATS: Happy birthday to Wesley Powers Nov. 1, 1951. . . . NOW: Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their party. Remember next Tuesday, Election Day. Let's put the right man in, eh? . . . We're glad to hear that Dent Manecke is improving after his operation and is now home.

Monday morning, everyone was a bit groggy yet, and after our two days off last week, there just wasn't much news to report. . . . Andy hung lights during our few days off. Moe visited his mother and watched television in Indianapolis. Pondo and Brandt were heart sick because they missed all that overtime Thursday and Friday afternoons. . . . Delores Soderquist is back after her honeymoon, and wishes to thank everyone for her lovely pillows. . . . Pondo and Lee went to a lecture over the week-end, sat there for two and a half hours waiting for free refreshments and ended up with a handful of pretzels and one glass of you-know-what. . . . Mary Tucker's small daughter thought she would be mother's little helper a week ago Sunday. She proceeded to clean the windows, pictures and a few other things with furniture polish. . . . Happy anniversary to Jackie Keller, Oct. 24, her first one. Hope you have many more, Jackie.

"Why did you leave your girl's house so early?"

"Because we were sitting on the sofa and she turned out the light. Guess I can take a hint!"

Magazines Mailed From Works Library

You may have any of the following magazines mailed to you regularly by merely filling in the blank below, encircling the magazines you wish, and mailing this notice to the Works Library, Bldg. 18-3. Each issue of the magazines of your choice will then be mailed to you, and you may keep them in your possession for a period of five (5) days before returning to the Library. Inquiring Reporter:

"WHAT IS THE MINOR CATASTROPHE IN YOUR LIFE?"

DORIS MOON
Taylor St.

"When I was just a teenager, I had a favorite cousin who lived in a small town near my home town. I walked into our general store one day and was very surprised to see her. I walked up behind her and embraced her. When she turned around, I was even more surprised to find a stranger staring at me."

GORDON L. JACOBSON
Bldg. 28-1

"When my wife and I first set up housekeeping, money was scarce. One day, I left my last ten dollar bill on the dresser for my wife. I came home from work to find her crying. Our dog, Pepper, had devoured the bill. We gave Pepper castor oil, but instead of retrieving the money, we had a $12.50 cleaning bill."

NELLIE WENDT
Bldg. 26-3

"I believe the minor catastrophe in my life occurred last summer during a week-end swimming party at Lake Erie. One day the breakers were really rough; and although I didn't know how to swim, I went into the water. I lost my footing and went under several times before my friends discovered my plight and came to my aid."

DERWARD FRANKE
Bldg. 31-2

"My minor catastrophe is that I have reached the age where I have been requested by my Uncle (Sam) to leave the employment of General Electric for the employment of the U.S.A.F."

PAUL W. DANNECKER
Bldg 2-2

"The minor catastrophe in my life outside of the army and a few other subjects was the element of surprise when approached by the Inquiring Reporter with the above question."

SHIPPING: We hang our head in shame, 'cause we are late in our greeting to Mary Guilliom on her birthday last Saturday. . . . Welcome to Mildred Metz, who replaces Joan Baker at the duplicator. Joan has skipped over to the other side of the office and is carrying on in place of Eileen Fitch, who is on sick leave. . . . We were very sorry to hear of the illness of Charlotte Edwards. We hope she will be feeling much better soon. . . . Emma Meyers was astonished at the huge crowd that turned out for her birthday. What a reception! . . . It has been discovered who keeps the St. Joe pickle factory in business. It's none other than our Mary Ann Epperson. Seems love affects her this way. . . . All the lunch brigade have tried to find out who the guilty party is who brings in a flock of gnats each day. So far, Phyllis Crace and Barbara Nichols seem to be the most suspicious characters. However, Phyllis and Barbara both insist that it's Mary Ann Epperson's pickles and not their bananas which attract these cute little creations of Mother Nature. . . . "The Early Bird Gets the Worm," they say, so the Christmas committee has already been appointed and are open for suggestions. If any of you have any ideas contact one of the following: Betty Stebing, Mary Murphy, Mary Jane Wise, Phyllis Poling, Eloise Hoehn or Sam King, who are going to get things together.

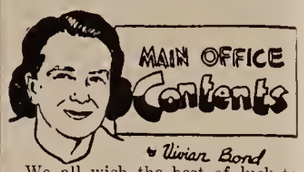
New Use Of Atomic Radiation Foreseen By Company Scientist

Atomic radiation may someday be harnessed to provide the world's most accurate measuring devices, a leading authority on measurements engineering said today.

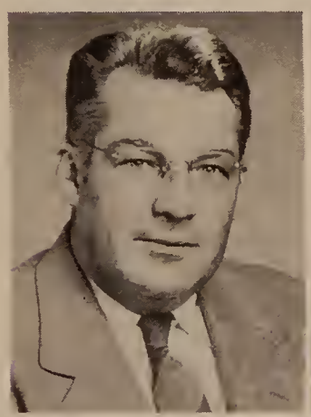
I. F. Kinnard, manager of engineering for the General Electric Meter and Instrument Department, speaking on future instrument design and engineering trends, said that "the potentialities of atomic radiation in the field of measurements are boundless." His talk highlighted the third session of the annual four-day Meter and Instrument Specialists Conference at the G-E Measurements Laboratory here.



A simple example of how radiation could be used as "a measuring stick," he explained, "would be to direct the rays into a container of liquid. On striking the liquid the rays would be so affected that when measured they would indicate the exact amount in the container."

"However," Mr. Kinnard warned, "before we take steps to use radiation to measure other quantities, we must assure that new instruments are developed to meet the future requirements of measuring radiation itself. He pointed out that even though extremely accurate and dependable measuring devices are now available and meet present-day needs, the future use of atomic power to generate electricity, or to run ships or aircraft, will probably introduce new requirements in the science of measurement.

He indicated that just as constant progress in the field of measurement has been a major factor in the steadily broadened use of electric power, so will new measurement concepts play a vital role in atomic power applications



"Great strides will be taken in the development of new instruments," he predicted, "to assure the most efficient and reliable operation of atomic power plants. This development work must be given important priority, so that new applications of atomic energy are not delayed."

"Probing into the field of atomic radiation," he said, "thrusts the measurements engineer into nuclear physics, a little-tapped field in the measurements industry."

We all wish the best of luck to Eileen Hennen, who walks to the altar this Saturday. . . . Ray White says his vacation in Kentucky could not have been any nicer—perfect weather 'n everything. He even came back wearing his shoes. . . . Pat Hoover is walking with sparkles on her left hand. Congratulations, and who is the lucky boy, Pat? . . . We always thought we were supposed to ring out at 4:36 p.m., but we wonder. Delores Carter stood at the clock watching the hands creep around to the 5 o'clock mark until some kind soul awakened her. Maybe she should take a look at the clock. . . . We are all happy to hear that Hubert Myers' wife is now at home and feeling much better. . . . Ivan Rinehart spent Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, the last three days of his vacation, at his cottage. His boots leaked and the waves were high. He spent Saturday and Sunday drying out. . . . A dinner party was held by the Payroll girls in honor of Marinell Bosserman, Bldg. 18-1, who will say "I do" tomorrow. The lucky fellow is Richard E. Fry, Bldg. 16-3. . . . Margaret Tennissen, Bldg. 18-1, is back on the road to recovery after her recent operation. . . . The Payroll girls are still wondering why Bill Spahr wore his suit coat all day Thursday. What was the cover-up for, Bill? . . . We hear Gladys Forst is a splendid baby-sitter. She kept her new granddaughter Saturday night. From all reports, it was a thoroughly enjoyable evening.

G-E Club Fall Revue Headliners

EVERYTHING BUT THE KITCHEN SINK —might well be the motto of the Rudenkos, juggling artists. They juggle such items as flaming torches, hoops, and ten balls at one time. Pictured above and at the right, are the two members of this team, Igor and George. These skilled artists are currently appearing at the Chicago Theatre, in Chicago.

Tickets Available Monday

Tickets for the annual G-E Club Fall Revue will be available beginning Monday, G. D. Seabold, ticket chairman, announced today. Employees may secure tickets for themselves and their families free of charge by presenting their Club membership cards at the Club candy stand or the Taylor St. employment office.

The Fall Revue, which will open the 1951-52 entertainment season of the G-E Club, will be held Saturday, Nov. 17 and Sunday, Nov. 18. Five professional acts have been engaged to present five performances on these two days. Performances will be given Saturday at 7 and 9 p.m. and Sunday at 1, 2, and 5 p.m. in the auditorium.

Shown on this page are four of the five acts, which employees and their families will see at this year's Revue.

DYNAMITE ON A SPRINGBOARD—Dynamic action and split-second timing are stressed in the exhibition of springboard acrobatics which the Cressonians present in their act. They execute difficult and intricate feats including double and triple somersaults and shoulder catches. The four members of this acrobatic team are shown at left in the costumes they wear when performing.

MUSIC WITH A SMILE —is the theme of the Tu-Tones act. Mario and Lee, shown at right, combine music with comedy and impersonate top artists. They have appeared on TV shows and at theaters throughout the country. These artists have also made recordings, such as the "Tu-Tone Boogie."

TOTEM POLE OF COMEDY—is the trio Lowe, Hite and Stanley. Henry Hite, the tallest of these comedians, is 7 feet, 9 inches tall. The low man on the totem pole above is Stanley Ross, who is 3 feet, 9 inches tall. Eddie Lowe, the third partner, is 5 feet, 5 inches tall. The comedy trio has been featured in an RKO musical film and on television shows.

GETS BIG SEND OFF—Frances Wilkie, Bldg. 17-3, (second from left), was honored at a big send off when she retired last month. Among those present at the luncheon given on her last day were V. R. Castle (left), Nellie Bellamy, Beulah Johnson and Naomi Robinson. She has been an employee at General Electric since 1928 and was a parts inspector in Bldg. 17-3 when she retired.

WITH G-E 30 YEARS—Frances W. Howell, Bldg. 4-2, (second from left), has been with General Electric 30 years. He celebrated this anniversary October 14. Several of his co-workers who gathered to congratulate him were W. H. Franke (left), Clarence James, Victor Hall and H. G. Siebold (l-r).

Still Bashful: Charley Brubaker has been married a good number of years now, but he is still the bashful little boy he's always been. Charley was seen in W&D's Lingerie Department handing the girl a slip of paper on which his wife had written the articles he was to get. Always stay that way, Charley, and you will never get into any trouble. . . . Out of This World: Claude Johnson has been after us for a month now to print a story on the size fish he's been catching. Since he now insists we say something about it, we are going to let Claude tell you the story himself. It's too fantastic for us to get involved, and we haven't read anywhere where you won any prizes, Claude old boy. . . . Neighbors Wondering: Bill Rohe's neighbors have been wondering why they see Bill running back and forth from the house to the orchard with a little white bucket in the last week or so. It's those crickets he has been harboring. Since he started the furnace, they are hatching faster than Bill can carry them out. Why don't you put them in the septic tank, Bill? . . . Congratulations: Flawrence (Wimpy) Lemper on completion of 25 years service with the good old G-E Company. . . . We Know Now: who is going to drive that new Plymouth. It's not Leo Elward, but Mrs. Leo Elward. She was seen taking driving lessons. Too bad, Leo, we're sorry, too. . . . No Excuse: as far as time is concerned for not using your right to vote. You have all day Tuesday in which to do so. Do it.

G-E Announces Record Number Of Stockholders

SCHENECTADY, N. Y.—Marking an increase of more than 4,000 stockholders in the past year, the General Electric Company now has a record total of 253,710 stockholders as of September 21, the record date for dividends payable October 25, William W. Trench, company secretary, announced today.

The new total surpasses by 391 the previous record of 253,319 stockholders set in June, 1951.

Eighty-seven per cent of the stockholders are individuals, Mr. Trench said. Brokers, banks, bank nominees, and other business enterprises total less than two per cent of all stockholders, while trustees, guardians, and other fiduciaries account for 10.7 per cent of the number.

Other figures released by Mr. Trench show that there has been a steady ascending ownership in General Electric since the founding of the company. In 1928, the total number of G-E stockholders passed the 50,000 mark; in 1930, the 100,000 mark; in 1938, the 200,000 mark; and in 1949, the 250,000 mark.

New York state leads the 48 states with a total of approximately 57,000 stockholders, while Massachusetts runs second with about 30,000, and Pennsylvania, third, with about 20,000. Various educational and charitable institutions hold in her names about a half-million shares of G-E stock.

General Electric ranks fourth among American Industrial concerns in number of stockholders.

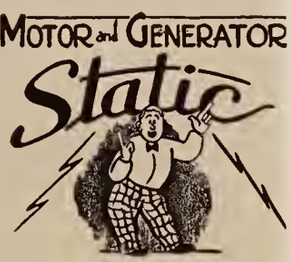
department, both minor and major?

7. Does he maintain good housekeeping in his department?



8. Does he cooperate with the Safety Committeemen?

9. Does he attend meetings pertaining to Safety as often as expected of him?

10. Does he set a good example in safety?

This is the eighth annual presentation of such awards by the Industrial Safety Committee of the Fort Wayne Chamber of Commerce Safety Council. A majority of city industries will select award winners who will be honored at the Institute.

G-E foremen who have received the award since 1944 are Dean Lockwood, Bldg. 26-2; Rollie Wickliffe, Marcus Harrigan, Louis Sordelet, Bldg. 26-5; Basil Bowley, Taylor St.; Joseph Laisure, Bldg. 19-2; William Skevington, Taylor St.; Loyal Liddy, Taylor St.; E. F. Sonday, Bldg. 4-5; William K. Rohe, Wire Division, and Arthur C. Braun, Large Motor and Generator Test divisions.

Thought For The Week—"Cattiness is a kind of cold war between females."—Roy Ottley. . . . DAFFYNITIONS—Confusion: A word preceded by "utter". . . Middle Age: When a man would rather not have a good time than have to get over it. Taxpayers: Paytriots. Horse Sense: Saying "neigh" at the right time. Junk Yard: Chinese Naval Base. Deficit: Difference between the amount of taxes the government wants and the amount it has the nerve to collect. Soap Opera: Thud and blunder. Hollywood Starlet: Glamateur. Pigeons: Asphalt Pheasants. . . . We welcome to Bldg. 31-1 Betty Baughman Albert Irving, and Margaret Rosenhahn. . . . Jet—Ken Weaver says his Chevy has been flying low these days, especially when he wears that snazzy bow tie of his which makes a pretty good propeller. . . . Fund—Speaking of bow ties, we now have a "Bow Tie for Amstutz Fund" Anyone wishing to contribute call extension 2405. . . . Speaker—They say it pays to increase your word power. One of our fair maidens, Doris Christley, has taken this maxim so seriously that she religiously devours verbose volumes each lunch hour with her ham on rye. Who knows, maybe some day she'll out-talk us all. . . . Ah! Comfort—George Momper reached the ultimate in comfort last Friday. He wore his pajamas to work. . . . Well, Well—Looks like our women are getting more blonde all the time. Lou says it's the hot Indiana sun.

The Ladies' Monday Night League really had the pins toppling. Marge Huber had the high single game and high three-game series for the evening. Margie rolled a 233, 169 and 161 for a 563 total. Bonnie Wolf kegled a 153, 211 and 137 for a 501. The Sugarbowlers hit the high team score for the night, an 821 actual pin count.

Keglerettes won three games from Handicappers. The Pepperettes are still leading the league with a 19 won, five lost record. In second place are the Sugarbowlers with a 15-9 record.

Other high scores for the evening were rolled by E. Scheuman, 182; H. Waggnor, 181; P. Braun, 180; Kay Baade, 179; P. Martin, 176; F. Miller, 175; B. Heck, 171, and Ilo Motter, 170.

Office League

The worm has turned. After losing 20 games in a row, the G-E Club team decided that it was time to turn the tables. Now, they are going after 20 wins in a row. They are off to a good start by winning three more last Monday. The Amplydines are still leading the league with a 19-5 record. Aircraft is holding down second place, 18-6, with Motor-Generator and Drafting tied for third place with 16-8.

W. Hattendorf scored a 609 on games of 199, 203 and 207. H. Fanning found the range and came up with a 224 count. W. Piercy got 212; W. France, 211; A. Johnson, 206; E. Aumann, 205 and 201; I. Ross, 202, and Bob (with the pinboy's help) Knepple, 200. Walt Gerke picked up the 6-7-10 split.

Interdivision League

The Hermetic team leads the league with a 15 wins, six losses record. Firemen are right behind with 14-7, and Doodlebugs are in third place with 13 won and eight lost.

Two hundred counts were made by A. Laisure, 211; Koehl, 200; Keifer, 207; Soule, 202; E. Schoenlein, 201; Luedeman, 205, and N. Kuntz, 202.

For a while, it looked like Art Seidel might come up with a 600 series, but the pressure was too great. He had to let Walt Seidel (his brother) get the 600. Walt had 212, 195 and 199 for a 606, while Art had to be satisfied with counts of 200, 201 and one game not to be mentioned.

Apparatus League

Team No. 11 is out in front with a standing of 17 won, four lost, followed closely by Team No. 2 with 15 won and six lost. Team No. 1 came up with the team high count for the league, a sizzling 1,031 count.

D. Stanley led the individual scoring with a 221. C. James had a 214 and Paul Boedeker, 209. What happened to Windy Boester?

Decatur Bowling

In the Monday Night League, Stators trimmed Office in two of the three games and Flanges won two of three from Packers.

Briede had the only 200 scores of the evening, games of 208 and 211.

In the Fraternal League, Moose-Burke won three from G-E Club, and American Legion won three from K. of C.

A 692 rolled by Faulkner is the new high series for the league. Faulkner put together games of 237, 207 and 248 for his 692 count. Other double century bowlers were Zelt, 209; Appleman, 233; Steury, 203, and Lord, 212.

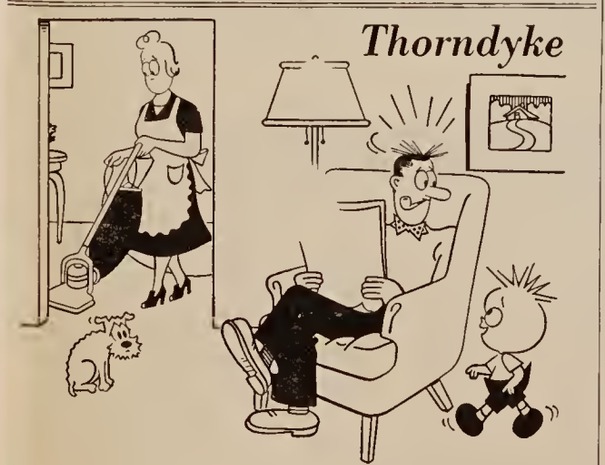
Transformer League

Coils are in front with a 10-5 standing with Bells and M in a tie for second with nine wins and six losses. Miller had the only 200 game of the evening, a 203 count.

Masonic League

Doric are still in front with an 18-won, six loss record. Corinthian came up from fourth place to second by defeating Fellowcraft three games. Corinthian has a record of 15 wins and seven losses.

Peters had a 216 count for the league's high of the evening. A. Hickman, 213; Bickhard, 201, and the little left-hander, Frank Quinn, 201, got the only 200 scores.



Small Motor League

Tools are still in front with a 17-4 standing. Office, Dubs and Contributing are in a three-way tie for second place with 13 and eight.

Carl Brandt kegled a 235 for the high of the evening, followed closely by Jim Daley with a 233. Dick Bucher, 209; Jim Carey, 207; Erv Haugh, 211; Chuck Kelson, 203, and Bob Duras, 209, got the other high scores.

Bowling Notes

Don't forget, four alleys are available for open bowling on Tuesday nights. Get in a few practice games for the City Tournament.

"Mom says I can go to the movies, but I thought I'd ask you just for the heck of it"

Interdivision Basketball Starts Nov. 13

The Interdivision Basketball League will start play Nov. 13. All games will be played Tuesday and Thursday evenings. The league will consist of eleven teams.

All teams are getting in all the practice they can to be in good form for the opening night. Any manager can get the use of the gym by calling Bill Schible on extension 688 or Ray Quinn, extension 397. Practice balls are supplied by Charlie Wilt.

There are several openings in the Large Motor and Generator basketball team. Anyone interested in playing on this team is asked to contact Ronald Young, Bldg. 19-2, extension 2251.

By Don Clark

Don Eme deserves mention for his kindness to animals. He tramped the woods gathering walnuts. Then he brought them home and thoroughly cleaned them. It was such niee weather that he spread them out in the yard to dry. The squirrels sure appreciated his efforts. They spent all the next day storing the nuts away. Nothing like sharing, eh, Don? . . . Ross Cohagen repaired his coal bin and then ordered some coal. The coal was dclivered but the bin wall wouldn't hold. Since the coal is now piled up against the stoker he won't have so far to shovel it. . . . When Diek Suter didn't show up for work we wondered how far out he went to build that new home. . . . Bud Dunlap is having a hard time explaining his recent auto collision. We can't figurc out how he can be innocent with a careful woman driver in the car ahead and a skilled lady driving the car behind him. He claims he was trying to get out of their way when bang! it happened. . . . Wonder how our "Junior Birdman," George Luker, is eoming with his flying? . . . Bill Stetzer enjoys being serenaded with "Home On The Range" whenever riding on a bus. It also helps to have the bus filled with cigar smoke as it adds that campfire touch. . . . Eldon Mee has a very profitable hobby. He makes and sells dolls. Eldon says he enjoys making these dolls more than some of his he-man hobbies. . . . Henry Sandkuhler has his trials and tribulations keeping up with his boys. While he was taking a rubber ball out of the plumbing the other evening, the boys proceeded to give him something else to take eare of. They opened a ean of paint, and you can imagine what happened when the boys and the paint got together.

MARKS UP 35 YEARS—Maurice Cox, Bldg. 26-2, (left), marked up 35 years of service with G-E Thursday, Oct. 11. Congratulating him on his long-time record are E. J. Thomas (center) and C. W. Kronmiller.

Withholding Taxes Up 11 To 12 Per Cent

The new $5,691,000,000 tax increase bill went into effect yesterday and the nation began paying higher income and excise taxes.

Corporation taxes also were increased and made retroactive to last April 1.

The individual tax bite is now about 12 per cent higher than the old rate on all except the lowest bracket. The increase in this bracket is 11 per eent.

Employers will begin withholding taxes from pay checks at the rate of 20 per cent after personal exemption, but before deductions. The old rate was 18 per cent.

The new bill set eorporation taxes at 30 per cent on the first $25,000 of earnings and 52 per cent on the rest, with excess profits taxes at 82 per cent. The old rates were 25, 47 and 77, respectively.

The bill increases many excise taxes and reduces some. Principal increases are on, distilled spirits, beer, wine, cigarettes, gasoline, automobiles and automotive parts and accessories, trucks, buses and trailers, electric, gas and oil appliances, sporting goods, and photographic apparatus. Taxes on domestic telegrams, smoking and chewing tobacco and snuff, have been reduced.

5,670 Employees Now at Work For Uncle Sam

The General Electric Company has announced that 5,670 of its employees are now serving in the armed forces of the United States.

Thirty-five per cent of the 5,670 employees were recalled from a reserve status, 39 per cent were inducted through selective service, and 26 per cent had voluntarily enlisted.

To date, 13 G-E employees are reported to be either dead or missing in action.

"We're in the Army now" applies to Derwood Franke and Ed Weaver, who left last week to join the Air Corps. . . . Vie Blomenberg is recovering from a cracked right elbow. Vie injured his elbow when he fell off the porch at his home. . . . Eric Gawehn is still among the missing in the drafting room. Eric was about to return from sick leave when he suffered a fall. He sprained his ankle and injured his right wrist. Hope he can make it back soon. . . . Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Jim Bunner, who have their second daughter. The baby's name is Ellen. . . . Mabel Liggett returned from a flying trip to Jacksonville, Fla.—and we do mean she flew—in an airplane. She liked it. . . . Hidden talent was exposed recently in the drafting room. Bill Ryerson has a hobby of sketching designs. The artist has some beauties. . . . From the state of Utah comes Nyal McMullin, a new engineer for the AC division. . . . We are deeply concerned for Mrs. Marvin Baker and think she should have police protection. Finding a list of words on a paper belonging to her husband, she was startled to read as follows, "Beat wife, harsh words for the children, food, poison." When the Mrs. questioned Marvin concerning the paper, he explained that the list of words was his outline for a speech to be given in the Effective Presentation class. If that's the way the Effective Presentation class affects engineers, we think Mrs. Baker should keep a close watch on her husband. . . . One way to find out if anyone reads this column is to make a mistake. Apologies go to JIM Mueller, messenger boy. The typewriter slipped and typed his name as Dick. By coincidence, he has a brother named Dick. So sorry.

Did you ever see one of those fancy bird ornaments on a car hood? Norb Sordelet has one on his car and when he went to the parking lot, lo and behold a couple of "birds" had built a nest around it. The birds turned out to be Louie Sordelet and Kerm Griffin. . . . Halice Grabner had better lay off that coke machine. Haliee, while looking out of the top floor window, claimed that a tower on one of the downtown buildings was about to fall over. It looked straight to everyone else. . . . The mystery of the missing pie is still unsolved as far as Ethel Henschell is concerned. Yep, when Ethel came back to get her pie, some culprit on the Blanket Warmer Line had disposed of it. . . . "A slim, bespectacled" young man took the honors in the City District Elimination Bowling Tournament. It was none other than Walt Mertz. Walt may have an opportunity for a chance at some five to six thousand dollar prize money if he stays in there. We'll get everything all shined up for the celebration. . . . Helen Griffin not only works in our Lead section but also attends night school. Helen is now wearing an engagement ring. Congratulations. . . . My agents report that Dick Pierce was seen going to a movie, the first one in several years. What do you think of these modern inventions, Dick? . . . Well, Johnnie Gadomski and Don Zumbrun have reclaimed their cars from the junk yard. We hope they take a few more driving lessons before they endanger the highways.

HONORED AT RETIREMENT—Edith McKeon, Bldg. 26-1, is shown opening a gift she received from her friends in STAB Div. 91. A group of her co-workers are gathered about her. She retired Oct. 1 after eight years of service. At the time of her retirement, she sanded and prepared punchings for annealing.

BASKETBALL NOTICE

The G-E Squares basketball team would like to schedule practice games with other teams in the Interdivision League. For details, call Robert Berghoff on ext. 510.

FAREWELL

This is a good sized job
To find enough words to say
The nice things we know
About our subject today.

Two ladies came here to work
One some 30 years ago.
While the other one waited awhile.
She had other ways to make her dough.

Hazel and Leila are their names
And they are leaving us, you know.
Their picture will be in the WORKS NEWS
As on pension they will go.

They both are winders on our floor.
Some dreams must be wound in
Of the day when they would stay at home
And live their dreams again.

These gifts are just a remembrance
Of the friendship you have won,
A priceless treasure it will be
Now that your work is done.

By Mary Wright

Last Tuesday about 90 co-workers of Leila Doehrman and Hazel Lockwood had a farewell dinner for them. We wish you the best of everything in your new life of ease. . . . QUALITY PLUS: Twenty three years ago last Monday, Ores and Wilma Redding were married. Congratulations. Wilma says they are still using the G-E toaster the group from Bldg. 26 gave them then. . . . Congratulations on the pink booted addition at the Charles and Betty Yarger Askren home. Both of the parents are former co-workers. . . . Ina Smith was vacationing in West Virginia last week. . . . Velma Seibt thinks we must have quite an artist on second shift. . . . Harold Bowker was up to visit us last week. . . . We still have a sick list which includes Eva Fisher, Luella Knoche, Luey Alexander and Hershel Case. Hope to see you back in the groove real soon. . . . We extend our sympathy to Ellen Ditlinger in the death of her father.

The habit of bragging about being over-bright often leads to getting polished off.

Interclub Conference Scenes . . .

WHEN MR. CORDINER was introduced as guest speaker at the Presidents' Dinner Saturday night, he was greeted with a rising ovation from all the representatives who attended the conference.

WORLD FAMOUS Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, where Interclub representatives held their two-day get-together.

AMEN!

Some Monday mornings we feel like a million dollars—with the Federal, state, county, city, and hidden taxes already deducted.

ARMISTICE DAY

Heroes of old; I humbly lay
The laurel on your graves again;
Whatever men have done, men may,
The deeds you wrought are not in vain!

FUND NETS $55,000 AT HALF-WAY MARK

With a total of $55,000 contributed to the Community Services Fund during the first three days of the drive, the organizing committee stated at press time that reports indicate the goal of $85,000 necessary to take care of our obligations to the Community Chest and Red Cross will be reached.

As of Friday, Nov. 2, 75 per cent of employees contacted had joined the Fund. The average contribution per person was $10.60 per year.

The organizing committee issued the following statement yesterday, "In review of the reports up to date, indications show that when the final tabulations are in, there will be sufficient funds to take care of our contributions to the Community Chest and the Red Cross for the coming year."

Contributions Up

Employees are contributing larger amounts per person this year than they have before, K. W. Michael, chairman of the committee, stated. He explained, "The average amount given per person this year is 44 per cent higher than the average given per contributor in the 1950 Community Chest campaign."

The goal of $85,000 is the estimated share of the Fort Wayne Works employees in the Community Chest and Red Cross budgets. The amount is higher this year because six new agencies have been included in the Community Chest and agency operating budgets have increased slightly since last year. The goal for the 1951-52 Fort Wayne Community Chest is $545,362.

Agencies Aided By Fund

The 23 community agencies to which employees contribute by signing membership cards in this single campaign are: Associated Catholic Charities, St. Vincent's Villa, Boy Scouts, Children's Day Care Association, Community Chest, Family and Children's Service, Fort Wayne Jewish Federation, Fort Wayne Urban League, Girl Scouts, Hospital and Home Service, Lutheran Social Service, Public Health Nursing Services, Rescue Home and Mission, Salvation Army, Social Planning Council, Y.W.C.A., United Defense Fund, American Hearing Society, National Probation & Parole Association, National Travelers Aid, Indiana Mental Hygiene Society, Westside Neighborhood Center and the Red Cross.

Three Named STAB Marketing Managers

Pritchard, Rowe, and Coughlin Assume New Positions This Week

In a reorganization of the Specialty Transformer and Ballast Department's marketing organization, three appointments were announced this week by E. C. Schorr, manager of marketing.

Harold K. Pritchard was named manager of general purpose transformer sales. Joseph P. Coughlin was appointed manager of aircraft and electronic transformer sales. Arthur E. Rowe was named manager of the lighting component sales. All appointments became effective November 1.

Mr. Pritchard came to the General Electric Company in 1927. He enrolled in the Test Course then. A few months later, he went into transformer engineering. In 1940, Mr. Pritchard transferred to Specialty Transformer sales in Bldg. 26-2. Four years later, he became manager of sales of the General Purpose Components Section of the Specialty Transformer Division. In 1947, he was named manager of the Specialty Transformer Sales Division, his position at the time of his present appointment.

A graduate of the University of Illinois, Mr. Pritchard received a B. S. degree in electrical engineering in 1927. He is a member of the Supervisors Club, the Fort Wayne Engineers Club and is a Registered Professional Engineer in the State of Indiana.

Mr. and Mrs. Pritchard live at 835 W. Wayne St.

Mr. Coughlin entered the test engineers program when he joined the Company in 1941. In 1942, he moved to Pittsfield to work in design engineering. One year later, he returned to Fort Wayne to become a proposition engineer in the STAB Department. In 1949, he was named assistant manager of the STAB sales division. He held this position at the time of his present appointment.

H. K. Pritchard

A. E. Rowe

J. P. Coughlin

Mr. Coughlin graduated from the Pratt Institute School of Science and Technology in 1941 with a BSEE degree. He is a member of the G-E Squares Club, the Supervisors Club, the Fort Wayne Engineers Club and is a Registered Professional Engineer in the State of Indiana. Mr. Coughlin is an instructor of Effective Presentation of Business Ideas.

The Coughlins and their two children live on R. R. 2, Roanoke.

Mr. Rowe came to the General Electric Company in 1946 as a sales engineer for the STAB sales divisions. He was named assistant manager of the Ballast Sales Division in 1949. He held this position at the time of his present appointment.

A 1943 graduate of Indiana University, Mr. Rowe received his A. B. degree in industrial psychology. While he was serving in the Navy, he also attended and graduated from the Graduate School of Business at Harvard University.

He is a member of the G-E Squares Club. Mr. Rowe is an instructor of Effective Presentation of Business Ideas and also taught sales techniques at Purdue University Extension last year.

Mr. and Mrs. Rowe and their three children live at 3615 Winter St.

Have We Forgotten How to Think Peace?

Nietsche, the philosopher who inspired dictators, once wrote: "a good war halloweth every cause. War and courage have done more great things than charity . . . War is elevating, because the individual disappears before the concept of the state." We may call Nietsche a mad German philosopher, but unconsciously we seem to be following his ideas.

Despise it as we may, this is the doctrine of nations today. We fought it recently with the Germans and Italians. We are preparing to fight it again with the Russians. After two bloody catastrophes in this century, we are now embarked on another in Korea. All our efforts and plans are now motivated in terms of a third great war. We seen no new hope or promise of a brighter, a more peaceful future.

Our Values Have Changed

The reason for our disappointment lies, simply enough, in the hearts and minds of men. We have developed a false sense of values which calls the destructive great and relegates the constructive to secondary importance. Our values make us thrill to atomic blasts, but leave us unenthusiastic toward improved education and medical research.

What Nietsche says seems to be true if we judge by the facts in our world today. "But they are true only because we who may other ideas have not bothered to fight the growth of these thoughts. We have either forgotten how, or neglect, to think peacefully.

It is now time for an armistice in our Nietsche-like thinkink. Let us use Armistice Day as a time to assess the ideas and doctrines of war that have enveloped our minds during recent years.

Let us devote this day to our heroes by using it as an occasion to remember how to think peacefully, so that we may act peacefully. Let us pray that we can turn ourselves and the world from thinking war to thinking peace.

A Cable Speaks for America

The following item is a heartening example of American forthrightness:

"The chain-smoking Lt. General Nam II picked up his wooden 'Red Star' matches at Kaesong. They sputtered out. He turned to his lighter. It alternately flickered a tiny flame and flared into a blazing fire. Desperately, he picked up U. S. matches from the truce table. They worked every time.

"Upon hearing of this, Fred Kloonan, president of the AFL United Match Workers local at Oswego, N. Y., cabled Vice Admiral C. Turner Joy:

" 'Products made by free men under a competitive economy will always be of high quality and superior to those of regimented slave labor. With the thought that they might demonstrate this point if presented by you to General Nam II, we are sending you air express a case (2500 matchbooks) of good American matches. . . . Who knows but what they will help General Nam II see the light?' "

New Editor

Andy Anderson Takes Over As 'Airliners' Editor

"Hot Rod" enthusiast, Orton B. Anderson, Jr. is the new division editor of Bldg. 6-4 "Airliners." He replaces Joan Lindeman, who has been transferred to the office in Bldg. 4-4.

The new editor, known as "Andy" to most people, came to the General Electric Company in 1929. He worked as a messenger in Bldg. 18 at that time. He went to Winter St. in 1932. One year later, he returned to Broadway to work in Bldg. 4-3 as a die caster. In 1941, he transferred to Bldg. 26-4 to do inspection and test. His second move from Broadway took him to Taylor St. to work in commercial motor test. In 1950, he returned to Bldg. 4-3 as a final tester, which is his present job.

Andy spends much of his free time building a Chevy coupe into a "hot rod." Several years ago, he raced in the pleasure car races at the Fort Wayne Speedway. His knowledge of automobiles has made Andy a friend in need to many of his friends and co-workers. He gets many calls from people who are having trouble with their cars and want his help.

When he isn't working on his "hot rod," Andy spends his leisure time bowling on three teams. He is a member of the Airliners team, the Key Classic League and the Moose Victory League.

Mr. and Mrs. Anderson and their three children live at 1618 Cass St.

They're feudin' and fightin' again. Now that winter is here, the feud between the fresh-air fiends and the "draft dodgers" is on. The drafting room gets stuffy and the fiends turn on the ventilators. In about five minutes the engineering division is in a draft and soon freezes. Then a brave soul sneaks through the drafting room and pushes the stop buttons. Ten or 15 minutes later, the air in the drafting room is stale again and zing go the ventilators. So it goes far, far into the day. If only one ventilator is on, then the fellow under it is in a direct draft. Harold Garrett proceeded to remedy the draft situation by using his plastic board cover as a canopy above his head. But happy day, by the time this is printed, the winter covers should (we hope) be on the ventilators. The covers help a lot. . . . Doug Johnson has received his call to the services to Uncle Sam. Jim Bunner, now on vacation, is waiting to see if Uncle Sam wants him or not. . . . Have you met our latest models? Halloween brought to light that we have three people in the AC Motor Section who should be Powers models. They are "Mrs." Tex Brown, "Mrs." Marvin Adamson, and "Mrs." Lee Preston. What figures! See the following snapshots.

AN ARMISTICE DAY THOUGHT—
"LET'S NOT FORGET"

'Twas three and thirty years ago today
That church bells rang and whistles blew
And factories closed and schools dismissed
And anxious mothers wept for joy.
Because, on foreign soil and far away,
Where boys we loved had bled and died,
An armistice was signed and fighting ceased.
A war had ended. Blessed peace had come at last.
Today, in far-off France, beneath a thousand rows
Of almost countless wooden crosses,
And in the ocean depths, with graves unmarked,
Are sleeping still, those boys who gave their all.
'Tis not for us to know, just how they died.
We only hope the end was brief and free of pain;
But since it was for us they paid the price—
Yes, paid the price for us and millions yet unborn.
Forbid, O Lord, that we this day forget,
The passing years would seem to prove
That those we honor must have died in vain.
For since their time, a million other boys,
For us, have had to pay the price again.
Another war, another peace, and still Another war, with peace yet far away.
How long, most patient Lord, must mothers' sons
In just the early bloom of youth
Be sacrificed upon the altar of a selfish,
Greedy, godless, domineering few?
However on this day, their day,
Although we must admit we've left them down,
Let's credit them with what they tried to do.
Let's honor them, and even though it seems
They may have had to give their lives in vain,
The fault is ours, not theirs, so please,
On this, their day, let's not forget.

Elex Members to Hear Boys Town Choir Sun.

Father Flanagan's Boys Town Choir, from Boys Town, Neb., will present a program of secular, religious and semi-classic music for members of the Elex Club, Sunday, Nov. 11, at the G-E Club. The performance will begin at 2:30 p.m.

The auditorium will be open at 1:30 p.m. There will be no admission fee, but Elex members must show their membership cards at the door. The executive board will usher.

The 55 members of the Choir are directed by the Rev. Francis P. Schmitt. George Szemler is the accompanist. In recognition of Armistice Day, the Choir will open and close the program with patriotic songs.

We wish to extend our sympathy to Dorothy Hart in the death of her husband, Roy Hart. . . . Mary Jane Bakle attended the funeral of her husband's aunt at Fostoria, O., last Monday. . . . Evelyn Turner celebrated her birthday Oct. 26. Evelyn went down to Logansport and did all right by having three birthday cakes. . . . Edna Peterson has her driver's license now. She is giving Irene Drabenstot all the pointers. . . . The other evening when Elma Wise started to eat her lunch, she had the bread and butter, but not her chicken. She forgot to put it in her lunch. . . . Violet Renkenberger is enjoying the interesting pictures her son is sending from Korea. . . . Mary Rose's husband went to Canada deer hunting. . . . Irene Drabenstot really pulled one over on her family, when she dressed up on Halloween and went around to the front door. She was treated by her daughter and wasn't recognized at all by her family. . . . Wayne Chapman went outside to wash his soaped windows from Halloween and the soap was on the inside. It sounds like his own children to us. . . . Mary Stewart's mother-in-law is here visiting from Memphis, Tenn. . . . Rennie Phelps returned from a recent illness. Glad to see you, Rennie. . . . Jessie Wass celebrated her birthday. She received two large cakes and all the candles and many nice gifts. . . . Lela Siebert is driving a new Nash. Lela also celebrated her birthday on Halloween. She was presented with a cake decorated with a Halloween decoration and many useful gifts.

Once there was a baker who baked very bad pies. He couldn't sell his bad pies, so he decided to advertise them as good pies. So he advertised—and the next day he saw a large group of people coming to buy his pies. Quickly he closed shop and hung a sign, "All sold out."

"Why do that?" asked his wife.

"Listen," the baker replied, "if all those people find out how bad my pies are, I'm ruined."

Community Cooperation

Ab Martin, Works manager, is shown at the right giving Mayor Henry E. Branning, Jr., a deed to a portion of land which the Company presented the City of Fort Wayne. The land is a necessary part of the western approach to the new Taylor St. bridge, shown above. This is the second time that the Fort Wayne Works has deeded land to the City for the improvement of Taylor St. The first time was when the street was originally constructed.

OUR BOY HARRY RETIRES—With 47 years of service at G-E to his credit, Harry Zimmerman, G-E Club steward, retired last week. He is shown cutting out a big 47 with the electric table saw his friends gave him. A familiar figure to all G-E employees, Harry was an original member of the G-E Volunteer Fire Department. His service at G-E dates back to 1904. When he retired, he had accumulated the most years of service of any active employee.

Stormy Weather

by Betty Gentile

Deep in the Heart of Texas: The man you see sporting a ten-gallon hat, smoking a cigar and yodelling cowboy tunes is none other than Walt Konow, alias "Bootsie," who just spent a week in Texas. . . . Swing Your Partner: We hear that Russ Noll is very capable at the "promenade the hall" and "take-a-little-peek" dances. The line forms to the right for lessons on square dancing. . . . Come 'Ona My House: Gerry Holdgreve hopes that Omer Mettler will have both feet on the ground when he nears Gerry's house. It seems that Mr. Mettler was taking a (solo?) flying lesson and nearly sliced off Gerry's roof. "Ace" Mettler just thought it would be a novel idea to make a three-point landing in Gerry's living room. . . . In My Merry Oldsmobile: Mae Lacey is asking people to risk their neck and ride with her since she has obtained her driver's license. If that isn't a sufficient thrill, she may take you to her home and set fire to the chair you're sitting on. . . . Troubles Are Ironed Out: Leona Zwick may have thought her steam iron was made out of rubber. After dropping it, she changed her mind. Leona "hot-footed" over to the Employees' Store for a new iron, but was pleased to learn that her other iron could be repaired. . . . Take Off Your Coat and Stay a While: Lee Batz had difficulty in unzipping her coat last week. The girls came to her rescue, and Lee was saved from a Turkish steam bath. . . . Safety-Conscious: Dick Seidel was advised by his doctor not to do any heavy lifting. . . . Back in Circulation Again: Please submit items for our column.

Schueler's Offer G-E Employees Improved Service

Increased service to G-E employees was announced this week by Schueler Appliances. Employees may do their shopping at both the E. Wayne St. and the Fairfield Ave. stores.

At the present time, the General Electric Company is engaged in a sales effort known as the G-E Road Race Jamboree. Fort Wayne is now in the Number One position in the nation in this contest due to the volume of purchases in the past few weeks.

In accordance with this contest, Schueler's is introducing two new G-E products—a G-E automatic washer and a new model range with two ovens at a special employee's price.

All G-E major appliances are on display at both locations. Both stores are open Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings.

Warren W. Schueler has asked that any unsatisfactory service be brought to his personal attention.

by Barbara Schuckel

Audrey came to work Monday with something new—a diamond! Congratulations, Audrey. . . . Carol Kissinger, Betty Bartley, Vi Schneiders, and Barbara Schuckel went out to dinner and to a show last week. They had a wonderful time. . . . Barbara Harvill said good-by to us Friday. We're going to miss her. . . . Mary Wakeman, Bernadette Collis, Ruth Crockett, Delores Hahn, and Delores Borne were on the sick list last week. . . . Roslyn Standiford spent a week's vacation just enjoying being at home. . . . Welcome to our new mail boy, Wayne Brunson. . . . Arland Bell brightened our office with a bouquet of flowers. Thank you, Mr. Bell. . . . Al Kruse had a sad experience last week. A friend of his called and invited him out to lunch. Al gladly accepted. Later in the morning Al opened his desk drawer and discovered that he had brought his lunch. He called his friend and told him he was sorry but he had to call off the dinner date. Al, you could have auctioned off your lunch and still go out to dinner. You would have had a free dinner and made some extra change on the side. . . . Fred Wheeler is going to have to get into the habit of sitting up close to his desk now. The desks have been pushed closer together and there is barely enough room for a thin person to get through.

Four STAB Employees Promoted

Four appointments in the Specialty Transformer and Ballast Manufacturing Division were announced this week by W. H. Crouse, superintendent.

T. H. Gugler

B. R. Young

L. B. McNamara

V. M. Grothouse

Ted H. Gugler has been appointed assistant to the superintendent of manufacturing in Div. 94. Bret R. Young has been named assistant to the superintendent of manufacturing in Div. 97. In further appointments revealed this week, Lloyd B. McNamara was named supervisor of cost and Victory M. Grothouse appointed section supervisor of cost estimating and cost reduction.

Mr. Gugler joined the General Electric Company in 1929, entering the mechanical training course. He was assigned to process engineering and planning work in Bldg. 4-6 in 1932. Two years later, he became assistant general foreman in Bldg. 17-4. Mr. Gugler became a cost clerk in 1939 in Bldg. 19-3, later moving to Bldg. 18-3 to work as a cost analyst.

He became a supervisor of cost shortly thereafter. A few months later, he moved to Taylor St., where he served as supervisor of cost for the next three years. In 1945, Mr. Gugler became a statistician, and in 1947 became cost reduction coordinator in Bldg. 26-2. He was supervisor of cost in Bldg. 26-2 at the time of his present appointment.

A graduate of the University of Nebraska, Mr. Gugler received a B. S. degree in mechanical engineering. He is a member of the G-E Squares Club and the Supervisors Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Gugler and their two children live at 1202 Illsley Dr.

Apprentice Graduate

Mr. Young graduated from the Apprentice School in 1929 as an electrical draftsman. He worked in the STAB Drafting Section for a short time before joining a planning group.

In 1933, he was assigned to the Winter St. plant on wage rate work. He returned to the STAB Department in 1946 as assistant supervisor of Wage Rate. Two years later, he became wage rate supervisor. His appointment as staff assistant in the STAB Department, which he received in July, is the position he held at the time of his present appointment.

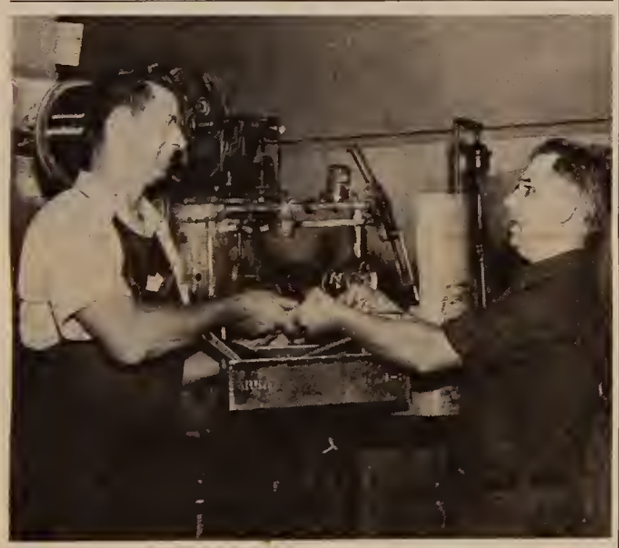
A member of the G-E Squares Club, Mr. Young resides on the Reckeweg Road.

Mr. McNamara came to the Company in 1925. To work in test in Bldg. 26-2. Four years later, he transferred to Bldg. 19-2 as a cost detailer. He became a leader of the cost detail and building section in 1942. In 1946, he became assistant to the cost supervisor.

Two years later, Mr. McNamara became supervisor of cost in Division 94. In 1949, he became section supervisor of cost detail and statistical reports. This was the position he held at the time of his present appointment.

Mr. McNamara is a member of the Supervisors Club. The McNamaras and their four children live in Roanoke.

Began as Messenger



Joining the Company in 1928, Mr. Grothouse first worked as a messenger. One year later, he transferred to cost reduction work. He transferred to Bldg. 19 to work in cost detail in 1933. After serving in the Armed Forces for four years, he returned to the Company in 1946 to work in the cost section in Bldg. 31-1.

He became assistant to the cost supervisor a few months later. In 1947, Mr. Grothouse moved to Danville to become cost supervisor. Upon his return to Fort Wayne two years later, he worked in the STAB Department in the cost estimate section. This was his position at the time of his present appointment.

He is a member of the Supervisors Club. Mr. and Mrs. Grothouse live at 607 E. Jefferson St.

YOU BETTER WATCH OUT! As the holiday time draws nearer we always notice that the children begin to watch their behavior and get to be so SO good. We wonder if it holds good for adults. We notice that Ezra has been so careful that he did not even make the news for weeks. How about it, Ezra? . . . GUILTY? We all know that "crime" doesn't pay and neither does "bribery." Edna Callow happened to see Ada Owens open her purse to get some money and asked, "What are you trying to do, bribe them not to put your name in the WORKS NEWS?" Ada replied, "No, I haven't done anything to get in the news." Surprise—now you both are in. . . . RED—NEW COLOR FOR FALL—It seems as though brighter colors are being worn this fall. Even Ed Borne has developed a sudden dandyism, that of displaying vivid red heels. We understand that "Spec" Hebble also likes red ones. . . . ANYMORE SAMPLES? Leona Krick likes to bake cookies and then pass samples along to her friends. We don't want her to get out of practice and we're just wondering, if we bring back the wax paper, will you give us a refill? . . . HAPPY BIRTHDAY, FOLKS! Barbara Hurst is celebrating her birthday while you are reading this article. Sure and she says that she is now 19. Me, oh my! Oh Time! please turn backward. Barb, we wish you many more happy birthdays. . . . The birthday treats have surely kept the candy passing along the lines. This week we had Phyllis Arnold, Betty Doherty, Nora Smitley, and Ella Scherry passing out the candy. Velma Goelz also passed out a treat of home-made cookies. Happy birthday to all of you girls and thanks for the treats. . . . PICKUPS: I believe that Norma Bower is rather washed up on the Pontiac she just purchased. I know now that she should have bought a Ford. . . . BEEFSTEAK: "Ala Studebaker" is what Helen Funk would call it after that narrow escape she had last week when a big black bovine ran out in front of her. Luckily no one was hurt—only the car. . . . Those pipes that Glenn McDonald worked on last week sure did a lot of sweating when he turned on the water. . . . "Gawdon" Railing and Ernie Foreman are still feuding according to latest reports. . . . Norma Poorman will be all alone one of these days. Yep, Johnny took his physical recently. We are sorry to hear of this and hope he comes back real soon. . . . Mrs. Mildred Felty, who formerly worked in Bldg. 7-36, gave birth to a bouncing baby girl Friday, Nov. 2. Good health and good luck, Mildred. . . . ANNUAL PARTY: Elmer Beer, former G-E employee, is throwing the annual chicken supper this year for Mickey and other cronies. Hi, Elmer! How's everything going? . . . ATTENTION VOTERS: This is to inform you that Cleva Weaver is running for the office of mayor of Middlebury. That's what she tells me. She will probably ride that donkey around to call on her constituents. I suppose that she will make Virginia Diehl marshall. Could I be dog-catcher, Cleva? . . . OPEN HOUSE: It won't be long now until Pete Fairchild will have his barn finished and then he will have open house for those who helped on the construction. What ho and a bottle of Hadacol! . . . SYMPATHIES: Our sincerest sympathies to Agnes McBeth upon the death of her brother, Leo Weber. We also wish to express our sympathy to the Brandyberry family upon the death of Floyd, who retired from the G-E a few years ago. . . . SO LONG, MILLIE! Mildred Geimer has left us again. She is going to be a salesgirl. We certainly will miss her, but we want to wish her all success on her new job. . . . ILL: We all extend our best wishes to Ralph Welch for a speedy recovery. Ralph was admitted to our local hospital for treatment. . . . LEAVING US: Dorothy Heimann is leaving the Company to become a resident of Ohio. She is going to be married Thanksgiving Day. Also wedding bells rang for Barbara Robinson, who is also leaving us soon. Well, best wishes Dorothy and Barb and all the happiness that can be had.

TRADES TOOLS FOR PLOW—Harold Bowker, Bldg. 17-3, (right), is shown turning his tools over to Bill Martin, who will take his place. Mr. Bowker has taken vested rights on his pension to become a farmer near Churubusco. He will be specializing in rabbits and cattle. At the time of his retirement, he was a set-up man in Bldg. 17-3 and had put in 25 years of service with G-E.

HEADED FOR LEISURE DAYS—Monty Kelsey, Bldg. 19-2, (left), is shown saying good-by to Elmer Yordy. Well-liked and easy-going, Mr. Kelsey retired this month after 23 years of forming armature bars for the Large Motor and Generator Division.

G-E DEATHS

Services Held Monday For Grover E. Jamey

Services were held Monday for Grover E. Jamey, 64, who died Friday, Nov. 2, at St. Joseph's Hospital. He had been ill two years and a hospital patient for two weeks.

A lifelong resident of Fort Wayne, Mr. Jamey retired from the General Electric Company in 1948. He began work with G-E in 1925 as a blacksmith in Bldg. 27. At the time of his retirement he was employed in the Bldg. 26-5 tool division.

Retired Decatur Man Dies in Monroe Nov. 2

Floyd E. Brandyberry, 66, of Decatur, died at his home in Monroe Friday, Nov. 2.

Mr. Brandyberry was pensioned Jan. 1, 1949. He came to the Decatur plant in 1944. During his employment with the Company, he was a departmental helper.

Survivors are his wife, mother, two sons, two daughters, one brother and three sisters.

Funeral services were conducted in the Monroe Friends Church Sunday, Nov. 4. The Rev. Vernon Kiley and Rev. W. L. Hall officiated. Burial was in the Ray Cemetery, west of Monroe.

Glenn H. Billman Dies In St. Joseph Hospital

Glenn H. Billman, 52, died Saturday at St. Joseph's Hospital. He began working for General Electric in 1917 as a helper. He later worked in Bldg. 19-1 as a welder and in Bldg. 26-2 as a lathe operator. He was working as an engineering lathe operator in Bldg. 19-1 when he left for illness in September.

Surviving are his widow, Lottie; three sons, Paul and Glenn, Jr., and Terry Lee; three daughters, Mrs. Guy McPherson, Mrs. Paul Casteel, and Rachel Ann; a brother, Lester; three sisters, Mrs. John Weichner, Britain, Mich., Mrs. Walter Snell, Cecil, O., and Mrs. Joe Richart, Fort Wayne, and six grandchildren.

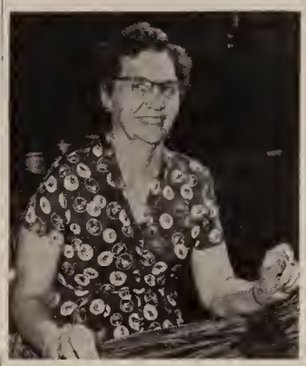
Bertha Burnau's daughter was married last Saturday. Seems the groom was given an additional five days leave, so it was done up fast. We wish the best to Patty and her husband. . . . Florence Fett tried out Lucky (that's the new pony) in ease you have forgotten, and she said she got along fine, but Lucky starts out too fast. Florence was standing most of Monday. . . . We tried to talk Ivan Ford into having the department out to his house for a party, all eats furnished by Ivan, but he wouldn't have us. . . . Edith Venrick doesn't mind telling stories, but she hates to explain them afterward. . . . Mildred Hoover fell the other evening going home from work and hurt her ribs. She says unless it stops hurting, she will see the doctor. Hope no ribs are cracked, Mildred. . . . Dorothy Swank was out Halloween with the rest of the goblins. . . . Anita Slusher got a telephone eall in answer to her ad in the WORKS NEWS for a ride into work, but seems since she is married, no ride. . . . Clarence Hewes was in for a visit Friday and will be baek with us next Monday. . . . From the pictures that Ed Bowser had at work the other day, we should have another eamera fan in the department. . . . We are glad to see Eldridge Gilliom and Frank Fogwell playing checkers again. Seems there are times when the game is stopped due to the checkers and board being on the floor. . . . Howard Mills and Mildred Hoover are running a race on visitors they are having. Wonder which one will win. . . . Ray Smith went up to Wisconsin on a fishing trip this week. We wonder if he got caught in the snow. . . . Seems Ray Sehuckle did some very poor bowling the other night. Bill Putt says he is trying to beat his and Bert Brown's score. . . . Clarence Didier is still working on the puzzle. I do wish someone would help him out, as we are afraid it might be too much for Clarence if it keeps up.

Harold Neimeyer took his little girl to one of the Halloween night events. From the report we get, Harold made four trips after doughnuts and cider! . . . Val Sitcler probably startled a few people on one of the city huses recently. She took her shoes off to find a dime bus fare. Val ended up borrowing earfare home. . . . Did those beautiful blonde tresses belong to Lana Turner or Veronica Lake? Nope! It was Val. If that wig does any good, I'll try it. . . . Orville Langohr wants to know who snitched the transformer from the endurance test display? . . . Pat Marler looked like a little school girl with that lollypop she had the other day. . . . Our gal Maxine Bakle spent a week in New York. Max left a week ago. . . . Al Tyson said he was going to take his kids out for a little Halloweening but he ended up with an assortment of 25 goblins and ghosts. . . . Inez Hall took off for Michigan last week, but neglected to come to work until Wednesday. . . . Louie Sordelet was presented with a token of esteem by some of his co-workers when he took over the Hermetic Lines. Louie seems to have made a hit with the girls in Hermetic winding. . . . John Reinwald has been off sick for several weeks now. . . . Loretta Bloom is coming along nicely. . . . Our spies report that Don Zumbrun has taken up sewing. Probably safer than driving. . . . We bid so long to Stan Saai who has joined the Air Force. . . . Wonder why Peggy Deel was having sueh a hard time bowling this week? . . . Donna Murphy has resigned as secretary of the bowling league. . . . We have a complaint about the way Hanna Stith treats Archie! . . . Birthday greetings to Verda Hill. . . . Congratulations to Ethel Brown on becoming a mother-in-law. . . . The long arm of Uncle Sam has reached Don Beghtel. Good luck! . . . Noel Smith did a good job throwing his hip out of joint. Even a chiropractor couldn't throw it back in place. . . . Marge Leiter has left us to work in the Bldg. 26-4 Green Room. . . . Len McGee is singing "Sound Off" to all the pretty gals; single ones, that is. . . . The second trick thought they had a distinguished guest in the person of Red Ryder or the Lone Ranger but it turned out to be Don "Hopalong" Calahan. Where did you leave your hoss, Don?

Gurney Lindley (retired) has been spending some of his idle days at Brownsville, Tex. He is now leaving there and has sent a picture of one of his eatches to prove he has been having some fine luck. . . . Lynn Wingerter and Ward Staley, Sr. took a wonderful trip to Dale Hollow Dam (Kentueky-Tenn.), where they were greeted with that good old Southern Hospitality. They expected to catch some eorn-fed fish, but didn't. Anyway, it was a fine scenic trip. . . . What is better than competition? (Bring 'em back alive) Harold Whonsetler is trying to get in that "late arrival elass." He is giving Jess Batchelder, who has been doing a better job of getting in on time, some more eompetition. Harold said he would have liked to have had an opportunity to help cateh those eireus animals that eseaped last week, too. . . . Gentleman Jim Duff has returned to the Apprentice Sehool and we now have Harry Koeh with us. Good luck to Jim, and we hope Harry will like it while he is here. . . . Justin Heaston had to get out the old Alpine costume while doing another paint job reeently. . . . Hubert (Curley Boy) Sherlock has been on nights for several weeks, while George Bartle was on a hunting trip.

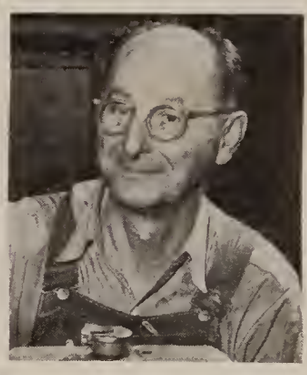
Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Charles McClure on the arrival of Rebecea Sue Nov. 1. . . . Did anyone see the building permit that Emery Cramar has posted on the garage he is building? One of the "city officials," here at the plant, persuaded him a little. . . . Carl Moore now has two sons in the Air Corps, Larry Moore formerly of Bldg. 4-3, and Vaughn Moore of Taylor St. Both boys are stationed in the South. . . . We wish to extend our deepest sympathy to Harold C. Smith on the recent death of his father and to Dallas Broxon on the death of his mother. . . . Jimmy Kreko, our southern friend, is all ready for winter. As a matter of faet, he bought a pair of gloves after the first frost and has been predieting snow every cloudy morning for weeks. . . . Ralph Latham bought a new suit thanks to the fellows at Taylor St. Now he wants to bet so he can get a shirt to go with it. So far no bets have been plaeed. . . . Welcome to Walt Yopst as a permanent resident at Taylor St. Walt is taking over for Al Sehairbaum, who has left the Company.

I can understand how they find new planets, but I can't understand how they get to know their names.



Inquiring Reporter:

"WHAT MAJOR CHANGE DO YOU THINK THE NEWLY-ELECTED BRITISH LEADERS WILL BRING ABOUT IN BRITISH GOVERNMENT?"



CECIL ROSE
Bldg. 8-1

"I think the newly-elected British leaders will try to make the country earn its own living and enforce economics in Government administration."

ELINOR LAUX
Taylor Street

"It will affect the whole world as well as the British government. This recent turn from socialistic experiment reveals that money freely spent must be given some consideration as to where it comes from. It may also affect our national election, a turn from Liberals to Conservatives."

ANDREW EINSEIDEL
Bldg. 19-1

"I don't know what form of government the newly-elected British leaders will put into effect, but whatever they do will benefit the British people."

HELEN PETRIE
Bldg. 26-4

"A better understanding between the Government and the common people. Winston Churchill seems to have the understanding and greatness to be a leader."

SOLOMON ANDORFER
Bldg. 17-4

"I think (and hope) they will have a better government under Churchill. The big change was the election itself."

SHAFT SHAVINGS

Bldg. 19-3 by Charlene Bloom

Charlie McCormick's fishing trip, I found out, turned out to be a cheese-buying tour. They caught only three fish. I guess the cheese looked better. . . . Loren Reichard became a father Oct. 28. It was a boy, 7 lb. 7½ oz. They named him Dennis Allen. No one can touch Loren with a ten-foot pole. When he gave out his cigars, he got nervous and gave me one. Loren says that Dennis needs a hair cut. . . . Jerry Sanger, the weather man, checked to see if winter were here by pulling up Elmer Warner's pants leg to see if he had his long johns on yet. Jerry said that he will let everyone know when winter is here. . . . Cal Cose just had his winter hair cut. So far this year he has had three hair cuts. Now that winter has set in, there won't be any more until next March or April. . . . Kenny Nulf has just returned to work from a few days of illness. . . . Henry Becker seems to have a real hard time with his new car. It seems like every time he buys a new car, someone manages to run into it. . . . Why does Heiny Becker like to shop at the A&P near closing time on Saturday evenings? We have the answer. They sell out California grapes cheap because of spoilage risk. Why does Becker buy grapes? Well, some people eat them and some drink them. We suspect that Heiny doesn't eat them. . . . If you are ever at a loss for a good original excuse for absences from the job, see Perk Sickafus. Perk comes up with some honeys and all really original.

If anyone has a compass, please give it to Margaret Chartres. She got lost in her own alley the other night. Sounds strange, doesn't it? . . . We are sorry to hear that Doris Stearn's grandmother is ill. Hope she is well soon. . . . Helen Boedeker sure got a big cake for her birthday—a cup-cake with one candle. . . . We all wish Mureen Brake's husband a speedy recovery from his operation at the Vets' hospital. . . . Cathy Traughber and Vi Elliott are sure putting on weight, after eating the delicious lunches Chet Warren sends in with his wife, Mary. . . . Some of the girls in 1x55 were guests at a bridal shower in honor of Barbara Tschannen. She received some lovely gifts. . . . Martha Scherzinger won't be caught under a sun lamp for a while. She had to take part of the day off, too! That is about the second day she has been off work in 40 years! . . . Margarite Smith is driving a new car these days. . . . Anyone interested in some beautiful jewelry, see Dorothy Edgar. . . . Birthday greetings to Clarence Renschler and Frank Brindle. . . . So long to Modene Smith, Billy Gawthrop and Ida Mae Ernst. Hope to see you gals back soon. . . . Ruth Gerhardstein sure has been in a dither these days. It seems that she is getting married November 3, but the announcements were dated October 27 and were all sent out before they found their error. We do wish you the best of luck and hope you will be very happy and that there will be no more such mix-ups as this. . . . Bill Widdifield says he broke the camera when he had his picture taken for his 25th anniversary. . . . A speedy recovery to Aileen (Sue) Tester, who is a patient at the Lutheran Hospital. . . . The boys are wondering if Louie Ditton has ever found that white shirt? . . . Ralph Gilbert was reported chasing butterflies last week. . . . About 10 years ago Ed Kirshner took a chance on a turkey and won. He took it home and was going to fatten it up before he ate it. Since he won it, he didn't want to put too much money in it, so he didn't feed it very much. They tell me it died of starvation. But here is the catch, he hasn't taken a chance on anything since! . . . Helen Struver is such a coffee fiend that she is even trying to flavor her eggs with coffee. She absentmindedly poured coffee over the eggs and didn't realize what she had done until the aroma of coffee came floating through the house. . . . Don Mason says he is doing just what the cartoon in the newspaper suggested. Now we want to know who is ahead? Him or the government? . . . Old bird stork sure has been a busy bird on the fourth floor. He delivered a boy to the Carl Warfords, a girl to the Lawrence Reichards, and a girl to the Robert Sprinkles. Congratulations, folks. . . . Our sympathy to Roland Gindlesparger on the death of his sister. . . . Frank Voirol has a new responsibility these days. He is now a marriage counsellor. . . . Vickie Hyre spent the weekend in Chicago visiting her sister, who is appearing at the Blackstone. She is part of the internationally-known dance team of Melba and Consolo. . . . Ruth Hine spent the holiday in Chicago shopping. . . . Louie Ditton purchased a piano. Now we are just wondering if he will be taking piano and voice lessons. We all think he should be good at "boogie."

HAS 35 YEARS' SERVICE—Sam Houser, Bldg. 20-1, (second from right) has completed 35 years of service with General Electric. He celebrated his anniversary Tuesday, Oct. 30. Shown congratulating him are (l-r) D. D. Brayer, Harold Smith and George Thimlar.

SHIPPING: Another familiar face is back in shipping again in the person of Virginia (Miller) Goeglein, who is back with us again in the complete file. Welcome back, Virginia. . . . Down, down, and not by elevator either, that's Eloise Hoehn for you, always the hard way. Eloise joined the "I fell down stairs" club last week, but reports no broken bones or even a black and blue spot. . . . 'Tis nice to hear that Charlotte Edwards is feeling better. We wish her the best of luck in her new career as a housewife. . . . A very happy birthday to Ferne Runyan, who celebrates next Tuesday. Also we wish to send birthday greetings to our soldier boy, Bob Gebert, on the 13th. Happy birthday from all the gang, Bob. . . . Best news of the week was the report that Zercia Sinish's husband is home from the hospital, and feeling much better. . . . Rumor has it that Halloween ghosts were responsible for the carmel corn that Harry Price received through the mail. Certainly was a nice friendly ghost. . . . Katie Minehart is in possession of one of the finest pieces of literary art we've seen in many a year. It is a suggestion, but to date Katie hasn't been able to determine what to do about the cuspidor situation.

6-4 Airlines

Moe claims TV is OK, but he doesn't have will power enough to turn it off and go to bed. . . . We hear that farming must be paying off. Harry C. bought a new Nash. . . . Our best wishes for a very happy marriage go to Dolores Gladbach, whose name now is Mrs. Jack Soderquist. After a week of honeymooning, Dolores is back at work and feeling as cheerful as a lark. . . . Betty is sure of being on the winning side. She was putting on a campaign for both parties. This way she can't lose. . . . Bea says they built the computer room large enough for two or three assemblers, but now there are five girls. It is so crowded you have to step out of the room to change your mind. . . . We sure are going to miss Joan Lindeman as she was a very pleasant news reporter. She is being transferred to Bldg. 4-4 office. Here's hoping you enjoy your new job, Joan, but, if you ever come back to work with the gang in Airliners, we hope you will be our news reporter again. . . . One of the testers by the name of Rogers has raised a well-trained and matured mustache. A very distinguished looking job at that. . . . If anybody thinks they have trouble with their bowling game, they should talk to Maxine and Esther. They know how bad it can get.

Dorothy Franklin's husband has the right idea when he comes to Bldg. 6-2. He times himself. . . . We were all very sorry to hear about Robert Fullerton's disastrous fire. . . . Birthday greetings to Kathleen Clark. Hope you have many more, Kate. We all enjoyed the ice cream and cake. . . . Aldena Harris went to the hospital Wednesday, Oct. 31. Hurry and get well, Aldena. . . . We welcome Mabel O'Neil to our group. Mabel came to us from Bldg. 6-4. . . . Wanted: A personal maid. Contact Dessie Gorge for full information concerning duties. . . . Catherine Stanton and Dorothy Franklin each want to look ten years younger. They came to work Monday with their hair cut and curled. See what you started, Mada. . . . Dessie Geroge should practice up on her ABC's, especially when she is talking to the girls about payroll. . . . Betty Collier was so excited recently she couldn't even get her apron on. Ask her about it. . . . I guess we will have to put Margaret Cook's name on her coat. She almost took the wrong one. . . . What is this we hear about a surprise package in Lee Malone's lunch box? . . . Don Meyers doesn't look bad in glasses, but oh! those glasses with the nose. You just couldn't recognize it as Don. . . . Candy treats this week have been in order almost every day. Anyway, it was good whatever the occasion. . . . Vivian Miller has changed residential areas. Hope you enjoy your new home, Vivian. . . . Clara Wisel was trying to play cupid recently, but Geneva Curtis just wasn't interested. Jenny wonders if it would do any good to put an ad in the WORKS NEWS. . . . Dorothy Franklin informs us the name of the beautiful doll was Pet and the lucky winner was Mary Mills. . . . Connie Harris was talking to Fern Yoder and wondered why Fern didn't answer her. When she turned around, you can imagine her surprise for Fern wasn't there. . . . Kay Dolan was scooping up the floor, but we don't know why—it was Babe Gephart's box of tools. . . . John Putman, who has been off sick five and a half months, just returned to work in Bldg. 6-2. John was formerly set-up man in Bldg. 4-2.

LEAVES FOR RETIREMENT—Hazel Lockwood, Bldg. 17-3, is shown at her machine just before she left for a life of ease. Mrs. Lockwood has worked for G-E since 1942 doing such jobs as filing burrs, connecting, coil placing and winding. At the time of her retirement, she was winding coils used in hand placing. One of the first things she will do is get a fishing license and do a lot of fishing for the big ones. Mrs. Lockwood also likes to travel and may go to the state of Washington to visit her son.

On retirement list

Gertrude Beekner Retires from G-E After 21 Years

Gertrude Beekner, Bldg. 17-3, retired this month after 21 years of service.

Starting in April, 1930, Miss Beekner first worked on armatures in Bldg. 17-2. She later did connecting work. In 1932, she transferred to Bldg. 4-2, where she did finishing work.

The following year, she went on a connecting job in Bldg. 17-2, and later did miscellaneous finishing. At the time of her retirement, she did oxygen welding.

Miss Beekner hopes to follow her hobby of growing flowers and doing yard work during her retirement.

Nolan Lowden surprised his fellow workers last week by displaying his talent at art. With Vernon Burke posing as model, Nolan sketched his picture and it really looked like Vernon. . . . Herb Thiele thought someone had stolen his car the other night. However, he had only forgotten where it was parked. Ralph Van Osdale says Herb should never worry, thieves just don't steal that make of car. . . . Sunday was banner day for Max Shaw. He celebrated his birthday. . . . Why did some people object when Ray Finton's youngster won a prize at the Halloween party? Oh yes, we hear that Ray was one of the judges. . . . We hope that Harold Knox will whip that pneumonia attack and soon be back with us. . . . The office girls say "thanks for the lift" to Edythe Gordon who is scheduled to leave today. . . . Agnes Ditlinger wishes to express thanks for the floral offering and also thanks to those who called or sent cards at the time of her father's death. . . . Clarence Wiebke caught Vernon Burke in the right mood the other day and Vernon let him pull that loose tooth. A large pair of pliers did the trick, boys. . . . DIE PLANT: Bob Bryan, "the deer slayer," left last Wednesday for southern Indiana to try his luck at hunting under the new regulations. Good hunting, Bob. . . . Maurice Guenther left last week to undergo surgery and to spend three weeks at the hospital. Here's to your better health, Maurice. . . . John Bartle's car is now all set for winter driving with a new radiator core. . . . Halloween night saw Carl Zion as parade marshal at Nebraska School. . . . We think that DeWayne Schele should borrow a pair of bifocals before he goes to another square dance on Halloween. . . . WOODY TROSTEL was expecting the girls to be a bit more affectionate when he brought in a box of candy for his birthday. Now he's disappointed. . . . Congratulations to Russell Sage on a family addition—a baby girl. . . . It is "Grandpa" Mutton and Paluzak now, folks, so step right up and shake their hands. . . . Del Stickler kept his egg factory and is ready to take orders for eggs. . . . JOHN STELLER usually stays away from trouble. However, he was the victim when two cars collided and one of them bounced into him. . . . We all understand why Sandy Greiner raises such a fuss when she gets into a dentist chair. It all came about when her father, Walter Greiner, was put under gas to get some teeth pulled. He became slightly excited and caused the office to look like a small sized typhoon had hit it. The dental tools were scattered everywhere and the dentist was hiding in the corner trying to get away from it all. . . . Our Zollner basketball board of directors, Woody Hursh, Don Alcott, Guy Wagner, and Bob Truelove have voted to retain the coach, Paul Birch, even after that disastrous game at Syracuse. . . . LLOYD WELBAUM had to figure a way to unlock the door of his house. He left the key at work in his tool box. . . . Gene Denig claims our report that he visited the Smoky Mountains was erroneous. He was actually at home smoking some sausage. . . . We're glad Hank Sandkuhler is back in the Die Section. Those cheese sandwiches he always passes out are mighty tasty, including the limburger. . . . When one fellow in the Die Section has a wreck, all the other fellows frantically read their insurance policies to be sure they are fully covered. . . . Louis Pieper loves to work on radios. He drew the line when a fellow worker bought him two radios to fix and they were both performing like new. . . . We all extend our sympathy to Mart Walsh in the death of his sister. . . . George Horner informs us that he hasn't got his 300 in bowling this year. Tough.

G-E Club Adds Mambo Trio To Fall Revue Entertainment

The Mambo Trio, a unicycle act, is the fifth professional act to be booked for the G-E Club's annual Fall Revue, Gordon Smith, entertainment chairman, announced this week.

The trio is composed of two Spanish girls and one man. They have been featured with Ringling Bros. Circus, the Casino de Paris in Madrid, Spain and in many hotels, theaters and night clubs throughout the United States.

Harry Eaton will be master of ceremonies for the Revue. Performances will be presented Saturday, Nov. 17, at 7 and 9 p.m. and Sunday, Nov. 18, at 1, 3 and 5 p.m. in th G-E Club auditorium. Tickets are available at the G-E Club candy stand and the Taylor St. Employment Office.

WHOA THAR: Norm Oetting's runaway chair hit a raised channel on the floor and practically catapulted him into Herb Osborne's lap. . . . TRICK OR TREAT: Joe Gardt was sporting a new tie the day after Halloween. The tie was one of those fancy ones with built in gravy spots. . . . PROOF: Nancy Grosh doesn't wear strong glasses. She broke them the other day because they were too weak. . . . RETRIEVER: Did anyone notice the cute chick who brought Mr. McKim his brief case? I've heard of men leaving a hat some place so they could return a visit and pick up the hat, but I can't figure out this deal of McKim's. . . . NEWS: We were very pleased to circulate a letter in our division from one of our soldier boys, namely, Cpl. Frank A. Houlihan. He is now located at Ft. Flagler, a sub-post of Ft. Worden. Flagler is on an island in the middle of Puget Sound. His army job, he reports, is Combat Demolition Sergeant, in the Engineers Corps, an amphibious support regiment. He wrote how much he enjoyed receiving the WORKS NEWS and how he bet Ruth Oetting's picture helped to sell a lot of sweepers. You can address him at Company F, 369th EASR, Ft. Worden, Wash. (Hint, Ruth, please send the man a quarter). . . . COLD FEET: What caused the change in the designer's desks at the rear of DC? Feudin' and fussin', or Bill Manecke's need for a register to keep his tootsies warm this winter? . . . VACATION: Hope the Sam Moores enjoy their three weeks and two-day vacation down south. Lucky people getting a three-week vacation and two holidays thrown in for good measure. . . . HARD FLOOR: "And the walls came a 'tumblin' down." At first we didn't know if it was an atom bomb explosion or what have you, until we saw the "mushroom top" of Max Barrows' head emerging from below the desks, trying to figure out what happened when he joined the Floor Sitters Club. We'll have to get some rubber shoes for the chair, Max, so you won't fall on your neck next time. Don't practice leaning back against a wall with an ordinary straight chair on a waxed floor. It was a full half-minute after the crash that we first saw "the light." . . . BYE BYE: Farewell to Roy L. Balke this week. He is going over to Motor-Generator. Farewell to John Neal also this week, who is transferring to the Syracuse Works. . . . TV SET MINUS THE ANTENNA: Volunteers are needed to help Vern Kempenen make his TV antenna out of chicken wire. . . . SWEEPING FLIES: Did you ever hear of sweeping flies with a vacuum sweeper? Well, Jim Capps is going to try it. They sure must have a lot of flies.

The Mambo Trio

"Honest Abie" Eberhardstein is in business selling just about everything. Says Abie, "I can get it for you wholesale." Some of his prices are so low that he pays you to take it away. . . . Maury Cox recently completed 35 years with the Company and last week his picture appeared in the WORKS NEWS. Now I won't say that Maury is a "glory grabber." All I know is that he has 17 of those pictures hanging in various places around his desk. . . . Old "Baldy" Hilfiker has been getting advice from his friends (?) on how to save his last few remaining strands of hair. Don't worry about your hair getting thin, Jim. After all, who wants fat hair? . . . Tony Kazelis went bowling at Key Lanes last Thursday wearing a long white tail. We figure the tail was to increase his stability while flying up to the foul line. . . . One surprise after another this week. First we learned that Mary Cline is to be married and then, believe it or not, we find that Dora Aughenbaughensteinovitch is only 34 years old. . . . Dick Koop was the life of the party last Saturday night. Everyone got a big bang out of him. Everyone except his wife, that is. Hope your dog house is nice and warm these cold winter nights, Dick. . . . While we're on the subject, Hank Lantz of Leo (unincorporated) came in Monday with a large bump on his head. He tried to tell us that he got hit with a table, but I really don't think his wife is that strong. It was probably just an old-fashioned rolling pin that FELT like a table. . . . Norma Arnold has now joined the L.A.A.O.T.W. That is the "Loyal Amalgamated Association of Tail Wearers." She was initiated last week by "Lucky" Anders. . . . Wendell Miller is sorry to see baseball season go out just when he was getting his own little game perfected.

DOUBLE CELEBRATION—Leila Doehrman, Bldg. 17-3, is shown being congratulated on her double celebration by Vern Castle. She not only celebrated her 30th anniversary with General Electric, but she also retired this month. An employee since 1919, Mrs. Doehrman has done a number of jobs in Bldgs. 4-2, 17-2, 17-3, 17-4, 19-4, and 19-5. At the time of her retirement, Mrs. Doehrman was a machine winder.

Congratulations to Sarah Moore on her 25 years of faithful service with G-E. . . . Bob Heinzelman is thinking of buying a bowling alley. He thinks for the amount it costs each week for him and his wife to bowl, in a couple of years he would have it paid for. . . . We are happy to have Catherine Chilcote back with us after her recent operation. Group 17x53 is looking forward to having a better pool now. . . . Linda Wahrer is going to spend the weekend in Cleveland and attend a dinner party. . . . Cheer up, Sydonna, there is that old saying, "There are still better fish in the sea than have been caught." . . . Clara Gidley, Mary Shreve and Jackie Keller report the pumpkin pie was dee-licious that they had at Peggy Bandt's house the other night. That goes for all their husbands, also. . . . We hear the eight-week-old pup at Paul LeCoque's house has been keeping him awake at night. Is that the reason for the sleepy look, Paul? . . . We wish Ruby Stoops many more happy birthdays. We sure enjoyed the cookies, candy and cake, Ruby. . . . When Ruth Cavender falls for a man she really puts her whole heart and soul in it. . . . Howard Householder, Red Yant and Fred House were seen making telephone calls the other day. How you do waste your nickels, boys. . . . George Marschand is going deer hunting up in Canada next week. Be careful, George, there may be some two-legged deer running around with guns. . . . Who is the bachelor that got Laura Gerber's vote this week? . . . We wonder if Ruth Peek and her sister are thinking of joining the Girl Scouts? . . . Jim Stauffer informs us that he is boss in his home. He also added in a whisper "part time."

Most folks have presence of mind. The trouble is absence of thought.

The fellows in the Winding Section wish Clara Ballard would have more birthdays, so they could have more of those delicious Oklahoma cookies. . . . Al Topp is taking Joe Troendly's advice and installing a poly choke on his favorite gun. . . . Jackie Gambrell is getting married in December. Congratulations Jackie! . . . Happy birhday to Mary Jane Biddle and Helen M. Francis. . . . Our sincerest sympathy to Rita Osbuan on the recent death of her grandfather, also to Doris Salge in the death of her father. . . . "Dutch" Norrvalt has crossed Fay Russell off his list. It seems Fay invited Dutch out to the Southwest Gun Club and then Fay didn't show up. . . . Al Helwig's wife is going to take care of the groceries for a while. She was called on the Dinner Winner program last week. . . . Florence Converset spent last weekend in Milwaukee. What's it like, Florence? . . . Another girl in the Green Room has taken the final step. Dottie Winburn became Mrs. Mason last Saturday. That's seven girls in four months from that one corner of the Green Room. What kind of work are they doing back there? . . . Margie Leiter has been transferred from Bldg. 26-5 to the Green Room. She is working on Sealing. . . . A new girl has joined the winders. Her name is Gladys Rosebrock. Glad to have you, Gladys. . . . Margie Berger has the girls stumped. Since she is married, she oversleeps. What is the matter, Marge? It can't be from late hours, can it? . . . Vic Scheele had a thrill last week-end. His first train ride and his first time in the Windy City, Chicago. When he first found out he was going, he said, "I don't have a suitcase good enough to take, and I don't wear pajamas. One of his friends loaned him a suitcase. What did you do about the pajamas, Vic? . . . Homer Meekers' new Chrysler New Yorker wouldn't start one day last week. He had to spend sixty cents on a taxi. Did it flatten your pocketbook, Homer? . . . Hilda Vance is spending her one-week vacation in Buffalo. It must be nice having three weeks. . . . Mary Sayen spent last Sunday at Great Lakes visiting her son. He is in training there. . . . Mary Klemm moved to her new home in the rain. She could have picked a nicer day. . . . Fletcher Cumby was late for work last Friday. He has been trying to get his horse out of his neighbor's corn field for two days now. Every time he gets close to the horse it runs to the other end of the field and laughs at him. When he bought the horse, it took four days to catch it, so he could take it home. . . . Tom Freeman has a new nine-pound baby girl at his house. Congratulations. . . . It seems like being a housewife agrees with Marian Boerger. She is a former employee in the stamping section. . . . Just imagine Bob (Invisible Tooth) Enz getting two large tubes of tooth paste from Beverly's fish pond, his gums ought to shine now. . . . Won't someone please furnish Gene Galloway a dictionary so when he reads the morning paper he'll be able to tell the difference between King Leopold and leopard. How about that Gene? . . . Mr. Peterson spent his vacation last week in Washington, D. C. We hope he had a very nice time.

HOW-DEE-DO-DEE. . . . We see more familiar faces every day. We welcome all of you and hope your stay with us is a long one. . . . Afraid of goblins? Not Frank Shidler. He celebrated his birthday that day. . . . Potluck Highlights: Minnie Bayman and Bess Lanigan, of Angola, and Nell Grove, of Bluffton, all sisters of Hazel Lockwood, attended the farewell dinner for Hazel. . . . Vera Gennaitte, a former co-worker, also was a visitor. . . . Margaret Zumbrun was going to a movie that day after work. She said she had eaten so much she just knew she wouldn't enjoy her popcorn in the show. . . . Eunice Zehr mislaid her pocketbook and fruit salad. The pocketbook was returned all right, but the fruit salad was well sampled. . . . Charlie Rice shouldn't have been hungry for a week after those seven pieces of cake. . . . The new addition at the Bill Martin household is a Ford. It has wheels, too. . . . Luella Masson was a blood donor last week. Nothing to it, she said. . . . Laura Starner went to Detroit last weekend to attend a wedding. . . . Verna Kohart was in Akron, O. . . . If you want to know if you're a spoiled child, ask Mae Jones. She says she seldom misses. . . . Ralph Redding is home from camp in Florida. He is the son of Laura Antrup. Her son, Don Redding, has gone to camp at Bainbridge, Ga. . . . Thirty-seven shopping days until Christmas. Better hurry.

Anyone wishing to hire a Santa Claus for Christmas parties see John Collins. He informed us he has everything but the stomach and that is developing rather fast. . . . George Brehm has a whole crate of grapefruit on his hands. His big problem is whether to sell now or save them for hard times. . . . Can any of you tell Martha what school teaches pig latin. She says they never taught it at the school she attended. . . . What was it that Carl Noland used to shine the apple he gave Dorothy Campton, maybe Vitamin O? . . . Allen Gullim really looked fancy wih his orange shoe strings. Evidently still celebrating Halloween. . . . Frank Schultz is now assistant number two and one-half to Al Rieman, and Ronnie Davies is now on final inspection. . . . The little booths in one of the newly-painted rooms aren't large enough to be occupied by two. Velma Minnich was chatting away and moved in on Erma Wilkins, much to her surprise. . . . Dorothy Donahue wishes to thank everybody for his thoughtfulness and generosity. Words alone can hardly express her appreciation. . . . Mary Odem, one of our former co-workers, has a new baby girl. Congratulations. Mary is from the west end of Bldg. 26-3. . . . Art Pequignot evidently isn't on his toes lately, as Frank Cliban received the award this time. . . . We are losing our saw girl this week. She is leaving to await her bundle from Heaven. Good luck, Velma Minnich. . . . Danny Rueile must have either changed his ways or else he has a better hiding place. We can't seem to get him in the news. . . . Mary Reed was wondering recently how a rabbit grinned. She also said she had seen a Cheshire cat at the zoo, but wasn't sure whether it was in Chicago, Toledo or points east. . . . Happy birthday to G. Pequignot. . . . Have you all seen the beautiful picture Max Kimble received recently of Dagmar? Max pasted it on a file cabinet right by his desk so he could see it at all times and dream. He says he will believe television is here to stay when he can get her in perfectly on his set. . . . We wonder where Arnold Wolf is going to get his free food and drinks, since the political rallies are all over.

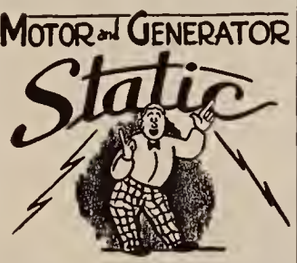
Chicken — Chicken — Chicken — who is going to win the chicken. The Club has announced a more liberal policy in the furnishing of chickens as prizes for bowlers at Thanksgiving. In recent years the Club has donated an average of one chicken for every three teams in the respective leagues. This year they will donate one chicken for every two teams. So, sharpen up your bowling eye and add some extra fowl to that Thanksgiving meal.

The Club will be open Saturdays for open bowling starting November 17. This will give you bowlers a chance to practice on the alleys to be used for the city tournament. The Club will open at 5 p.m. and close at 11 p.m. Saturday.

Small Motors

The boys went all out for the pins in the Small Motor League. Walt Lamboley, using his light ball, bunched strikes and spares to a total of 236. Hank Doehrman was just one pin behind with a 235 count. Jim Carey came up with another 200 game this week; this one was a 203. Ralph Hagaman found that strike pocket and kegled a 208. A. Koorsen counted a 207. I. Parrish, out after the dimes, was being pushed and had to rack up a 203 to win. Chuck Kelso hit the double century club with a 201 count. Tools are still leading the league with a 18-6 record. Contributing are coming up fast and are tied with Office with 15 wins and 9 losses.

Monday Night Office



The Coils and Bells are in a tie for first place with 11-7 records. The E-I's, Toys and M teams are tied for second place spot just one game behind the leaders, with a 10 and 8 record. Nelson hit the pocket and ended up with a 235 count. Kazelis had a 224 and Miller a 209.

Interdivision League

Hermetics hit the high team single game with a 1040 count to give them a win over Brouwers. It took Brouwers two games to recover and they just barely salvaged the third game. Doodlebugs defeated NoGoodNix in three games and the Hot Shots won three games from the Works Lab. Vic Rump just got into the double century club with an even count. Springer had the high single game for the evening, a 224. Paul Perry had his ball turning over and garnered a 214 count. Luedeman collected a 210; A. Farrell 213. A. Roby kegled a 220; Koehl 207. An oversight on our part resulted in failure to give recognition to the 600 count rolled recently by genial Les Shroyer. Les kegled a 627 total for high 3-game in the league to date. Les also has the high single game, a 234.

Ladies Monday Night

Pepperettes are leading the league wtih 21 won and 6 lost. In a tie for second place are the Sugar Bowlers and Alley-gators with records of 16 won and 11 lost. The Alley-gators defeated the Handicappers in three games and Keglerettes won three from Gutter-belles. Ilo Motter had the high single game for the evening, a 190 score. Justine Brown was second with 186. Helen Wagner and Bertha McCague had scores of 173. Marge Huber and Margaret Beugnot both kegled 171's.

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK: I am the most unlucky person in the world. If I were caught out in the rain and it was raining soup, I would have a fork in my hand." —Robert Kite, Bldg. 27. . . . "The folks who really know you are the waiters and the clerks."—K. Piper. . . . November 2—First snow of winter today. . . . REMEMBER: How many of you old timers remember Williams Grove, where the dog and pony circuses were held each year? If you don't ask Ed Reese. . . . SCOTCH: Gloria DeLait was seen industriously painting the worn spots on her black purse. She says she can carry it for another season now. Well, what do you know? Joyce Baclawski went swimming the other evening at the YMCA. . . . TOO LARGE: Ed Foley has large ears, else he would not be a success as division editor. Discounting the time Ed attended a party and the orchestra played "Red Sails in the Sunset" when he entered the room, we have seen them stand out like arms on a windmill. However, Mr. Foley flapped them at the wrong time the other evening. He was fooling around the furnace and accidentally shoved an ear inside, burning it severely. . . . HURRY: Frank Rathert was in such a hurry to get to work the other day that he spilled a quart of milk all over himself. Not having time to change clothes, he came in looking like something the cat did not drag in. . . . BOSS: Carl Koester, Bldg. 31-1 Cost Section, was showing his home to visitors several nights ago. When it came time to show the large bedroom, he said, "This is the master's room." The guest inquired as to where mamma's room was. Carl said, "Oh, I keep her locked in the closet." . . . Then we welcome to Bldg. 31-1 Doylene Cass and Rose Staley, new in payroll and Suzanne Johnston and Virginia Gerken in Cost.

Dorothy Askren is again an auntie, this time to a cute little girl. The father is Charles Askren and the mother is Betty Yarger Askren, formerly of Bldg. 17-3. . . . Eleanor Bollenbaugh came back to work under her own power, after fighting the flu for several days. . . . Anyone wanting to buy a good farm cheap can see Walter Kryder. He may take a house trailer in trade. . . . I am a little late with our welcome to Marjorie Weikart, but it is just as sincere. . . . George Skinnell sure likes his gravy, even to the extent of ordering it by the potful. Floyd Garland swears that he isn't going to eat in public with George again until he can read a menu correctly. . . . Mickey Crawford must have a good fairy who managed to get her tickets to South Pacific in Chicago last week. Mickey says that it was well worth the long wait and post dodging. . . . Charlie Rice really doesn't have much confidence in himself. He was seen trying to write with the traser end of a pencil. If he made a mistake, he wouldn't waste time erasing it.

ROLLS UP 35 YEARS—Vic Rump, Bldg. 19-B, (right), completed 35 years of employment with G-E Tuesday, Oct. 30. Mr. Rump, who is an enthusiastic bowler, is shown being congratulated by M. A. Sorgen and G. M. Murray (l-r).

Practice Starts for Owl Cagers; Some Team Berths Still Open

by Bill Geist

With the G-E Club decorations finished, Interdivision league basketball teams were able to practice sooner than was expected. All but one team had a practice session prior to the meeting Oct. 31.

The team managers are all anxious to start, and are busy picking men for their team berths. A team is allowed ten men. A manager must release the overflow to try out with another team, if he has more than ten.

A well-balanced league is in the making. Competition is expected to be keen. League play starts Nov. 21.

Any basketball players who are not yet signed should contact one of the following managers: Howard Boren, FHP Div. 13 and 17; Orval Moody, FHP Div. 14 and Wire Mill; Guynn Evans, Bldg. 26-3; Bob Packwood, Bldg. 26-4; Jim Klinger, Bldg. 6-4; Freddie Phillips, Bldg. 4-5, or Bob Crosley, league manager, Taylor St., ext. 2576.

We wish to welcome a group of new co-workers to the Sales division. They are: Bob Braden, Lori Brink, Marian Davies, and Jay Morris. We hope you all enjoy working with us, as we like having you with us very much. . . . Wonder if Kent Tiller's wife allows him back in the kitchen yet? It seems he put his engineering mind to work and fixed the refrigerator so it wouldn't work. It really must take an education to do something like that. He tells me he couldn't do it without his engineering degree. . . . A good suggestion for a Christmas gift for L. Basil McDoughall is a carton of Blackjack gum! Shall we drop a hint and tell him that Santa only gives the good boys what they want. . . . I wonder if three people in Priority Section aren't in need of a vacation. E. C. Throndsen, Bill Crane, and Bev Goshorn were frantically searching each other's desks and files for a certain set of papers, when it was discovered that such papers did not even exist. . . . Elmer Haugh ate three and a half pounds of turkey the other day at a PTA meeting for men only, but he was outdone by Bob Wildermuth who ate four pounds plus a leg at the same meeting. (Turkey leg, that is.) Of course, there seems to be an argument, as to whether it was a PTA meeting or a TPA meeting. Anyway, the food was good, or so I hear. . . . Barb Haley got a few words confused pertaining to the PTA or TPA meeting that I just mentioned. It seems, she said, "If I were a woman I'd like to go." We wonder what she really meant to say? . . . We are sorry to bid farewell to Ann Jacobson. Accounting will not seem the same without Ann and her crocheting. She is going to become a full time housewife and mother. Best of happiness, Ann, and remember to let us hear from you once in awhile. . . . Jo McBride will sure be in a fix if all the fellows she is writing come home at the same time. Of course, it is wonderful to see a person taking an active interest in the fellows in the service. We are proud of you. By the way Jo, have you lost any more days? It seems about a week ago Ruth Raypole and a few other people convinced Jo that it was Thursday instead of Wednesday. A weekend we can understand, but in the middle of the week? . . . Congratulations to John Hecke of Sales Accounting, whose wife presented him with a little John. . . . Birthday greetings to M. J. Petgen, who just returned from a week's vacation at home, cleaning out the attic. (They call that a vacation?). . . . We hear that Barb Ormiston is planning to go to Hamilton Lake for a weekend. They say she has enough luggage to go to New York. Nothing like taking a change of clothes for every hour. . . . That's about all for now, and I'll see you next week.

Improved GE PRODUCTS improve JOB SECURITY

Textalite plastics surfacing is ideal far covering tables, above, kitchen work surfaces, and bathroom vanities. It wears like iron, cleans easily with o damp clath, and resists household chemicals, scratches and heat.

Through continued research and development, G.E.'s Chemical Department has been devoted to the task of creating and improving the materials which make up the basic parts of many of today's manufactured products. In the science of plastics, electric insulation, silicones and resins, for example, considerable progress was made during and since World War II.

This progressive research has given us improved techniques of molding the clear materials of acrylics and styrenes and the laminated materials formed of thin layers of paper, asbestos, or cloth bonded by synthetic resins.

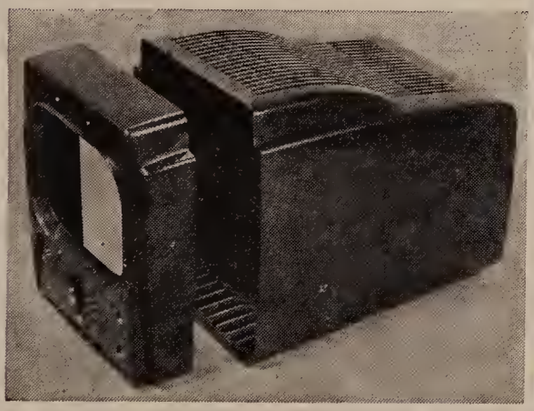
New and improved electrical insulating tapes and varnishes have permitted manufacturers of motors and transformers to produce better products. New Glyptal alkyd resins have enabled paint manufacturers to make longer lasting finishes. Plastics compounds have also benefited by continued research—stronger materials, and materials that give faster production are only a few of the outstanding developments in this field.

The new chemistry of silicones is helping to do many things which could not be done before. G-E silicones for making stain-resistant, heat-resistant enamels suitable for painting household appliances is but one of the developments in this new field.

On this page are a few of the Chemical Department's products—some with the latest improvements—which are being produced as basic parts for consumer products manufactured by other companies.

A cellulose acetate plastics is molded to make the pistol grips shown in the picture above. The Chemical Department molds this basic part for the monufacturer of the sportsmon's Hi-Score target pistol.

These eyeglass-cleaning tissues containing G-E silicones provide a magic cleaner far lenses and leave a protective film that keeps them clean longer.



Household appliances will eventually be covered with the new silicone enamel cantaining G-E silicones. Two samples in the model's right hand were unstained by iodine tests and undamaged after 1000 haurs in a temperature of 500°F, compared with a sample af ordinary enamel which was stained and turned brown after two hours in the same heat.

Molded of polystyrene, the three plastics juicer parts shown here are made for easy squeezing of fruits as basic parts on the G-E electric mixer.

The housing for this steak-cubing machine is molded of urea molding compound by the Chemical Department.

One of the largest plastics cabinets ever molded for television, above, is molded in two parts and weighs 11 pounds.

This cutlery rack, molded of polystyrene, is made for a national cutlery firm, and is praduced in several sizes.

BOY'S TAN PLAID SPORT COAT—Also brown finger-tip coat. Size 18. $5 and $8. H-66363.

GREEN SHORTIE COAT—Trimmed in brown. Size 14. Also one pair brown alligator shoes, size 6AA. Both like new. Call H-75353 after 4 p.m.

BOY SCOUT UNIFORM—Small size. Like new. Reasonable. H-24541.

CHILDCRAFT BOOKS—Complete set. Like new. $28. H-58443.

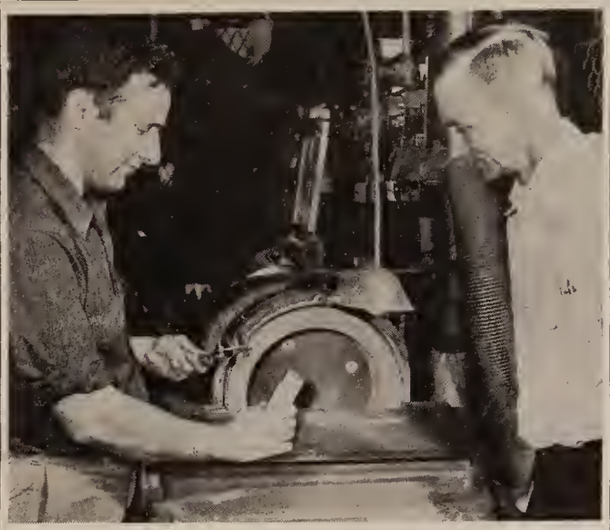
BED STYLE TRAY TABLE—Occasional table, dishes, small secretary desk. E-1345.

BEE VAC VACUUM SWEEPER—$20. Second hand. Good condition. A-1879.

ELECTRIC TRAIN AND ACCESSORIES—Or will trade for Lionel standard gouge 392-E. E-5204.

CALER CIRCULATING HEATER—Good shape. Also Dountless Hot Blast. Good shape. E-37983.

HOMART THERMOSTAT AND LIM CONTROL—For coal furnace. Also two 40-lb. bags of insulotion. H-59105.



SET OF MINNEAPOLIS HONEYWELL FURNACE CONTROLS—Includes damper, motor, room thermostat, and transformer. $13. H-70743.

BEDROOM SUITE — Beautiful three pieces. Also five-piece yellow and grey chrome dinette set. A-16885.

RUG—9x12. Also four 650x15 tires. H. H. Tons. Ext. 2571.

STUDIO COUCH—Also man's suit, size 36, brown stripe. Excellent condition. Both very reasonable. A-56112 or 1004 W. Wayne St.

SOFA BED—Two years old. Excellent condition. Also lady's white gold wrist watch with Spidel band. Just cleaned. Very reasonable. E-3030.

Wise Owl—Harold Misegades, Bldg. 27, shows his foreman, Harry Heckathorn, Bldg. 27, how his safety glasses saved his sight when a piece of metal flew up from the carboloy tool he was grinding and hit his glasses. The prevention of this aceident by wearing safcty equipment gained Mr. Misegades membership in the Wise Owl Club of America, an organization sponsored by the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness to eneourage eyesight conservation. It honors men and women of industry whose vision has been saved in accidents because they were wearing eye proteetion.

HOLLYWOOD TYPE BED—48"x72", box springs and mattress. Never been used. Contact Liberty Trailer at 1814 Freeman.

SHOTGUN—Three shot, bolt action, 16-gauge. Like new. 327 W. Brackenridge. $18.

BATH TUB 5'x10". $6. Also a beautiful new diamond engagement ring. $40. 1517 Hurd St.

TWO STORM WINDOWS—28⅞"x71". A-3821.

MAN'S 26" BALLOON TIRE BICYCLE—Very good shape. $22.50. A-60022.

WALLPAPER STEAMER OUTFIT—To remove old wallpaper. Phone K-2328 after 4 p.m.

USED BRICK—Suitable for walk or backing brick. 600, $1 per 100. A-88494 after 6:30 p.m.

MISCELLANEOUS

CHILD CARE GIVEN IN HOME—Parkview Ave. near G-E parking lot. Call A-65625.

We're happy to say our sick folks are all on the road to recovery once again. Amy Dull is convalescing after her reeent appendectomy and Maxine DiGregory, after her operation, is in Wolf Lake Hospital. . . . We thought we were seeing double when all the gals came in wearing jeans and plaid shirts. Martha Scott and Helen Thieme are our latest jean fans. . . . The eider and doughnuts were delicious that were served on Halloween. And speaking of the spooks, take it from one who knows, but don't tell Doris Garr or Esther Weeks ahead of time that you plan to triek or treat, becausc they were both prepared. . . . Spooks must have been hanging around a day late according to Mildred Clevenger and Katie Putt. Or at least that was their explanation for the disappearanee of Carol's pie. Hmm! Could be one got detained. . . . Faye Fritzinger says a woman's place is in the house, not up on ladders painting garages. Poor Faye lost her balance and fell off. But that's not all she lost—a front tooth besides. . . . Maybe Betty Zollars should be more observant of the length coat that Nelda Brenizer wears. As the result of this oversight, Reggie Enggeman eame very near going home without her coat. . . . Kenny Boggs was four hours late and eame in with that age old exeuse that his ear broke down. Better think up a better one than that next time, Kenny. . . . We are sorry to sce so many of the gals leaving, but we hope it won't be for long. . . . That was some bubble Don Ritter blew. It bursted and went all over his face and neck. Cliff Garavison from here on will be known as "Bubbles." . . . Jo Lee Zimmerman was mighty disappointed on her birthday beause she didn't get the one thing she especially was looking for. Cheer up, Jo, it was in the proeess of being made, and will be just a little belated.

Clearer Television Pictures Forseen by G-E Scientists

Clearer television pictures, with greater contrast between light and dark areas, are foreseen with a new transparent screen for picture tubes, developed by scientists of the General Research Laboratory.

In making the announeement today, the seientists emphasized that the new tube is still in the developmental stage and that further work will be required before it is ready for commereial use.

Since the presence of unseen ships and airplanes is shown on the screens of similar tubes in "radar" deviees, it is expected that this will ultimately be another application of the new screen.

In a paper prepared for presentation before the Eastern summer meeting of the American Physical Soeiety, now taking place at the laboratory, the scientists said that present tubes are coated inside with a powder which appears white or gray, whieh is the darkest that any areas on the screen can be. When looking at one with a transparent sereen, however, the viewer sees through it into the dark recesses of the tube. It is this greater degree of darkness, as opposed to the relative grayness of the usual screen, that is available for produeing dark areas on the sereen to eontrast with light areas, they explained.

The best of the new transparent screens, at present, show a yellow-orange picture, the scientists said. Although this is not unpleasant, it is believed that further research will make possible a true black and white pieture.

In addition to yielding more eontrasting images, the transparent screen eliminates another souree of blurred detail, according to the seientists. On the present powder screen, powder particles near a bright spot piek up some of its light and refleet it to the eye, thus causing a halo around the spot. There is no sueh powder on the transparent screen to pick up light and cause such a halo, they said.

Scientists who contributed to development of the new sereen are Dr. Ferd E. Williams, head of the laboratory's Light Production Division, Dr. Frank J. Studer, D. A. Cusano, A. H. Young and Dr. L. R. Koller. The latter, who measured the penetration of electrons into the screen, presented the paper today to the Physieal Society.

Explaining development of the screen, he said that ordinarily the powder eoating inside the sereen is neeessary to achieve a picture, the powder being eaused to glow wherever it is struck by a beam of electrons.

Dr. Williams, in 1947, found that a transparent sereen capable of glowing under the impact of electrons eould be made from zine fluoride mixed with manganese. These ehemicals were heated is a vacuum so they evaporated and then condensed as a thin, transparent film on the glass to be used as the sereen. Such a film is only one eight thousandth of an inch thick.

Although sueh a treated screen did not stand up under use, Mr. Young developed a method of converting it so that it would withstand continued electron bombardment without deterioration.

After the ehemical mixture is evaporated on the glass, it is heated to about 930 degrees Fahrenheit and, for about 10 minutes, a stream of hydrogen sulfide is passed over it. Such a treatment results in a durable, lasting sereen, the scientists said.

Dr. Studer and Mr. Cusano developed a simplified method of preparing such sereens by passing the ehemieal vapors, ineluding the zine and manganese, over a heated glass surfaee in the presenee of hydrogen sulfide. This method, they said, seems to offer the greatest promise for application in television sets. The screen in addition to being eompletely transparent, shows high effieieney in eonverting the energy of the eleetrons into ligbt. Sereens giving a blue picture have also been obtained by this method of chemieal deposition.

Q. Working with electricity I have noticed that when I touch a "hot" wire I feel the shock where my fingers make contact bnt not in other parts of my body or at my feet, where the current leaves to go to the ground. Why is this?

A. This is a matter of the concentration of the current. Where your fingers touch the wire, there is a very small area of contact, and the concentration is quite high, so you feel the sensation most strongly. At the soles of the feet, where the current leaves the body, and in the intermediate parts of the body, the current is spread across a much larger area.

Q. Is there any similarity between radio waves and x-rays?

A. Yes, both are different forms of electromagnetic radiation, the difference being in the length of their waves, and also in their frequency, that is, the number of vibrations they make each second. Visible light is in another part of this spectrum. Of highest frequency, and shortest wave length, are the cosmic rays which bombard the Earth from space. These may vibrate as fast as 1,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 times a second. The frequency of X-rays is around 1,000,000,000,000,000,000 cycles per second, while that of visible light is about 800,000,000,000,000, broadcast radio waves about 1,000,000 and long wave radio about 50,000. All of these travel at the same speed, about 186,000 miles per second.

Q. What apparatus is required to ntilize atomic energy from the Sun?

A. There is really no way to avoid using the Sun's atomic energy. Scientists believe that the Sun (like other satrs) keeps going by a process in which four nuclei of hydrogen atoms combine to form one nucleus of a helium atom, and by which atomic energy is released near the Sun's center. This energy reaches the solar surface and is radiated as light and heat, some reaching the Earth. All the energy we use originates in this way. That of water power comes from the fact that solar heating evaporates water from the ocean so that it can fall on high ground as rain, and go back to the sea, operating water wheels on the way. Burning wood we use solar energy which was stored up by the living tree. The energy in coal comes from a similar process, which took place millions of years ago. Thus anything, such as a stove, a locomotive or even our own bodies, that utilizes energy at all is using energy that started with atomic processes in the Sun.

Q. What caused the ice ages?

A. The cause of these glacial periods has not been determined with certainty, but geologists now seem to give serious consideration to four theories. These are (1) an elevation of the land which might cause large amounts of snow to fall and accumulate in ice sheets; (2) some change in the sun itself which would reduce the amount of heat received by the earth; (3) passage of the solar system through clouds of cosmic dust which would likewise rdeuce the amount of heat radiation received from the sun and permit ice to accumulate in the higher latitudes; and (4) the possibility that the earth's axis of rotation may have shifted so that regions that are now tropical may once have been nearer the poles.

Q. Can a garden rake be magnetized so that it will pick up old nails and other bits of iron in the garden?

A. An ordinary rake would not hold enough magnetism to make it efficient for picking up such bits of iron. However, some alnico magnets might be attached to the rake. They should not be in contact with the metal of the rake, but separated from it by a thin piece of wood or cardboard.

Q. How fast does sound travel?

A. Through dry air, at a temperature of 68°F, sound travels with a speed of 1130 feet per second. The speed increases with temperature. At the freezing point of water, it is 1088 feet per second. As a rough value, you can take the speed as a mile in five seconds, and use this to determine distances. For example, you may see a distant locomotive or steamboat which is blowing its whistle. Start counting seconds when you see the cloud of steam and stop when you hear the sound. If you divide the number of seconds by five, you have the approximate distance in miles.

Q. How many moons does Saturn have? Some books say nine, while others say ten. Which is correct?

A. Nine are known with certainty. These are named, in order of distance from the planet: Mimas, Enceladus, Tethys, Dione, Rhea, Tital Hyperion, Iapetus and Phoebe. In addition Prof. W. H. Pickering (who discovered Phoebe in 1898) announced in 1905 that he had discovered a tenth, which he named Themis. However, this has never been confirmed and most astronomy text books now omit Themis from the list.

Q. How do birds know when to migrate?

A. This is a question that really cannot be answered. In spite of extensive study of many phases of bird migration no satisfactory explanation of any phase of it seems yet to have been made. Physiological changes, involving fat deposition and many other bodily activities, probably govern when they begin to migrate. Different factors undoubtedly are involved in initiating the fall and spring migrations. Migration is a very old activity, and is shown by many living creatures, beside birds.

New Clocks Added to G-E Line Electric Clock Dept. Announces

Nine new clocks, including six alarm models, two kitchen clocks and a moderately priced occasional clock have been added to the General Electric line, according to M. M. Wheeler, manager of the Company's electric clock department.

The new alarms have been designed to do double-duty as decorative occasional clocks, Mr. Wheeler said. "There is a big market for alarms which can blend harmoniously with the living room decor. Newlyweds on a limited budget and small-apartment dwellers, particularly, will welcome this type of alarm clock," he pointed out.

Ray Fischbach, manager of the Employee Store, Bldg. 8-1, has announced that five models of the nine new G-E clocks are available at the store. Shipments of the other four are expected in soon. The five models which may be secured at the store and their prices to employees are: the Cue, $3.70; Purr-A-Larm, $4.45; Clansman, $4.85; Domestic, $6.45, and Concord, $16.15.

As an example of the new design trend, Mr. Wheeler cited the new Tweed alarm. This has a metal case finished in gold color with matching hands and numerals against a tan dial textured to resemble cloth.

Self-Setting Drummer

Another new model is the Drummer, which has a ribbed dial face and top molded in one piece and inset in a simple modern plastic case. This clock sets itself to awaken the user at the same time every day.

An ivory-plastic model in the modern mode is the Morning Star which features a jewel light on the dial that lights up when the alarm knob is pulled out for last minute reassurance to the user that the alarm is set. The light also serves as a handy night light.

New Alarm Model

The Beau alarm, also in an ivory-plastic case, has a wood-grain dial which serves to form the top of the clock. It has easy-to-read luminous numerals and hand under a shatterproof dial.

Designed especially for use as a casual occasional clock as well as an alarm is the Cue, with a textured tan dial background with an uncluttered dial design and chalk-white numerals on the shatterproof crystal.

Purr-A-Larm and Clansman

The Purr-A-Larm has been styled more specifically for the night table. Its luminous hands and hour dots stand out against the chocolate brown dial face in the ivory-plastic case.

One of the two new kitchen clocks, in the line, the Clansman features a dial face in a plaid design available in red, yellow, blue or green. White hour and minute hands under a full face crystal permit readability from any point in the average kitchen.

Kitchen and Occasional Models

The other kitchen clock is the Domestic, with rounded modern lines. It is also available in four colors which harmonize with the raised silver-color numerals.

The Concord is General Electric's newest occasional clock. Styled in the gracefully functional manner of the early New England clock makers, it has a polished mahogany case with a scrolled dial, black Roman numerals and hands against an ivory-colored face.

SICK LIST

The following people have been reported on the sick list, dismissed from the hospital, and returned to work:

Sick List

Hazel Ludwig, Royal Parisot, Mary Brickley, Jewel Claunch, Karl Kiel, Ronald Gevers, Charles Boyd, Betty Blackburn, Bonnie Pranger, Ralph McVay, Lewis Patterson, Alta Campbell, Florence Minnich, Barbara Shipman, Jack Winebrenner, J. Keith Marquardt, Doris Proxmire, Roberta I. Bowser, Perry Millette, Margaret Lehman, Ronald Nelson, Rita Zuber, Alice Yant, Arthur Stute, Orville Shallenberger, Esther Pape, Elaine Omo, Gerry Mowery, Louis Lee, George Malone, Paul Lero, Ben Lake, Oscar Lagerstrom, Mildred Grandstaff, Dolores Borne, Charlotte Brunner, Carl Alles, George Kaade, Murvill Cranfill, Amy Dull, George Duncan, Aldena Harris, Joyce Horne, Vivian Curran, Robert Frick, Morris Guenther, Ivan Holliday, Arthur Eizinger, Jay Cornell, Lourelie Prior, and Mcrritt Julian.

Dismissed from Hospital

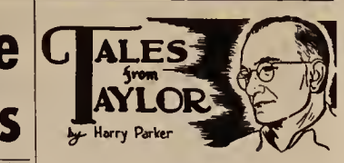
John Hixon, Fred Gersie, Mae Haney, Everett Kelley, Amy Dull, Jessie Calland, Royal Parisot, Gerald Penrod, Esther Pape, Mary Jane Rauner, Paul Lero, and Orville Shallenberger.

Returned to Work

Paul Lange, Virginia Ruch, Robert Rinehart, Jennie Wright, Mary Murphy, Betty Phillips, Russell LeBeau, Mildred Shaffer, Lucille Quirk, Clifton Wartham, Harold Miller, Betty Nunemaker, Margaret Tennissen, Orpha McCreary, Harry Fawley, Dora Gebhart, Dorothy Fletcher, Lillian Hall, Hilmer Drayer, Harry Huey, Muriel Etcheson, Elizabeth Cleaves, and Bessie Armstrong.

Ned C. Frankart Reported Missing In Korea Action

Word has been received that 1st. Lt. Ned C. Frankart, 39th Fighter Interceptor Squadron, is missing in action in Korea.



Mr. Frankart was an employee of the General Electric Company from September, 1940, to Jan. 26, 1951. He was recalled to active duty as a pilot with the 163rd National Guard Unit station at Baer Field Feb. 2.

Lt. Frankart served in World War II and returned to the Works Laboratory in 1945, where he was employed in the Finishes Laboratory at Taylor St.

Since reporting to duty in Korea on June 5, he has flown over 50 missions and spent two months in the front lines as Advance Fire Control Officer.

His wife, Elaine, is employed at Taylor St. His wife and daughter reside at 7425 Ideal Ave., Waynedale.

Allen Plasterer reports that he has just about completed the rejuvenation of his 1912 model motorcycle. He also has a 1934 model Ford and desires that it be known he will accept any old model automobile that you may have, and will restyle it to meet the appearance of present-day models. Of course, he wants it understood that you must not be in a hurry for it as he likes to fiddle around with these old junkers. In so doing, he tells us that he can guarantee you a classy looking job. But what we do not know is how long they will hold together after delivery. . . . A while back Sam Allmandinger decided that his bathroom needed redecorating. He got a gallon of bright green paint and proceeded to "slap" it on. In his haste to get the job done, he got tangled up with the ladder, spilled the paint all over himself and the room. He not only had green walls, but fixtures as well. Sam looked as though he had a well-advanced case of gangrene. . . . Charles Sherland, as you know, lives well out in the sticks around Waynedale and telephones are practically unknown in that vicinity. Charlie does not have one in his home. Therefore, he is not schooled in the use of these instruments. The other day he was asked to answer a call here at the shop. Not knowing just how to use the phone, he put the transmitter to his ear and talked through the receiver. . . . Joe Long is now in the business of training fighting cocks. At present, he has several young roosters which he is putting through an intensive training course. The other day, while handling one of his most aggressive ones, it became quite angry and used its spurs on Joe's face. Result—one long scratch.

SERVICES FUND DRIVE SUCCESS

Ideas Earn $4,137.50 For 222 Employees

A bigger Thanksgiving turkey with all the trimmings will grace the tables of 222 employees, of the Fort Wayne, Decatur, DeKalb and Danville plants, who earned $4,137.50 for their suggestion ideas during the month of October, A. C. Hartman, chairman of the Suggestion system, announced this week.

Of the total number of persons receiving awards, 205 are employees of the Fort Wayne Works; six are employed at Decatur; three at DeKalb, and eight at Danville.

The highest award earned during October went to Charles Druce, Bldg. 26-B. He received an additional award of $450 for his suggestion on a mesh screen for wash tanks. The screening process removes resin from the tank. Mr. Druce focused attention on the fact that the presence of this resin caused bad paint work. He previously has received $100 for his suggestion.

Herbst Scores

Hugo E. Herbst, stock clerk in Bldg. 6-1, received an additional $300.00 in October for the suggestion he made in July, 1950. He suggested that non-returnable reels used for shipping cable be returned to Bridgeport and reused instead of scrapping them as was previously done.

Share Suggestion Pie—The two top suggestors in STAB Div. 91, Charles Druce and Harry Ribel, both of Bldg. 26-B, help themselves to their share of the suggestion pie for their division. Charles' slice was for $450 and Harry's two portions totaled $285. The pie was specially baked for the occasion by Sally McCoy, of the Broadway cafeteria.

Employees Donate $71,158 to Plan

The Community Services Fund was proclaimed a success today by the organizing committee. At press time, with several hundred cards still outstanding, 63 per cent of G-E employees had subscribed a total of $71,158.05 to the new plan.

Percentage of participation and contributions by product divisions are as follows:

Div.	% of Participation	Amount
FHP Broadway	62%	$20,131.80
FHP Taylor St.	59%	13,520.30
Works Service	72%	16,350.05
STAB Dept.	63%	11,144.60
Large M-G	57%	6,483.20
Winter St.	64%	3,538.60

Donations amount to $10.32 per contributor or $6.49 per employee, a substantial increase over last year's average donation to the Community Chest.

The newly-elected board of administrators will meet today to determine the proportion of the above fund to be contributed to the Community Chest Drive.

K. W. Michael, chairman of the organizing committee, stated that it is anticipated that the fund will grow as new employees join the plan and as the board of administrators begins to function.

An Old Friend's Last Trip—
At the close of the second shift today, the candy wagon service will be discontinued at the Fort Wayne Works, according to Dick Kent, president of the G-E Club. Mary Harvey, candylady, gives us a preview of the last candy wagon leaving the Taylor St. plant. Service through vending machines will be available beginning Monday.

G-E Club Slates Extra Show Sun. To Meet Fall Revue Ticket Needs

To meet the greater demands for tickets for the G-E Club's annual Fall Revue, a sixth performance has been added to the five shows already scheduled, Gordon L. Smith, entertainment chairman, announced this week.

The additional performance will begin at 7:30 p.m., Sunday, Nov. 18. It will feature the same program as the other five performances. Tickets for this additional show will be available to employees today at the G-E Club candy stand and the Taylor St. employment office. Employees may secure tickets for this performance tomorrow and Sunday at the candy stand at the G-E Club.

Although the supply of tickets for the other five performances was exhausted last week, Mr. Smith reported there will be plenty of tickets for the sixth program, Sunday evening.

The program for the six performances includes five professional acts, a master of ceremonies and an orchestra.

The five previously-scheduled performances will be given at 7 and 9 p.m., Saturday, Nov. 17, and at 1, 3, and 5 p.m., Sunday, Nov. 18.

The Fort Wayne Transit, Inc., announced this week that extra service will be provided to accommodate employees for all performances.

Apprentice Alumni to Hold Fall Banquet November 27

The Apprentice Alumni Association's fall banquet has been scheduled for Tuesday, Nov. 27, at 6:30 p.m. in the Chamber of Commerce, Wilson Garman, president, announced today.

Carl J. Suedhoff, civic leader and local businessman, will speak to the group on his recent European tour. Mr. Suedhoff visited England, France, Italy and other European countries this year to study present world conditions. On his trip he contacted people on all levels in the various countries and will report on his trip at the annual meeting.

College football motion pictures will be shown following Mr. Suedhoff's talk. The game, to be selected later, will be narrated by

Buying Shares Began With America Itself

Buying shares in business ventures in America is as old as the first settlements of English-speaking people on our shores.

The first successful colony in North America, at Jamestown, Va., in 1607, was made possible by men who risked their savings in the hope of making money out of trade. The Pilgrim Fathers, landing at Plymouth in 1620, were backed by London merchants who hoped their colony would earn profits.

Shares in companies formed to build roads and make other improvements were sold to American colonists in the years before the American Revolution. Men generally took shares in these companies, because no one of them alone could afford to risk the amounts of money necessary to finance the improvements.

And because some shareholders found it necessary to exchange their shares for cash, businessmen began trading in these securities. Finally a group of businessmen in early-day New York decided to get together regularly under a certain button-wood tree to exchange information regarding the wants of their customers. Those meetings marked the beginning of the New York Stock Exchange and 18 other exchanges throughout the country.

Growth of America has brought about great changes in our business methods, but the investment of savings in company shares is essentially the same as when the London Company backed the Pilgrim Fathers.

The owners of shares are not necessarily rich. The 430,000 shareholders with savings invested in one American corporation include housewives, clerks, mechanics, clergymen and schoolteachers, as well as merchants, farmers, lawyers, doctors, and bankers. Another company has 700,000 shareholders from all walks of life, and many companies are owned by 100,000 or more investors. Employees of hundreds of companies own thousands of share in the concerns they work for.

All these shareholders invested their savings because they hoped for profit. Their savings built up the industries that supply our needs today. In a word, the hope of profit has been one of the factors in making America great.

THE MAN WHO WOULDN'T VOTE

I met a man election day,
Who said, he wouldn't vote.
He told me quite sincerely
Why he wouldn't, and I quote:

"I'm sick and tired of politics
The whole thing gets my goat.
We get the same old run-around.
No matter how I vote.

I read both daily papers.
Still, I don't know what to do.
I'm sure some one exaggerates,
But can't decide just who.

Of all these office seekers,
There's not one I really know;
And I hear conflicting stories
Every single place I go.

If it's true, as they are pictured
By the opposition press.
And they get themselves elected.
Things will sure be in a mess.

I'm aware that every voter
Has an equal voting voice,
And I know we have elections.
So we all can make our choice.

And if all these office seekers
Were outstanding men of note,
Then I wouldn't have much trouble.
When I went to cast my vote.

But this blasted propaganda
Makes me feel they all are punk.
How can I select a candidate
With all this campaign hunk?"

Well, I thought I knew the answer.
But, of course, I wasn't sure,
Since my choice on last election
Hadn't turned out, just too pure.

So, I left the fellow standing
On his porch beside the door
And went down the street and voted
Like some forty thousand more.

But I knew when I was voting,
That I didn't know much more
Than the fellow I left standing
On his porch beside the door.

STAB Department Adds Three to Promotion List

The appointment of R. F. Hunt as assistant superintendent in Specialty Transformer and Ballast Div. 91 was disclosed this week by F. N. Banks, superintendent.

Mr. Hunt entered the Apprentice School when he came to General Electric in 1929. In 1933, he went to Winter St. as a drill press operator. Later that year, he returned to Broadway to work in Bldg. 17-4 as an engine lathe operator.

In 1940, he became a leading operator in Bldg. 26-3. In December of that year, he was made a foreman in the same location. Two years later, Mr. Hunt moved to Bldg. 26-2 as a foreman in the developmental section. When he returned to Bldg. 26-3 in 1947, he became assistant general foreman.

One year later, he was named general foreman in the same section. He went to Bldg. 26-2 in 1951 as general foreman. This was his position at the time of his present appointment.

Mr. Hunt is a member of the Foremen's Association and the Apprentice Alumni Association. Mr. and Mrs. Hunt and their three sons live on R. R. 5, Bass Road.

R. F. Hunt

C. P. Persing

N. J. Sordelet

Two appointments in the Specialty Transformer and Ballast Department were announced this week by W. H. Crouse, superintendent. Cedric P. Persing was named a foreman in Hermetics, Bldg. 26-4, and Norbert J. Sordelet was appointed a foreman in Luminous Tube and Ignition, Bldg. 26-5.

Mr. Persing came to the General Electric Company in 1942, working in the tool room in Bldg. 26-2. One year later, he moved to wage rate, time study and operation planning for the Hermetics Section, Bldg. 26-4. In 1948, he moved up one floor in Bldg. 26 to work in radio power line. Mr. Persing returned to Bldg. 26-4 last year on the M & D lines, time study and operation planning. He held this position at the time of his present appointment.

A member of the Foremen's Association, Mr. Persing is a past president of the Decimal Minute Men.

Mr. and Mrs. Persing have two children. One son entered the armed forces last week and the other son is a student at Indiana University. The Persings live at 1322 N. Anthony.

Started in 1936

Mr. Sordelet began working at the Company in 1936 winding general purpose transformers in Bldg. 26-1. He entered the Navy in 1942. When he was discharged from the service in 1947, he returned to General Electric in Hermetics, Bldg. 26-4, as a foreman. In 1948, he was assigned to quality control as a foreman on special assignment. He held this position at the time of his present appointment.

Mr. Sordelet is a member of the Foremen's Association.

The Sordelets and their two children live at 2015 Courtland.

Elex Dance Tickets To Be Sold at Door

Tickets for Elex Club's semi-formal dance, "Punkin Pace," will be available at the entrance to the Van Orman ballroom this evening, Mary Saxton, general chairman, announced today.

The dance will be held this evening from 9 to 12 p.m. Bill Miller's orchestra will play for the Thanksgiving dance.

Elex to Feature Ethyl Smith At Annual Christmas Party

Organ Queen

Ethyl Smith, internationally known as the "Queen of the Hammond organ," will be featured at the Elex Club Christmas party, Sunday, Dec. 2, at the G-E Club.

The theme of this annual party for Elex members only will be Christmas Stocking. The program will begin at 2 p.m. Tickets are 50 cents per member. They may be secured from the contact girls.

Reservations for the party must be made with the contact girls by Friday, Nov. 23. Admittance will be by membership card and ticket.

Miss Smith has just returned from a tour of London, Rome, Brussels, Madrid and Paris. She has appeared in many movies and is a recording artist. For her performances, Miss Smith wears gowns designed by the French designers, Jacques Fath, Christian Dior and Jean Desses.

Charles Druce Heads October List With $450 Suggestion Award

this month amounting to $285. Mr. Ribel was awarded $175 on his suggestion for improving plating shields. He suggested that the copper shield be bent or folded and plated in barrel, thus eliminating spring clamps and racks.

Suggestor Ribel earned an additional $110 for his suggestion to make a steam spray nozzle to steam clean several terminals at one time. To date, Mr. Ribel has filed 83 suggestions, of which 62 have been adopted. His award total is now over the $2,000 mark.

Doyle D. Miller, Bldg. 26-1, will be able to buy several Thanksgiving turkeys with the three additional awards, totaling $130, which he earned during the past month. He received $65 for his suggestion to change the 3-inch ring die gap; $40 for his suggesting that a 3-inch ring die and punch be made, and $25 for his suggestion concerning ring punch and die bar punching gap.

Clutchdog Idea

As an addition to a $25 award received on his suggestion to install rolling clutchdogs on presses in Bldg. 26-1, Paul F. Noffze received $100 this month.

Edward C. Haas and William Gepfert, both of Bldg. 26-1, earned an added $90 for proposing that all hermetic cases be slit to the developed length steel slit from scroll steel. They had previously received $25.

An employee in Bldg. 26-1 whose suggestion netted him $60 in additional awards is John A. Kennell. He suggested that an air motor agitator be used in stirring varnish.

Five $50 awards were included on the current idea list. A suggestion to install washers to eliminate bearing noise brought Martin P. Vogel, Bldg. 4-3, $50. Robert G. Shaefer, FHP Motor Div. 17, Taylor St., cashed in on the same amount by suggesting that a carriage start positioner be placed on the shell stamping machine in his division. Edward F. Koontz, Bldg. 26-4, proposed that leads on certain transformers be cut down in length, thus saving both cable and labor.

An idea to put insulation in the field leads hole at the time the stator shell is assembled to protect the leads from rubbing and fraying during assembly inspection, and repair brought $50 to Zara M. VanSkyock, Bldg. 6-4. Frank F. Obringer suggested a change in lead material for ignition transformers, resulting in a cost reduction. Mr. Obringer, Bldg. 26-3, earned $50.

$45 Awarded

Ralph E. Wilson, of the General Tool Division, Bldg. 19-5, earned an additional award of $45 for his suggestion to use a mixer for the compound soluble oil.

Robert Fry, FHP Div. 14, Taylor St., earned a total of $42.50 for four ideas he suggested in October. His suggestion concerning a wheel dressing tool garnered him $20. He received three awards of $7.50 each for ideas about a chart for thread miller, a stop on hoist and a water line.

Two employees of the FHP Div. 1 received awards of $40 each in October. Paul C. Strombeck, Bldg. 6-4, earned his award by suggesting that two lead holes be drilled in the end shield on a motor instead of one to eliminate damaged shielding.

O. Glen Fernwalt, Bldg. 4-3, received an additional award of $40 for his suggestion concerning the omitting of annealing of steel commutator.

Ressa Ewbank, an employee at the Danville Plant, received $37.50 as an additional award for a wire and window clamp unit. Thirty-five dollars went to Henry Mason, an inspector in Bldg. 26-1, for suggesting a snap button be placed on each side of a screw with lock washers on both sides before

Herbert H. Winter, Bldg. 17-2, received $35 for suggesting that paper be used in place of cardboard dividers in the bottom of tote boxes. Arthur A. Hyser, an electrician in the General Service Division, received the same amount for suggesting the installation of an additional relay on the Sundstrand lathe in FHP Motor Div. 17.

Set up Man Takes Two

Arthur F. Pequignot, set up man, Bldg. 26-3, received two awards totaling $32.50 in October. He earned $25 for his suggestion that the AC coil be changed to wind over a different spool instead of channel and that the form size be changed. His suggestion that longer tension arms be installed so that there would be three guide pulleys for wire netted Mr. Pequignot $7.50.

Mildred C. Carpenter, assembler in Bldg. 6-4, received four additional awards totaling $30 during the last month. Her suggestions were for two shelves in different locations to hold stock, a stock tray for assembly and foot rests to be placed at spinning machines.

Six other employees earned $30 suggestion awards during the past month. Donald Gage, FHP Div. 14, received an additional award of $30 for his suggestion idea that a slightly larger roller for Kane and Roach be made with wider slots in it to take care of the overlap on the soft steel.

$30 at Taylor St.

Another Taylor St. employee, Grace Wall earned $30 by suggesting that screws and Neoprene sleeves that distinguish the color of the leads be placed on after the field has been through treatment. This avoids cutting the screw off and then replacing it.

Kenneth Stinson, Taylor St., suggested a change be made in the pan on take off and earned $30 for this suggestion. Gilbert Walker, Bldg. 6-4, suggested undercutting shaft to eliminate 100 per cent rejections of computor armatures due to taper in shaft.

Fred K. Vietmeyer, FHP Div. 13, earned two awards of $15 each. He received one of his awards for suggesting a change in a punch part. The other award was the result of his idea to make the one piece punch of the spring support die into two pieces.

Hayden B. Rice, an inspector in the General Tool Division, Bldg. 19-5, suggested a comparator chart be used to check dies, thus saving time checking each die. He earned $30 for this idea.

Harold Anspach earned $25 for suggestion concerning field leads.

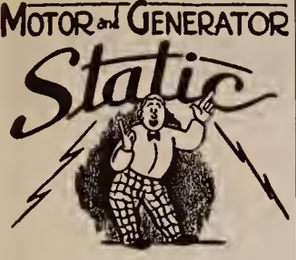
Elections Slated

Election of officers for 1952 will also be held. Candidates will be announced at a later date, Mr. Garman said.

The dinner will be served smorgasbord style. Tickets are $2 each and may be purchased from contact men.



Mr. Garman urged all members to attend as the banquet is the last event of the club year.

The weatherman must have been trying last weekend to soothe our hurt feelings over the Election Day snow and sleet. . . . Keep in mind the December 2 date for Elex. Ethyl Smith will be here and you don't want to miss her. . . . Birthday greetings to Ina Smith, Mary Murphy, Mary Baker, Bea Gerardot and Anna Lehman. . . . Fern Wagner and Fred Wyss paid us a visit last week. . . . How not to enjoy your lunch is to leave it at home on the kitchen cabinet, like Kae Weigele does. . . . Frances Eckrote is leaving today for Florida for Thanksgiving holiday. . . . Bertha Bertsch was vacationing last week. . . . Luella Masson has discovered a new way to tie. She puts one stator on top of the other. What were you thinking about, Lou? . . . We wonder why Mary McMonigal carefully covers the telephone with a hankie when she makes a phone call? . . . We wish lots of happiness to Paul Bonar and Ruby Pomeroy, who said, "I do," last Saturday. Ruby is a former co-worker. . . . Lowell Day had better be watching these glass accidents. . . . Lewie Hoffman was trying to help some of the girls along on preparations for Sadie Hawkins day. Even down to written instructions. . . . Doris Ryan and Lorena Buuck were seen comparing scratches received from their pet animals. . . . Mabel King is wearing a brand new grandma smile. . . . Glad to hear that Luella Knoche is improving. . . . Johnny Magley is a patient at the Bluffton Clinic hospital and Goldie Rodich is at the Huntington County hospital. . . . Others on the sick list include Laverne Stilwell, Ina Smith and Annabelle Cook. Hope to see you back soon.

FALL REVIEW M.C.—Professional entertainer, Harry Eaton, will be the master of ceremonies for the G-E Club's Fall Revue. Mr. Eaton has been featured with name bands and at night clubs and theaters throughout the country.

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK: "The scripture passages that bother me the most are the ones I understand."—Mark Twain. . . . NIMROD: Howard Wise, Bldg. 31-1, went hunting last weekend. He came home with one rabbit and one bluejay. The story is that he was hunting pheasants, took a shot at a chicken hawk, and bagged a bluejay. . . . OUCH: Dorothy Oberlin says she always learns the hard way. Why didn't somebody tell her it hurts to slam the desk drawer on your own finger. . . . WEATHER: Some people have a unique way of forecasting the weather. Virginia Gerken says it's a sure sign we will have a cold winter because the skins on the onions are tight. We have yet to decide what the onion skins have to do with it, but are inclined to believe she is right about the cold winter. Got your snuggies handy? . . . WELCOME TO 31-1: Joyce Druce, Blueprint File, Barbara Creager, Service Bureau, and Bea Collar, who left last July and returned Friday, Nov. 9. . . . SCOTCH: We learn on good authority that Art Druce is attempting to reduce the high price of pipe smoking. Seems as though now he fills his pipe half full of tobacco, and half full of pencil shavings. Art says the combination burns his tongue slightly. . . . VACATION: Dear old Poison Pen (Don Shultz) has found it necessary to take a week's vacation again. We knew the old man was getting feeble, but didn't know he was that far gone.

The Rainey Eight Club, Elma Berger, Blondie Frankart, Mamie Baysinger, Edna Lobert, Garnet Borne and Luella Frane, spent Saturday night at the home of Dorothy Myers in Avilla. Plenty of good eats, including home made bread, were on the menu. The next outing, in the form of a Christmas gift exchange will be held at the home of Mamie Baysinger. . . . Archie refers to the girls on the Batwing jobs as the "Bat Sisters." . . . Rosemary Polly has returned to work, after a case of the flu. Gene Mettler has had an appendix operation. . . . Bessie Johnson has also returned to work after an illness. . . . Wonder why Shirley Moudy is doing so much housecleaning lately? It could have something to do with her oil heater. . . . If Elaine Marks doesn't quit laughing so loud, the gals are going to get Darrell after her. . . . We always hear about these people who don't have to work for a living. I wonder if Marie Stalter is one of them. While going through her purse, Marie found a check from September, she hadn't cashed. . . . While Maxine Bakle was taking her weekly bath, she heard a lot of sirens and commotion nearing her apartment. When she looked out the window, there were four fire engines and an ambulance out front. Seems as though the basement furnace had exploded while Max was bathing. . . . Have you noticed that growth under Tom Woodward's nose? Mertz looks as though he got caught on an Indian Reservation (Unga!) from the looks of that haircut. Guess he won't doze off in a barber chair hereafter. . . . Don Zumbrun was having difficulty getting an arbor out of a coil strip, so he called on Quentin Freiburger and Paul Dressler for assistance. They soon discovered Don was doing things the hard way, taking the arbor out backwards, that is! . . . Carol Bendel is a newcomer to our floor and is working on efficiency or something. Anyhow, she should be good at figures, as she has a nice one herself. . . . Bea Marsh wishes to thank everyone who helped make her efforts in behalf of the Community Services Drive, a success. . . . Wonder how Janet Lehman, "Just call me the Lone Rider," managed to get the only elevator ride Tuesday, when the rest of the West End gals walked up? . . . Say, Bert G., is it true that a cat jumped from a tree on to you while you were walking home one night? And is it true that you are still wearing it? . . . Could be that Mary Blanchard needs specs in order that she complete her wardrobe before reporting to work. . . . Say Marilyn L., how did Inez Hall like that picture? It does look like "Chucky Boy" at that! . . . Welcome back to Vivian S. . . . Betty Johnston and Dick Shull both have new cars. Capitalists! . . . Any of you rabbit hunters want to go duck hunting, head for Norma Smith's. There are Mallards on that there farm!

by Andy Anderson

(Most of you know Andy Anderson, but those who don't will soon become acquainted with him. Andy will be around every Friday to collect your bits of gossip and news. My thanks to all of you for your help and co-operation in making up our column. It has been fun being your reporter.)

Joan Lindeman.

A mystery is hovering around a group of people as to what the great attraction is about Harriet Minch. Could it be those gorgeous gray-blue eyes, or is it just the girl in general? . . . Fred Clark has taken on a new name, especially while playing euchre. If you care to know, ask Moe. . . . Time was short or else her iron quit working was the reason that Martha was wearing a sweater. One sleeve of her blouse wasn't ironed. That isn't so, is it, Martha? . . . Delores was very much put out when she came back to work from her honeymoon. She said she had her lips all coated with lipstick for the fellows and they didn't even take advantage of it. She said, "I left it on all day, too." . . . Did you know Betty K. is sporting around in a new Chevy? . . . It's a good practice for Ellen B. not to have company at her home for a meal or she would be walking around with her hands in a sling. She cut one finger on chicken, one on peeling potatoes, another on a can, and still another opening a can of coffee. That makes four fingers out of ten injured. Better you take it a little easy, Ellen. . . . Marcie must be playing the role of Cinderella, because she has to be home by the stroke of twelve, midnight. . . . Kate H. is going to be married Nov. 21. "Happy Landing, Kate, you will need it." . . . Esther was asked if she had any news this week and she said, "The only thing she knew was that Erwin was a STINKER," Yep, that's what she said. . . . People close to the packing section are wondering if Johnny W. eats bird seed for breakfast. Seems he whistles like mad all day, especially if he is alone at the bench. . . . Sorry to lose Florence Beiber to Bldg. 26-2. Hope to have you back in our midst again soon. . . . There is a tester that doesn't seem to want to talk much or carry on a conversation with anyone. He is a little afraid he may say something that would get his name in the column. That's all right, Pondo, you're in. . . . After a desperate struggle, the Airliners Bowling Team won three games and moved into first place last Thursday night.

WELCOME: Welcome to Harold Dolman, who is working for Wess Goss. . . . WANTED: 1929 Buick hub cap by Al Unger. Might even accept the car, too. . . . SHORT CIRCUIT: Gil Hilt drives with all four windows open, even in cold weather, due to a hard bump. A short in the ignition burned out. Was there ever some commotion! It was everybody for himself. His wife Donna didn't even know if the car would survive. . . . GLAD YOU ARE BACK: Everyone was glad to see Denton Manecke back to work. He was off for four weeks due to an operation. . . . HAPPY BIRTHDAY: To Ruth Lowdermilk, Monday, November 19, and Helen Conrad, Tuesday, November 20. . . . S'darn good thing the Boss Man (Ted Ross) wasn't occupying his office last Monday. Pools of water from the heavy rains were all over the floor. Don Reek was heard to say, "If the Boss could be granted such special privileges, he thought he was entitled to more consideration, too." Hmmm, swimming pool and all.

When Hubert (curley boy) Sherlock came back on days last week he had such an appetite that he had to eat a meal in the cafeteria besides the one he carried to work with him. . . . Howard McMaken is trying hard to get in the 9 o'clock club with the other members. Several more late arrivals and he will be able to qualify. . . . Ozzie Nahrwold went in the office and was giving some oral instructions to the office girl the other day. When the girl turned around, Oz observed he had been talking to a complete stranger. There was a noticeable change in the color of his neck and ears. . . . "60 shells, 6 rabbits"—guess who? Yep! Lyle Claphan. No one else could be that consistent. But, of course, he had help on the 60 shells, as he had to furnish Paul Boedeker with ammunition. Paul couldn't hit the broad side of a barn that day, and Bob Repine forgot to take any shells along. Maybe it's a good thing someone is consistent. . . . Ray Bowers and Frank Phillips both celebrate birthdays this week. . . . It has been nice having a neighbor on the next bench, since Ernest Desmonds has been working days the last couple weeks. Happy Thanksgiving, fellows, as I will be enjoying my third week vacation.

Inquiring Reporter:

"WHAT SIGNIFIANCE DOES THANKSGIVING DAY HAVE FOR YOU?"

GOLDIE E. WAIKEL
Taylor St.

"To me Thanksgiving signifies a day to be thankful for all the blessings that have been bestowed upon me each day during the past year, and to be grateful to be an American and live in America."

AL JOHNSON
Bldg. 19-2

"To me it signifies a day of thanks for what we have and thanks that I live in the good old U.S.A."

PAUL LAMON
Bldg. 2-E

"I believe it is a time when all Americans should stop to consider the advantages they have in this country and be sincerely thankful for them."

ADAHLEEN LEWIS
Bldg. 19-5

"Thanksgiving Day is a day for gratitude and praise to God in return for his blessings. Not just a day to rest and eat, but a day set aside to be thankful that we live in a free country, have freedom of worship, freedom of speech and freedom of the press."

NORMA ARNOLD
Bldg. 4-1

"Thanksgiving always brings to me thoughts of admiration for those pilgrims who withstood the hardships and pain which was the glorious beginning of the New World—now our United States of America. I am thankful that I am one of their descendents and heir to this land of plenty."

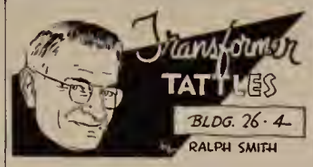
James Hoppel Graduates From Apprentice School

James E. Hoppel graduates today from the Apprentice School as a machinist toolmaker.

Mr. Hoppel began working at the General Electric Company in 1942 as a messenger in Bldg. 18-B. In 1943, he left the Company to enter the Army Air Force as a corporal. When he was discharged from the Armed Forces two and one-half years later, he went to work on a coil former in Bldg. 17-3. He worked at this position until he entered the Apprentice School in 1948.

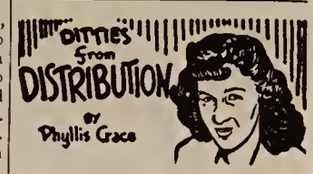
Mr. and Mrs. Hoppel reside at 455 E. Pontiac St.

. . . Completes Apprenticeship



Mr. and Mrs. Stoffel announced the birth of their daughter, Cynthia Sue, born Nov. 5 and weighing 6 lb. 14 oz. Mrs. Stoffel is the former Maxine Carl of this office. . . . Vi Sehneiders and Gene LaFavour ended up with cold feet last Saturday night. The battery up and died in Gene's Ford eight blocks from Vi's home. It was a long trudge home in that slushy snow. . . . If you noticed that Jean Smith and Carol Kissinger ate like birds in the cafeteria last Monday, it was because they ate like horses before they got there. . . . "Swing Your Pardner" Joyce Grieser and Paul Rosenhahn; Vi Schnieders and Gene LaFavour, and Marilyn Spice and Orville Moore were partners at the Nu Phi Mu sorority square dance. . . . Vivian Reitdorf is getting to be the literary type. Her favorite story character is "Hoppy the Grasshopper." . . . A little bird whispered that Carol Kissinger had "something" hidden under her car seat that Betty Bartley and Jean Smith went "dizzy" over. . . . Wayne Brunson has a little trouble remembering to check out at night. He might try tying a string around his finger. . . . This office is getting to be more and more like the "good ole days" when grandmother was 'a-knittin', what with Carol Harrington, Katy Roush, and Betty Bartley clicking their knitting needles. . . . Looks like we have another new girl in the office—Oops! It's just Helen Risser with a new permanent. A very charming one, too. . . . We had a suprise visit from Ed Sembroski. It was good to see him among us again. . . . Faye Alexander should be thinking seriously about going into the photography business — specializing in trick photography. While on her vacation in Miami, Faye took several hundred feet of movie pictures. What happened when Faye put one of the rolls of film in the projector should put her right in business. She had 100 feet of pictures on 50 feet of film. You can imagine the result. Everybody was walking into, under, and over each other and poor Carl Swihart was walking in the ocean among the porpoise. That's what we like about Faye—she does everything a little "different."

A fanatic is one who can't change his opinion and won't change the subject.



Lelah Ryan must have been down to Arthur Murray's dancing studio. She was seen in the wash room doing some fancy steps. . . . Mildred Cutchen almost had her roast turkey before Thanksgiving. She reports they had a small fire in the turkey pen, but discovered it before it did any damage. You were very lucky, Mildred. . . . Lee Malone says they need vitamins in their department, because it's slowly dying. They couldn't report any news for this issue. . . . We wish a speedy recovery to Margaret Wolfe and Aldena Harris, both on lacing, who are absent due to illness. Aldena having submitted to minor surgery. Hurry and come back, girls. . . . Dessie George went shopping and spent part of her money she earned while working overtime. She splurged and bought a lovely houseeoat. . . . We saw Erma Smith and Mildred Cutchen all stuck up the other day but it was only glue, wasn't it, girls? . . . Dorothy Franklin believes in earning her Christmas gifts. They were sure lovely dolls, Dorothy. . . . Bill Stripper is going hunting, he has plenty of shells and we hope there are plenty of rabbits. . . . Lee Malone has been eating in the cafeteria lately. Ask Lee the reason. . . . Vivian Miller wore her wedding dress to work recently so all the girls could see it. . . . Ruby DePew is back at work after having been absent a few days. . . . Thelma Dammeier reports her daughter Vividec has completely recovered.

Forgetful Al—Harold Rhine just can't forget about the time Al Helwig put his wire in his rack for a new job, then turned around and asked Harold, "Where is my wire?" After searching the floor for some time, Harold found Al's wire in his rack. Was Al's face red! This happened about three months ago. . . . Nancy Storey is on the widow list. Her husband is on his two-week cruise with the Navy. Is he the one you get those phone calls from every night, Nancy? . . . We want to congratulate Tom Freeman's wife for the nice baby girl they have. And Tom did pass the cigars to his few friends here at work. He passed them Saturday, when there were only a few people working. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Stan Bonnet are proud parents of a baby girl weighing 7 lb. Mrs. Bonnet was formerly Carolyn Meeks from the Green Room. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Edward Murehland celebrated their fourth wedding anniversary recently. . . . Best wishes to Beulah Smith, who was married recently. . . . Poor old Otto Braun has decided to move to the country since the election. Leo Klejnot and Joe Troendly are undecided. They may move, too. . . . Wanted: A couple of city slickers to help Benny Keller pick his corn. "Here is your chance, Otto." . . . After only one week of married life, Rose Ann Peters Wagner has her husband in the hospital. What happened, Rosie? . . . We hear Ralph Braden is trying to get a lot of people out to the Ossian Shoot next Sunday so he can make a big haul. . . . Ruthie and Wilma must get in late at night because they are sleeping on the buzzer. Maybe they need an alarm cloek. How about that, girls? . . . We wonder why Dutch Norwalt didn't go to the lake on his vacation last week. Couldn't you find a hill big enough to get your car started, or was there so much snow you couldn't find that pond of yours? . . . Arthur Brown fell over one of those big electric trucks last week. What were you looking at down there by the drinking fountain, Art? . . . Permafil Party News—Bill Rectanus and Johnny Mueller were seen doing the Russian Hop. Also, Bill, the dance floor is no place to lie down and go to sleep. . . . Marie Francis, next time you go to a Permafil party wear your own shoes. Almost as bad: Irma Kikly, you are not supposed to wear two left boots. You have a left and a right. The end. . . . Welcome to Beverly Stout, Betty Hendricks and Delores Berry to Bldg. 26-4. . . . Happy Birthday to Jane Maloney. . . . George Harmeyer has to wash the coffee pot for four years. George lost a bet on the election last week. . . . Jimmy Breedlove must have decided his wife was boss at his house. He hasn't come in with a swollen jaw for a couple of weeks now. . . . Fletcher Cumbey reports that his wife, after four days, caught their pony that was in his neighbor's cornfield. . . . Tuck, you looked almost natural in high heels the other day, but somehow your cowboy boots looked better. . . . Wonder why Irene Shroyer told Jackie Rhoades his face was full? . . . Farewell to Nettie Englebrecht, who left us on retirement pension. Many thanks to Grace Collins, Blondie Frankart, Edith Johnson, and Anne Cerne, who made Nettie's send-off a success. A big potluck was held in her honor and she was presented a corsage of roses from the girls. She received many gifts including a portable mixer, steam iron and many others. Nettie wishes to thank one and all. Don't forget, Nettie, we are still at Bldg. 26-4, ext. 336. . . . Our sincere sympathy to Blondie Frankart, who received sad news from Uncle Sam that her son, Ned, is missing in action over Korea. . . . Magnolia Cutler is having quite a time keeping away from treatment. Could it be because of Wild Bill? . . . How about that, Pat? . . . The rabbits will suffer now! Archie Rian is vacationing this week and Joe Troendly and Harold Rhine had him running all over town looking for shells they said were selling for half price. Archie was very much "put out" when he found he was sent on a wild goose chase. . . . We still can't figure out why Beulah Smith was displaying something that looked like a nightgown the other night. . . . What's this we hear about Mike Fisher and the "possum chase"? . . . Dick Swager has left us. Best of luck, Dick. . . . Irene Shroyer has an addition to her family. She gained a son-in-law. Beware of your lunch bucket now, Irene. . . . Evelyn Yoquelet has returned to work after her illness. We certainly welcome her on second shift. . . . Walter Ecker paid us a visit the other day. He sure looks good. Only thing now, the doc has to say, "okay" and Walt will be back with us. . . . Wonder who John Erb's rider is these days? . . . Marjorie Born really stunned our eye the other day, when she left to attend the Air Force Ball at Baer Field. . . . Wonder who the chatter box is in the corner of the Green Room?

SHIPPING: Happy Turkey Day to Helen Eggeman, oops! no, that's not right, it's Happy Birthday and happy Thanksgiving, also. Aw, gee! these people that have birthdays on holidays gets us all mixed up. . . . You've no doubt all seen a Silver Streak, but have you ever seen a blue streak? If you are one of those fortunate ones who happened to be around just as an itzy bitzy mouse galloped unconcernededly over Dorothy Johnson's shoe tops, you would have seen a blue streak. That was Dorothy departing. . . . Could it be that Eloise Hoehn deliberately plans all the tragic things that happen to her just for publicity. Or is she just one of those poor souls whom lady luck never seems to smile on. Eloise's latest incident was being caught for an hour between floors on the elevator. Of course, Mary Jane Wise was with her to help her bear the strain until the elevator repair came to the rescue. . . . The Elex cashew nuts have been selling like hot cakes hereabouts and following the progress of sales has been Herman (ummm) Ebel. To date, Herman hasn't been able to drive a single bargain whereby he could purchase a bag at reduced price. . . . Our spies have been working overtime trying to catch either Ludella Conrad or Charlotte Daun not working, so they could pull a boner and get their names in the column. But, alas, no such luck. Those two gals just never give us a break. . . . RECEIVING: Leo Boitet has secured a new kind of paint thinner. It looks and tastes exactly like water. . . . Joe Rygouski can't keep abreast of the seasons. When they change, he doesn't seem to adjust himself accordingly. Just a week or so ago, he went swimming in the St. Joseph River. Well, now, truthfully, Joe fell into the water accidentally. He had been fishing, without much luck, but he finally snagged an enormous fish. The pull on the line caused Joe to be thrown into the water and carried several feet from the shore, before he let go of the line. The fish would have caused quite a sensation if he'd have taken Joe home with him, but no more so than Joe would startle his household if he would bring a large fish home. . . . Dorothy Ehernman tells us that if this weather continues, they will have to move Christmas up a bit. . . . We had a pleasant surprise Monday morning. Virgil Reining paid us an unexpected visit. He is stationed at Brackenridge, Ky., where he is going through basic training in the U. S. Army.

Mr. Frank Goetz is spending a week's vacation in New Orleans. Hope you are enjoying yourself, Frank, cause you're going to be in for an awful let down when you get back here to the Fort Wayne weather. . . . We welcome Garvin Trimm, a new employee. Hope you like it here, Garvin. . . . Minta Cole's son and daughter-in-law were back home for the weekend.

First woman: "Whenever I'm in the dumps, I get myself another new hat."

Second woman: "I often wondered where they came from."

Double Trouble — Venus Fann, our talented artist of Bldg. 18-4, had bus trouble last week. Double trouble, I calls it! One morning, she was patiently waiting for the G-E Special and got on the first bus that came along—only to ride across the intersection and get off to wait for the Special. That same night she rushed over to the evening special and was securely situated talking to Florence Badgers. Just before the bus started, she jumped up and made a hasty exit with a guilty explanation, "I must pick up my husband's car." Could she have had election jitters? . . . Speaking of some kind of jitters, Charlie Slater had Mary Cooper helping him search for his fountain pen, even to checking Hilda Mueller at the Reception Desk. You know, secretaries have a way of searching for lost correspondence, etc., when the boss is out. So, as a last resort Mary looked in Charlie's desk, and there it was—just where it should have been. What was wrong, Charlie. . . . Ruth Fritz was moved from Mr. Waldschmidt's office in Bldg. 18-1 to Bldg. 18-2 with D. Moore in the Legal Section. Jane Bradtmiller was moved from Bldg. 18-3 to replace Ruth. Eileen Gieger was moved from Wage Rate to Mr. Dannecker's office. The move will be completed next Monday, when Helen Rider Meyer will return to work for C. Arnold in Bldg. 18-3. . . . We are happy that Margaret Tennison and Luella Mulligan are both able to return to work following surgery. . . . Honeymooners Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Fry—Jerry of Bldg. 16-3 and Marinell of Bldg. 18-1—have returned to work. . . . Welcome to Josephine Durnell, who is the addressograph operator in Bldg. 18-1. . . . Hot Seat—Last week Ted, who drives the elongated bus between Broadway and Taylor St., was really in trouble. He had a busload of Bldg. 18 people when the old bus started to smoke. Every one got out of the bus looked it over and couldn't find any fire. All piled back in; and after another block, everyone was convinced that where there was that much smoke, there must be fire. Sure enough it was traced to a short right under the floor boards under the driver's seat. Ted went into action in a hurry! . . . Last week, Jim Johnson and Mary Cooper, Bldg. 18-2, were proudly displaying the school pictures of their youngsters. . . . Goodbye—We were all busy last week saying goodbye and good luck to A. S. Johnson, who left to join the Lockland Plant. . . . Report — Marilyn Mattes had lunch with Doris Lehman last Friday and reports that Doris is very happy to be a fulltime homemaker. . . . Bob Hodell is now related to the Green Hornet. Yes he is now driving a green Buick convertible. How do you like it, Bob? . . . CIT YOR COUNTRY: Margaret Cox has moved into her new apartment on the other side of the road, which makes her a city girl in Anthony Wayne Village. How do you like city life by now, Margaret? . . . Congratulations to Martha Howard on passing your driving test. That adds one more to our good drivers' list in Bldg. 21. . . . Are you having trouble with your pets? Ask Agnes Godfrey how she coped with her cat stealing her chicken, and her dog stealing her pie.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Walter McDonald and Mr. and Mrs. Evarista Rajas, Jr. Each family has a new tax deduction (boys). . . . Happy birthday to Lenora Luttman. Emma Meyers wants her boots to last for years, so regardless of how bad the weather is, she carries them home in a paper bag. . . . Transformers should really roll off of the line since Levi Carpenter is leading operator of test. . . . Audrey Oberly can truthfully testify that you shouldn't stick your head out the car window. (Naughty birds). . . . During the recent snow storm, Mary Williamson thought she saw a bare spot to step in, only to discover it was thin ice. . . . Did any of you hear Mac McCrea on the radio giving his duck calls? We doubt if he could go through this again if it affected him like the first program did. . . . We wonder who installed the electric wiring in Dorothy Paxton's home. The night before Halloween, trick or treaters rang the door bell only to have all the lights go off immediately. How come? . . . Chris Starke has to have his cokes cut a little, evidently. About 6:30 one morning, he put a nickel in the machine and all he got was a cup of water with just enough syrup to color it. . . . Mac McKeeman doesn't like the men's rest rooms since they were painted. So he walked into the ladies' room. Whose face was the reddest? . . . On the elevator, some lady asked Jack Sweet if he was "The Sweet Boy." Being honest, what else could he say but yes. . . . Evidently, Eddie Alter needs some help ordering materials. Recently we saw an order he had written for 84 feet of No. 8 steel lockwashers. We haven't been able to find out from him how many there are to a foot. . . . Clarence Raney dialed a phone number recently. When the party answered, Raney asked him who he wanted. . . . What goes here? Since Johnny Collins' Santa Claus business isn't too rushing, yet, he has taken up dentistry. His first patient was Billie Tucker. . . . Ask Delores Stapleton how many of the Piston players she knows. . . . We wonder if Winnie Coats is getting old. One day she sewed her fingers and the next day she forgot her glasses. . . . We are waiting for spring to see Chlor Weitzman's tulips, which she planted in the snow. . . . Ladies' clothing this year seems to be black with white streamers. At least that was all you could see Saturday when Martha was trying to catch a bus. . . . We extend our sympathy to Jimmy McGill on Notre Dame's loss last Saturday. The crying towels were all ready when Jim came to work Monday morning. . . . It seems that Frenchy Chilcote becomes confused at times. He didn't know whether to send to the fourth floor for some five-inch collars or the fifth floor for some four-inch.

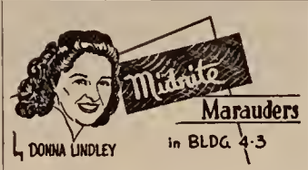
Congratulations are in order for our newly-appointed "Super Chiefs" Harold Pritchard, Joe Coughlin, and Art Rowe. . . . Welcome to Ray Keiffer, who has joined Lighting Component Sales. . . . Bob Triplett was seen wandering around the office with eight pencils in his shirt pocket, one for every office need, he states. . . . Bernie Dwyer trys to tell us that his weekly week-end trip home is to see his dog, who he says "gets very lonely." Huh—we'd rather think his "dog" is a blonde with blue eyes. . . . Was that Eddie Schorr we saw riding the conveyor over at the cafeteria? He tried to tell us that he just forgot his check, but we have heard from other informed sources that Eddie gets quite a charge out of riding the conveyor around the cafeteria. . . . We haven't heard any bird whistles out of Ginny Winegart lately. What's wrong, Ginny? . . . Have you noticed the roses which adorn Tom Bailey's desk? We hear Tom grows them himself. We do wish he would give us the secret of his success in making them last so long. . . . Joe Behm came in with "dish pan" hands recently, and just after he said, "I never wash the dishes." . . . Ruth Bullerman says that going past the candy machines is a very tempting trip. It's a good thing you only go past once a day, eh, Ruth?

Everyone knows the song "Golden Slippers." The other day the fellows of the die-cast sang "Golden Slippers" and also painted some Golden Slippers for Shorty Loudenback. . . . The wedding bells rang for Margaret Harrison last Saturday. We wish you lots of happiness, Margaret. . . . Edna Peterson wonders why her canary doesn't sing more. Can someone give her a few suggestions? . . . Those are mighty pretty snow shoes Helen Orr is wearing, and we hear she has lots of compliments on them. . . . What was the matter with Millie Rietdorf the other night? Did she suddenly get cold and put on her jacket? . . . Mary Jane Bakle paid the dentist a visit and then things were tough for her. She couldn't get her mouth open to eat, but worse than all, she couldn't talk. . . . The other night when Irma Beard got home, she saw a mouse run toward her bed. Irma started for the broom, then for the mouse. Irma couldn't find the little mouse, so she got her landlord up to find it. After so long a time and still no mouse, they gave up. Finally, the little mousie was seen in the kitchen. At last, Irma could go to bed since the mouse wasn't in her bed. . . . We welcome Wanetta Shoaff and Mary Cuellar back to second shift. . . . Ruth Raidy is in the hospital recovering from a recent operation. We are thinking of you, Ruth. . . . It seems as though Olen Shank has a nice setup to go duck hunting. Olen, where are the ducks? . . . Elma Wise celebrated her birthday, Nov. 8. . . . We welcome Agnes Stansberry back to our department. . . . Several of the testers attended a bridal shower for Marclyn Dafforn at Mary Rose's home. "Daffy" received many nice gifts and a good time was enjoyed by the girls. . . . We would like to know more about hopping freight trains, Alma Raymer. . . . Agnes Neiffer is on the sick list. Hurry back here, Agnes. . . . Darold Emrick says he got five bunnies Saturday. You must have found a nest, Darold.

Several of the gang have been wondering why Woody Richardson hunts rabbits with a BB gun. Is it so you won't tear up the rabbit, Woody? . . . The other day, we noticed Dick Graham was having a little difficulty. He must have gotten too much wind behind his bubble gum. The bubble broke and Dick was having quite a time getting it out of his whiskers. . . . We hear Skeeter is going to live on love while her husband is off work. Let us know how you come out, Skecter. . . . We were glad to see Phyllis Baals the other day when she came in. She has been in California with her husband. . . . Birthday greetings to Connie Snyder, Alma Welches and Clara Smith. . . . Is Ruby Chrystler really as generous to Virginia Reed as she says? How about this, girls? . . . Welcome back to Ruby Debolt and also to Raymond Anderson in our section. . . . Walter Fair was a good samaritan on Election Day. Instead of voting, he helped put tire chains on. . . . Ed Bireley was rabbit hunting and says he saw a panther. We wonder what he had to drink to see things like that. . . . Glen Miller never knows the color of a sweater, but he never misses one going down the aisle. . . . Marg Ulrich has a well-trained cat in her bathroom at home, from what we hear. . . . Rita Bowman must take her dancing very seriously, especially when she can't make it to work the next day. . . . Norm Wolf also was hunting Saturday, but there were no tales, only that he used his wife as his dog. How about this, Helen? . . . We are sorry to hear Ruth Raidy is in the hospital. . . . Welcome back to Luella Ternet, who has been serving her country. Seems good to have you back, Lou. . . . We hear Tommy Williams is in the habit of throwing gutter balls Thursday nights. How many are you allowed in a game? We hear she had three in four frames.

Gene Foster was a mighty unhappy fellow Monday morning. It seems he received a telephone call Sunday evening from a quiz program over WJR Detroit. The only trouble is he is very suspicious that it was not an authentic call. But if it was and he missed the $7,000 jack-pot question, he will be more unhappy than ever. . . . Kenny Sheehan is in northwestern Michigan this week deer hunting. We will have to report the results at a later date. . . . Gene Martz was rabbit hunting last Saturday and he is certain there was something wrong with his gun. He says he is sure he couldn't have missed as many shots as he did if the gun had been working right. . . . We were very sorry to see Howard Reinking leave our office last week. We all wish him the very best of luck on his new job in Division 16. . . . Jack Faust was on vacation recently and took a trip down through the Smoky Mountains. He said it was really a beautiful trip in the fall of the year. . . . Have a nice Thanksgiving everyone and just take a minute sometime during the day to really be thankful for what you have.

You are not completely dressed until you put on a smile.



Sister Act— Edna Fletcher (wearing orchid) retired recently from her work at G-E in Bldg. 4-5. She is one of six sisters, all of whom have or are working for the Company. Seated (l-r) they are: Mildred Wahle, Sarah Moore, Nual McVey, Edna, Willadean Rathert, and Maggie Moore. Standing (l-r) are Lucinda Pettit, Dorothy Jensen, Pete Macke, Virginia Shambaugh, and Daisy Balyeat.

Seems when Ray Smith was up in Wisconsin fishing last week he caught a whopper. But he says his net was too small to catch the fish, so it got away. Now, the fellows say, does that sound reasonable? . . . Paul Winters was so disgusted with himself the other day. Seems he knocked the caster out of one of the office chairs and knew that the accident would land in the WORKS NEWS. Sure did, Paul, since you couldn't fix it. . . . Since last Saturday was the first day of hunting, all the men with new dogs put them to work. We had some tall stories around here Monday. E. Gilliam, Herbie Jehl, Cece Onion and Ivan Ford also joined the hunters. Frank Fogwell says he's not going until Thanksgiving, but doubt if he will get any that late in the season, after this gang gets through. . . . Why in the world was John Walters cutting off corset stays? Couldn't be for our girl Friday, could it? . . . It seems Connor has been piling up some high bowling scores—around 206 for one game, but seems to never get the credit, especially from his fellow bowlers around here. They demand to see the score in black and white. . . . George Ellison says he hopes they do not put the picture in the paper that they took of him yesterday, as it wouldn't look natural to see him pouring COFFEE. . . . Our factory has a new paint job. If only the windows were washed, we would be ready for our new lace curtains. . . . Ivan Ford is taking his third week vacation this week, and wants to do some hunting part of the time. . . . We are wondering what Cece Onion has in that secret compartment over in his department. . . . Ruth Lange looked at a clock last Wednesday that was not running, put her coat on and was waiting for the bell to ring, when she tumbled to what she was doing. Weren't hungry, were you, Ruth? . . . Frank Fogwell's lunch bucket was soldered fast the other day. Wonder who did that? . . . Ed Bowser was saying that Paul Winters was speaking to all the fellows around him in the morning and ignoring Ed. He put him on about it and told Paul he had better put a string around his finger to not miss him the next morning. Ed says he saw the string, but it was around 10 a.m. before Paul remembered about it. . . . Ray Schueckle said Bill Putt was very much in need of sympathy, due to some very poor bowling scores. He finally dragged Ray down with him, making two in need of sympathy.

NO MORE KINDLING

Orders for kindling will no longer be taken at the Employees Store, R. L. Fischbach, manager, announced this week. This is due to the large number of orders now on hand, Mr. Fischbach explained.

We have an idea that Martha Bulleit and Pearl Michaels would make wonderful packers. . . . Rose-Mary Diem is on days. No more sleeping 'til noon, RoseMary. . . . Kenny Boggs is so tired of hearing his name that his wife calls him "hey." . . . New Chevys are being driven by Harold Baumgartner and Oscar Bobay. The boys are mighty proud, too. . . . If you've wondered who that flash is in Group 1x59, it is Clarice Fyock. It seems Clarice is giving Faye Emerson a bit of competition. . . . We're sure glad that Otto Roehm didn't accept that position with the coke company. Then, maybe he wouldn't have been our foreman. For all particulars, see Otto. . . . Poor Mary Lee Fleck is ready for the old age home at the ripe age of 23 and still single. Seems Mary Lee's friends are worried about her. . . . Jim Ryder has a very special coat hanger for his coat every night. How about that, Jim? . . . We've all wondered why Jo Lee Zimmerman is losing weight so fast, but the apples Clarice has been "borrowing" from Jo Lee account for it. . . . Apparently, Vida Craft isn't up on her spelling. Especially on such an easy word as cute. . . . Maude Oswalt is leaving us for Winter St. and Ed Cooper is going to Bldg. 26-4. . . . Marie Johnson and Gerry Lump are worried about their husbands being cold, so they each bought a new heater. . . . Velma Lecoque has an ardent student in the name of Helga Wickliffe. Helga was recently demonstrating her skill at tatting and she pulled the wrong thread and out came all the stitches, and all her labor was lost. So Helga is applying the old adage, "If at first you don't succeed, try, try, again." . . . We would like to know the attraction that takes Jim Ryder to the portals of North Side High and to the Roller Dome. Come on, Jim, let us in on the secret. . . . Lucille Heatherington had a most embarrassing moment recently. Was the water that cold, Lucille? . . . Martha Scott bakes the best pecan pie. Take my word for it. . . . The gang sent a lovely gift to Maxine DiGregory to let her know we miss her and hope she will soon be well. . . . Helen Thieme is in the clouds these days. . . . Betty Madden is out house hunting. Anyone who knows of any good buys contact Betty.

Ben-told, the location of Johnson & Baker's new American Legion Home, used to take them in stiff, now they bring them out stiff. . . . We understand Dewey McDowell is in the market for a house to buy. Looks suspicious, Dewey, are wedding bells gonna ring? . . . We extend our sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. Paul Books in the loss of their infant son. . . . Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Noel Jackson on their new baby girl, also Mr. and Mrs. Paul Detwiler on the new addition to their family. . . . Norman Prince and Mr. and Mrs. Manford Lee left this week to spend the winter in Florida. . . . Best wishes to Joe Lichty, who recently took that fatal step and expects to prove that two can live as cheaply as one. . . . Jerry Recht has two pairs of shoes. He proved it one morning when he reported for work wearing one of each pair. . . . It's good to see Luella Boyce back on the job, after 11 weeks' illness. . . . About a month ago, Nellie Parr bought a Dalmatian pup. This week Nellie had the surprise of her life. She discovered her pup had been holding out on her, when she was presented with a baby pup. . . . Belated birthday wishes to Dick Beck.

Jerry Stiner and I had a bet on the election. It seems as though he picked the wrong man. Jerry is a little blue about the whole thing. . . . Leroy Cook and Frank Enderle proved their good citizenship last Election Day by not only voting but by driving voters to the polls. Cookie was on the winning side. However, Frank's man lost and so did Frankie. One buck to Homer Hibler. . . . Bill Curtis, our helper, also guessed wrong on the mayoralty race and lost a dollar bill to Leroy Cook. . . . Henry Becker was on vacation last week but he certainly picked a poor time. Snow, ice, slush. Henry is usually pretty good at picking out nice weeks but his intuition failed miserably this time. He probably enjoyed himself keeping warm with his new gas furnace.

Interdivision Basketball

By Ray Quinn

The Accounting Department won the opening game of the season from the Test Engineers 39 to 17. The Test men, a late entry in the league had only one chance to practice and were off on most of their shots. The Accounting team looked good. Crecelius, a new man this year was high with 14 points.

The FHP entry played a good game against the always potent Firemen but dropped a 43 to 27 decision. Both teams showed a world of speed, but the Firemen have 3 or 4 substitutes on a par with their regulars, while Fractional has not.

The Apprentice School has a lot of new talent this year and with any kind of luck at all it should be right up there. They have plenty of height and speed to burn. They won their first game from Aircraft 55 to 32 and Aircraft has a better than average ball club.

If the balance of the league shows as much power as the first six teams it looks like the Squares, last year's champs, will have plenty of competition.

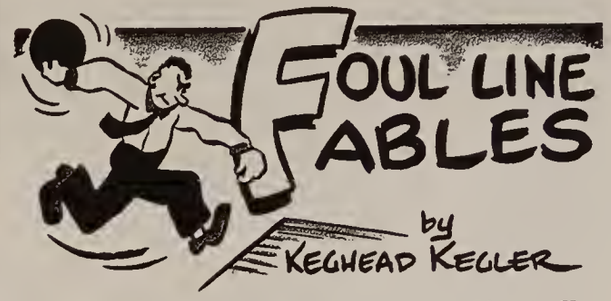
Owls Limber Up For First Games Wednesday A.M.

by Bill Geist

Stiff muscles and kinks are now limbered up and the Owl Basketball boys are eager for the sound of that opening whistle. Managers are reporting their teams are rounding into condition. Many close games are expected.

Beginning Wednesday morning, Nov. 21, three league games will be on tap each week. Game times are 8:30, 9:30 and 10:30 a.m.

Support your team and mark the date of the 21st on your calendar. G-E boys only are playing in this league.



Ernie Carpenter, Art Hyser and Skinny McGary went deer hunting in southern Indiana. Each brought back a deer. Come on, Art, was your deer shot, or clubbed to death? . . . During the recent Centennial at Monroeville, Roy Taylor didn't want to grow a beard, so his aunt gave him money to buy a shaving permit. When questioned as to why he didn't have the permit, he said he spent the money on his children at the midway. However, Roy promises faithfully to buy a permit when Monroeville celebrates its 200th year. . . . Kenny Wyatt is quite an ice fishing sportsman, so in anticipation of the great sport he bought a hand warmer. As you know, this device heats from a chemical fluid similar to that used in a cigarette lighter. Mrs. Wyatt, curious as to how much heat it would give, decided to use it as a bed warmer, unbeknown to the Mr. He rolled over and now is literally suffering from the burn. . . . Roger Pierson is wondering if it pays to be kind to dumb animals. He decided to make a holder for his dogs' water and food dishes. In the process of cutting it out, the saw slipped and it took 12 stitches to get his finger back together. He is getting quite a bit of sympathy from his fellow workers in Bldg. 20-2. . . . Henry Tucker swears that someone is shrinking his clothes. The truth is that Spence has been eating out too much lately and is putting on weight. . . . Roy Taylor bought some ice cream, put it in his car and forgot about it.

CELEBRATES 35 Years—John Wintsel, Bldg. 19-2, rolled up 35 years of service with General Electric last week. Mr. Wintsel is a final inspector on finished armatures in Large Motor and Generator Divisions. Shown congratulating him are Frank Metrailer, left, and H. S. Garton.

Well, last Saturday was the opening of the hunting season and we have several good stories. . . . Carl Kinsey was hunting, especially for birds. As luck would have it the one and only bird he saw, was shot down right before his eyes by another hunter. . . . Several of the guys are on their vacations this week and plan to do some hunting. Here's hoping that Ralph Mennewisch, Wilford Kinsey and Chick Kortum get the limit. . . . Cecil Foor was hunting and got three rabbits. There were so many other hunters that he was afraid he might be mistaken for a rabbit so he went home. . . . Several months ago there was a report out that some deer were seen near Churubusco. Francis Harter said he got a big one. We are wondering if he meant a deer? . . . We sure hope Paul Hendrickson has good luck on his hunting trip to Michigan. This will make his fifth trip and so far he has only one deer to show for his troubles. . . . Clarence Rump traded his '41 Chevy in for a '51 Chevy. The new car had only a hundred miles on it when Clarence started for Indianapolis. He got as far as Huntington when a tire blew out. Now he is ready to trade back again. . . . Congratulations to Ruth Mutton and the new baby at her house. She named him James Kay. Ruth is a former co-worker. . . . We also send congratulations to Geneva Moody. She has a new granddaughter. . . . We wish Beverly Roebuck a speedy recovery from a minor operation. We also hope to see Bonnie Pranger back at work very soon. . . . Birthday congratulations to Shirley McCoy. . . . As you all know, we do strange things every once in awhile. Here is another good one for the books. Ruth Tutwiller came home from town last Wednesday and left her coat and things downstairs until she was ready to go to bed. When that time came, she piled her clothes on her arms (she already had her pajamas on) and put her hat on her head. After she went upstairs, she put her things away, fixed the clock, turned out the light and crawled into bed. Then she put her head back only to discover that she was still wearing her hat! . . . Ruth Abels, one of the girls in the office, is wearing her Christmas present already. She has a big, beautiful diamond—a gift from her husband. . . . Mary Warren is another new grandmother. . . . We're sorry that Mary McKerring broke her arm. Hope to see you back soon, Mary. . . . Maureen Brake is very happy these days. Her husband will be home from the hospital for 30 days. Wish it could be for good. . . . Barbara Tschannen, Mrs. Joe Spieth now, was a beautiful bride. All our best to them for a happy future. . . . Unis Taylor and Bob Richmond were married in a beautiful ceremony at the Gospel Temple. Unis made all the dresses and every one was just perfect. A lifetime of happiness to you, too, Unis. . . . Wedding congratulations also to Gertrude Tagmeyer and Jack Boxberger, who were married last Saturday. They are now honeymooning in Chicago. . . . When Lola Rowe was asked to pick the winning ticket for Friday's money pool, Florence Byers told her to be sure and pick her number. Lola did. Ask and you shall receive, I guess. . . . Carl Kinsey was sure glad to hear from his son, Max, who is in training in Hawaii. Max reports that he is OK, but training is tough. . . . Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Dick Bucher on the arrival of Carol Sue. . . . Carl Hitzeman feels quite lucky. He was called twice in recent months on the Dinner Winner Program and won two baskets of groceries. . . . Since one of our number has been called to serve on the jury, I suppose he will be among the missing for a day now and then. The man is none other than E. L. (Judge Puffle) Jacobs. . . . Avery Spayde wonders what makes John Figley and Sam Taylor rate so high. They get their names in the paper so much. Avery wants to know why his name doesn't appear in the paper more often. Possibly Bernard Kramer could tell him. . . . John Figley is sobbing over the fact that he will have to wait until World Series time to bring in some more wormy apples, rotten tomatoes, withered carrots and shriveled beets.

We want to extend a welcome to a new member to Keghead's column. The recently-organized Ladies' Thursday Owl League. This is a league of second-trick girls who bowl Thursday afternoon before going to work. The standings show Burt's Restaurant leading the league with 19 wins and 2 losses. In second place is Swifty Connett with 17 wins and 4 losses. Any girl wishing to become a member of the league is asked to call Florence Choka on extension 336.

Interdivision League

The Firemen went into first place in the league. The Firemen were assisted by the Hot Shots, who downed the Hermetic team three games. Second place is all tied up with the Hermetics. Doodle Bugs and Hot Shots just one game behind the leaders.

Vic Rump has finally gotten in shape. Last Wednesday night be took over the league lead in high single game on a 245 count. Not content witb that, he blasted out a 178 and 210 for a 633 high three-game score.

Walt Seidel had a nice series started on games of 219-191, but the final game cost him, it was a low 127. That final game was Walt's undoing as he had to reacb into his pocket for a dime to dish out to Carl Miller. Elmer Schoenlien rolled a 206; Frank Matthews a 223; Bob Hickman, 221; E. Tom, 217, and B. Burnau, 213. Carl Miller joined the Triplicate Club on a count of 154-154-154.

Transformer League

The Bells are out in front with 14 and 7. In second place are the Toys with 13 and 8. A tie exists for third place with E-I, Coils and M all with 12-9 records.

Ladies' Monday Nite

The Pepperettes are leading the league with a record of 23 wins and 7 losses. The Sugarbowlers and Alley-Gators are tied for second place with a 18-12 record. High score of the evening was kegled by M. Huber, a 190 count. Bea Heck rolled a 183; Ester Muzzillo, 177; Doris Pogue, 176; Bertha McCague, 172, and Dorothy Fuhs, 171. Chickens were won by Mary Leiter, Helen Studler, Margaret Parisot, Joan Baker, Pat Hamilton and Billie Frain. Ilo Motter could just smell one of those chickens frying at home. Ilo had counts of 166 and 166, but something went wrong. Someone kept moving the. pins. That last game was a high golf game score. We won't say what, but it was pretty close to 90. Just three pins off.

Monday Office

E. Aumann bad a night for himself, getting two double century games, 212 and 225, plus a 189 for a 626 count. Ervie also won a chicken with his score.

The Amplydines lead the league with a 22-8 record. The Aircraft team slipped to second place with a 21-9, and in third place is the Drafting team, 20 wins and 10 losses. Bob Blomker kegled a 226 count; Bill Piercy, 212; Dick Grote, 205, and hitting the double century on the nose was Wendell Miller. Chickens were won by Ralph Kaeck, E. Aumann, Bob Blomker, Bob Zollers, Joe Donahoo, and (how did this happen?) I. Parrish. Must be a mistake. Ivan probably let his son Floyd substitute for him.

Small Motor

Tools are still leading the league with 19 won and 8 lost. In second place are the Office and Contributing teams with 17 won and 10 lost. The Dubs are close behind and show a 16-11 record. Two hundred scores were kegled by A. Bennett, a 227; O. Doherty, 223; and H. Doeherman, 201.

Decatur

In the Monday night league, Office won two from Packers, and Stators won two from Flanges. Entries into the double century club were Briede, 226, and Jackson, 222.

In the G-E Fraternal league, Elks won two from Moose-Burke. G-E Club won two from Teeple Truck Line. K of C won three from Peterson Elevator, and American Legion won two from West End Restaurant.

The pins were toppling and 200 scores were made by Alton, 232; Beery, 247; Shackley, 201; Wolpert, 202; Reynolds, 207; Zelt, 209, and Reinking, 201.

Open Bowling

Beginning tomorrow and every Saturday thereafter, there will be open bowling at the G-E Club alleys from 3 to 11 p.m.

By Don Clark

It was good to see Kenny Fosnaugh walk in this week. We welcome you back, Kenny. . . . Gale Bowser rates mention this week for his weekend activity. He caught over 500 turkeys and reported for work hale and hearty, but lame. . . . Could a big election day have been the eause for Bob Palmer sleeping so late Wednesday? . . . Thinking that Kenny Smith had given him an apricot tree, Charlie Wrisk seleeted a prominent place in his orchard to plant it. Now we find it it a eotton wood. . . . Kenny Doell, Carl Ahlersmeyer and Herb Meyers tried hunting on Frank Lebreeht's rabbit farm. They only saw one rabbit and didn't shoot that one. They all raised their guns to shoot, but were politely waiting to give each other the first shot while the rabbit hopped away. . . . Die Plant—A elose look at the almanae eonvineed Ed Stahl to don that long sleeve shirt. . . . Bob Bryan says there are plenty of deer in Indiana. He went after them but an attack of "buck fever" hindered his efforts. Just too pretty to shoot, Bob? . . . Bob Sowards is economizing with hand-made eigarettes. . . . Carl "Handyman" Zion is eurrently proud of the new wall paper now covering the walls in his home. . . . We express wishes for a complete and early reeovery for Mrs. Hayden Rice and also Delores Manning. Delores suffered injuries in a reeent ear eollision. . . . Art Jenne was so satisfied over his eafeteria lunch the other day, that he ventured out into the winter weather minus his hat and coat. Of eourse, there were a few friends around to wateh him eome back after them. . . . Jim Buehheit topped this, however, when he brought his luneh from home. He forgot about it and ate at the eafeteria. We wonder what he had for supper—cold lunch? . . . Reports from the Grinding Section: Les Hines loeked all the eommunity tool eabinets and took the keys home with him. The night men won't like you, Les. . . . Walter Esterline joined the hunters by eatching a bothersome bat in his attie. . . . Paul Weaver has had enough pushing around now. He put new points in the Mereury. . . . Lloyd Welbaum is really happy. The election went his way. . . . Woody Hursh reports shooting at one quail and bringing down three. . . . Bill Mowery and Don Dimke got their limit of rabbits early. For added attraetion one of them kieked Bill in the jaw. It is a good thing you weren't hunting kangaroos, Bill. . . . A usual huntsmen, Don Alcott, had rabbits run aeross his feet and a pheasant fly out of his sight. He elaims he felt sorry for the rabbits and thought the pheasant was a hen. . . . Kenny MeCague is the newly-elected fire ehief out at Waynedale. Kenny eertainly deserves the job. He never misses a call and is really on the job when it eomes to fighting fires. . . . We wondered why Carl Einsiedel was so unhappy lately. We found out he has been paying 40 eents a piece for iee cream bars. For that, Zig, you ean cry on our shoulder. . . . Merwood Dunlap thinks Bob Branning is a real story teller. No matter how dull the incident, Bob's enthusiastic actions win him an audienee. . . . Bob Truelove never invited a soul to his party last Friday night and no one is mad. Just seems he wanted to be alone. . . . Roy Paulson is open for lessons on how to release stored up energy and still eontrol effeets. A thankful Thanksgiving Day to you all. . . . Second Shift—Gene Houser wants to bring his cat in before those mice walk off with his lathe. . . . When Dan Knepper returned to Bldg. 19-5, it appeared that he needed a guide to show him around. . . . Good luck to Earl Anderson, who has left to take up barbering. . . . Dick Hemriek and Herb Ort are quite proud of the choice pipe tobacco they use. They were surprised, however, to find the mixture contained eut-up rubber bands. . . . Saul Fett claims things will never be the same, since Bill Gallispie went on first shift. . . . We hear that Bob Kahlenbeck's hobby of collecting stamps is growing. He has just eonvinced his wife that they should designate one room for this hobby. . . . Art Wolfe found the first days hunting rather expensive. He lost his billfold eontaining 13 dollars and eredentials. You can really go hunting now, Art.

BEST RETIREMENT WISHES—When Beulah Briner eelebrated her last day of work for General Eleetrie Nov. 1, her friends and eoworkers gathered to present her with gifts and hest wishes. Helping her unwrap her gifts is W. G. Wiekliffe.

WE WELCOME Emmet Rasor, Jr. to the Wire Mill Planning Seetion. Junior's balding Pappy Emmet, Sr. is a full-fledged wire enameler, also of the Wire Mill. . . . SNOW AND GRASS RAKES—One reeent Saturday during the heavy snowstorm, Guy Oberlin was seen eoming from town with two newly-purehased grass rakes. When confronted with the question of why and wherefore, Guy replied that he was taking them up to his eottage at Lake James where it was nice and warm (behind the baseburner). . . . CONGRATULATIONS TO Glen Fletter who is the proud father of a brand new daughter named Karen Susan. . . . HIBERNATING again this year in his little Igloo on dock number two is none other than Vaughn Sheets, the mayor of Waynedale, and his penguin co-worker, Ray Kirk. . . . DEAD DOGS—Loretta Puff tells us that the animal population, especially the dogs, are dying so fast it keeps her up day and night making easkets. For a sizeable fee, we'll help you, Loretta. Mr. and Mrs. Puff are owners of the K-9 boarding and burying ranch on the Reed Road. . . . TRADED CARS—Betty Piekett traded for a larger ear just so she ean take those wonderful grandchildren out riding in eomfort. Isn't that grand? We'll say it is, as we're in the same boat. . . . WEDDING BELLS—James Steffen and Dorothy Adams tied the knot at Huntington last Saturday morning. Congratulations, Jim, and thanks for the eigars. . . . WE HAVE HEARD REMARKS that the same characters always make the news. Are you one of the characters that give us news about another character? If not, how can other characters make the news? Good question to ask oneself, don't you think? . . . NEXT WEEK END your old editor will be way down in Stamford, Conn. visiting son-in-law, daughter and granddaughter over the Thanksgiving Holidays. This will give you all an opportunity to write something about anyone you eare to.

A. S. Johnson Assigned To Lockland Plant

A. S. Johnson, assistant to the plant engineer and superintendent of the General Service Division, has been assigned to the Lockland Plant. He will serve there as superintendent of Aireraft, Gas Turbine, and Forge Shop. He assumed his new duties Monday.

Mr. Johnson had been with the Fort Wayne Works sinee July, 1929. He is a past president of the Supervisors Club.

E. C. Smith Named Tenor Soloist For Haydn Oratorio Sunday

G-E Tenor

Everett Smith, Bldg. 4-5, has been selected as tenor soloist in "The Creation" by Haydn to be given Sunday at 4 p.m. in the Trinity English Lutheran Church.

A native of Cleveland, Mr. Smith began his musieal studies there. He was a member of the Glee Club at Oberlin College.

While serving with the U. S. Army for four years, he was tenor soloist in the Fort Sill, Okla., Chapel Choir.

Mr. Smith has also appeared as soloist with the Fort Wayne Philharmonie Orehestra and Chorus and at the Plymouth Congregational Chureh. He has served as tenor soloist at the First Presbyterian Church.

The oratorio will be sung by the Festival ehoir of the Chureh under the direetion of the Rev. David L. Miller. There will be no admission eharge for the program.

Stormy Weather

FROM 17-4

By Betty Gentile

Sinee Thanksgiving's so near, we pause to nod,
To take time out and thank you,
God.
Thank you for letting us work on a floor,
As pleasant and friendly as 17-4.
Our superintendent, Mr. Mettler, who never fails to say,
"Good morning, and how are you today?"
Then our supervisors, we doubt if there could be
Anyone as congenial as these three.
Walt Konow, who's the head of our Planning Section
Devises safe means for our protection.
Without "Emmie" Stock, we'd certainly be lost
His delightful sense of humor and his knowledge of Cost.
Howard Brooks is always in step,
As Production Supervisor, he's really "hep."
We're also thankful for our foremen, it's beeause that they Keep things running in a very smooth way.
Ed Klomp's jovial manner is known to all,
Understanding, cheerful and "on the ball."
In Testing, Carroll Elder, busy as can be,
Always has a smile for you and for me.
Carl Hattendorf the head of our Machining Division
Can always be called upon for any decision.
Our night foreman, Harold Knepp,
we'd like you to meet,
His personaltiy is one that can't be beat.
Clarence Nussel, Dispatcher Chief,
we're sure to avow,
He gets jobs moving, not later,
but now!
We give thanks for our factory people and office help, too.
For our money, they are one fine
erew
Who work together in all that they do—
Of course, we're referring to you and to you.
So we're thankful for our floor and again we nod,
Thanks a million—yes, THANK YOU, GOD!

Pensioner Parade

Mr. and Mrs. William N. Wehrs recently returned from a vacation trip to White Sulphur Springs, Williamsburg, Yorktown and Clarksburg, Virginia. They thoroughly enjoyed all of the historical points in that area, as well as Greenbrier Inn at White Sulphur Springs. Mr. Wehrs deeided that Thomas Jefferson was quite a man. The results of his hobby—Monticello—have made him almost as famous as his statesmanship. He designed and supervised the building of his home, which eovered the span of 32 years. Some of the ingenious methods he devised were outstanding—his calendar clock, where you could always tell the day of the week, even if you did have to go to the basement for Saturday; his weather vane that was brought down to the roof of the porch and easily visible from most of the windows in the living room and dining room; his tunnels from servants' quarters to the main house; his revolving door into the dining room equipped with shelves so the food could be brought from the kitehen and served without opening and closing the door in the dining room. He personally designed and supervised the building of most of the furniture in the house, as well as made sketches of the draperies that he wanted made. All in all, these things eombined to make Monticello, meaning "Large Acres" a very interesting place to visit. . . . Word from Mary Occleston is that she is recuperating satisfactorily from her reecnt surgery. . . . Mr. and Mrs. T. T. King will soon return to their home on Arcadia Court after spending the summer months at their Lake James Cottage.

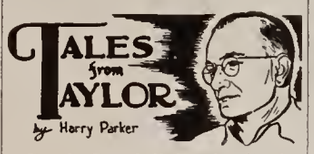
THANK YOU NOTE



We wish to express our thanks for the lovely housecoat, houseslippers and card, which the employees of Bldg. 17-3 sent Sarah. We appreciate your thoughtfulness.
Sarah Meagher's family.

NOTICE TO PAINTERS—Pete Fairchild has everything done on his barn but the painting. He had the job contracted for, but the man who was to do the job, failed to show up. I guess it will be a job for the gang. Gee, we hope the job is completed before cold weather, don't you, Pete? . . . HAVE ANYTHING TO TRADE?—Gun swapping seems to be the hobby of the hour. Ernie Foreman has swapped with Patrick for a shotgun. It's pretty old, in fact, I think Napoleon used it when he was a cadet. Lee Gage has a couple of Jap swords he would trade for—what have you to offer? . . . NICE GOING, NORMA: Norma Brower has traded her Pontiac for a new '51 Chevy. Hurrah for Norma! . . . MARKSMAN JONES—Miles Jones is a real marksman with the 30-30. It seems that one time he waited for two days at the range for a chance to shoot, and lo and behold the fellow with the gun didn't show up. . . . RETURNED—Faye Foreman is back on the job again after surgery. Hi, Faye, glad to see you back. I'll bet Ernie is glad. Huh? . . . THE GREAT INVENTOR—In our midst we have an inventor. Did you notice the foremen displaying those plastie pockets? Well, Art Denig, the Mayor of Convoy, is the boy who did the inventing. Art claims he was offered $700 for the patent. Hmm, how about a sample? . . . GEE, WE'RE SORRY! We didn't get our wish. Cleva Weaver was defeated in the election for the Mayor of Middlebury. Sorry, Cleva, but you still have your mule. . . . "TOM HAUBOLD '51"—"Most Eligible" has just celebrated "Life begins at 40." Tom says that he really is going to take it easy from now on. We don't believe it, for we checked on his horoscope with an authority. . . . CONGRATS, MAYOR MOSER—The Raw Material Section has a newly elected mayor in their group; namely, Jay Moser, mayor of Wren. . . . BEST WISHES—Wedding bells rang for Ruth Fennig and Dick Gehrig November 11. Ruth chose Norma Johnson as her maid of honor, and Howard Gehrig served his brother as best man. Best wishes to Ruth and Dick. . . . GREETINGS—Happy birthday to Ella Scherry and Effie McGill. . . . SYMPATHIES—Are extended to Herman Patterson upon the death of his mother and mother-in-law. . . . Also to the Hakey family upon the death of Clifford, who retired a few months ago. . . . Norma Johnson attended the Beta Theta Pi dance at Hanover last Saturday as the guest of Roger Gentis. She was accompanied to Madison by Mr. and Mrs. Bob Mills. . . . Earlene Steffen had the assistance of all the king's horses and all of the king's men to get her Buick out of the mud again. . . . Ruth Kelly, former worker, is back at her home in Willhsire. She would welcome some of her friends to come over and see her. Take note Norma Bower. . . . I don't believe Karl Schnepp has found a house to rent. Please, can't someone help him out? . . . What became of Bert Strickler? Would like to see her again. . . . We notice Joan Workinger is still working days. I'll bet she would like to be on nites again. Hi, Jo! . . . USUAL HUNTING STORY—When "Beech" Beery went hunting recently he had three pheasants to show up in front of him. With all three of the pheasants at his gunsight, "Beech" pulled the trigger only to discover that he forgot to cock the gun. . . . STEAK AT STAKE!—We now know the secret of Mr. Welch's big and strong physique. He craves steak. A local ladies organization has served dinners on three recent and separate occasions, which Mr. Welch attended and, you guessed it, it was swiss steak each time. . . . HOT AND COLD?—The story is told about Russell Owens and his wife Vera one recent cold wintry night. Mr. and Mrs. Owens have dual control G-E electric blankets, so that each can have the temperature desired. On this particular night Russ kept complaining that it was too hot. Mrs. Owens complained it was too cold and that her blanket wasn't working. Amidst the perspiration on Russ and the frost on Mrs. Owens they soon discovered that Russ was operating the control on Mrs. Owen's blanket while Mrs. Owens was turning on the heat for Russ.

FLOWERY FAREWELL—A corsage and a party were given Nettie Englebrecht, when she retired from G-E Oct. 31. Foreman Darrel Hirschfelder is shown wishing her many happy days of leisure. Nettie was employed in Bldg. 26-4, Specialty Transformer & Ballast Div. 94.

Darcie Campbell deeming it wise to add another room to his dwelling decided to do the work himself. He did a marvelous job until it came to the finishing. On this, he went entirely off the beam. With the lumber on hand, he purchased a mitre box, and measured and cut it up for the entire room—only to discover that the joints would not match up. Upon investigation, he discovered much to his dismay that his mitre box was set for 55 degrees instead of 45. . . . Monroe Fuhrman, by the way, is the champion pumpkin grower of FHP Div. 13. The other day he sat around listening to a lot of the boys crow about the large melons, squash and pumpkins they had grown this past season. Not to be outdone, he came forth with a story about his prize pumpkin which measured three feet eight inches high by nine feet six inches in diameter. Some punk, we opine. . . . Wendell Neirman having acquired a brand new Oldsmobile promised several of the second trick boys that he would treat them to a ride in it and to a fish fry after work Friday night. At closing time the gang proceeded to the car and got on board, but the blasted thing wouldn't start. They were pushed all over the west end of town, but still no start; so they drove back into the parking lot and proceeded to the fish fry by bus. . . . Ralph Dunlap pulled an unforgivable sin on Halloween night. It seems that a crowd of small fry trick or treaters called upon him. After handing them out generous handfuls of candy, he noticed one of them soaping his big front window. This irked him tremendously. The children started to run and he after them. He finally caught up with them and took the candy away from them—the big bum!

COPYRIGHT 1950 CARTOONS-OF THE-MONTH

Perch Sickafus, alias Rip Van Sickafus, is evidently a direct descendant of Rip Van Winkle. Our boy Perch retired to his downy couch or relaxed in the arms of Morpheus or something Sunday evening and never woke up till 5 p.m. Monday evening. Perhaps he is preparing for his winter hibernation. . . . I gave a pint of blood Wednesday, November 7. I wish a few more of us could go down and give a pint of blood, because I'm sure none of us will ever miss it. But the boys overseas will sure miss it. . . . Melvin Green has a great fear of mice and small bugs. If you ever see Green doing flip-flops down the hall you know that he has seen a mouse or a bug. The other day he jumped into a box of bolts. Poor fellow. The women are the ones to be shy about mice, not men, Melvin.

They Get Ideas!

Double Award for Ideas—Ed F. Koontz and Frank Obringer, both of Bldg. 26-4, exchange congratulations on their joint award of $50 each for a suggestion regarding a lead material change.

A Scrap Shortage Threatens

Thousands of steel users may not share this winter the benefits of rapidly increasing steel capacity—unless steel mills and foundries get more iron and steel scrap quickly.

Inventories of scrap at steel plants and foundries are far below normal levels for this time of year. Moreover, collections normally fall off substantially during winter months because of bad weather.

Last year, 29,500,000 gross tons of purchased scrap was needed to produce a record 96,800,000 tons of steel. Production is now running at an unprecedented annual rate of 108,000,000 tons. Approximately 6,000,000 more tons of scrap will, therefore, be needed this year. And, additional tonnages will be needed next year as capacity is increased still further.

Actually, steel capacity is being increased so fast that the millions of tons of scrap available in the nation's plants and factories is not flowing into normal collection channels fast enough.

Current Campaign

A nationwide scrap campaign is currently in progress. The National Production Authority, in cooperation with the Steel Industry Scrap Mobilization Committee, The Advertising Council and local Chambers of Commerce, is spearheading a drive to increase the flow of obsolete machinery, equipment and other dormant scrap from various businesses to local scrap dealers.

The campaign is showing promising results. Laundries, chemical plants, food processors and other businesses, not normally considered scrap producers, are turning up sizeable tonnages of heavy scrap after canvassing their properties.

Even more scrap from similar businesses is needed, however, if steel production is to be maintained throughout the winter, and the greatly expanded military and civilian requirements met.

Companies in every industry are being asked to help assure themselves of more steel by turning in all the scrap they have. More scrap today means more steel tomorrow.

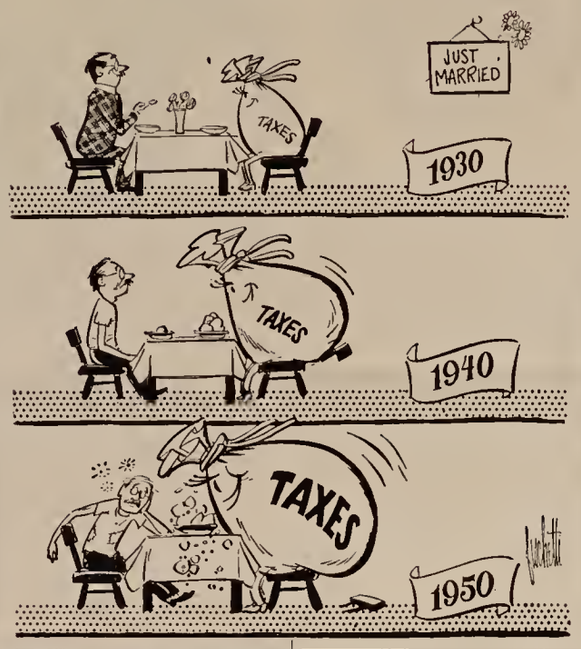
This Is No Nightmare—Or Is It?

It must come as a shock to every taxpayer to hear that government costs have increased 13 times what they were just a score of years ago. Yet we have that from Senator McClellan (D.-Ark.) in the course of his recent speech before the Essex County Medical Society at Newark, N. J.

Actually, if he has not allowed for devaluation of the dollar in the New Deal's early days, a third more should be added to that estimated increase. Though a national debt of nearly a third of a trillion dollars has been saddled upon ourselves, our children, and our children's children, the Arkansan warns us that the present administration has no intention of calling for financial retrenchment.

Congressional Bills Pending

For instance, 15 pending bills if adopted by Congress, "will cost $25,000,000,000 a year in five years, when they get into full-scale operation." The senator prophesied a $65,000,000,000 annual budget, which means that each citizen would pay $433 yearly, and take forty cents of every dollar earned in this nation. Hidden taxes would make it even more.



Such staggering sums recall a clever English cartoonist's label for schemes of socialization: "Squandermania." We have seen what comes from such a mania; we have seen its end result in the British Isles.

Even though it be conceded to McClellan that "big government is here to stay," voters can help him, and like-minded Congressmen, "hold it at its present level." He aptly used the word "level." Actually, our nation is progressing along a plateau, and plateaux have a way of coming to an end.

There is a brink, and an abyss, called Chaos. The path to that brink is paved with taxes, unnecessary taxes. The necessary ones already are more than most of us can bear.

AMBITION

Many folks are quite ambitious,
And with this no fault is found,
Just so long as, when they're reaching,
Both their feet stay on the ground.

Digging in, denotes ambition,
And we're told this doesn't hurt,
Unless those who do the digging
Don't care where they throw the dirt.

If to get ahead we trample
Other folks along the way,
Time will prove, when books are balanced,
That this really doesn't pay.

Alexander, great and powerful,
Said, "The world must bow to me."
But he died a raving maniac
When only thirty-three.

Julius Caesar, Brutus tells us,
Got ambitious for a crown.
So, a friend he had called Cassius
Cut the mighty Caesar down.

And Napoleon, with a vision
Of an empire all his own,
Ended up on St. Helena
Disillusioned and alone.

Kaiser Bill became ambitious
And imagined that he could,
Rule the world and all its people.
But he died, just sawing wood.

Then Der Fuehrer and Mussolini,
You remember, also found
That it's very risky business
Pushing other folks around.

Now old Sleepy-Joe is digging,
And the way he throws the dirt
Makes it absolutely certain
There'll be some one getting hurt.

But it doesn't seem to worry him,
Because it's safe to say,
Like all these other nincompoops
He thinks he knows the way.

Of course, like all the others,
There's one thing he overlooks—
In the end he'll have to answer
For the errors in his books.

But don't think we can't have leaders,
History proves we really can.
They are those who climb by leading
And respecting God and man.

New Reporter

Carol Altevogt Is New Editor Of 'Raconteur'

The Girl Friday of FHP Div. 14's bowling paper, "The Gutter Balls," is the new division editor of "Raconteur." She is Carol Altevogt.

Carol came to the General Electric Company in August. Since that time, she has worked as a stenographer-typist in the office of Div. 14. She graduated from South Side High School last June.

Her work in typing and mimeographing "The Gutter Balls" for the division's bowling league has stirred up an interest in the sport for Carol. She recently bought a pair of bowling shoes and hopes to learn the art of the keglers soon.

For a less active pastime, Carol has secured knitting needles and yarn in order to learn the finer art of knitting.

The following reporters will assist Carol in gathering the news within the division: Jerry Uhl, Maxine Daniels, W. Poehler, Esther Watson, Marcielle Vandtel, W. Niemeyer and Carl Miller.

Carol lives with her family at 221 W. Woodland.

OUT OUR WAY

By J. R. WILLIAMS

CELEBRATES 35TH—A Tool Room veteran, Paul Dole (right) completed 35 years with General Electric this month. He has spent all but a few months of this time as a Tool Room employee. Left to right with Mr. Dole, are C. A. Brenner, E. J. Schafenacker and Herb Mennewisch.

RED CROSS TO GET $13,000

Board Votes $59,000 To Community Chest Drive

At the first meeting of the Board of Administrators for the Community Services Fund last Friday, the Board voted to contribute $59,000, of the $71,915 subscribed in the recent drive, to the Community Chest and $13,000 to the Red Cross.

The Board is composed of 12 administrators elected by Fund members and four members appointed by Local 901, CIO-IUE, Lodge No. 70, AFL-IAM, and the Company.

The newly-elected administrators are: Roger Grant, Winter St. (salaried); John Thomas, Winter St. (hourly); J. P. McFeely, AFL-IAM (appointee); Ford Zimmer, Works Service (salaried); John Fleischer, Works Service (hourly); Ivan Standish, Motor-Generator (hourly); E. C. Reese, Motor-Generator (salaried); Carl Reiter, FHP Taylor St. (salaried); Theron Kitchen, FHP Taylor St. (hourly); Carl Alter, FHP Broadway (salaried); Robert Henry, STAB (salaried); K. W. Michael, Company (appointee); Paul Frantz, STAB (hourly); Dallas Smith, IUE-CIO (appointee); Sylbert Heaston, FHP Broadway (hourly), H. B. Leach, Company (appointee), treasurer.

At the meeting, a nominating committee was appointed to set up a slate of officers to be elected at the next meeting. Members of this committee are Ivan Standish, chairman, Theron Kitchen and Robert Henry.

The administrators also reviewed the Fund's Constitution and the duties of the Board.

General Electric will give a 15 per cent bonus of the amount saved in G-E common stock if you buy bonds under the Savings and Stock Bonus Plan and leave the bonds on deposit for a five-year period.

Keith Steele has left us to work for Uncle Sam for awhile. Keith was given a pen and pencil set on his departure. . . . Helen LaRue and Agnes Neidffer are on our sick list. . . . Mary Cuellar, Blanche Mulligan, and Lou Heckman were lucky ones who won Thanksgiving turkeys. . . . We want to ask anyone having any animals they don't want to contact Mary Rose. Mary has a coon by the name of Wilbur. Mary is still waiting for a pet skunk. . . . Violet Renkenberger's son Jim spent the week-end home from Camp Breckenridge, Ky. . . . The music you heard the other evening was the G-E radio Lois Yager purchased for her husband's birthday. . . . Harley Springer celebrated his birthday a little early since he will be on vacation. Harley received an unusual birthday card and two cakes which were enjoyed by everyone. . . . Mabel Moser is grandmother of a bouncing granddaughter. We thought she seemed unusually happy. . . . We are happy to report that Ruth Raidy is home from the hospital. We are wishing a speedy recovery for her. . . . Poor Charlie Drury says Velora baked two cakes, and he didn't get any. The only thing we can say is that it wasn't your birthday, Charlie. . . . Helen Fraiser recently spent a day in Chicago shopping.

Vets Schedule Indiana Redbirds For Dance Dec. 7

Joe Taylor and the Indiana Redbirds will provide the music for the G-E War Veterans Association's Pearl Harbor Dance, Hugh Neely, entertainment chairman, announced this week. The informal dance will be held Friday, Dec. 7, from 9 to 12 p.m. at the Rhythm Ranch.

There will be both round and square dancing. Cake Walks will be conducted and refreshments will be served. Tickets for the dance, which is open to non-members, are 50 cents per person.

The Rhythm Ranch is located west of the city on the Miller Road.

Dr. B. L. Leming Joins Staff Of Medical Section Here

Dr. Ben L. Leming has joined the staff of the Medical Section, Dr. H. W. Garton, Works physician, announced this week. Dr. Leming replaces Dr. James A. Lemons, who joined the surgical staff of the Evangelical Hospital in Chicago.

Native of Indiana

A native of LaGrange county, Dr. Leming received his A.B. degree in zoology in 1939 at Indiana University. In 1942, he received his M.D. degree from the University's School of Medicine. After interning at the city hospital in Springfield, O. he entered the Air Force.

After serving as a captain in the armed forces for three years, Dr. Leming went to the Veterans Hospital, Buffalo, N. Y., in 1947. He completed three years of surgical residency there. He had one year of cancer surgery at the Roswell Park Institute in Buffalo.

In 1950, Dr. Leming came to Fort Wayne to open his offices in the Lincoln Tower. He is continuing his surgical practice, while serving part-time on G-E's medical staff. He is on the staffs of both the Methodist and Lutheran Hospitals.

New G-E Doctor

Surgery Board Member

Dr. Leming is a member of the American Board of Surgery, the American Medical Association and a junior member of the American College of Surgeons.

The Lemings and their two children live at 3005 N. Anthony Blvd.

Safety Men to Attend Foremen's Institute

Sixty-eight members of the General Works Safety Committee will attend the 11th Annual Foremen's Safety Institute at the Chamber of Commerce building, Thursday, Nov. 29.

Ned H. Dearborn, president of the National Safety Council, will be the featured speaker at the Institute. His topic will be "The Road Ahead."

Sam Baumgartner, Bldg. 27, and Harry Rohrbaugh, Bldg. 20-2, will receive Safety Ace Awards in recognition of their outstanding safety records with the Company. Foremen selected from other city industries will receive similar awards.

The following foremen, who were nominated for the award by Fort Wayne Works divisional safety committee chairmen, will also attend the banquet: A. F. Thieme, W. L. O'Brien, Clarence Gardt, Howard Ulrich, H. A. Hart, Ed David, Estel Grier and Carl Steinbacher.

Division safety chairmen from the Fort Wayne, Decatur, Danville, DeKalb and Tiffin plants will attend the meeting as will special representatives of the General Works Safety Committee.

Heart Ailment Fatal To L. J. Schnieders

Lawrence J. Schnieders, 47, died at 1:30 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 18, at St. Joseph Hospital. Death was caused by a coronary occlusion.

Mr. Schnieders came to the General Electric Company in 1920. At that time, he was a clerk in Bldg. 18-2. Two years later, he became a payroll auditor in the accounting department in the same building. In 1947, he moved to Bldg. 26-2, where he was named supervisor of general accounting. He held this position at the time of his death.

He was a member of the Quarter-Century Club and the G-E Supervisors' Club.

Surviving are his wife, one son, one daughter, a half-sister and a half-brother.

Funeral services were conducted Wednesday at the Getz & Cahill Funeral Home and St. Peter's Catholic Church. The V. Rev. Msgr. John A. Bapst officiated. Burial was in the Catholic Cemetery.

G-E GI's

Apprentice Grad in Service

Richard H. Wagner, now a private in the U. S. Army, graduated from the Apprentice School's machinist-toolmaker course before entering the service.

Pvt. Wagner came to General Electric in 1947. He worked as a cleaner in Bldg. 26-5 at that time. In 1948, he entered the Apprentice School. He was notified of his graduation, after he entered the armed forces last July.

In a letter to Walter Wolf, supervisor of the Apprentice School, Pvt. Wagner said he was very happy to receive notification of his graduation. He reported that he has completed his basic training and has been placed in an engineers training course.

His present address is:

Pvt. Richard Wagner
U. S. 55178745
Co. 8 44th A.I.B. C.C.A.
6th Armd. Div.
Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.

6-4 Airlines

by Andy Anderson

Welcome back to Betty Shanyfelt, who is returning to work from a sick leave. . . . Girls, have you had your treat from Bill Hostetler yet? Word has gotten out that while Bill is in his home town drug store for a soda, all the girls in Hicksville grab a straw and help him devour his own sodas. . . . Neat little trick if you plan it right—just pass your hand over the orange and there it is, all peeled and ready to eat. If you don't believe this little trick, just ask Martha Jesse. . . . Moe has picked up a new nickname after last Tuesday night, "Old Misery." . . . Free samples should be in order as The Great Chef, Pondo, was seen with a couple of pamphlets of fall recipes. . . . Didn't Ralph Lee look cute in his white suit and beating his little drum in the Armistice Day Parade? . . . Fred Szink's son is home from Korea. . . . A little late, but news was just received that Jackie Keller went trick or treating with the kids on Halloween. She dressed in long johns as a costume. . . . Girls, if you're looking for a trap to catch a man, try the method used by Thelma Purdue. It works. . . . A very useful gift was received by Ray Snyder from the girls in his section, a little hot water bottle. . . . Theresa Whitbey celebrated her daughter's 18th birthday. It is said she enjoyed it more than her daughter. . . . We have in our group, the E-J-V Decorators, who did a very good job at Kate's bench. . . . Why does Clark Stevens always go through a certain place in Bldg. 6-1 before reporting to his own floor. . . . There was debate as to what color of hair Joan Cramer has. My guess is "Strawberry Blonde." What's yours?

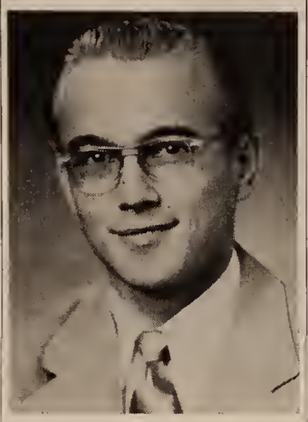
The BIG WIND

TAYLOR ST. DIVISION 17

Rachel Mowrey

Ruby Chrystler just doesn't know what she carries in her bag. Each time she dumps it, she finds something new. . . . "Aristocrat" Jerry McKown is back again. Why don't you trade two cars for one good one, Jerry. . . . Nora Dudgeon likes to work all by herself overtime, from what we hear. . . . Ernie Raypole gave blood the other day and they had to take him home in the ambulance, and still he brags. . . . Congratulations to Robert Bauer on his new boy. . . . Louise Beamer had her picture taken for 25 years employment. Did you smile, Louise? . . . We wish a speedy recovery to Elsie Logue. . . . We hear Joe Morris can remember incidents that happened to him when he was all of three years old. . . . Welcome back to Virginia Barrow. . . . Vera Flesher breaks eggs in the garbage disposal instead of a double boiler. She was really asleep. . . . Jean Young is so sleepy in the mornings, she tries putting the sink stopper on the tooth paste tube. . . . Lou Ann Engleman doesn't look at her stators very well from what we hear. But the right one always fits the machine, Lou Ann. . . . Red Hoffman has a new addition to her family, but this time it's a dog. . . . Loretta Day has finally learned to make candy, but she still hasn't convinced the little girl at the house to eat it. . . . Peg Ballinger had all the luck Thursday night in Bowling—winning the pot game, a chicken and her first 200 game. . . . While we're on the subject, ask Oscar Schelper how he can get four strikes in a row and still not get a 200. . . . Bob Boone is hunting a sleigh so he can rent it and his horse both out and make some of his money back. . . . Dallas Patten can't make R. Archer believe his story about all those rabbits in Roanoke, he says the picture was of a pussy cat.

It is not at all rare that a strong mind, like strong coffee, is bitter.



Paul E. Wuttke Completes Apprentice Course Today

Paul E. Wuttke graduated from the Apprentice School today as a machinist-toolmaker.

Mr. Wuttke attended South Side High School and came to the General Electric Company shortly after his graduation in June, 1943. In July of 1943 he entered the U. S. Marine Corps. He served at the University of Notre Dame, Parris Island, S. C., Camp Le-Jeune, N. C. and Camp Pendleton, Calif. followed by 18 months in Guam and Japan.

After Mr. Wuttke's discharge from the service, he came back to G-E as a punch press operator at Taylor St. He enrolled in the Apprentice School March 4, 1948.

Mr. and Mrs. Wuttke live on Meyer Rd.

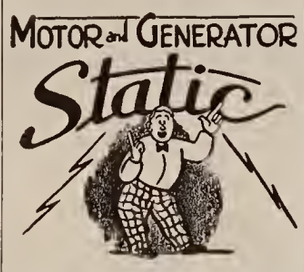
by ED ELLENBURG

There has been another new addition to the Koop family. This time it's a "Model A" Ford. Dick road-tested it and found it to be much faster than his Plymouth, so he took three weeks' pay, which amounted to $50, and bought the Ford. . . . The "Meeker Emergency Safety Pin Fund," to which everyone contributed so generously a few weeks ago, really saved the day for Homer Meeker last Friday. It makes a person stop and wonder if maybe the "Good Old Days" weren't really the good old days. . . . Dorothy Fett, after many attempts, finally succeeded in joining the L.A.A.O.T.W. Dick Arnold was the initiater this time. . . . When Harold Smith was asked did he "wanta spoon", he just blushed and replied, "no," because he didn't have anything to eat with it. . . . Jim Filhiker was on vacation last week. We all missed his booming laughter and his sunny smile (ugh!) . . . Bonnie Hull is getting to be quite a bowler. Last Thursday everyone at Key Lanes commented on her "pin action." This was especially true of A. J. Kazelis, the pro of Transformer Drafting. . . . We hear that Tony's new draft classification is "Class 3 Detailer." That's one I never heard of before. It must be something like Section 8. . . . I suppose that you have all heard of people getting "hot under the collar." Wendell Miller got so hot last week that part o fthe collar just disintgrated. The part that remained stuck out like a pair of buzzard wings. Poor Wendell didn't even dare venture forth to the cafeteria for fear of getting caught in a high wind. . . . Ralph Valentine must be a real Capitalist. He wears a hat for a few days and then throws it away. It sure must be nice to have that much money. When you get ready to throw away your old '51 Cadillac, Val, why don't you throw it my way? . . . Well, George is breathing down my neck, so I'd better get back to work. Just one more item. . . . Famous last words: "There will be plenty of rabbits around the first day of hunting season."



Thanksgiving 1951—is a thing of the past. Did you take time from your rush to find the many things there are to be thankful for? It really is never too late to be thankful for your blessings. . . . I liked the editorial in the News-Sentinel last week suggesting that we put Christ back in Christmas. If you didn't read it, look it up. . . . Birthdays—our congratulations to Otto Brunner and Dr. Garton, of Bldg. 21, and Darrel Williams, Bldg. 18-1, on their birthday anniversaries. . . . Nila Hansen of the Payroll group joined the Floorsitters club this week, but she would be different. She didn't just plain fall off a chair. She fell through a box in the addressograph room and graced the floor. Needless to say, her face was a little pink. . . . VACATIONS—Esther Sears, Bldg. 18-4, is spending this week in Chicago. Edna Miller, Bldg. 18-1, and Emily Guth, of Bldg. 21, are spending their third week doing their Christmas shopping early. . . . Mae Mulvane returned to work in Bldg. 21 following an absence of several weeks due to illness. . . . WONDER why Herschel Smith won't leave his hat in the General Service Office at Taylor St. anymore? I understand it was given very good care. . . . Helen Dafforn, Bldg. 18-1, celebrated her wedding anniversary this week. . . . Have you visited the Elex Menagerie in the Employee Store? They have barking dogs, strutting elephants, bears and donkeys to say nothing of DeMet's turtles—they are all for sale, too. . . . We are sorry to say "Goodbye" to Marian Davies, who has transferred to FHP Motor Sales and to Margaret Louise Hills, who has left the General Superintendent's office for employment down town. Berdell Smith has transferred from the Personnel Division to FHP Motor Central Planning. Our best wishes to you all. . . . Delbert Rehm returned Monday from his third week's vacation. . . . Congratulations are in order for Emily Guth of the Employment Office, who celebrated her 43rd anniversary of employment with the G-E Company last Saturday.

WITH G-E 35 YEARS—W. E. Moore (right), Bldg. 4-1, tallied 35 years at G-E this month. He is shown receiving congratulations from Maurice Humphrey and Donovan Garton.

38 YEARS SERVICE—Monday, Nov. 12, 1913, William Kohls started to work for G-E. Congratulations, Bill, on your 38 years of service. Hope to see you around here for a long time. Wonder how many will be able to match that service date? . . . Has anyone seen Elmer?—After a trip across the shop in search of Elmer Chase, George Buckley was flabergasted to find that "Whitey" Brokaw was the one that he had seen. Just a case of mistaken identity. . . . "ARIZONA KID:" Nile Butler is spending his vacation in sunny Arizona. . . . VACATIONING—Nothing special planned for Bill Dellinger's vacation, except just enjoying it to the fullest extent. . . . The sweetest music to the ears of Larry Franklin is the call of his hounds on the trail. His week will be spent listening to the yodeling of the hound pack. . . . Several other late-vacation-takers are Tibby Gehrig, Henry Dellinger, True Miller, Frank Bohnke, Clyde Beery, Erman Johnson, Kenneth Beard, and Marion Hoagland. . . . SYMPATHIES—To Phyllis Arnold on the death of her grandfather. . . . Also to Lloyd and Ivan Reynolds upon the death of their mother and sister-in-law. . . . BIRTHDAY GREETINGS — To Cecil Egly. Thanks for the candy, Cecil. . . . Beverly White wanted to know why she never had her name in the WORKS NEWS. Since Beverly has a birthday November 28th, we will try to accommodate her. So here we are, Bev, and we wish you best returns of the day. The next time you want your name in the news, just cry out. . . . Bernice Weisz is another gal who has a birthday coming up. Also Norma Bower will have a birthday on or about Jan. 12, 1952. So now you can shop for her persent early. . . . PREDICTIONS TO COME—I am so sorry and want to apologize to Ethel Hamrick for the things I said, but you know, Ethel, everybody can't be as good as Walter Winchell. Right? . . . THE HUNTING STORY BY ERNIE—Talk about hunting stories, Ernie Foreman tells the best one about a rabbit butting his head against a tree when he saw him. Then Ernie picked him up. Ha! By the way, Ernie and Miles Jones are contemplating going to Michigan deer hunting. When they go, I'll be sure to tell you all about it. . . . CONGRATS—Yes, its another tax exemption, a blue-bootied one, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Norb Hess. This makes three boys to the disappointment of Norb, who was wishing for a daughter. . . . ON THE SICK LIST—Dora Mae Fairchild is able to be out again after a session with the surgeon's knife. . . . Al Schneider returned to work after several days' illness. . . . Mary Ann Laurent also had some surgery done. Mary Ann is convinced now that wisdom teeth do not make you wise, but only give a lot of pain. . . . MAN'S BEST FRIEND—Have you a dog that can compare with the one owned by Homer Wise? The other morning Homer let his dog out of the house. In a matter of minutes he returned bringing home, not the bacon, but a package of ham. . . . EZRA BETTER WATCH OUT—"The only reason that they haven't been able to print anything about me is because they just haven't caught up with me," said Ezra. Seems as though we will have to watch and listen more closely from now on. . . . Anyone wishing information concerning the care of goats should contact Vida Lammert. Seems as though she even likes to furnish a heated shelter for her pets. . . . Stuck with her job, or is it the washers that always stick and cause Miriam Moore all that trouble? . . . Karl Schnepp is still on the search for a home. Come on you guys, help him out. . . . Barb Hurst is back on the winding machine again. Hi, Barb. . . . Ernie and Deola Foreman are the proud owners of a new Pontiac. . . . Dave Embler, the absent-minded professor of music, walked home in torrents of rain the other evening, only to find that he had left his car parked back in the G-E parking lot. . . . We heard from John Kable recently and he states that he is getting along just fine, but would enjoy hearing from all of his friends at G-E. He also said to tell everyone "Hello."

Thought For The Week—"Words are like sunbeams. The more they are condensed, the deeper they burn."—Robert Southey.

Sad: One of the saddest things in life is to see one of your old friends growing old. One day Roscoe Markley came running into the Paint Shop Office frantically searching for his glasses. After making several inquiries, it finally dawned on him that he had them on the bridge of his nose. . . . Excited: When receiving an order by phone from Philadelphia, Dorothy Anderson got so excited that she fell right off of her chair. What's the matter, Dorothy? . . . Electrical Genius: It is quite common now days to have women draftsmen and engineers, but now we have discovered an electrical genius in our Purchasing Section, Bldg. 31-1. Mabel Stovall has now decided it is impossible to operate her Comptometer without plugging it into the electric outlet. She had quite a time one day last week trying to operate same. Finally reported it would not run, called Mr. McNiece. Yes, you guessed it, all that had to be done was to plug it into the electric outlet. . . . Don't Forget: There are only 25 shopping days until Christmas. . . . News Flash: We feel sure that the friends of R. A. (Bob) Jellison, Bldg. 6-2, would like to know that he took unto himself a bride, Saturday, Nov. 19. The happy couple are residing at 1237 W. Packard Ave. Congratulations, Bob. . . . Lucky: Madonna Bailey, Bldg. 31-1, is indeed fortunate. Several times during the past week due to the cold spell, her car froze into the ground. Fortunately four or five of her girl friends were near each time this happened and helped Madonna push the car from the frozen spot. John Rogers now tells us that the car was not frozen to the ground, it was simply fastened to a wad of gum. Been out of town lately, Madonna? . . . Habit: Man is a creature of habit. Frank Rathert has of late been misplacing or losing his key ring and keys. In the past few weeks the keys have been missing on three occasions when Mr. Rathert desired to enter his home. On the first occasion he located an unlocked window and discovered a chair was directly below the window. Frank crawled through the opening over the chair into the room. The second time his entry was engineered in the same manner. By this time habit had taken charge of his actions. On the third occasion he went through the same process of gaining entrance. He raised the window, crawled through expecting to contact the chair (which someone had moved) and completed a one point landing with his nose on the floor. Mr. Rathert now displays a skinned proboscis and bad disposition when anyone mentions the affair. By the way, perhaps you have noticed Frank sags to one side. The reason may be the 18 keys he carries on his ring and which he claims are all in daily use. . . . Jealous: Ed Foley, the division editor, is in our estimation a "stinker." Just because "Old Poison Pen" took a well-deserved vacation last week, Ed spread misleading propaganda in this column. He used such terms as "old man," feeble, far gone, etc. Anyone seeing Mr. Foley can readily understand his jealousy of our youthful bounce, vigor and vitality. . . . Help: Walter Comelius has adopted another hobby. This time it is watches and clocks and repair equipment for these items. While this column does not ordinarily advertise individuals desires or wishes, we promised Walter we would bring his needs to your attention. He will appreciate any donation you make. . . . We welcome to Bldg. 31-1 Norma Markley, Blueprint.

SHIPPING: Attention: Mrs. Oberwitte we are getting our Christmas cookie order in early so you won't be rushed. No need to worry about looks, just quantity. . . . WEDDING CONGRATULATIONS to Bob Jellison and his new bride. . . . 'Twas sure nice to see our genial pensioner, Buck Buchanan, when he dropped in for an unexpected visit last week. We'll be looking for you more often, Buck. . . . The game wardens have been mystified by the sudden shortage of rabbits in the northern Indiana area since the tenth and we have discovered the reason. It's Dutch (make more room in the deep freeze Mom) Wilson. He had his third week's vacation last week and man, what a haul! . . . We have a mystery. Anyone furnishing information leading to the discovery of the artist in Bldg. 26-2 (the kilroy and company artist, that is) will be amply rewarded. Very clever with a pencil this person. . . . RECEIVING: Dale Porsch has received his discharge and is back to work in Bldg. 6-3. Dale has just completed fifteen months service in the Naval Reserve. . . . Notice to "Decaturites"—Dewain Freshwater lays claim to the title of mayor of Middlebury. Please, let us not have any argument on the subject. We should all get behind Dewain and—Oh! Oh! Put down that ball bat. You, too, Cleva. . . . Grab your partners, one and all. Johnny is about to call. John Brothers is on vacation this week, and will spend three of those days at Evansville attending the square dance institute sessions. . . . Who was that certain party that Bob Kurtz was holding hands with last week? . . . Amos Trowbridge went hunting last week-end and the sad refrain was, "No, dear. No deer."

WHAT TYPE OF ADVERTISING, IF ANY, INFLUENCES YOU MOST IN YOUR SHOPPING?

JERRY REAGAN

Bldg. 26-4

"Quality speaks for itself. If I want something, I buy it. Advertising does not enter the picture."

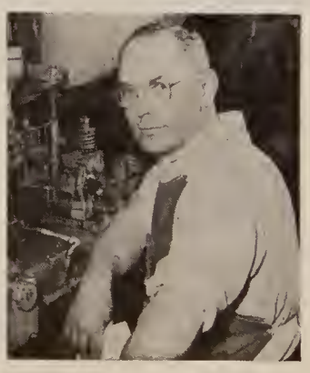
TOM WELLS

Bldg. 8-1

"Newspaper advertising is the most beneficial to me in shopping. This form of advertising gives shoppers all the brands and enables them to compare prices."

JUANITA SHAFFER

Bldg. 27



"The type I look for is something that catches the eye, is appealing, brief and to the point. I am attracted to advertising that is honest in its statements."

DOROTHY RAUCCI

Bldg. 17-4

"A combination of newspaper advertising and window displays influence me most. By means of newspaper advertising, my interest is created as to the article's style, quality and price. By means of window displays, the article is actually observed."

EVERETT McKEE

Taylor St.

"Newspaper or window advertising might occasionally influence me in the selection of articles I buy. Otherwise, I usually decide what I need and buy it without much thought of the advertisement."

G-E Benefit Policy Revised For Service-Bound Employees

General Electric's policy covering employees entering the Armed Forces has been revised to comply with the Universal Military Training and Service Act of June 19, 1951, improving several benefits, primarily those concerning continuity of service.

Although the changes in the new Act are now incorporated in General Instruction No. 7.15, which summarizes the benefits, General Electric has been voluntarily following these new provisions in its policy toward employees entering the Armed Forces.

The major change grants a leave of absence and re-employment protection to an employee during the period he is being processed by his particular branch of the Armed Forces.

Leave After Release

The leave of absence period not only covers the time the employee is being processed or performing training duty, but for an additional 30 days after being released. After being released from any training duty, or if the employee is rejected for any physical reasons, he has 30 days in which to make application for reinstatement to his former position. If application is made within 30 days, reinstatement is made without reduction in seniority, status or pay except as such reduction may be made for all employees.

6,534 In Armed Forces

There were 6,534 General Electric and affiliated company employees serving in the Armed Forces as of September 30, according to a recent announcement made in Schenectady.

Under the section on continuity of service, the Company had anticipated the new provision under the Military Act of 1951. In 1950, the Company's General Instruction made a provision for a leave of absence for enlistees and reservists called to active duty for a period of four years or involuntary extension, plus 90 days in which to make application for re-employment. This provision is now mandatory under the law, although it has been a part of the Company's policy for sometime.

Increased Leave

The new Act also increased the period of a leave of absence for inductees from 21 to 24 months and involuntary extension, plus the 90-day period for re-employment application.

The revised General Instruction continues the same benefits regarding vacations, military bonus, Savings and Stock Bonus Plan, Pension and Insurance Plan.

Employees entering the Armed Forces, who have completed one year's continuous service, will be entitled to one month's full salary, for salaried employees, and the equivalent of one month's pay for hourly rated employees in the same manner as vacation pay is determined.

Employees who are eligible for and who have not taken their vacation for the calendar year may receive the full vacation pay allowance for which they are qualified by length of service at time of leaving for the Armed Forces.

Keep Insurance

All employees entering the Armed Forces are entitled to keep their G-E Life Insurance in force for a period of 120 days at the normal premium cost. Sickness and accident, hospital and surgical benefits will be discontinued at the end of the period for which normal contribution for these coverages have been made.

Employees may continue their MBA Dependent Coverage for one year, upon payment at regular intervals of the required premiums.

Contributions to the Pension Plan will cease, however employees will receive "credited service" as defined in the Pension Plan for the period of their service in the Armed Forces subsequent to July 1, 1950. Such "credited service" will be granted only to those employees who were eligible to contribute and who were contributing to the Plan prior to entering the Armed Forces or those who had not completed the one year of continuous service which is required for participation in the Plan. In the latter cases "credited service" shall date from the time the employee would have become eligible to participate in the Plan.

Savings Plan

Subscriptions to the Savings and Stock Bonus Plan by participating employees will cease when the employee leaves the payroll. Series E Bonds purchased under the Plan may be withdrawn or they may be allowed to remain on deposit for the five year period as described under the Plan. For those Bonds remaining in the Plan, the employee will receive a 15 per cent bonus in G-E Stock. Employees who withdraw their Bonds before the five year period expires are not entitled to the 15 per cent stock bonus.

The revised policy of Company benefits for employees entering the Armed Forces are contained in General Instruction No. 7.15 dated at Schenectady, Oct. 8, 1951.

I was asked to write a poem
About Thanksgiving Day,
"I'll try, but I'm not a poet,"
Was all that I could say.

We all have much to be thankful for;
Each to show in his own way,
Our health, our wealth, and freedom, too,
On this Thanksgiving Day.

So enjoy yourself and all have fun,
Bud don't forget to say,
"We thank Thee, Lord, for all we have This Thanksgiving Day."

The ahs and ohs in the main winding section were over the beautiful diamond worn by Loraine Brown. Best wishes. . . . A little gal in three-cornered pants, Diana Lynn, is the new boss at the Everett and Janice Bohde Keller home. The mamma is a former co-worker. The proud new grandma is Edith Bohde. . . . Congratulations to Margaret Monnot for being with the Company 25 years. . . . Alberta Foulks gets so excited about Christmas. She thinks the Elex toys are so cute and if she can get enough animals by Christmas, she can have a circus. . . . Edith Childers was pleasantly surprised to have her son come home from Japan. . . . Glad to see Eva Fisher and Lucy Alexander back in the groove. . . . Birthday greetings to Ivah Grandstaff and Helen Platt. . . . Violet Brower was heard giving a sales talk. She was trying to sell a small puppy. She said, "They are so cute. All white with a black patch over one eye and five black feet." Leona Hollis got one of them, but she says it didn't have five black feet. . . . In their conversation, Luella Masson and Ivah Grandstaff agreed that there is about as much difference between "day and night" as there is between "night and day." . . . Leila Doehrman and Ferbie Maggard paid us a visit last week. . . . We welcome all our newcomers. Hope you like us. . . . The sons of Ivah Mullins and Walter left for service with Uncle Sam. . . . Attention Mr. Ripley: Harold Kiel says the wind was blowing so hard down Greenlawn Ave. a week ago Tuesday night that a hen caught in the downwind laid the same egg seven times. Some wind!

Robert Dent is in the St. Joseph hospital for observation and we hope that by the time you read this, he will be up and around again. . . . Evelyn Scheuman is moving her hands around real pretty these days. The reason—a diamond on the right finger. . . . Wonder what Walter Kryder said to his wife the other night, by way of explaining the perfume on his shirt. . . . Welcome to Howard Reinking, who is taking Paul Clendenen's place as supervisor of Wage Rate in our office. Paul is leaving us to take up duties at Taylor St. We are sorry to see you go, Paul. . . . Eleanor Bolenbaugh is strutting her stuff with her new Plymouth car. . . . Harold Hohman says that if anyone gives him a chair for Christmas, they had better start running. Harold is on jury duty now and it is a little hard on the seat of the trousers. In fact, he is standing up to eat for a while.

A short week, so we have a short column. Yet it is long enough to tell you that Bob Hirschman has purchased a new home. . . . With his television set, Bob should find it easy to get acquainted with his neighbors. . . . Bob Benz and Paul Weaver have one thing in common. They both had car accidents with their aged cars. . . . Ross Cohagen leaves tomorrow on a trip to his favorite vacationing spot — California. . . . Though he may not admit it, Ralph Van Asdale is a clever cartoonist. Have you seen his picture of "butterball" now adorning Clarence Wiebke's tool box? . . . Belated birthday greetings to Ed Stahl and Helma Conrad. . . . Clarence Mecks is taking this week for a much needed vacation. . . . Don Martz came to work in a hurry Friday morning and forgot to leave the lattice door unlatched for the grocery boy. A quick trip home, however, kept Don out of that proverbial dog house. . . . We say good luck and come back again to Edythe Gordon, who has now resumed her role of housewife. . . . Mart Walsh went to the dentist's office with Joe Mettler to help him home after he had some extractions. We understand the dentist got Mart in the chair by mistake and attempted to extract Mart's best teeth before Joe could stop him. . . . Volleyball proved to be a rough game for Don Alcott. He suffered a sprained ankle in last week's league play. . . . Merv Lowden is organizing a Zollner Piston party among the fellows. We understand he has 25 already to take in the New York game. The Zollner board of strategy Guy Wagner, Bob Truelove, Woody Hursh, Don Alcott have agreed to attend. . . . Adahleen Lewis blushed when someone called her a farmer, but says she is proud of it. However, she refuses to learn to milk or to slop pigs. . . . Jim and Jean, the Ehresman twins, have been doing all their playing in the spacious Ehresman basement. Jim claims it is much easier to keep his double trouble in line than when they are outside. . . . Bill Mowry opened the coon season last week by bagging two of the fellers. Anyone interested in eating a coon see Bill or Swede Mosser.

He has half the deed done who has made a beginning.

Stormy Weather

FROM 17-4

By Betty Gentile

Listen, my children, and you shall hear
Of plans for our Christmas Party this year.
The Southwest Conservation Club, the eighth of December
Is the place and time you'll want to remember.
So to the party let's go and have fun galore
With all the gang from 17-4.

WE POINT WITH PRIDE TO: Charles Crankshaw, who recently was presented a silver tree containing 20 silver dollars from Boy Scout Troop No. 5, in appreciation of his 20 year's service of working with cubs and scouts. . . . "LOOK MA, I'M DANCING!": Eligible Earl Sweeney, a second-shifter, is reputed to be a star Arthur Murray pupil. . . . A HUNTING WE WILL GO: Bill Geist is handy with a "corn planter" (shot-gun to you). He and his son, Sam, bagged the bunny limit the opening day of the hunting season. . . . WEDDING BELLE: That beam of light shining on our floor is Mary Burkholder, who will become the bride of Roger McWilson, of Bldg. 20-2, December 1. . . . HAVING A WONDERFUL TIME: Virginia Harris, former employee, writes to tell us that the trailer business is flourishing. She was digging and the light pole had to have a guy on it. She had to bury a dead man and run galvanized wire to the pole. Now we're wondering if Virginia is running a mortuary or a trailer camp. . . . CALLING DOCTOR LAUER: We have DE's and DR's and now we have a DO. (Doctor of Obstetrics.) Bob Lauer recently won a race with a stork. . . . HAPPY BIRTHDAY: Blanche Allen celebrated her birthday last week. With all the gifts cluttering up her desk, we thought for a moment that Santa had paid her an early visit. . . . The office force looks turkey-fed today. They had a turkey dinner with all the trimmings Wednesday in the office and most of them had the same menu on Thanksgiving Day at home.

It seems that Clarence Watterson is unfamiliar with voting machines. Either that, or he never voted before, which we think is not the case. Nevertheless, he spent two hours studying intricacies of said machines. When he went to the polls to vote, he pulled the wrong lever, blaming the error on his new bifocals. There is one bright spot on his horizon however, now that the political picture has changed in the city, he is hopeful that the authorities will let him fish unmolested in the Lakeside Park Lagoons. . . . During the past week Elmer Pion was supposed to have gone moose hunting on an island in Lake Superior and was promising a lot of his co-workers a feast of delicious moose steak. During the course of the week, Basil Bowley received a post card from him. The picture thereon was of an island where the big moose slay was taking place. Turning the card over, Basil noticed that the post mark read Angola, Ind. . . . George Cowan, our erstwhile "Paul Bunyan," is now coaching Clarence Stove in the art of ju-jitsu and acrobatics. Now, Clarence, being an apt pupil, has made great progress in the former of the two accomplishments. Acrobatics is just a little difficult for him due to his advanced age, he has become quite proficient in the feat of standing on his head. . . . Last Saturday morning Harold Hart accompanied by Ora Goff took off for the wilds around South Whitley to hunt rabbits. They separated, agreeing to meet at a pre-determined spot; that is, if they had any luck. In a short time, Ora had bagged five. Harold showed up in a short time without any and was not a little irked when he viewed Mr. Goff's five bundles of speed meat. So, Harold took off again in another direction, descending into a small valley. Presently Ora heard five shots in rapid succession. He said that it sounded like Harold was using a sub-machine gun. In a short while he appeared upon the scene with one rabbit minus its head. As the hour was growing late and the two of them were tired out, they decided to call it quits. Although Harold was a little dejected at having only one bunny, Ora raised his drooping spirits by presenting him with two of his.

ROLLS UP 35 YEARS—Herbert A. Franke (seated), Bldg. 4-2, celebrated 35 years with General Electric Wednesday, November 14. Giving him their good wishes are (l-r) A. R. Hall, George Langenberg, Joe Trentaduc, H. G. Siebold and Mart Brindle. Mr. Franke is a dispatcher.

Question:

What per cent of money is given the employees of the General Electric Company on the amount of money they have accumulated in the Additional Pension Plan. The employees are privileged to leave this money with the Company and draw interest from it. I have been told that it would be better to draw the money out and invest it in Government Bonds, as more interest would be realized.

Answer:

On Nov. 30, 1948, the Chairman of the Board of Trustees of General Electric Additional Pension Trust sent a letter to participants in the Plan stating, among other things, that in view of the liquidation of G-E Employees Securities Corporation (in which the greater part of the funds of the Trust had been invested), the Trustees "anticipate investing the funds of the Trust in United States Government Bonds or other high grade securities, consistent with prudent investment principles where the safety of the principal is the primary consideration. The rate of income earned on investments will therefore be substantially lower than in the past and, on the basis of current yields from government securities, will probably be reasonably commensurate with the rate of interest paid on savings bank accounts."

During the past 2½ years income has been credited as follows on the accumulations of participants:

1949	1.85%
1951	1.02% (first 6 months)

It should be remembered that if an active employee withdraws his accumulation under the Plan, the entire amount of income that has been credited on his accumulation over the years becomes taxable as ordinary income for Federal income tax purposes.

Q. Does electricity flow completely through a wire, or only on the surface?

A. With direct current, the flow steadily in one direction, it is conducted through the center of the wire as well as the surface layers. This is true of alternating current, which flows first one direction, then the other, when the rate of change is relatively low. But with higher frequencies, of millions of times per second, there is the "skin effect." Magnetic forces, cause a repulsion between the unit charges. They try to get as far away from each other as possible, thus going along the surface. For such high frequencies, therefore, a tube is as good a conductor as a solid wire.

Q. Do the seasons always begin on the same day of the year?

A. No, they do not. The seasons are usually considered as quarters of the year, marked by the vernal equinox, the summer solstice, the autumnal equinox and the winter solstice. These are determined by various positions of the Sun in its apparent annual movement about the sky (actually the result of the Earth's movement about the Sun). In 1950 the vernal equinox (beginning of spring in the northern hemisphere) came on March 20, but in 1946 and 1947, by eastern standard time, it came on March 21. By the middle of the 21st century, it will frequently come as early as March 19, though at the beginning of the 22nd century it will come on the 21st once more.

Q. Is there a loss of vitamin C in frozen orange juice?

A. There is essentially no loss of vitamin C in concentrated frozen orange juice, as now marketed by the major producers. Reliable studies indicate that a good manufacturing process protects at least 90 per cent of the initial vitamin content. The dilution ratio recommended is such that the final result can be considered practically the equivalent of the original product.

Keep Healthy—Comfortable—Happy and You Won't Catch Cold (Maybe!)

It's that time again, and the odds are 90 to 1 that before very long you're going to be a sneezing, sniffling victim of the Nation's No. 1 disease—the Common Cold. What! You never catch cold? Well, either you're mighty lucky or you just aren't human. (Our apologies to all chimpanzees or orangutans who may be reading this. Science says they're the only animals besides man who can catch the common cold!)

Over the years one survey after another has piled up plenty of proof that up to 94 per cent of the population comes down with a cold in any given year. And as though that weren't bad enough, the pollsters point out that two out of every three people have not one, not two, but THREE colds a year—and two out of eight have FOUR colds in a twelve-month period! Lest you get completely discouraged and refuse to read further, let us say right here that some people are less likely candidates for the sniffle-sneeze brigade than others. For example, after peering down the nation's throat at periodic intervals, the aforementioned survey experts passed along the interesting news that

(a) people in the country catch more colds than their city cousins

(b) youngsters under ten years old are the most susceptible age group

(c) the twenty to twenty-nine age group is least susceptible

(d) the fair sex are half again as likely to catch cold as their boyfriends

(e) fat people have fewer colds than lean ones

(f) lower income groups have more colds than the well-to-do

(g) workers in vinegar factories and war gas plants seem to be pretty much ignored by the cold bug.

Geography plays a part, too, they say. Colds are slightly more prevalent in the West Central states—with the Far West and Pacific Coast next, and New England and the Middle Atlantic states not far behind.

Why you catch cold is something else again—and it's a real medical teaser. The problem all seems to hinge on, of all things, the definition of a cold. Now there are colds and colds some are and some aren't—and just because your nose and eyes are running and you're racked by coughs and sneezes, you may be suffering from a "reasonable facsimile," and not the real thing at all! Whuddoo we bead? Well, it's been pretty well established that the real McCoy—a genuine cold—is an ailment caused by a virus (or perhaps several viruses), a tiny particle so small that it cannot be trapped in the finest laboratory filter nor seen in the most powerful microscope. This invisible trouble-maker travels around on a sneeze, a cough, and even bits of conversation. One of its favorite means of transportation is a kiss. In fact, the virus's methods of getting around from one piece of dirty work to another are practically limitless.

Cold Defined

But to get back to the problem of defining a "cold." Besides the bona fide virus-caused cold, there seem to be other conditions which look for all the world like the real thing, but are what doctors call "mechanical upsets." Further investigation shows that these may be brought on by strained emotions—worry, unhappiness, mental conflicts, financial concerns, unrequited love, dissatisfaction with your job, spouse, or next door neighbor. Avoiding this kind of "cold" is easy—just get yourself into a happy frame of mind and stay that way. If you can't manage this feat yourself, then get some counsel and guidance from an expert in mental and emotional problems. Science has proved beyond a question that an unhealthy condition of the mind can be the same cause of many a bodily ailment.

But what about the happy, well-adjusted person whose troubles are caused by the cold bug itself? How to foil the virus?

Right here we might as well let it be known that, again this year as in the past couple of thousand years, no one has found the perfect answer. There is, at the time this is written, no sure-fire method of preventing the common cold. Many things have been found which will either prevent or cure colds for everybody every time. In spite of the promise of such past discoveries as penicillin, sulfa, aureomycin, vaccines, gamma globulin, antihistamines, and a score of other compounds, none has proved to be the answer to downing the common cold.

The best recommendation still is to avoid the cold in the first place. How? First of all, by staying away from anyone who already is in the throes of a cold. Even close-range conversation with such a person is an appealing invitation to the cold bug to fly over and pay you a visit.

Tip-Top Shape

Second, keep yourself in good general physical condition. This simply means doing what you've been told to do all your life—eat the right foods, and get enough exercise, plenty of sunshine and fresh air, and sufficient sleep.

Third, don't do the things that apparently lower your resistance to cold infection. Don't get overtired. Don't get chilled; don't sit around in drafts or while wearing wet clothing. Do dress properly for the weather—warm clothing, boots, rubbers, overshoes, rain gear when cold or wet weather is the order of the day. It's a lot smarter to be caught with an umbrella in the sunshine than it is to be caught in a downpour in your Sunday-go-to-meeting clothes and a thin pair of shoes.

When you figure that the average cold costs you $25 in medical expenses and lost pay, even a sixth-grader can see that it's cheaper to buy yourself a raincoat and a pair of rubbers—and to wear them when you need them!

And last, but not least, don't overlook the possibility of the "cold" that's a mechanical upset. Keep happy — and you'll keep healthier.

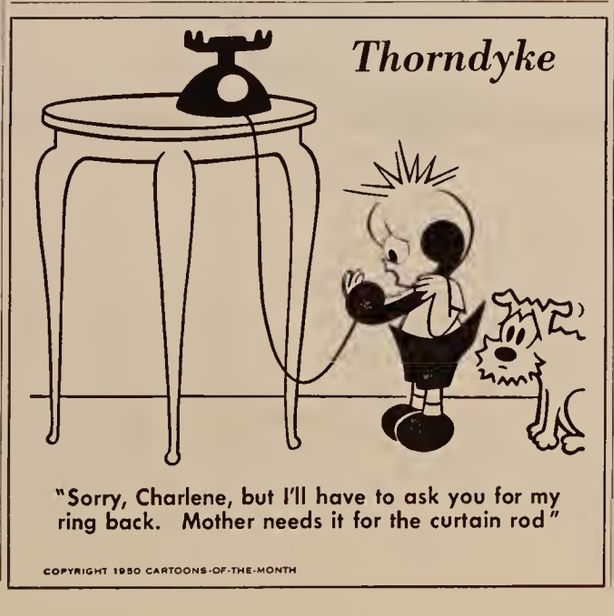
Of course, we all know about those "best laid plans of mice and men" which occasionally turn around and slap us in the face. It's a cinch that the mouse isn't going to catch cold, but you may—no matter how careful you are to follow the "prevention" rules. What then?

THEN—we come to the one bright spot in this dismal story—then, you do nothing. Yes, nothing—unless you call sleeping "doing something".

Sleep-Sleep-Sleep

When you catch a cold, you just crawl into your nice warm bed and stay there. Sleep as much as you like, listen to the radio, read, relax, and keep warm and comfortable. Your only exertion—besides mopping your nose, of course—should be to partake freely of liquid refreshment — water, fruit juices, soups, eggnogs—and to eat some light nourishing food whenever it is presented to you. Pills, tonics, powders? Well, if you can't resist a raid on the medicine chest, have a disinterested party read carefully the directions on the bottle and administer the contents accordingly. None we know will cure the cold, though some may relieve the cold symptoms which are causing you misery. However, most doctors agree that a little "cold treatment" medicine goes a long way and that most cold sufferers dose themselves too much.

The ordinary garden-variety of cold should last only a few days. If it doesn't improve in a reasonable length of time, if you have chills or pain in the chest, if you run a fever for more than 24 hours, or if you cough up blood or rust-colored sputum—get the doctor to your bedside in a hurry. These may be warning signs that your common cold is giving way to something less common but much more serious — pneumonia, bronchitis, pleurisy, tuberculosis or several other more complicated and dangerous diseases.



The common cold in itself is no more than a public nuisance. But it doesn't stop there. A cold can lower your resistance to a number of serious diseases, it can raise havoc with chronic conditions of the heart and other organs, and it can lead the way to irreparable damage to your system. How to treat a cold? Treat it with respect, my friend—improperly treated, a cold can start a lot of trouble!

"Of course, you folks know I collect salt and pepper shakers for my home, but I also collect something else you can't borrow, steal, buy or trade in when they get old—that's friends. Thanks a million gang for the lovely birthday gifts. Kay Dolan." . . . Who was it who asked how many candles on Clara's cake? It had to have some decorations on it, and just how many is between the candles and—take a deep, deep breath—Clara.

INFORMAL: Carl Mann broke a glass window ventilator while opening a window near Jake's desk. There are no windows where Carl works. Maybe he went wild at the sight of a window. . . . DUET: If either Harold Buck or Don Miller wanted to use the phone last week, it took both to do it. One did the talking while the other stood a short distance away to hold down a floor channel and ground the circuit. . . . IN HARNESS: Dent Manecke is back after an overhauling by a surgeon. The Doc must have done a good job. . . . HURRY BACK: We hope by the time this is seen in print, Don Reek will be out of the hospital and taking life easy in his home, recuperating from a recent sojourn in the Methodist hospital. Wasn't it nice to have all the pretty nurses waiting on you, Don? Hope you will be back with us soon. . . . NEW HOUSE: Paige Thompson moved to his brand new home on 4740 Forest Avenue Ext. last Friday, Nov. 16. . . . TOYS: The demonstration of toys in Bldg. 4-6 purchased from the Elex stand in the Employees Store should boost the sales considerably. Elephants rumbling along, big bears growling and stalking, donkeys winking and colorful merry-go-rounds. It's really worth your while to visit the Elex stand. They also have lovely large story books for children. . . . CONGRATS: Happy birthdays to K. W. (Bill) Manecke, Nov. 25, and Stan Tomkinson, Nov. 29; also to C. J. Herman, Nov. 15. . . . 25 YEARS AGO: Both Cecil Harrod and Chris Flanigan received their 25-year pins. By the way, what happened the day you got your picture taken, Chris? . . . Paul Motter is taking his vacation next week, lucky man. . . . LAST THOUGHT: Hope you have all recovered from your Thanksgiving Dinners and that you have recovered your appetites for lunch today. How about a nice helping of turkey?

INTERDIVISION BASKETBALL

by Ray Quinn

Last Thursday saw the balance of the league in action for the first time. Motor Generator and Taylor St. played the opener — Taylor St. winning the game 37 to 35 when Butler, the spark plug of their attack, sunk a basket with about 15 seconds to go.

Small Motors, a team composed mostly of veterans of former years, toppled Transformer 49 to 35.

The Squares, a team that didn't lose a game last year, got off on the right foot by trimming the Ballast men 59 to 31. Gil Carl was top point man with eight baskets and two free throws. Chet Krasienko was right behind him with 16 points.

The Ballast Team has the man power and needs only a couple of good practices to polish their attack and set up their defense.

The Mysterious Keghead Kegler

Joe Keeps Check on Bowlers In Weekly Sports Column

The man with the fiendish gleam in his eye in the above photograph is the man behind "Keghead Kegler." He is Joe Kramer, Bldg. 4-5, who began writing the column in September.

Joe keeps us up to date on bowling events with the data he receives from the secretaries of all the leagues.

Besides recording bowling scores, he helps to boost the Planning team average in the Small Motor league. He also serves as secretary of this league.

Not confining his sports participation to the indoors, Joe enjoys tennis and squirrel hunting.

He likes to spend his spare moments taking pictures and developing them in his darkroom.

Joe has been with the Company for 11 years. He is a cost reduction representative for FHP Div. 15.

Arnold Bienz has a friend with two little boys ages two and four. The little four-year-old was saying the Lord's Prayer before he went to bed, and when he came to the part of "give us this day our daily bread" the little two-year-old said, "I want jelly bread." . . . Bill Morton got four rahbits the first day of hunting, but did you hear how many times he shot before he got the four? E. Gilliam got skunked; John Walters got one, Herbie Jehl, two. The fellows said they would have been up to their predictions, only, there weren't any rabbits. They were telling me that Bill Morton went squirrel hunting one time, and Bill shot at the squirrel 12 times and there sat Mr. Squirrel. So Bill said, "give me time and I'll fill him so full of lead he won't be able to sit much longer." . . . Margaret Parisot won a chicken bowling last Monday night. Not bad for a new bowler. . . . Ed Bowser would like to put a bug in Santa's ear to bring Paul Winters a paring knife, so he won't have to keep his eye on his. Seems Paul always admires the one on Ed's work bench. . . . Betty Skevington and Gus Erxleben were in to see us last week, and they both looked swell. . . . Who put the "No Visitors" sign on Mildred Hoover's work table? We are wondering if Howard Mills is behind in the race. . . . What is this we hear about L. Radamaker having the skin of a 20-year-old boy? Could it be the soap you are using, or the soft soap you pass out. . . . E. Gilliam who lives in the country, thought he heard a fire siren one evening. He jumped in his car and started to go out the driveway, when he discovered that the siren he heard was a hound dog howling. . . . December 22 is the Section Christmas party, so keep that date open.

TEAM CAPTAINS TO MEET

A meeting of the team captains of the Girls' Friday night bowling league has been scheduled for this evening at 7:15 p.m. in the G-E Club lounge, according to an announcement made by Iris Hebble, president of the league.

The winners of chickens in the Apparatus League had to go all out to win. Of the six chicken winners, five bowlers had games over the 200 mark.

Louie Stoak, with a 132 average, hit the pins for a 219 game and a chicken. Jim Ehresman won a chicken. Jim had a 202. George Horner rolled a 230 and won a chicken. Bob Stute kegled a 231 for a chicken. Ted Wilcoxson won a chicken, and you can guess the last winner—none other than Paul (win a chicken or don't eat) Billue. Paul had to strike out to win, but he did it.

Ed Bienz rolled a 202, which was not enough to get Ed a chicken. Worthy of mention, although it happened a week ago, is Walt Miller's 220 game. Walt has a 112 average, and this is his first double century score. Team No. 11 is in first place with 23-7 and followed by team No. 2 with 19-11.

In the Ladies' Thursday Owl League Burt's Restaurant is still leading the league with 19 wins and two losses. The Swifty Connett team is coming up fast and are only two games behind, having won 17 games and losing only four. The alleys proved a little rough for the girls, and high scores were not too plentiful. Delores Lee had a 133 for high single and Viola McKee had high three games with 362.

Masonic League

Doric team is leading the league with 19 wins and 8 losses. In second place are the Corinthian with 15-12. Members in the double century include Somerville, 225; Larson, 222; Bickhart and Gidley, with 213; Henrichs, 211; Strahlem, 208; Peters and Schaberg, each with a 202. Chicken winners were Gidley, Somerville, Bickhart, Nichols, Geiger and Schwartz.

Small Motor

The race for the league leader is narrowing down. The Tool team is out in front with a 20 won, 10 loss record. In second place is the Office team with 19 and 11, and third place is held down by the Contributing team with an 18 and 12 record. Four teams are tied for the next position with 16 won and 14 lost—Models, Dubs, Drafting and the slow-starting Planning team.

The alleys were good to the boys from the looks of the double century counts: Walt Whonsetler, 200 and 201; Carl Brandt, 202 and 203; Ray Wheeler, 202 and 226; Walt Kammeyer, 204 and 212; A. Koorsen, 223; Ed Bauer, 205; Hank Vance, 224; and Ed (Rocket Arm) Bowser, 201. Jim Daley had his run of splits, collected 11 in two games. Jim made the 6-7-10. He said he should be able to—he had had enough practice. Corky Smith converted the 3-7-10 split and won a chicken, too. Other chicken winners were Norman Herstad, Ray Wheeler, Ed Bauer, Walt Whonsetler, and Ed Klage.

Ladies' Thursday Owl League

Burt's Restaurant is still leading the league, followed closely by Swifty Connet. High games were rolled by Tommy Williams, 193; Florence Choka, 188, and Ann Lee, 187. No high three games reported for this week.

Monday Office

The Amplidynes are still out in front with a record of 23 wins and 10 losses. Close on their heels comes the Drafting team with only 11 losses and 22 wins. In third place, and not to be counted out, is the Aircraft team with a 21 won and 12 loss standing. Ern Aumann had a big night with games of 201, 189, and a 224, to total 614 for the night's effort. Bill Piercy collected a 222, Dick Gettys, 204; Ed France, 209; Wendell Miller, 203; Carl Hattendorf, 201, and Don Waldorf, 201. The Reproduction team was really kegling, having a 1022 single high game and a big 2912 three game series.

Monday Night Ladies

The Pepperettes are still out in front with a record of 25 wins and eight losses. It is still pin and pin, or rather game and game, between the Sugar Bowlers and Alley-Gators. They both have season records of 20 wins and 13 losses. Dorothy Fuhs rolled a 171 count, and Ester Muzzillo kegled a 174 count.

In the Monday night league, Flanges copped two from Packers, and Office took three from Stators. Bob Lord kegled a 614 on counts of 193, 177, and 244. G. Laurent had games of 229, 195, and 192 for a total of 616. Bob Sheets scored a 217, Roger Schuster, a 202, and Ken Jackson had a 220 count to round out the evening bowling.

In the G-E Fraternal league, G-E Club took two from West End, and Elks beat K. of C. in three games. A 612 was registered by Petrie on games of 213, 223, and 176. The pins were toppling, and P. Hoffman's 257 was high single for the night. Zelt kegled a 234; Cook, 210; Patterson, 202; Steury, 224; Macklin, 231; Leonard, 206; A. Murphy, 202; Wolpert, 207; Faulkner, 209; Beery, 235, and Laurent, 222.

In the G-E Women's league, Team No. 3 won two from Team No. 2, and Team No. 1 won two from Team No. 4. Schafer kegled a 469 and Reynolds a 468. Stults had a 177, and Wellman was high for the evening with a 180 count.

Mixed Doubles Tournament

A mixed doubles tournament will be held at the G-E Club alleys Saturday night December 8th. Squads will be run at 6 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. Get your entries in early. Reservations may be made at the G-E Club desk or by calling 742, or Les Shroyer on 2112.

A radio program for bowlers is now being aired over WGL on Saturday nights at 5:45 p.m. Len Davis, sports director of WGL, handles the commentary.

SAFETY IS EVERYBODY'S JOB

10 "SLOPPY-JOE" . . . Knee-deep in scrap! Throw waste in a safe bin? Not him. Already got a scrap heap. A little more won't hurt.

11 "TIMID-TOMMY" Afraid to ask questions! Ask someone how to do a new job? And seem dumb? Oh, no. Not this guy.

12 "SOMEONE ELSE" Not the guy who saw himself in the mirror! No, it's never him. Always somebody else. But accidents do happen and there's always a victim.

1 "BIG SHOT" . . . Too big for his britches! Can't tell him how to do a job, or what precautions to take.

2 "MR. THEY-OUGHTA'" Lots of advice for someone else! Why not? It's their ship. Let it sink. They oughta' fix this stuff.

WHAT DOES HE SEE IN THE MIRROR?

Probably sees a good-looking guy who goes to work every day and tries to get ahead. We all do! But how do his pals at the plant see him, around the clock each day? Let's take a look.

9 "HAPHAZARD-HENRY" . . . Never plans ahead! Right tools? Enough ports? He doesn't know. He'll find out as he goes along.

3 "THE PLAY-BOY" . . . Full of practical jokes! What a laugh when he trips his pals. Means no harm, even when friends end up in the hospital.

8 "TOUGH-GUY" . . . No precautions necessary! No small cut can ever put him out. He's red-blooded. And safety-glasses? Phooey!

7 "SHOW-OFF" . . . Strong as a bull! No load is too heavy when admirers are near, regardless of the dangers involved.

6 "HOT-ROD" . . . In a hurry! Too bad if he knocks someone down or creates safety hazards in his recklessness.

5 "THE DAYDREAMER" Mind is in another world! Thoughts are elsewhere, and as he stumbles along, he's apt to stick his hand in a machine.

4 "HAIR-TRIGGER HARRY" . . . Flies off the handle! Lots of temper displays when things go wrong. His own fault? Impossible! It's the faulty equipment.

"Lost" and "Found" articles must be cleared through the Plant Protection office, Bldg. 10-2, or the Plant receptionist, who will place the Ad-let and otherwise advertise the article.

No ad will be received over the telephone. Only one ad per employee may be inserted. Each ad must be limited to 20 words and cannot be repeated. All articles mentioned must be personal property of the employee. Ad will not be accepted unless accompanied by the name, pay number, and division of the employee. No works building or telephone number may appear in any ad except transportation ads, only the home telephone number or address.

Send all ads to WORKS NEWS office, Bldg. 18-3.

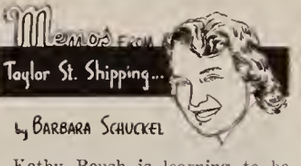
Henry Becker, our genial lathe operator, denies that he bought California grapes to press into rare old vintage, but admits that he made grape jelly out of them. So add another to the talented Becker's long list of accomplishments—jelly making. . . . One day last week, the atmosphere in Bldg. 19-3 was so hot and stuffy that Ronnie Ryder took off and went home. Ronnie must have been taking lessons from the old master, Perch Sickafus, to be able to dream up an alibi like that. . . . Lloyd Germano became a father of a six pound girl, Nov. 16. They named her Delorce Kathlene. . . . Floyd Mutton was arrested last week when he was on his vacation for passing a car on a hill. It seems as though some people, when they get new cars, can't seem to hold them down like they should. . . . Ed Lepper has been with G-E for 35 years. He has been with the shaft department for 33 of those years. . . . Russell "Slim" Neirester will believe anything. Imagine pinch penny Ed Dikty taking a trip to Miami, Fla. Instead he is selling hardware goods during vacation at a concern downtown. Poor "Slim", if someone was to tell him that the moon was made out of green cheese, he would believe it. . . . Leroy Cook, or better known as "Cookie," always looks forward to Saturday night. Cookie, will you please tell us why?



Can you picture Elvie Dafforn in a tuxedo? They tell me he was dressed for the occasion, when his daughter got married recently. . . . Orville Langohr has no comment to make at this time as to whether a recount will be called for. Ha! . . . We understand that Al Miller's daughter has won a state-wide speaking contest. Could be she inherited that gift of gab from Al. . . . Pat Marler thought she was going to lose her husband recently. A phone call from the draft board at 5:45 in the morning, demanding to know why Mr. Marler hadn't showed up for the trip to Indianapolis came as a shock. It turned out to be an error. . . . Margaret Miller, probably felt embarrassed when she discovered she had been trailing her apron down the aisle. . . . Welcome to Charles Henry, who has joined the Hermetics. Also to Sharon Lash who comes to us from Bldg. 26-4. . . . Guess Doris Coddins hasn't got her clock set yet, Doris didn't get up 'til 7:30 one morning, thinking it was only 6:30. . . . Here's how to get a man, ladies: fall out of a bus! Anyhow Leona Kochel did just that and she was wearing her new fur coat at the time. A nice looking gentleman picked her up and they had lunch together. . . . Marilyn Langs is a No. 1 sweater girl, but she covers up her sweater with a blouse. . . . Francis (women-hater) Gnau was seen watching the Armistice parade surrounded by six lovely girls. Explain that, women hater. . . . Ask Dick Shull how his imitations are coming along, especially the one of Mary Blanchard's bowling. . . . Paul Haffner is looking for a girl friend (that makes two of us) about 18 years of age, blonde or brunette. . . . Sharon Helbert celebrated a birthday recently. . . . Must be a man in Juanita Hout's life. New gloves and a new hair-do. . . . The Hermetic stacking section also welcomes Hedy Koch. . . . The second trick lays claim to having the man with the most nicknames, in the person of Don (Hoppy, Tex, Boots, Lone Ranger, Lover Boy) to which we add Billy or The Goat Callahan. Anyone having day-old newspapers or wood splinters for disposal, contact Don. He prefers the Journal, as they use tastier ink!

30 G-E YEARS—Rounding out 30 years at General Electric Nov. 15 was Ed Bowser (seated center), Bldg. 4-4. Shown with Mr. Bowser (l-r) are R. Schuckel, A. Bienz, H. G. Siebold and W. B. Putt. Mr. Bowser is an assembler in Repair and Return.

Virginia Bueseking is expecting her brother and family from St. Louis and her sister and family from New York for a Thanksgiving family get-together. . . . Harry Knafel is off work this week because of illness. . . . We welcome Harry Richardson to Repair and Return and also hope Ray Hill is happy with his new work at Broadway. . . . What makes Doyle Sheets so absent-minded that he lets the women wait in his car while he works overtime? Could it be that he thinks more of making an extra dollar? . . . Ralph Keller is spending a week's vacation this week. . . . We have had some inquiries concerning the pile of dirt in Ed Bandt's yard. Do you have dirt for sale, Ed? . . . Irene Campbell is leaving us to be a full-time homemaker. We will miss you, Irene, and we wish you much happiness. . . . Earl Fredericks has been inquiring if MBA covers hospitalization for canines. His dog is recovering at home after receiving several stitches. Incidentally, Earl didn't lose any work. . . . Roy Weigman is getting too large for his britches. He is a lucky boy that there are several good tailors in the department. Especially Fred Young. . . . Don Bishop is finally allowing his feet to become accustomed to civilian life. He just discarded the ten year old army boots. . . . Ernie Krause is driving a new Plymouth. . . . The boys are wondering if Howard Householder worked Norman Hughes so hard the other day that he had to rest up the next day at home. . . . It seems that Ruby Stoops is going to be out of luck for a nice venison sandwich this year. George Marschand didn't have any luck hunting in Michigan. . . . We also have a report that Charles Engle didn't get a deer in New York State, so he took his bosom pal Herman Watters to the lake. They will try their luck hunting the more common cottontails and pheasants this week.

Kathy Roush is learning to be a lady of poise. If that's what you call walking around in high heels with a book on her head. . . . Wonder if there is any comparison between Dee Hahn and "My Friend Irma?" Fred Wheeler dictated a few letters to Dee and asked her to read them back. Dee read back the first, starting with the address and ending with a loud "hic!" Fred told Dee that he didn't recall saying that, and Dee proceeded with a red face, but no more hiccups. . . . Betty Bartley spent a weekend in St. Louis with her family. She had a grand time and hopes to return soon. . . . We had three birthdays this week—Nancy Woodhull, Nov. 19, Ruth Crockett and your reporter, Nov. 22. . . . JUST LIKE A LOST PUP—Maxine Householder has a ride from Taylor St. to the Broadway Plant to meet her driver to Avilla. On her first time over, Max got out of the car on College St., where she is to meet the other fellow and cried, "I don't know where I'm at."—Just at the other end of the "at," Max. . . . Judy Krebs is back again—and is now a key punch operator. Judy spent two weeks learning the trade. . . . Why is Jean Smith so sweet lately? She carries candy to us from Elex. . . . A big welcome to Carl Kable. He's replacing John Welch as edit man. . . . Jean Smith is enjoying a two weeks' vacation, lucky girl. When asked what she is going to do, she said, "I don't know." . . . Delores Borne is a patient in the St. Joseph Hospital. A great big "get well" from all of us to her.

Electric Personalities

The Early Bird—to restate an old phrase, gets his Christmas shopping done before the last-minute rush. This is the motto of Maxine Warner, Bldg. 4-6, who is shown above looking over the G-E clocks in the Employee Store, Bldg. 8-1. Maxine is trying to decide whether to buy the Repeater, which she holds in her left hand, or the Purr-A-Larm, in her right hand. The Repeater is an automatic alarm clock which resets itself and costs employees $7.30. The Purr-A-Larm has a shatterproof crystal and sells for $4.45.

Pancake Payoff—The Women's Division of the G-E Squares held a benefit pancake supper recently to aid the scholarship fund of the Allen County Parent-Teachers Association. Mr. Richard L. Hamilton, chairman of the ways and means committee, and Mrs. Richard A. Thomas, chairman of the supper, are shown at right presenting a check for the proceeds to Mrs. Lawrence Rothenbuhler, treasurer of the PTA's Fund.

G-E Club Square Dance Slated

The first in a series of square dances for employees and their friends will be held at the G-E Club, Saturday, Dec. 8, from 8:30 to 11:30 p.m., Glen Seabold, of the entertainment committee, announced this week.

Bill (Cookie) Lee will be the caller. Gilbert Brown and the Variety Four will provide music for both round and square dancing.

There will be no charge for the dance.

BOLES GOES TO TIFFIN

Eldon J. Vosburgh Appointed Hermetic Motor Superintendent

Effective Monday, December 3, Harold E. Boles is appointed Plant Manager—Tiffin, according to an announcement issued by M. E. Lord, General Manager of the Fractional Horsepower Motor Department.

On the same date Eldon J. Vosburgh will assume the position vacated by Mr. Boles as Superintendent of Hermetic Motor manufacturing at Fort Wayne. Mr. Vosburgh has been Assistant Superintendent under Mr. Boles since June of this year.

These changes in managerial functions have been made, according to Mr. Lord, to release George W. Auer from his present responsibilities as Plant Manager at Tiffin for new responsibilities as Plant Manager at Linton, Ind.

To Build New Plant

"The General Electric Company, having completed the purchase of property in Linton, Ind., is now planning to build a branch plant, to manufacture fractional horsepower motors and to provide for long-term expansion; but it is not expected to reduce employment in existing facilities," it was announced this week by Mr. Lord.

"The need for specialized fractional horsepower motors to fill government contracts has increased at such a rate that it has become necessary to establish additional facilities.

"Construction of the new plant will start as soon as the contractor can move on the site, and the beginning of production operations is dependent upon the approval of the various stages of our application for construction materials which is on file with the National Production Administration. The plant will be a General Electric owned facility."

Mr. Auer was resident manager at Tiffin, O., during the construction, equipment and operation of the Tiffin Branch Plant and takes to Linton, Ind., a comprehensive knowledge of all phases of the new undertaking in the new location.

205 Miles From Fort Wayne

Linton is located southwest of Indianapolis, approximately 205 miles from Fort Wayne and has a population of approximately 6,000. There are fine railroad facilities in various directions. The city also has a modern 60-bed hospital which is currently being expanded to 100 beds.

H. E. Boles

E. J. Vosburgh

G. W. Auer

No announcement has been made of the size and cost of the building or of the number of persons who would be employed.

A native of Auburn, N. Y., Mr. Boles graduated from Syracuse University in 1935 with a B. S. degree in mechanical engineering. Immediately following his graduation, he joined the General Electric Company's Philadelphia Works on the factory training course.

In 1936, Mr. Boles entered the first group of the Production Training Course, with assignments at Schenectady, Fort Wayne and Lynn. Upon completion of the course in 1938, he returned to Philadelphia on special assignments in resistance welding.

Receives Coffin Award

During his two years on this assignment, he received a joint Coffin Award for his work on this project.

Decatur Sets Dec. 15 For Christmas Party

The Decatur G-E Club will have its annual Christmas Party for employees children Saturday, December 15, at 10 a.m. in the Adams Theatre, George Roop, president, announced this week.

Tickets will be available free of charge beginning Monday. They may be secured from foremen or at the Decatur G-E Club.

The usual rule of admitting only children of employees will be in effect, Dick Steele, chairman of the party stated. Mr. Steele asked that parents should accompany only very small children, so that the theater can accommodate everyone who wishes to attend. Children up to 12 years of age will be welcome at the party.

The hour-long program will include a Christmas movie and selected shorts. Santa Claus will give treats to the children at the close of the movie.

The committee assisting Mr. Steele with the arrangements are Rosemary Miller, Harriet Pollack, J. J. Baker, George Cramer and Jay Moser.

Tickets Still Available For Vets Dance

Tickets for the Pearl Harbor Dance, sponsored by the G-E War Veterans Association are still available, Ed Martin, ticket chairman, announced today.

They may be secured from contact men, the Women's Activities Offices at Broadway and Taylor St. or from Mr. Martin. Tickets, which are available to non-members, are 50 cents per person.

The informal dance will be held Friday, Dec. 7, from 9 to 12 p.m. at the Rhythm Ranch. Joe Taylor

Supervisors, Foremen Plan Joint Meeting

The Supervisors Club and the Foremen's Association will hold a joint dinner meeting, Wednesday, Dec. 12, at the G-E Club, according to an announcement made by W. R. Blomker and Ed Klomp, respective presidents of the two organizations.

The North Side High School A Cappella Choir, under the direction of Raymond S. Beights, will present a program of Christmas music.

W. C. Wichman, general manager of the Component Products Division, will address the group.

Dinner will be served in two groups, one at 5:30 p.m. and the other at 6 p.m. Invitations are being mailed to members of both groups along with cards for use in replying. Guests have been asked to attend dinner at the time specified on their invitations.

The choir, composed of 60 students, is accompanied by Charlotte Tucker.

Q-C Club Announces 1951-52 Election Slate

Carl V. Bobay, Taylor St., and Ralph L. Dolan, Bldg. 27, are candidates for the office of president of the Quarter Century Club, Wilbur W. Stocks, nominating committee chairman, announced this week.

Other nominees on the Q-C slate include:

Vice-President

Edward C. Ehrman, Winter St.
Otto W. Rodenbeck, Bldg. 19-5.

Secretary

Herschel L. Smith, Bldg. 18-3.
Carl P. Rehling, Bldg. 20-2.

Treasurer

Edwin C. Reese, Bldg. 31-1.
William C. Hale, Bldg. 19-2.

Director for Five Year Term

George J. Buckley, Decatur.
Russell E. Owens, Decatur.

Ballots, which have been distributed to members, should be returned to Mr. Stocks, Bldg. 4-4, by Friday, Dec. 7. Balloting will be closed on that day, and the results will be announced the following week, Mr. Stocks stated.

Members of the nominating committee in addition to the chairman are: W. P. Altekruse, Bldg. 20-2; G. D. Seabold, Bldg. 4-2; R. Keen, and O. R. Meyer, Taylor St.; W. H. Franke, Bldg. 4-1; R. C. Lawrence, Bldg. 19-2, and R. Leitz, Decatur.

Elex Xmas Collection

The Elex Club will take their annual Christmas collection Monday through Friday next week, Irene Meyers, Elex advisor, said today. All money donated will be used for local family social work this Christmas.

Contact girls will distribute collection boxes throughout the plant. Miss Meyers stated that any gift, no matter how small, will be appreciated. Anyone who is not contacted by an Elex member may send his contribution to Irene Meyers, Bldg. 18-3.

Belief In Others' Honesty Pays Off

Assuming that other people are as honest and decent as you are has a way of paying off. As, for instance:

A serve-yourself candy case was set up in a plant—you took your candy bar for that between-meals snack and left the money in a box. Everybody thought it was a swell idea, except the employee who had charge of it.

His coin box kept showing a shortage. But instead of accusing his fellow employees of dishonesty, he put up a sign:

"The box was short $2.15 last week, and $1.90 the week before. I figure that some of you, after taking a candy bar, can't find the right change in your pockets, so you put off paying.... For your convenience I am putting a box of nickels and dimes in the case, so you can make the right change."

Doubters said the stand would lose its small change as well as be gypped on candy bars. But, since the sign was put up, there hasn't been a single shortage to date!

Trend Toward Church

As the world tension continues with threats to our lives and freedom; as we begin to doubt the integrity of public figures and to re-examine our own consciences, more and more Americans are becoming concerned with matters of the spirit, a recent survey shows.

During last year, churches of all faiths in our land reported that men and women in all the 48 states were more and more joining together for religious help and guidance. They reported a total of 2,950,987 new church members—an unprecedented and gratifying growth.

The membership of American men, women and children in our churches of all faiths last year reached an all-time high of 85,705,280—and that high total may be exceeded this year.

It Doesn't Work

The old socialist idea that the way to help the lower-income groups is to prevent anyone from earning more than a certain amount—$10,000 or $12,000 a year, for example—recently has come back into the news. It would be done by taxing above-average income right to the hilt, when some arbitrary ceiling figure had been set.

The road to British socialism was built on the theory that a nation's economic problems and the betterment of living standards for the majority can be solved by confiscating most of the income of the few. Whatever its superficial appeal in theory, the idea has proved a dismal failure in practice.

First, there just aren't enough large incomes to finance the nation's needs. If government took every cent from those with $100,000 or more net taxable income, this would raise only about $58,000,000—a mere drop in our $70,000,000,000 bucket. Furthermore, this could be done only once: the goose would be dead. So even as a temporary expedient, income confiscation doesn't work.

Second, "leveling down" income fails to do any good for the very groups it is supposed to help. To set a ceiling of $12,000 a year, or any other arbitrary figure, would be to destroy both the desire and the ability of individuals to risk their savings in productive enterprise. The record here is plain. Throughout most of our history, Americans have been encouraged to invest their savings in new machines and tools; in new ideas and processes; in research and invention. The result has been multiplication of jobs and goods and real earnings: the high American standard of living.

But even if the "leveling" scheme had any practical advantages, it is hard to believe that many Americans—of whatever present income—would be ready to surrender their hope, their right, their determination and their chance to succeed and earn more. Yesterday's "lower-income" man too often is today's "above-average" leader for any such acceptance of defeat and stagnation.

FLYING SAUCERS

Words by Walt

PATIENCE

There are many known virtues
Man requires to find his way.
And of these, it seems that patience
Is the one we need today.

I know that hope and charity
With faith lead all the rest,
And these with love of fellowman,
I still believe are best.

Because in this our troubled world
Where man is forced to cope
With greed and hate and selfishness,
We must have faith and hope.

We must have love and charity
To conquer hate and greed.
Yes, these are still the virtues,
We all most sorely need.

But suspicion undermines our faith,
And hope becomes despair,
As charity and love are mocked
By tyrants everywhere.

Just when, I'm not too certain,
But some time, there's sure to be
Love that heals misunderstanding
Faith and hope and charity.

But 'twill take a transformation
For the mind of man must change,
There must be some different thinking
And some things to rearrange.

In the meantime, keep your patience,
While we strive to make amends
For the virtues we've forgotten
And on which all else depends.

Yes, don't ever lose your patience
For these virtues aren't lost
We have only failed to use them
So, of course, must pay the cost.

Surely man endowed with reason
Won't forever choose to pay
For hate and greed and selfishness,
When there's a better way.

—W. L. Whonsetler.

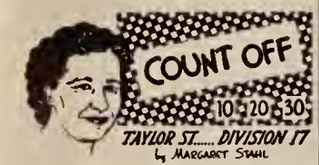
Switch Change Patent Granted Three FHP Men

The United States Patent Office has granted a joint patent to Gerald C. Holdgreve, Bldg. 17-4, L. R. Beard and Richard Seely, both of Bldg. 4-6. The patent has been allowed for a combination line switch, starting switch, plus overload for electric motors.

Separate mechanisms for each of the switches plus overload would prove bulky. The combination which Messrs. Holdgreve, Beard, and Seely designed fits the need where physical limits are restricted, such as business machine application.



Holdgreve's First

Employed by the Company 24 years ago, Mr. Holdgreve is a model maker. This is the first patent he has been granted. The Holdgreves and their two children reside on R. R. 2, Young Rd.

This is the fourth patent that Mr. Beard has received. The previous ones were on refrigeration equipment. With the Company for 21 years, he is a division engineer in the AC division at the present time.

The Beards live at 4625 S. Lafayette.

Mr. Seely has also received three previous patents. These concerned motor protectors and circuits. He began working at General Electric in 1941 and is a design engineer at present. Mr. and Mrs. Seely and their three children live at 2128 Courtland.

Bob Robertson has decided he isn't as young as he once was. His wife had to do the swinging on the 23rd square dance Saturday night. . . . Anyone wanting tickets to the Zollner game, see Dan Bishop. He is furnishing the money. . . . Harold Fletter found out the hard way that it was illegal to park on Washington St., along with 383 others. . . . We have been informed that Louise Keller has a baby daughter. . . . We wish Linda Wahrer and Laura Gerber many more happy birthdays. The cake, pie and candy were delicious. . . . Pauline Settle has found out it is best not to speed up when a car is following her, as it might be a State Cop. . . . Margarethe Judge has a new Mercury. She thought she was flying at 85 per, when a little old Plymouth buzzed around them. Laura Gerber thinks her Ford can do it, too. . . . We hope Louise Sinn has an enjoyable vacation this week. The girls say it sure is peaceful and quiet. . . . We hope Louie Watt will soon be well so we can have him and his wife back with us. . . . Catherine O'Connor was surprised Saturday, when her son, Cpl. Paul O'Connor came home on leave from the Marines at Camp Del Mar, Oceanside, Calif. . . . Dick Patton and friend attended the football game at Notre Dame Saturday. . . . Jim Stauffer and Al Seifert are both going around with a finger bandaged. No lost time accidents, boys.

Twenty Silver Dollars—for 20 years of service. C. B. Crankshaw, Bldg. 17-4, was honored recently by Boy Scout Troop 5 of Franklin School for his many years of service in working with Cubs and Scouts. He is shown at the right above receiving a small tree with 20 silver dollars from Scout Ronald Boleyn in tribute to his service.

TRAINED MEN NOT MATERIALS INDUSTRY'S REAL SHORTAGE

Although industry today is plagued by a shortage of materials, its most critical shortage may well turn out to be that of engineers and scientists, according to Harry A. Winne, vice president of the General Electric Company in charge of engineering policy.

The G-E official recently served on a Scientific Manpower Advisory Committee appointed by Stuart Symington, director of the National Security Resources Board.

He emphasized that the members of this board realize the need for men to fill the armed forces, but that they also realize that men without adequate munitions and material are almost valueless.

Man Behind Gun Needed

"We also have full comprehension of the fact that men in civilian industry produce this material, and especially that engineers and scientists must be available for research, development and design of new munitions and other needs of the military forces and the civilian population," he said.

Mr. Winne advises college students who have the what's the use, I'll soon be in the Army attitude to put their effort into the job immediately ahead of them. "This job," Mr. Winne states, "is to get just as much education as you can."

"In the first place, in the majority of cases, an individual cannot be sure he is destined for immediate military service," the G-E official continued.

Consider the Future

"In the second place, and of much greater importance, the vast majority of those who do go into the service will return to civilian life sooner or later, and I think most of them will be surprised at how soon that time will come."

Mr. Winne advised the college student to think now of that future, and to get as much information as possible concerning the opportunities which various organizations in industry offer him.

"He should try to determine in what kind of industry, and if possible, with what company, he would like to cast his lot in the future, and to get his name and his history on the records of that and other companies," Mr. Winne said.

Chester Lichtenberg Chosen Indiana 'Engineer of Year'

Col. Chester Lichtenberg, retired General Electric Company engineer, was named Engineer of the Year for the State of Indiana this week by the Indiana Society of Professional Engineers, according to an announcement by L. E. Easley, state president.

At a banquet climaxing the two-day engineering convention in Lafayette tomorrow evening, Col. Lichtenberg will be presented the award by Prof. C. C. Knipmeyer, chairman of the selection committee for the award.

Given annually by the organization, the award honors long term achievements and contributions to the field of engineering.

Columbia Graduate

A graduate of Columbia University, Col. Lichtenberg received an Electrical Engineering degree in 1906. He was employed as an engineer with G-E for 42 and one-half years.

At the present time, he is executive director of the Fort Wayne-Allen County Civil Defense organization. Col. and Mrs. Lichtenberg reside at 4624 Tacoma Ave.

Col. Lichtenberg is a member of the following professional organizations: American Institute of Engineers, a fellow and member since 1905; Fort Wayne Association of General Electric Engineers; Fort Wayne Engineers Club; Indiana Engineering Council, president; Indiana Society of Professional Engineers, past president and national director, and National Society of Professional Engineers, vice president.

He is a member of the following scientific organizations: American Society for Advancement of Science, fellow; Franklin Institute, life member, and Society of Sigma Xi, active member.

He is a member of the following military organizations: Colonel in the Organized Reserve Corps of the U. S. Army; Society of American Military Engineers; Reserve Officers Association of U. S., past president for Department of Indiana, and American Legion Post No. 47.

Full House Booked For Elex Xmas Party

A full house is booked for the Elex Christmas party Sunday in the G-E Club, when Ethel Smith will entertain members. Donna Bauermeister, president, said today that 1,400 women or 95 per cent of the membership have made reservations for the party.

Miss Bauermeister said that because of the limited capacity of the club auditorium, there will be no paid admissions.

Patent Trio—Looking over the patent which they received for a combination line switch, starting switch, plus overload for electric motors, are L. R. Beard, Richard E. Seely and Gerald C. Holdgreve. Mr. Holdgreve is holding the mechanism, which the three men jointly designed.

Pease Named Supervisor Of STAB Promotional Service

New Marketing Assignment

The appointment of C. D. Pease to supervisor of promotional service in Specialty Transformer and Ballast Department Marketing Division was announced this week by E. C. Schorr, manager.

Mr. Pease entered the Schenectady Works when he joined the Company in 1949. He did trade publicity on apparatus in the News Bureau at that time.

One year later, he transferred to the New York office to do advertising and sales promotion on all apparatus lines for the various local offices in the New York district. This was the position he held at the time of his present appointment.

A native of Bloomington, Ill., Mr. Pease received a B. A. degree in comparative literature in 1948 from James Millikin University. At the present time, he is a lieutenant in the Air Corp reserve. He was discharged from the Air Force in 1946, after serving for three years.

Mr. and Mrs. Pease have one child.

Boles Named

Mr. Boles was named assistant general foreman of the Fabricating Section at Philadelphia in 1940. He transferred to Bloomfield in 1943 as assistant superintendent of the Turret Drive plant, working on gears and gear drives for aircraft gun turrets.

In September, 1945, he came to Fort Wayne as superintendent of Hermetic Motor Manufacturing, FHP Motor Department. This was his position at the time of his present appointment.

Mr. Boles is a member of the G-E Squares organization, the Supervisors Club and the Foremen's Association.

Mr. and Mrs. Boles and their two children live on Dunwood Drive.

When Mr. Vosburgh joined the Company in 1929, he did planning and worked on wage rate assignments. In 1937, he became superintendent of planning and wage rate for FHP Div. 13 and 15. He was named staff assistant to FHP manager of manufacturing in 1947.

Mr. Vosburgh was appointed assistant supervisor of general planning at Taylor St. the following year. He became assistant superintendent of FHP Div. 14 in 1949. In June of this year, he was appointed to his present position as assistant superintendent of Hermetic Motor Manufacture.

A native of Adrian, Mich., Mr. Vosburgh graduated from Tri-State College in 1929 with a B.S.E.E. degree. He is a member of the G-E Squares Club, the Supervisors Club and the Foremen's Association.

The Vosburghs and their daughter live at 4721 Beaver Ave.

After attending Central High School, George W. Auer came to General Electric Feb. 16, 1925, as an apprentice machinist and toolmaker. He graduated from the Apprentice School Jan. 9, 1929, and was transferred to the Fractional Horsepower Motor Department as Tool and Equipment Planner in the Manufacturing Standards Department.

April 13, 1933, he became time study engineer in the FHP Motor Department. Mr. Auer went to the Decatur Plant in December, 1936, as Planning Engineer to establish a complete Planning Department, where he later served as Supervisor of Wage Rate and Planning.

March, 1941, Mr. Auer was transferred from the Decatur Plant to Fort Wayne as superintendent of Division 12 and 13 in the FHP Motor Department, and served in this capacity until he became Supervisor of General Planning.

Mr. Auer was made FHP supervisor of Planning and Wage Rate in 1942. October, 1943, he became superintendent of the FHP Hermetic Motor Section and was named Plant Superintendent of the new branch plant in Tiffin, August, 1945. In August of 1946, Mr. Auer became Plant Manager of the Tiffin Plant.

During Mr. Auer's association with the Company in his variety of assignments, he has completed training in the Better Business Management Course, Stephens Course in Economics, a course in motion and time study and also completed a Purdue Extension Course in Metallurgy.

The Auer's have two sons, Robert and John.

Mr. Auer is a member of the Quarter Century Club and the General Electric Supervisor's Association of Tiffin. Since coming to Tiffin, he has also been associated with the Rotary Club, Ohio Society for Crippled Children, Chamber of Commerce, National Foundation for Prevention of Infantile Paralysis, Boy Scouts of America, Tiffin Community Chest, and YW-YMCA.

and the Indiana Redbirds will provide music for round and square dancing.

Cake Walks will be held and refreshments served.

The Rhythm Ranch is located west of the city on the Miller Road, approximately one and one-half miles off Brooklyn Ave.

Leonard Reuss Appointed Assistant General Foreman

Receives Appointment

Leonard G. Reuss, Jr., has been appointed assistant general foreman in Bldg. 19-2 and 19-3, Large Motor-Generator Department, according to an announcement made by R. M. Hartigan, manager of manufacturing.

In 1939, Mr. Reuss joined the Schenectady Works. He entered the Apprentice School a few months later. When he graduated from the machinist course in 1942, he worked as a production machinist. He entered the U. S. Army two years later.

After his discharge from the armed forces in 1946, Mr. Reuss returned to the Schenectady Works as a toolmaker and to work on methods, planning and wage rate. In 1948, he entered the Advanced Manufacturing Course in the methods, planning and wage rate division. While on this course, he worked in plants at Philadelphia, Pittsfield, Pittsburgh, Lynn, Lockland, Erie and Fort Wayne.

Assigned to Fort Wayne

Mr. Reuss worked in the Fort Wayne Works in 1950 on a special assignment in manufacturing procedures. When he returned to Schenectady six months later, he worked on special assignment in Large Motor-Generator Department.

He returned to Fort Wayne in 1951, when he became a foreman in punch press, light machining and heavy machining in Bldg. 27. This is the position he held at the time of his present appointment.

Mr. Reuss attended Union College, Schenectady. He received his pilot's license from the College's flying school. He taught mathematics at the Apprentice School in Schenectady. Mr. Reuss is a member of the Foremen's Association.

Mr. and Mrs. Reuss and their daughter live at 4430 S. Anthony.

Think Jet Planes Are Noisy? It May Be An 'Audible Illusion'

Belief that jet transport planes will make more noise than their piston-driven counterparts may be due to "an audible illusion," according to Robert T. Holland, a General Electric Company engineer.

Speaking on the practical aspects of commercial jet planes, Mr. Holland revealed that recent preliminary sound tests conducted by the General Engineering Laboratory had shown that air-to-ground jet noise is approximately the same or even less than that of piston-driven planes with comparable powerplants.

"These tests indicate," he said, "that noise will not be a detrimental factor in the public acceptance of jet transports."

Why Jets Are Loud

Mr. Holland, an engineer with G-E's Aircraft Gas Turbine Divisions at Lynn, Mass., gave two reasons why most people consider a jet engine to be louder: first, noise reaching the ear from a jet engine is considerably more abrupt because of the plane's speed and resulting sound pattern. This makes it appear greater than it actually is. Second, the "swoosh" of a jet is a comparatively new sound and we automatically pay more attention to it than we would to a more familiar noise.

The speaker also said that a point exists directly behind a jet engine's exhaust where no sound readings can be obtained.

"This phenomenon is present," he explained, "because sound from the tailpipe is dispersed to the sides by the large mass of warm air which acts as a sound lens and refracts, or bends, the sound away from the center."

Peak Noise

According to preliminary test figures presented by Mr. Holland, the peak noise emanating from a jet comes five seconds after the plane has passed the observer. Peak noise from a piston engine plane comes when the plane is practically overhead. At these peak points, from planes passing overhead at approximately 5,000 feet and at cruising speeds, sound readings of 73 decibels were recorded for the jet and 83 decibels for the piston-driven plane. The decibel is the standard unit of sound measurement.

Advise Employees To Destroy Old Insurance Papers

Employees participating in the General Electric Insurance Plan who have received the new insurance certificate should destroy their old group life insurance certificates, according to a recent recommendation of the Employee Benefit Plans Department.

The certificate covering the new Plan, which will be one year old December 1, replaces the old free and additional life insurance certificates. Keeping these old worthless documents may cause confusion and unnecessary work on the part of the beneficiary, the recommendations explained.

Children of employees whose parents have five years of service are eligible to apply for a G-E Educational Fund Loan or Scholarship.

Roy Hosler has returned from his deer hunt. He shot the tail off a deer; then Al Helwig mooched the tail from Roy. The boys around here say Al is going to make deer tail soup instead of Ox Tail Soup. . . . Happy Birthday to Grace Collins. . . . Nettie Englebrecht paid us a visit last Wednesday. . . . Sharon Lash has left us for the fifth floor. Good luck, Sharon. . . . Earl Watterman had better have his name engraved on his pipe. It seems he is picking up just any old pipe. Ask Cedric, he knows. . . . That forlorn look on Mary Klemm's face is because her husband went deer hunting. Don't worry, Mary, when he runs out of bullets he'll be back. . . . Arthur Gallogly celebrated his birthday last Saturday. We wish you many more happy birthdays, Art. What is this, your 25th birthday?

Age Will Tell

Otto Braun and Joe Troendly got their hair cut last week. Nearly every time Otto gets his hair cut, he is off work two or three days. Remember, Otto, you can't stand to get your hair cut as often as Joe. You're not near as young as Joe. . . . Evelyn Buckles has a cute new pet, a black cocker spaniel. . . . Jim Goldsberry had his Gardenia lotion on again the other day. . . . Wonder who is Bill's latest flame. . . . Jackie Rhoades goes rabbit hunting and comes back with a "BULL." . . . If Dutch Norwalt had horns on his head, he would look like one of those southern deer he talks so much about. There was a deer tail hanging on him when he went in the office the other day. . . . After overhearing a recent conversation, Mary Carrver thinks she is learning something new every day. How about it, Mary? . . . We would like to say good-bye to Rita (Osvurn) Pease. She has left the Company to be a full-time housewife. . . . The reason Dutch Norwalt came to work looking like Daniel Boone was because he spent his vacation in the North woods. Al Topp liked his suit so well he wanted to wear it.

Sadie Hawkins

Hilda and Marjorie are already advertising for "MALE" with leap year around the corner. He must be tall, dark and handsome. . . . Happy birthday to Minnie Washington. . . . Welcome to Garnet Watkins, Pete Foster, and Beverly Stout on second trick. . . . Everyone hopes that Mildred Hindenlang will have a speedy recovery. She was injured in an automobile accident two weeks ago. . . . Roselyn Yeiser seems to be pretty lucky these days. Now she has won a Toni Doll on a punch. Is it fun for you or your little girl? . . .The girls on the cleaning bench presented Grace Collins with a birthday gift, and Grace sure did blush. . . . Happy anniversary to Mary Biller. Her husband took her to Howard Johnson's for dinner. . . . Two girls on Winding made the most of their Thanksgiving vacation. Joan Gregg went to Arkansas and Mary Hall to Kentucky. Hope they had fun.

Love Match

Strange as it seems, Tom Freeman and Al Topp are going steady again. . . . "Shooting" Joe Troendly is going strong again. He put on an exhibition at North Webster, for the Gun Club, a week ago Sunday. He will perform at Monroeville next Sunday. . . . Group 2-006, Bldg. 26-4, has a new Gestapo. Dutch Norwalt is replacing Archie Rian, who was out last week giving the ducks and rabbits a rough time. . . . The new MBA officers for Section 13, Bldg. 26-4, for the coming year are: Leo Klejnot, Chairman; Paul Carbaugh, Vice Chairman; Ralph Smith, Board of Directors for two years, and Phyllis Borkenstein, Secretary. . . . The boys don't think Ralph Braden should lie about his hunting. He says he shot three rabbits but they kept on running. You should say you missed three rabbits. . . . We wonder why John St. Clair won't allow his co-workers to hunt on his farm. The boys think maybe John's wife has something to do with this.

Jenny's Noodles

The girls in Type M Winding section had a potluck the other day. Jenny Conrad makes the best noodles you ever tasted. If you don't believe it, ask Opal Wisel who had seven helpings. . . . We hear that Benny Keller is looking for some chrome bailing wire for his Buick. . . . Fay Russell says he will believe everything he ever heard about Al Topp. Fay was out at Al's on a little business deal the other evening. Al kept yelling at his wife not to get supper yet, but Fay outwaited Al, and finally got his supper about 11 that night. . . . Wanted: A couple of red-nosed reindeer for that new sleigh Harold Rhine made. . . . Poor old Otto "Herman" Braun has found it necessary to take another week's vacation. We knew the old man was getting feeble, but didn't know he was that far gone. . . . What next will Emil Schurenburg have in his test? First it was Tarzan and Cowboy Freeman and now a "Flat-foot" Klearn. . . . Al Helwig tells the boys that when he goes hunting he wears a raincoat and carries an umbrella. Maybe you should take a row boat too, Al. . . . A pay telephone has been installed by the elevator at the west end of Bldg. 26-4. . . . Al Topp was showing his wife how to flip eggs in the skillet and flipped grease on his face.

Buick Ben

Sparkle Plenty

Congratulations to Shirley Martin. She received her diamond a week ago Sunday, and will be wed December 1. . . . We all hate to see Margie Berger leave the Company. She is going with her husband to Louisiana. He is in the Air Corps. Don't forget us, Marge! . . . Morey came to work with white paint specks all over his glasses which caused optical illusions. Results, "rejects." How about that, Morey? . . . Mary Markey spent last week-end in Chicago. Mary Sayen was also in the Windy City. They had a lot to talk about, judging from the conversation. . . . Why did Mike Dunscombe have goose pimples the other day? Was it because the cool, cool wind was sailing past him from the open window? What you need is a heater, Mike! . . . Who did Ray have at the wrestling matches Wednesday night? Could it have been Helen? . . . Welcome to Alice Walker on Stacking, from second trick. . . . The girls in Bldg. 26-4 office are wondering why they can't have beautiful dreams like Sylvia Lazoff. Please tell us what you eat before bedtime, Sylvia.

"Why's your car painted blue on one side and red on the other?"

"It's a terriffic scheme. You ought to hear the witnesses contradict each other."

That horrible aroma which surrounds the Sales Promotion Section is Ted Lamm's new pipe (believe it or not). Let's hope the habit is not too catching, as these gas masks are rather uncomfortable for office wear. . . . We'll have to forgive Joe Coughlin for his "Brooklyn Accent" this week. Joe went back home to "Brooklyn" during his recent vacation. . . . FLASH! Ed Schorr is planning to give a summation of "His experience with the Convcyor." . . . Not wanting to chop rocks at Michigan City, Bob Triplett has decided to pay his 1949 state tax. . . . Kathleen Schafer recently announced that her grandfather was working in our office. We haven't found the grand old man yet, but Harold Pritchard looks slightly suspicious. . . . Welcome to Denny Pease who is our new Advertising and Sales Promotion Supervisor. . . . This week we say good-bye to Ray Bellows, who is leaving us. Sorry to see you leave, Ray. Here's wishing everything good for Abby and you way out there in Nebraska. . . . Lou Goehring is off for a two-week stay in Atlanta.

A Surprise For All. Hank Lantz surprised everyone this morning by wearing a tie to work. No one knows the reason for this unusual phenomenon but there are two schools of thought on the subject. One is that Leo became incorporated. The other, which is the more likely of the two, is that Mr. Lantz is after a promotion. (You're wasting your time, Hank.) . . . It's So Lovely in the Rain. Irene Kocis has a "sure-fire" method of getting acquainted with "males of the opposite sex." She simply invites them under her umbrella on rainy days. Only one at a time though, she says. . . . Ain't Love Grand. It looks like Bob "Lucky" Anders has really tumbled. We don't know who the "girl" is but every morning they come strolling to work hand in hand. Now, isn't that sweet? . . . And while we're on the subject, leave us proceed to discuss the driving abilities of "Windshield Wiper" Hahn. The question is, what caused "W. W.'s" car to jump the curb and tear up three trees and a fire hydrant on Rudisill Blvd? From an unofficial source comes this explanation. When Les took one hand off the wheel to put around his girl, she told him to use both hands. She meant on the wheel. He thought she meant around her. And we all know what happened next. For confirmation of this story, see Bonnie Hull. . . . What's Up Doc! And now for the latest news about "Kazanova Kazelis." The only thing that kept him from getting a rabbit on his last hunting excursion was the fact that he kept looking for two ears sticking straight up, like in the comic books. I guess Tony didn't know that they don't all look like Bugs Bunny.

Inquiring Reporter:

DO YOU THINK GENERAL EISENHOWER WILL BE A CANDIDATE IN THE 1952 PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION?

FRANK PHILLIPS
Taylor St.

"I feel General Eisenhower is doing a good job on his present assignment. I don't think he is going to be a candidate for the Presidency next year, or he would have expressed this opinion when he was here for a conference with President Truman."

BETTY EDINGTON
Bldg. 4-2

"No, I believe General Eisenhower regards his present job of supreme commander of western defense forces as too important to leave it and actively engage in politics."

EDGAR HUNTER
Bldg. 11

"Yes, I think he will be nominated in the Republican convention, unless he declares himself a Democrat before that time. In that case, he will probably be named by the Democrats. He would be a good 'vote getter' for either party."

HOMER WEARLEY
Bldg. 26-2

"No, I believe that too many people feel that our governmental affairs should not be handled by a military man. Since General Eisenhower has not declared himself, he would be too great a risk as a candidate by any party."

LUELLA EISBERG
Bldg. 19-2

"No, I don't think he will accept the nomination for Presidency because he is too military-minded. It seems that his interests have always been and will continue to be along the military line, rather than in the political field."

CONGRATULATIONS IN ORDER—Dewey Ernie, Taylor St., is shown at right being congratulated by Fred Vietmeyer, Taylor St., for his 35 years of service with the Company. Mr. Ernie is a toolmaker in FHP Div. 13. Since he came to General Electric in 1916, he has done assembly work and been a universal mill operator and bench machinist.

My thanks to Jerry Uhl, Maxine Daniels, W. Poehler, Esther Watson, Marcielle Bandtel, Walter Niemeyer and Carl Miller. I know they're going to do a wonderful job reporting news. . . . WANTED FROM DIV. 14 OFFICE—Two girls with dishonest faces. . . . We wonder why Russel Beamer has been so popular since his trip to Indianapolis. . . . Dallas Carson saw seven rabbits and hit one on a recent hunting trip. Nice shooting. . . . Larry Suter went hunting for rabbits and came back with a wild cat. Scratches prove it, he says. . . . Johnny Burnett is contemplating getting a rear view mirror for his car to keep trucks from sneaking up on him. . . . Now that winter is here, it takes two people to drive D. Money's car. . . . Did anyone notice how Russ Johnson's Crosley has settled down and spread out? Reason—Virg Foland is riding to work with him. . . . Herb Tons came back from Southern Indiana with a deer. . . . Olive Lewis is still sad about the election returns. . . . Congratulations to Grandmas Aucker and Strong. They're boys. . . . Pauline Cartwright is feeling a little better, but still isn't interested in horses. She would like to hear from you. Write her at Grabill. . . . Birthday Greetings to Eldon Bell, Helen Keims, Mearl Dukes, Jimmy Wolf, and Martha Kruse. . . . The girls presented Clarence Shanebeck with a cake decorated with a black spider on his birthday. Was he surprised! . . . Robert Kissinger's Ford was damaged one day as he was pulling out on a highway. It is our opinion that your vision would be clearer if you placed newly-purchased trees in the trunk. . . . Wilbur Meyer's co-workers made a Daniel Boone hat for him (at his wish), hoping that he would be mistaken for some animal. . . . Bob Warnement is doing deluxe lay-out work now that he has a new light on his bench. He will gladly loan it to anyone. . . . Clarence Schroeder returned from his hunting trip with two bucks and one doe—lucky guy! . . . Johnny Wilson bagged three rabbits in four days during vacation. Or did Maloleys help? . . . M. Lissner and W. Scheurich have been missed at the usual table. Are you bringing your lunch girls? . . . Lester Green went hunting the other day, but came home with nothing. Better luck next time. . . . Charles Rupel lost his glasses hunting coon. For the complete story, contact Charlie. . . . What does Mildred Orr do with a dozen pair of salt shakers? . . . THE ALARM CLOCK DIDN'T RING CLUB has some new members this week—Walt Fritzman, Martha Lee, Helen Krause, and Lillian Felps. Such sleepy heads! . . . Doesn't Helen know that when one bowls, the ball should go down the alley? . . . Eunice McClymonds showed the old timers in bowling by converting the 6-7-8 split the hard way. . . . Johnny Burnett had a bad bowling night and decided to go back to his Wheaties. . . . Carolyn Fairchild had a nice trip to Oklahoma. She drove her brother back to camp. In the car, that is. . . . Hugh Neely would rather send letters than talk to his fellow workers. . . . How does one get a sore throat from shoveling snow? Ask Esther Watson. . . . Alice Rogers is planning a treat this holiday season. Something about a fruit cake. . . . The wind must blow quite a lot out W. Monet's way to cause his barn to blow off the foundation. . . . A speedy recovery is wished to Walter C. Holloway. . . . Plans are under way for the annual office Christmas dinner. Chairmen for the affair this year are: Hugh Neely, Ruth Dannacker, Robert Turschman, Margaret Cowan, and Bill Oberly. . . . Our sincere sympathy to Edna Harkenrider on the death of her mother.

Our deepest sympathy to Becky France in the recent loss of her stepfather. . . . A speedy recovery to Glen Miller's wife, who has recently undergone an operation. . . . Kenny Will's wife caught him napping over the week-end and cut off his mustache. . . . When is Nora Dudgeon going to take us for a ride in that new car? . . . Otto Helmrich can't even hit a rabbit while it's sitting, from what we hear. . . . Norm Wolf wants to sell his gun after taking Jim Linn hunting with him. . . . Maxine Herbst spent the week-end in Chicago. . . . We wish to welcome Farol Anderson and Billie Whitlow to our section. Billie is the wife of Vern Whitlow, a former die caster now serving in the armed forces. . . . What does Arleen Helberg keep in her tool box? . . . We hear Ed Bireley had to shoot all the rabbits Mel Kestner crippled the other day. . . . Harold Mosshammer had an excuse for missing shots. He said his dog had thorns in her fect. . . . Roy Burris, Jr. is quite proud of his little four-month-old daughter, Linda Lou, and we can't blame him a bit. . . . Joan Tudor received a beautiful purse from her husband, who is in service. . . . Phyllis Baals had a good start on winding only to find she had one spool of wire missing. . . . Edith Carder really got paid back for trying to scare someone the other day. . . . Blanche Mulligan likes to play follow the leader with trucks, even if it takes her 15 miles out of her way. . . . Mary and Moe Satterthwaite drove their Packard to Wapakoneta, O., to bowl. It took them four hours to get home. Was it the filling station stops or the taverns that slowed you up, Mary? . . . Peg Ballinger can't tell the difference between cats and rabbits, so don't buy any from him, unless they still have their feet on. . . . Nellie Williams, Louella Ternet and Tommy Williams all attended a party at the Ranch and had a very good time. . . . Mary Lou Heller of Bluffton would like to know if heckling has anything to do with Rachel Mounsey's bowling Thursday night at Bluffton.

Shirley Hollins says that when a person shoots a rabbit down in Kentucky, he always gets two with one shot because it always takes a double-header to get over the hill. . . . When Roger Pierson went to the Fall Revue, he noticed that there was plenty of parking space. He didn't realize till he got to the Club door that his tickets were for the following week. You should have stayed awhile, Roger. You could have heard Father Flannagan's Boys Choir with Elex. . . . Did you know that Charlie Dunifon got a letter from the Civilian Defense Committee? He seemed to be able to find all the equipment he needed except the boat anchor. . . . Andy Frank has been trying to do a lot of explaining since John Lare came back. It seems that Andy went hunting on John's farm and found a dead pig. The big question is, how did the pig die? If it would have been a cow, Andy would be accused. Since it's a pig, the mystery still goes on. . . . We are sorry to hear that Gilbert Hilt is in the hospital again. Hurry back, Gib. . . . Best of luck to Roger McWilson, who will be married tomorrow. . . . We hear that Bobby Hatfield and Billy Schible have a special bench beside John Lare's desk. They must have been extra good boys while the boss man was gone. . . . John Lare is disappointed with Television in Chicago. Dagmar is banned there. . . . Don't forget to buy your party tickets. Let's all go this year.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Pendergrass on their new baby daughter, Teresa Ann. . . . We extend our sincere sympathy to Florence Hindman in the death of her father; to Robert Stute in the death of his aunt, and Lee Anderson in the death of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Harry Zwahlen. . . . Russell Prince underwent surgery recently at the Lutheran Hospital. We hope it will start him on the road to health. . . . We regret to hear of Florence Hindman's mother breaking her arm. . . . Dewey Wickliffe is enjoying a two-weeks' vacation at her sister's home in Uniondale. She's also catching up on her Christmas shopping. . . . Frank and Marilyn Schlink were visitors at the Mich. State-Colorado football game at East Lansing, Mich., over the week-end. . . . We're happy to hear Shirley Cunningham's son is able to return to work after his recent auto accident. . . . It's good to see Wilber Steffen back on the job after seven weeks' illness. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Walter Duhn returned recently from visiting Hot Springs, Ark. . . . You've all heard of the Quiz Kids—seems Bldg. 19-2 has the "Coke Kids," the "Bobs," Everding and Harrod. . . . Cecile Hinton wishes to say "hello" to all her friends, and hopes to be back on the job by the middle of December. . . . Bill Hoke has done it again. Once more Bill's Hi Speed paint stirring machine went out of control. Result: three quarts of paint on the equipment and one left in the bucket. Better stick to the old-fashioned paint paddle, Bill. It's slower, but safer. . . . Today's Chuckle: Traveling down the railroad track one hot Kansas day, a traveler was hoping to catch a freight. In the shade of a water tank, he saw an old hobo. "Going east, son?" the old one asked. "Yes," said the traveler. "Going all the way? Well, take the advice of an older man," the hobo said, "and don't do it." "Why not?" asked the traveler. "You'll see people running to work," replied the hobo.

Are you one of these last minute Christmas shoppers, too? Just wanted to remind you that there are only 20 more shopping days left. . . . Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Perry on the birth of a baby boy, James Ralph. . . . The new fellows in the drafting room are Donald Feber and Albert Lefvra. Welcome fellows. . . . Nyal McMullin has left the AC Division to replace Doug Johnson in the DC Division. Lee Preston will change from AC motors to AC generators. Lee is replacing Jim Bunner who recently left for the Navy. . . . Be sure to get Eric Gawehn's latest Christmas record with Merry Christmas and Santa's Coming, sung by the Melody Five. . . . Don't forget Elex has Christmas cards and candies. Get your orders in now.

Johnny was in a quandary. As the family car left for the hospital, he shouted: "What'll I do if the stork comes while you're gone?"

Easy Does It—Harold Hohman, Bldg. 17-2, is shown returning to work after serving on jury duty. Harold's comment on performing his civic duty, "I like it, but I get tired sitting," prompted the thought among his co-workers that Harold might like a pillow for his chair.

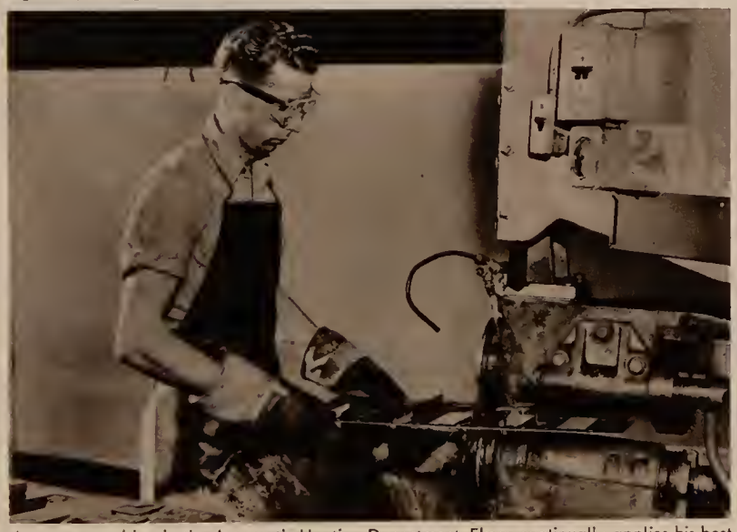
A Typical GE F



Elmer Larbalestrier punches time clock for the first shift, as an hourly-rated employee at the Bloomfield Works. He knows that one of the best ways to help produce more goods is always to be on time for work.

He is always careful to eliminate waste and spailage in operating the Kane-Raach fin coiler, for there must be exactly 16 turns of external fins on the heat transfer unit he assembles far the furnace.

He cooperates in plant safety measures at all times. Before starting his day's work, he puts an safety glasses, a rubber apran, glaves and baats.

As a seam welder, in the Autamatic Heating Department, Elmer continually applies his best skill, care and effort in welding angles on the top sheet used in the GE gas furnace.

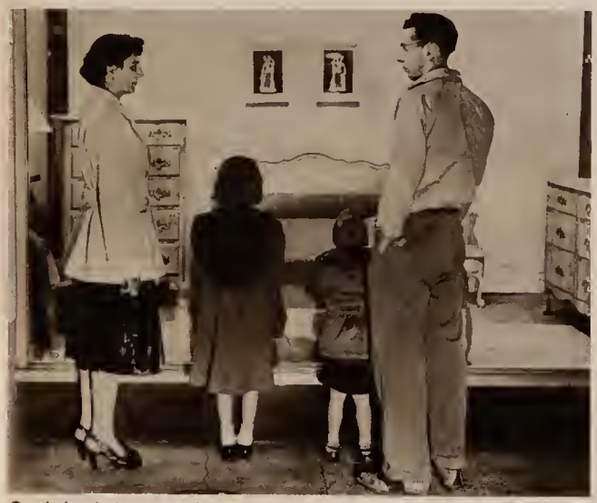
He regularly uses the Suggestion System for his ideas to improve the efficiency of praduction operations, and he believes he'll soan win a suggestion award as he is shown doing in this posed picture with A. J. Sturtevant, general foreman, Automatic Heating Department.

amily Does Its Part To Fight Inflation

MOST economists agree that a major cause of inflation is an increasing supply of spending money without a corresponding increase of consumer goods to match it. When we compete among ourselves for these goods which are in short supply, the prices tend to go up and the buying power of the dollar down.

Various methods for controlling such inflationary tendencies are constantly being tried or suggested, and many of these are outside the control of individuals. However there are many things each of us can do both on the job and at home which can have an effect on inflationary factors.

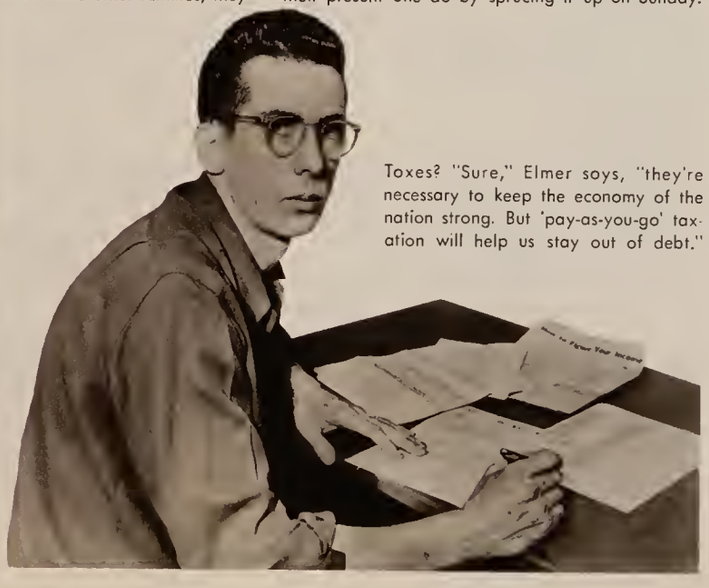
At work we can apply our best skill, care and effort toward increasing the production of goods; be ever watchful to eliminate waste and spoilage; and cooperate in all safety measures. At home we can save all we can; buy only what we need; be careful about going into debt; and support "pay-as-you-go" tax programs while at the same time doing what we can to get all government agencies to cut down on non-essential spending.



On these pages Elmer Larbalestrier, seam welder, Automatic Heating Department, Bloomfield, and his family are pictured as they demonstrate the individual's part in the anti-inflation program.

He buys o poper as he starts for home where, with his wife, Bea, and their two children, Suzanne ond Larry, aged 7 and 3, his fight against inflation continues.

Every payday Bea adds o little more to their sovings. They both know the importance of building a reserve for their future needs to be spent in more normal times.



On their window-shopping sprees, like they're doing here, they see mony things they'd like to hove, but wisely buy only what they really need.

They ore careful about going into debt, determined to keep their bank account. Like other families, they have looked at the lotest model cars, only to make their present one do by sprucing it up on Sunday.

Passing Municipol Building, Elmer chanced to meet a local government representative and told him thot he supports all efforts to cut down on non-essential spending by government agencies.

Toxes? "Sure," Elmer soys, "they're necessary to keep the economy of the nation strong. But 'pay-as-you-go' taxation will help us stay out of debt."

Golden Jubilee . . . More than 2300 graduates of GE's Apprentice Course attended recent 3-day program celebrating the 50th anniversary of the Schenectady Apprentice Training Program. (Above) Frank Lange, first graduate of the Course in 1903, and J. Vieth, of the class of 1951, get together with their wives at the celebration. (Below) Banquet is served to the grads, who came from all over the country.

Top Farm . . . Bowling champ Art Smethers, Fort Wayne Works, rolls a few practice balls down the GE club alley. Art won the 1951 State All-Events Bowling Championship last May, tallying 1,865 points in the meet.

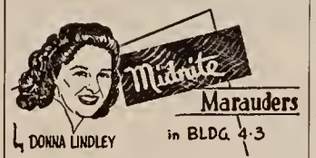
Plastics Make Big Splash . . . It used to rain cats and dogs, but now Peg Holmes of Pittsfield's Chemical Division is deluged by a shower of plastics parts, including radio cabinets, refrigerator parts and electrical switches. The plastics rain represents a portion of the wide range of plastics parts which are now being produced in just one week at GE's plastics plants in Decatur, Ill. and Taunton, Mass.

Holiday Left-Overs . . . These prize turkeys escaped the Thanksgiving ax for they're the pride of Jonathan Bourne and his wife Kitty, both of the Switchgear Department at Philadelphia. The Bournes have made a hobby of raising gobblers, and their small flock now numbers 76 birds.

Eight G-E TV Models Available to Employees During Special Sale

Eight current 17-inch models in G-E's Black-Daylite Television line are being made available to all Company employees, according to P. H. Leslie, television sales manager for the receiver department.

In his announcement of the employee sale, Mr. Leslie said that because of the difficulty in meeting tremendous consumer demand for TV receivers, particularly during the holiday season, the Company had never before been in a position to provide enough sets for its employees. He added that this event is designed to provide employees with the latest TV models at employee prices.



"It's doubtful that we will be able to satisfy employee demand for television receivers in the near future," Mr. Leslie said, "because of the expected materials shortages." He added that he "would recommend strongly that all employees do their best to take advantage of this sale of big-screen television now."

In the Fort Wayne area, G-E employees may buy these new sets at Sharkey's Radio Sales and Service, 2808 L. Huntington Rd., Waynedale. Local sources revealed that there is an ample supply in stock at the local distributors, Protective Electric.

At employee prices, the eight models range from $204.30 to $310.20. The $204.30 model is a mahogany table style. Another mahogany table model has an employee price of $212.40. A blond table model costs $228.70. The $244.95 model is a console with a cabinet made of genuine mahogany veneers.

The blond console model sells for $269.40 at the employee price. A half-door console in mahogany veneers is priced at $285.75. There are two models priced at $310.20. One is a blond half-door console. The other is a full-length door console in mahogany veneers. These prices include federal excise tax. Additional warranty charges of $10 will be added to the above prices.

The additional charge for installation at Sharkey's is approximately $125, which includes a directional aerial and pipe installation. If more height is desired, fabricated aluminum extensions may be obtained at additional cost. A booster, which is necessary in the Fort Wayne area, is also available. Prices range from $32.50 up.

Cliff Garvison is the new master of "Doris," a small Cocker Spaniel. . . . It just wouldn't look natural seeing Joe Roop without a cigar. . . . Happy birthday to Kay Vondran. The gals had a potluck for Kay, and the food was dee-licious. . . . Would like to know which Reggie Enzeman fears most—man or mouse? . . . New cars are being driven by Helen Thieme (Plymouth), and Martha Scott (Dodge). . . . Our sick list includes Evaline Best and Vera Neate. Best wishes to both of you for a speedy recovery. . . . Joe La Ba is buying her Christmas gifts at the Employee Store. The toys are for youngsters, she says, but Joan has them worn out the first day. . . . Doris Garr's husband is deer hunting in Michigan. We hope he brings home the venison. . . . By the way, Ralph Gilbert just had a lost week-end. . . . When Bonnie Clawson and Horn go hunting, they don't get rabbits. They shoot pigeons as they come out of the barn. . . . Don and Polly Crider thank everyone for their wedding gift. All our wishes go with them. . . . Would like to know what the "B" stands for in Mr. Horn's name. . . . Alice Justus paints her name on the mailbox in bright chartreuse. It's so the mailman can't miss it.

The Birthday Club was entertained by Dorothy Askren, with a dinner at Miller's Cafeteria and a theater party at the Clyde. Dorothy Mills was the honor guest. Those present were Dorothy Askren, Addie Masbaum, Eleanor Bolenbaugh, Dorothy Mills, Ann Tyler, Norma Krall, and Dorothy Crawford. . . . Floyd Garland got so excited when he saw all of the new Cheesecake in Bldg. 17-3, that he lit the cork end of his cigarette. I'll bet that that is why he wouldn't let Ralph Armey and Harry Chism push his car for him. After that one look, Floyd felt equal to pushing the car all by himself. Of course, the boys did want to charge him a dollar and a half. . . . Joan Murphy reports that her mother is doing nicely after her eye operation. . . . It is good to have Bob Dent back at his desk after his vacation in the hospital. . . . Want to know what I am doing with my evenings now? I am addressing Christmas cards, and it isn't a bit too early. If you should run out of cards, the Elex girls have some very nice ones, especially the new comic ones. They have a lot of smiles in them, and what we need now is more smiles.

Ansel Black Named Foreman In Large M-G Department

The appointment of Ansel W. Black as foreman in the heavy machining section, second shift, Large Motor-Generator Department, was announced this week by R. M. Hartigan, manager of manufacturing.

Mr. Black joined the Company in 1940. He entered the specialist course in the Apprentice School at that time. Upon completion of the course a few months later, he went to Bldg. 19-3 to become a shaft lathe operator. In 1942, he worked in the planning section for a few months.

Mr. Black then went to Kokomo to work in methods planning. In 1943, he was appointed a foreman in the light machining section at the Kokomo plant. Two years later, he entered the Fractional Horsepower Motor Department to do planning.

He returned to Fort Wayne in 1948 to work in methods and equipment in Bldg. 31-1. This was his position at the time of his present appointment.

Second Shift Foreman

Mr. Black attended Indiana Technical College. He majored in the mechanical engineering course.

The Blacks and their two children live on R. R. 1, Roanoke.

Uranium Is 'Old Stuff' To Ceramics Industry

Though many Americans are unaware of it, chances are they've been handling a compound containing uranium—that potent stuff from which atomic bombs are made—in their households for a number of years.

According to Dr. Louis Navias, a scientist in the General Electric Research Laboratory here, oxide of uranium was used for many years in the ceramics and glass industry for coloring glasses, ceramics and glazes.

The American public, just before the atomic age, quite innocently showed a dislike for uranium in at least one situation some years ago, when a store stocked large quantities of inexpensive dishes, colored yellow with uranium oxide.

Sales fell flat, however. Under certain lighting conditions, the yellow color took on a disagreeable hue, and lost its appeal, the G-E scientist said.

Private Stockpile

To demonstrate this "colorful," pre-atomic usage of uranium, Dr. Navias enjoys showing visitors what he calls the "Navias private uranium stockpile."

The exhibit consists of three, greenish-yellow colored, glass tubes which are fluorescent under ultra-violet lamps. Uranium oxide coloring in the tubes gives off the fluorescent glow under the lights.

Dr. Navias points out that one of the tubes was sent to him from an electrical concern in Germany in 1936. He cites this to show that, at that time, the Germans were using uranium but, like the rest of the world, were not aware of its atomic use.

The G-E scientist says that anyone can have his own private "uranium stockpile," if he happens to have a certain inexpensive type of sunglasses, available before or immediately after the last war. Uranium oxide was then used in coloring this particular brand of sunglasses.

Though some radiation is given off by the small amount of uranium oxide in the glass, the amount is so small that it can cause no harm, Dr. Navias said.

SPARKY: George Klein is charged so full of electricity that he made a chain of paper clips to trail from his chair just like a gasoline tank truck. George, if you misbehave someone may cut your chain and you'll get a shock. . . . WELCOME BACK: Charlie Koomjohn is back from his vacation. He didn't do anything special, just took life easy. . . . NEW GLASSES: Nancy Grosh finally got her new specs. Now she can throw away that wired up and glued up old pair. . . . WELCOME: To Richard Raber, a new draftsman in the AC Drafting. He came here from Carl Brandt's drafting school. . . . CONGRATS: Belated birthday greetings to J. C. Duryee Nov. 25. Also, congrats on your 25th wedding anniversary, Jerry. He and his wife repeated their honeymoon trip. . . . SO LONG: Jessie Chadwick is retiring Dec. 1. We wish her a lot of luck in the future. Also good luck to Minnie Cashion, who is retiring on the same day. . . . BYE BYE: Thelma Robinson is leaving today and will sail from New York Dec. 8 for India. She is planning to be away four months.

Safety Board Member

Otto Brunner Named to City Safety Board

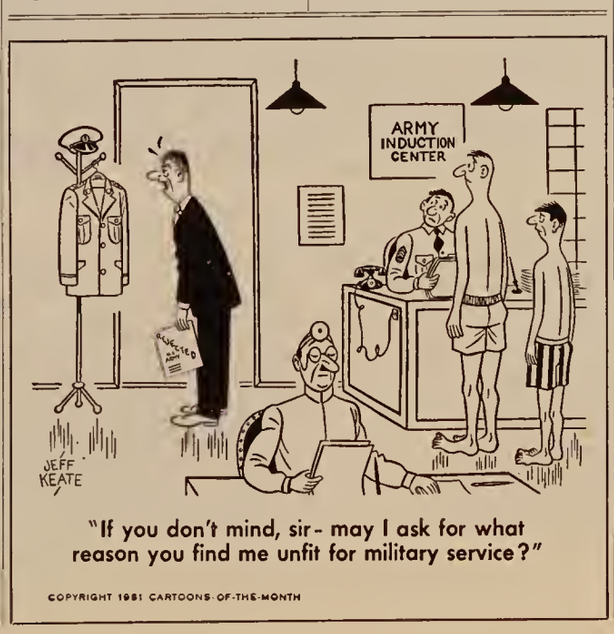
Otto W. Brunner, assistant supervisor of employment, was appointed to the City Board of Safety this week by Mayor-elect Harry W. Baals.

A lifelong resident of Fort Wayne, Mr. Brunner has been employed at General Electric since 1926. He is a member of the Quarter Century Club and the Supervisors Club. He has been a director of the Fort Wayne Maennerchor Singing Society for 20 years.

Mr. Brunner has been serving as a member of the Board of Safety under Mayor Henry E. Branning, Jr. He is a former Democratic member of the Allen County Election Commission.

The Brunners have three sons. Mr. and Mrs. Brunner live at 1229 Swinney Ave.

Our congratulations to Cathy Traughber and husband John, who celebrated their eighth wedding anniversary last Sunday. . . . Mary Warren sure is getting reckless these days. Better slow down on those curves, Mary. . . . Some people just don't know their own phone numbers and Maureen Brake is one of them. She had to ask one of the girls what her own number was! . . . Kathleen Beckman reports quite a lot of progress in the recovery of her daughter, who was seriously burned. . . . Julia Hahnhaus arrived in Chicago from Georgia slightly dizzy. The weather was bad and the plane had to circle the field for quite a while. She thought she was seeing things when she met Barbara Spieth, who was saying good-bye to her serviceman husband. He was leaving for the West Coast. As a result, they motored home together. . . . Congratulations to Mary Garrard, who has a birthday soon. . . . Welcome to Edna Gaff in 1x50. She came from Taylor St. . . . Geneva Moody and her husband had a delicious Thanksgiving dinner at Mary and Joe Parent's, but Jim reports the hunting was bad. Never even saw a rabbit. . . . The reason Billy Gawthrop is so happy is that her husband is an apprentice toolmaker now. . . . Edith Juleriat's son, Monty, spent the Thanksgiving holidays at home. He is going to school at Great Lakes. . . . In case you haven't noticed that new sparkle in Virginia Pfieffer's face, it is some more work of Cupid's arrow. She is wearing a beautiful diamond from her sailor boyfriend. . . . Best wishes to Mrs. Charles Carnahan, who was formerly Anita McMaken. . . . Best wishes go to Mattie Fancher, who became Mrs. Jim Macquire May 5 and just now let it be known. . . . We wish to welcome Arnold Kiefer and Kenneth Fosnaugh in the toolmaker group. . . . Lloyd Jacobs gave Paul Hendericks a deer sandwich because he expected a week's supply of meat in return, but Paul didn't get a deer this time. In fact, they didn't even get a rabbit. He should have stayed at home and gone trapping with Wilbur Eytcheson. He caught 37 muskrats, one mink and 25 coons. . . . Francis Harter has been called for jury duty in Whitley County again. He was called once before, but didn't have to serve. . . . Everett Lindeman is getting absent-minded. He left his auto lights on and had to go back and turn them off. . . . We didn't know that Bill Widdifield was working at Taylor St., but don't let it mislead you he was right here in Bldg. 4-3 all the time. . . . Betty Bauer didn't come to work last Friday as she had a black eye. It seems that her son has some boxing gloves and they were using them. She got the worst end of it. . . . Congratulations to the Charles Cox family on the new boy at their house. . . . Cora Rice acquired new glasses, while on her vacation last week. . . . When Helen Struver had a birthday last week, she thought she had better check and see if it was time to get new driver's license. You can imagine her surprise, when she found out that she had been driving a whole year with no license! . . . The boys in the Black Armature section still have their World Series baseball scoreboard up. I guess the game isn't over for them yet! . . . Frank Voirol's wife ordered a new fur cape from Santa, then changed her mind and wanted a new Oldsmobile. She got the Olds, but still wants the cape! . . . Herb Sullivan thinks he should have a bigger bucket this New Year's, so he can take a bath and not just get his head in. . . . Tom Pauley sure is befuddled these days. He forgot it was Friday until he had one hamburger sandwich eaten. . . . Wonder if Marvin Rutz is going to buy those toys from Sears for himself or for his nephews or nieces? . . . Birthday greeting to Lois Kauffman, who has a birthday Dec. 31; Wilma Pfierman on the 10th; Mary Gebhardt, the 21st; Garnet Patrick, the 28th; Lillie Benz, retired, the 30th, and Dale Stalther, the 4th.



Congratulations to Ray Johnson for being with the Company 25 years. . . . Floetta Zartman had lost some aprons. Imagine her surprise to see them come down the conveyor. . . . Ivah Grandstaff had a nice birthday present. She won an automatic washer on her birthday. . . . We know Ina Smith has two sets of earrings. She wore one of each to work. She has another pair just like them at home. . . . Dorothy Johnson attended the Ohio State-Michigan game last Saturday. . . . Jack Dobson attended the Notre Dame-Iowa game. . . . The Bill Martins were in Indianapolis. . . . Anne Kensill is going to have a Christmas tree just four inches tall. It won't take so many lights and ornaments. . . . Elmer and Doris Lontz celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary last week. . . . Joe and Naomi Robinson celebrate their 25th anniversary in December. Both couples went to Chicago last week-end to do a little celebrating. Congratulations. We hope you can celebrate your Golden Anniversaries together. . . . Bob Walt was seen doing a Boy Scout deed the other evening after work. He helped a small child across the street during the 3:30 p.m. rush. . . . Mary Jane Redding received a notice in the mail of the fact that we didn't work on Thanksgiving. Could it be because she had come in on Election Day to work? . . . Owen Cartwright was a visitor last week. . . . All morning Monday Mary Murphy dreamed of the delicious lunch she had packed and left at home in the refrigerator. . . . Doris Lontz was on vacation last week. . . . Kate Weigele must be excited over her new job. It is a daily habit for her not to ring her clock card. . . . Margaret Stuck is on our sick list. Hope to see you back soon.

ROUNDS OUT 30 YEARS—A group of Wire Mill friends are shown giving their best wishes to Jesse Easterday (second from left) as he completed 30 years of service with the Company November 13. Shown are (l-r) F. A. Arnold, Mr. Easterday, H. R. Thompson and Elmer Hamilton. Mr. Easterday has been a wire insulator during most of his G-E career.

Don't forget about the G-E War Vets Pearl Harbor Dance, to be held Friday, December 7, at the Rhythm Ranch, on the Miller Road. Tickets are 50 cents per person and yours truly has a limited number. . . . Jim "Rembrandt" Miller has left us for service with Uncle Sam. Jim has gone, but his artistic decorations will live on. . . . The testers and inspectors held a Thanksgiving feast—turkey and all the trimmings. We hear that feast is what brought Gene Mettler back into work. . . . Louise Perry is now running for dog catcher, so don't forget your votes, girls. . . . Hey! Mickey, do your feet hurt, that your toenails need trimming? . . . Kenny Fisher is back to work after a short illness. Gloria Irwin and Marge Lehman have also been on the sick list. . . . Marilyn Langwell celebrated a birthday recently. . . . Virginia Kiesler was one of the lucky girls that won a chicken at the G-E bowling alley. . . . Cecelia Ferguson, what seems to be the big interest in the Main St. Diner? The gals see you there early, every morning. . . . Was it a cow or a St. Bernard that threw you, Dan Zumbrun? . . . Does someone whose initials are Marilyn L. have a great interest in Neisner's? . . . What has been the matter with your voice, Gail? Too much TV? . . . Well, look who's coming! None other than Hopalong with her little red lunch bucket.

Our sympathy to Herb Mailand on the death of his father. . . . Viola Krommenaher has been a very sick girl as she has been off from work with pneumonia. Hurry back, Viola, we miss you. . . . Did you know that we almost lost little Harriet Minch in the cloak rack the other day? It seems that after a terrific struggle to push some coats apart so she could hang her coat up, two other girls put their coats there. They said the only reason they did it, was to keep Harriet from falling in. . . . How's this for a hobby? We hear that Wava Lee is now trying a trick of house-breaking a chicken. How about this, Wava? . . . It sure is a shame the way the male sex gets treated. We hear that Zara bought a doghouse, that could only mean one thing. . . . Did you hear how a friend of Glen Castle crossed him up on matching for a coke? It seems he was to turn up a certain thing, but he turned up the opposite, so Glen had to pay. You just can't trust anybody, can you, Glen? . . . Kate Hirshman, who as of Nov. 21 was Mrs. Robert Maley, made a beautiful, but very, very nervous bride. . . . If you care to see a charming grin, ask Margaret Hilgemann why she has a piece of tape around a certain part of her pencil. . . . Marcie buys a 1950 auto that's decked out with red and green lights on it. She claims they are not for her, and they have to go. What's the matter, Marcie, too bright? . . . Clark Stevens is still wondering if he had roast or boiled duck for Thanksgiving.

FHP Cagers Overpower Aircraft 46 to 34

by Ray Quinn

Led by Huddleston and Burkett, the Fractional Horsepower Motor team defeated Aircraft 46 to 34 in their game played at G-E Club November 27. Fractional took the lead in the first quarter and stayed there, although the losers rallied mildly in the second half.

The Accounting team dropped a low-scoring game to Apprentice school, 31 to 23. The losers led well into the third quarter, but some nice shooting by Fredrick turned the trick for the Apprentice school.

The Firemen won a fairly easy ball game from Test Engineers, 39 to 21. It was an even ball game for the first half, but in the third quarter the winners' passes began to click as they ran up a long lead.

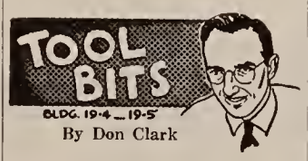
Owl Cagers Open Season With Three Close Games

By Bill Geist



The Owl League got off to a good start with some interesting competition as was expected. Taylor St. bested the Wire Mill by 37-30 and it was a good game all the way. Chuck Klenke was high for Taylor St., with six baskets for 12 points. Harold Somers was high for the losers with ten points on four fielders and two free throws.

The oddest game of the day was turned in by Bldgs. 26 and 26-3. In a tight first half, 26-3 held a 20-16 lead, but they went scoreless in the third quarter, and were unable to pick up the deficit in the fourth quarter. Final score, 33-26. Jim Taylor was high for the winners with four field goals and two free throws for 10 points. Bud Pfafman was high for the losers, with 11 points on five fielders and one free throw.

In the last game of the morning, Bldg. 4, with well-divided scoring downed the Bldg. 4-5 team 34 to 17. Bill Butler led the winners with 12 points, on five fielders and two free throws. Forest Dwyer and Jim Scherer scored 10 each for the losers. Forest got five field goals and Jim, four field goals and two free throws.

From all indications of the first day's play, more good games are in the offing in the future. Bring your night worker neighbor or girl friend to the G-E club gym Wednesday mornings.

Our congratulations to Carl Click who is taking that one fateful step tomorrow. It is his wedding day! . . . The hunting season brings to light an incident that happened to Otto Rodenbeck a couple of years ago. His two-acre tract lies just outside the city. Otto was putting up storm windows. Suddenly, he heard the close report of a gun being fired and was amazed to see a rabbit roll over dead in the yard close by. Quick-thinking Otto grabbed the rabbit and took it into the house. He then proceeded to give the hunters a few well-deserved instructions on the where and how of hunting. . . . The Die Plant welcomes Maurice Guenther back on the job. It looks like Clyde Spangler rates TV higher than eating. He sold his chickens and used the proceeds for a new television set. . . . It was a blue Monday for John Stetler this week. He was eating an early breakfast when a slight explosion in the furnace took place. With the house filled with soot and smoke, John had a big cleaning job ahead. We are glad no one was hurt, John. . . . When Del Stickler asked if knotty pine wood was full of holes, he meant it. Using this type of lumber in his dining room, he found all the knots were so loose they kept falling out. . . . Our new Sidney Lathe arrived just in time, as John Roemer's lathe broke down. John is now in engineering production on the big chip maker. . . . Eric Bluhm is taking a new look on life. New spectacles make a difference, Eric says. . . . Vic Barcus is a big help to Walter Vought who sacrificed his upper teeth last week. Vic keeps Walter posted on what kind of soup is to be served each day. . . . We hang the welcome sign out for Don Alcott who has returned to work. Don was injured in that rough game called volleyball. . . . After a recent argument, Mart Walsh is concinced that the older you get the tougher you are. The thing is that Mart feels young. . . . We extend our sympathy to Woodrow Hursh in the death of his mother and to Guy Wagoner in the death of his father. We would like to mention that Guy's father lived to be 90 years of age and enjoyed remarkably good health most of these years.

Hunter Rodenbeck

The Works Lab team of the Interdivision League was really hot in their first game against the Doodlebugs and shot a big 1034. Jess Keith led the Works Lab team with a high 222 count. Transformer downed Harvey Bros. two games, and Brouwers took three games from the Hot Shots. Reginols turned the hose on the Firemen and beat them three games.

Noah Kuntz leads the league individual averages with a 177 average. 200 counts were made by Luedeman 202, Soule 221, Koehl 205, Rump 200 and Laisure 208. Herb Thicle has been reading the column looking for his name. At least we have one person reading this column. Thanks, Herb.

Ladies' Friday Night League

Team No. 4 is leading the league with Team No. 12 in second place. Third place is a tie between Team No. 8 and Team No. 1. Ida Witte rolled a nice 189 count, Faye Murphy 183, Ann Lee and Joan Korn had identical counts of 175. Delores Drewitt totaled up a nice 520 series, and Faye Murphy converted the 7-9-10 split.

Masonic League

Doric are leading the league with 22 won and 8 lost. Three teams, Gavels, Ionic, and Corinthian, are tied for second place with a 16 won and 14 lost record. Bickhard had the high single game for the night—a 225 count. Buckmaster collected two double century counts, 215 and 204, Peters 218, Shultz 213, Martz 209, Somers 206, Hinrichs 201, and Hoelle 200.

Office League

Amplidynes are out in front with a 25-11 record. Aircraft and Drafting are closing in fast with a 24-12. Moving back into the top rungs is the Standardizing team with a 22-14 win and loss record. Bush Bushong really had the pins toppling; and when the score was posted, Bush had a big 255 count. Other double century counts were made by Ivan Parrish 205, Harry Brown 204, Don (Plunger) Stoneman 203, Harry Dalman 203, Rex Oberlin 203, Orval Doherty 203, John Root 202, and Dick Grote 200. Drafting rolled a high single game of 1021 and Aircraft a 1009.

Ladies' Monday Night

Pins were a little contrary for the Ladies' Monday Night with only two of them getting any high games. Helen Wagner collected a 183 and a 170, while Ester Muzzillo had a 180. Pepperettes are out in front with a 27-9, and Sugar Bowlers are in second place with a 22-14. Split conversions were made by Dorothy Brubaker 5-10, Margie Huber 2-5-7, Helen Wagner 6-10, and Gladys Cleland 4-5.

Thursday Owl League

Burt's Restaurant is still out in front with 25 wins and 2 losses. Swifty Connett is just behind them with 22 wins and 5 losses. Frieda Green scored a 147 single game and Donna Murphy a 375 three game count.

Small Motor

The race for top spot is getting very tight with Tools out in front, having won 22 and lost 11. Office and Contributing have a 20 and 13 record with Planning showing a record of 19-14. The noisey Planning team won three games and are making their bid for the top spot. Entries into the Double Century Club include A. Koursen 215, P. Merkert 207, Fred Wheeler 200, Leo Reffelt 231, H. Hoffman 205, H. Vance 204, L. Runyon 201, Ed (Rocket Arm) Bowser 205 and Joe Kramer 204. Ed Bowser just completed 30 years with the G-E. Congrats, Ed.

Transformer

Homer Meeker reports that Bells are out in front with 17 won and 10 lost. Three teams are tied for the next spot with 16 won and 11 lost. The teams, Coils, Toys, and M's, are making their bid to take over the top spot. Krasienko 200 and Miller 206 were the only 200 games reported.

Decatur

Monday night league shows the Office out in front with a 22 won 11 lost record. In second place are the Packers with 19 wins and 14 losses. Schuster hit the double century count with a 202 and 207, Berry 202 and 200, Shackley 211, Briede 202, Jackson 229, August 203, and Sheets 210.

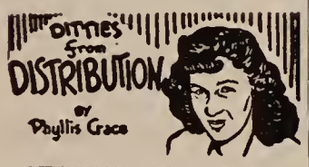
In the G-E Fraternal league Teeple Truck Lines are way out in front with 27 won and 6 lost. In second place is the Elks team with a 20 and 13 record, Peterson Elevator in third place with 19 and 14 record. H. Murphy rolled 264-100 and 176 for a big 630 count. G. Baumgartner hit the pins for 201-183 and 218 for a 602 count. 200 scores were made by Faulkner 222, E. Lankenau 208, Laurent 206-204, Lord 202, Keller 200, and Custer 206. H. Murphy's 264 single is high for the season in the Fraternal league.

Notice

Don't forget mixed doubles tournament December 8th, G-E Club, $4 per team. Make your entry early. Call Ext. 742.

Three bowlers are needed in the Interdivision league. Call Carl Miller on Ext. 2545 or G-E Club on Ext. 742.

Employees Play Big Role In Local Blood Program



In response to the national need for blood plasma, employees of the Fort Wayne Works have been playing an important role in the American Red Cross Blood Program, Ab Martin, Works manager, announced today.

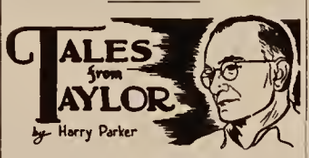
At the present time, there are 1,841 employees who have pledged to support the program. Of this total, 1,415 are men and 426 are women.

In cooperation with the Allen County Chapter of the American Red Cross, a campaign was conducted within the plant during the month of August to obtain blood donor pledges from employees. Since August 29, 413 employees have made appointments and become donors.

Mr. Martin stated that the need is more urgent today than it has been at any time. He urged employees to participate in this nation-wide project, for a life may be saved by their participation.

Any one who wishes to become a part of this program and to help meet the serious need in Korea may do so by calling Marguerite Fenner, Ext. 2365, or Marjorie Meyer, Ext. 471, and making an appointment to go to the local Red Cross Chapter at 406 W. Berry St.

SHIPPING: First Christmas tree of the season is being displayed on Betty Cutright's desk. Of course, it takes a wee bit of stretching of the imagination to visualize a tree from the tiny branch in the water glass, but it's green. . . . Sure was nice to see Bob (PFC) Gebert, even though it was a very brief visit. . . . Mary Murphy gave up in her fight with "the battle of the bulge." . . . We say farewell to Beverly Kieler today, and wish her the best of everything in her coming adventure as a homemaker. . . . Belated birthday greetings to Betty Kemp, who celebrated yesterday. . . . Anyone in the vicinity of Bluffton Saturday probably is wondering what that big BANG was. It was Ferne Runyan and hubby and their little green Plymouth which just happened to be right in the middle of an accident. Fortunately, no one was hurt. . . . "Baby, it's cold inside," of Eva Westrick's house. Because the furnace went on the blink. Anyone have a pair of snuggies, earmuffs, and fur lined boots for poor Eva? She's turning blue. . . . RECEIVING: Arthur Koeneman likes to spend a quiet and peaceful day fixing things around the house. Last Sunday was no exception. Arthur climbed out of bed about 10 a.m. only to find that the thermostat on his furnace wasn't operating right. In order to throw a little more light on the subject, Arthur hung an electric light on the closet door. The heat from the light scorched the paint on the door, and Arthur could see that his next task was the repainting of that door. This finished, he started to straighten the sliding drawer in the kitchen cabinet. Instead, the drawer broke, and he had to rebuild it. So far all this did not discourage our Arthur. Looking out the window, he saw a large, white rooster scratching the leaves off the rose-bed which he had made. Arthur grabbed a good broom and tossed it at the rooster. The rooster left in peace, and the broom was in pieces. Thus we leave Arthur, muttering to himself, but nevertheless, repairing the broom handle. . . . The gals in the office had a surprise potluck dinner in honor of Dorothy Ehernman, who left us to work at Taylor St. She was presented with a gift from the fellows and gals in the Receiving Division. Carol Linnemeier will fill the vacancy left by Dorothy's departure. Best of luck, Dorothy, in your new job and welcome, Carol. We hope you like us. . . . Marie Renz has a cute nickname for Dewain Freshwater, our mayor of Middlebury.



HEIGH-HO A HUNTING WE DID GO—At last, a nice big raccoon was the victim. Hurry, put him inside your coat, Herman, for safe keeping, so we can try to find another. Moving on, Herman Lengerich felt a suspicious movement inside the coat. Had the critter revived? He opened his coat for an inspection—out jumped Mr. 'Coon and how he did run! Now, Herman, are you sure it was a 'coon, or was it a possum? . . . VACATION—Vacation time claimed Jake Eady this week and Mike Kimble was in charge of the tool room. Much to the disappointment of the gang, Mike refused to wear a necktie to distinguish him from the rest of the fellows. . . . CELEBRATING THEIR BIRTHDAYS—This week we have Annabelle Gehrig, Ina Noack, Frank Gillig, and Clarence August. Happy birthday, folks! . . . SO LONG, JOE!—Joe Adams is leaving us to spend two years with Uncle Sam in the Navy. Good Luck, Joe! . . . WHAT GOES?—What are they going to try next? First we have Eddie driving without a driver's license; now Skipper trys to drive a truck without license plates. . . . BEST WISHES—Arline Heare and James Colter were married Wednesday evening, November 21. Arline chose her sister, Mrs. Joyce Miller, as maid of honor and Richard Maloney served as best man. A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents following the ceremony. Serving at the reception were Mary Maloney and Lois Meyer. All the happiness that can be had, Arline and Jim! . . . Hazel Lichtenstiger spent Thanksgiving with her husband, Bill, at Camp Atterbury. . . . Phyllis Myers' husband, Gene, a former employee of Bldg. 1 who is now serving with the Marines, was home Thanksgiving. . . . Irene Holthouse was invited to the Art Voglewedes for Thanksgiving and Jeanette Brown spent Thanksgiving with her brother Gerald in Indianapolis. . . . Dorothy Schnepf went to Chicago recently and did some Christmas shopping. She also visited with her sister Marj. Marj worked in the office a few years ago. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Linn's daughter, Diane, spent Thanksgiving with her parents. . . . THE GREAT HUNTER—Dave Embler and sons were hunting Thanksgiving. What happened, we don't know. Dave won't talk. We'll find out sooner or later and let you know about it. . . . It is a well known fact that Bill Kohls has a weakness for home-made bread and biscuits. If given the opportunity to do so he will indulge in these tasty bits to such extents that he becomes a victim of insomnia.

We all extend our extreme sympathies to Les Redding, whose mother passed away in Huntington Sunday. . . . We dedicate the next few lines to the return of second shift news, which has been lacking for some time. First, we welcome the new set-up men in winding. Ralph Wilder in small lot, Jack Teneyck, James Rupert and Pinkey Christman in ballast. Second Trick recently had a potluck for Harry Hire and wished him lots of luck on his new job in Bldg. 26-4. . . . Welcome back to Joyce Horne and Elaine Omo. Also a cheery hurry-back to Johnnie Jones. . . . Celia Raber, Genevieve Miller and Aldyth Cotner have been seriously considering going on a diet, but have decided to wait until after the holidays. . . . Ruth Pfieffer came in one day with two red feathers in her hair. Guess she thought she was an Indian, but a couple of the set-up men, with untied apron strings, thought they resembled horns. . . . We are sorry Tom Hildenbrand wasn't able to return to work as soon as expected. Tom asked us to express his sincere thanks to everyone for the present. . . . Johnny Hixon was also a recent caller on the floor. We all hope to see him back at work soon. . . . Congratulations to Frances Leach and husband, who have a new baby daughter. . . . You have probably all heard of bubble baths, but Frieda Brandyberry tells us about taking a shower with fruit juices. Rather expensive, isn't it, Frieda? . . . Dorothy McGowen locked her keys in her house, so Allen Gillum crawled through the window for her. He reports she has two or three locks on every door. Wonder why? . . . Have Harry Bailey and Fred Smith on the Jet bench bought new alarm clocks yet? . . .

Hot Stuff

Paul Black was walking down the aisle recently looking rather warm. Someone had "accidently" set his pants cuff on fire. . . . Wonder what Ann Wible was doing under the desk recently? When she came out, Harold Schuman was there to greet her. . . . We all thought Rosie Klingenberger had reformed, but recently she locked up her keys again for the first time in months. . . . "Pealy" Pequignot reports that while on his hunting trip, a skunk came into the tent one night to get warm. It went up to "Pealy", sniffed a couple of times, turned around and went out into the cold again. By the way, we haven't seen any of the venison yet.

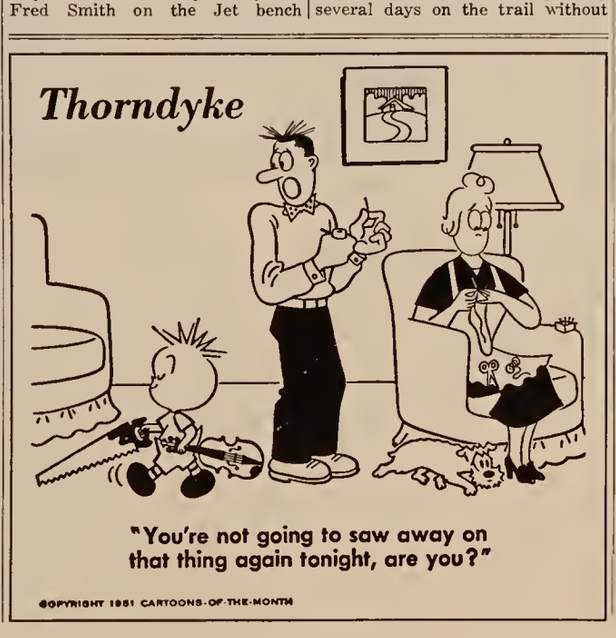
Everett McKee journeyed to the far reaches of Northern Michigan in search of deer. After spending several days on the trail without spotting a single one, he gave up in disgust and started homeward, without firing a shot. However, not to be outdone, he did shoot a goat on the return trip and dressed it on the spot. Upon arriving home, he tried to convince the folks that it was baby deer meat, but he couldn't fool the oldsters. The odor it put forth when cooked gave away his secret. We really believe that Everett would have shot a deer if he had gone into Southern Indiana during the hunting period. . . . Our genial friend, Ed Hines, who now works in Bldg. 4-1, is still riding that ancient log wagon type bicycle back and forth to work. We have observed him over the years pumping that old machine south on Broadway, and we wonder how he does it. As you all know, Ed is not as young as he used to be, but he still persists in riding that ancient model come rain, wind, snow or what have you. Perhaps Santa will bring him one of those new lightweight models this Christmas. . . . Desiring to have some fun with Joe Turley, some of the boys removed the combination lock on his drawer and replaced it with one owned by Charlie Richardson. Then they waited for Joe to show up and try to open his drawer. This is where the big laugh was supposed to come, but it didn't. He walked to his bench and nonchalantly opened said lock while the pranksters stook by looking dumbfounded. The secret of all this was that someonc who knew thc combination of Charlie's lock tipped Joe off, thereby, letting him have the last laugh. . . . Having compiled a short list of our famous sportsmen, we herewith present it to you: fishermen deluxe are Ward Grim, Clarence Stove and Buck Adams; the rabbit-slaying champions are Harold Hart, Buster Miller and Ralph Eccenbarger. Last but not least by any means is Arthur Brandenberger, champ snipe hunter and speedboat maniac.

Deer Slayer

. . . John Babb and his son-in-law have no complaints about their luck at hunting deer. They got two deer while hunting only two days and are still eating deer around their house.

Alcohol is a liquid for preserving almost anything except secrets.

It's risky to be sitting on top of the world these days.



H. W. Orr Addresses Knolls Lab Group On Coil Corrosion

Howard W. Orr, of the Works Laboratory, presented a paper on "Corrosion in Multiple Layer Wound Coils" at the Knolls, Schenectady Works, Wednesday.

Mr. Orr was on the program of a Company-wide symposium on corrosion. His presentation was based on developed data and progress made in overcoming chemical, electrolytic and galvanic corrosion as the major causes of most "opens" in fine wire coils.

A complete report of his paper and supporting data has been published in the technical magazine, Communications.

Anyone trying to call Massachusetts long distance will have a hard time, as Bertha Burnau's family keep the wires hot. . . . Bill Grubb was on vacation last week. He said he was going to be a hermit, but found out he was in Cleveland for Thanksgiving. . . . E. Gilliam was surprised to find a corn cob wrapped in wax paper in his lunch the other day. What some guys won't do! . . . Edith Venrick is off next week on her third week's vacation, and is going to move into a new apartment. . . . We hear Dorothy Swank put on a very colorful dance the other night, red flannels and all. Dorothy are you open for engagements? . . . Anyone sick—see Doc Didier. Maybe you had better check with Jim Carey first to see if Doc is a quack or not, or if he really can cure a stiff neck. . . . Perry Jefferies and George Morton are our newest members. Hope you like us. Of course, Perry was with us some time ago and liked us so well that he came back. . . . Florence Fett had a birthday last Friday, and we wish her many more happy birthdays. . . . We are wondering what Anita was giving Clara Cherry Flips the other day. Was it a bribe? Maybe Edith better look into the candy business, as we hear she has a very bad record. . . . O'Connor won't be so quick in saying "no" the next time. The one he said this week cost $9.50, so we hear via the grape vine. . . . It seems Ed Bowser started a rumor around the section, and Dallas Smith said, "What some people won't do for a cigar!"

Lelah Ryan tells us she intends to go over on the transformer line so she has time to cut out paper dolls. . . . Who whistled at Dessie George? Oh, it was only a squeaky machine. . . . You should have seen Clara Wisel, Betty Collier and Dorothy Franklin blowing bubbles. Yeh! Clara topped the list with the largest bubble and bubble gum all over her nose and chin. Betty and Dorothy will have to practice a little. . . . Don Meyer and Woody Platt are leaving us and we sure are sorry to see them go. We'll miss you, Don and Woody. . . . After reading Fern Yoder's cook book and with the help of Connie Harris, Betty Collier baked a pecan pie for the Thanksgiving dinner at Pennville, but she didn't even get a taste of it. Bake another one, Betty, and we'll all help you sample it. . . . Dessie George tells us she is an Auntie again to a baby girl. . . . Connie Harris says she knows a lot, but doesn't think it would be interesting in the WORKS NEWS. . . . Kay Dolan really takes good care of her new pet. Ask her about it. . . . Margaret Wolfe and John King middle-aisled it recently. Good luck to you both. . . . Mabel O'Neil has been Christmas shopping. That's right, folks, the shopping days are getting fewer and fewer. It will be Christmas before you realize it. . . . Woody Platt didn't recognize Mary Stearns in a skirt and blouse, so he asked her where her overalls were. . . . Mada Candle's son just returned to service after spending 15 days on furlough. On returning he is going to Alaska. . . . Forrest Bunner's son has been recalled to service. He is an officer in the Navy. . . . Harley Tucker was honored Thanksgiving day. All the family got together and surprised him with a birthday dinner. . . . We extend our sympathy to Margaret Wolfe in the death of her mother.

The Thanksgiving festivities are over, but there is a story that lingers on. It has to do with the Leider's turkey. It seems that Mr. and Mrs. Leider took great care in selecting just the right bird for the feast. They bought the bird on the hoof and were advised that the proper way to prepare a turkey for roasting was to hang it up, cut the jugular vein, and let the draining process take plenty of time. Preparations were made for doing just that. The bird was hung from a line in the tool house; pans were properly situated, and killer Leider proceeded to do the rest. The shock was rather severe to the bird. It gave one lurch, the wire broke, and the bird finished the ordeal in its own way. Now the moral to this story is: Better investigate the new methods before you discard the old—or you may have to clean up the tool house. . . . The cold germs took a toll in the Payroll Monday. Julia Ray, Phyllis Rudolph and Elizabeth Carnell were the victims. . . . Hospital. Esther Sears entered the Lutheran Hospital, Room No. 220, on Sunday and underwent surgery on Monday. Our best wishes for a rapid recovery, Esther. . . . And to Ceal Romary, who underwent an appendectomy Saturday. . . . Herbert Kammeyer attended an Insurance meeting in New York this week. . . . Happy Birthday. Thelma Stone celebrated her 21st birthday, again, last Saturday. . . . Happy Thought. You count the shopping days until Christmas—I don't have the heart!

You think you have troubles! Grace Taylor has you all beat. One of her sisters is in the hospital, another had a stroke, her expectant daughter-in-law was put to bed and her son was injured in a minor accident. But Grace came through smiling—as usual. . . . One Bookkeeper Needed. Jean Smith has trouble keeping track of the Elex candy that she passes out. Jean ended up with an extra box and couldn't find the owner. Guess who the person was—Jean! . . . Welcome Back. Delores Borne is back with us again after a long illness. She looks very well and we're happy to see her back. . . . Carol's Gremlins. Carol Harrington has more trouble with keeping lights on than Jean Smith has with her candy. Every time she turns them on, little Gremlins turn them off again. . . . Speaking of Carol, she has a bad habit of closing drawers on peoples shirts. Betty Bartley almost lost a shirt the other day. . . . Yea, Rah, Football. Carol Kissinger, her fiance and a friend enjoyed the Notre Dame game Saturday. . . . A Big Thank You. I want to thank Marilyn Spice, Maxine Householder, Vi Schnieders, Mary Wakeman, Vivian Reitdorf, Betty Bartley and Carol Harrington for the very nice gift. . . . Marjorie Reeder tells me that Jo Quinn has found an excellent place to hold her yarn while she's knitting. It may look odd but it does the trick.

G-E DEATHS

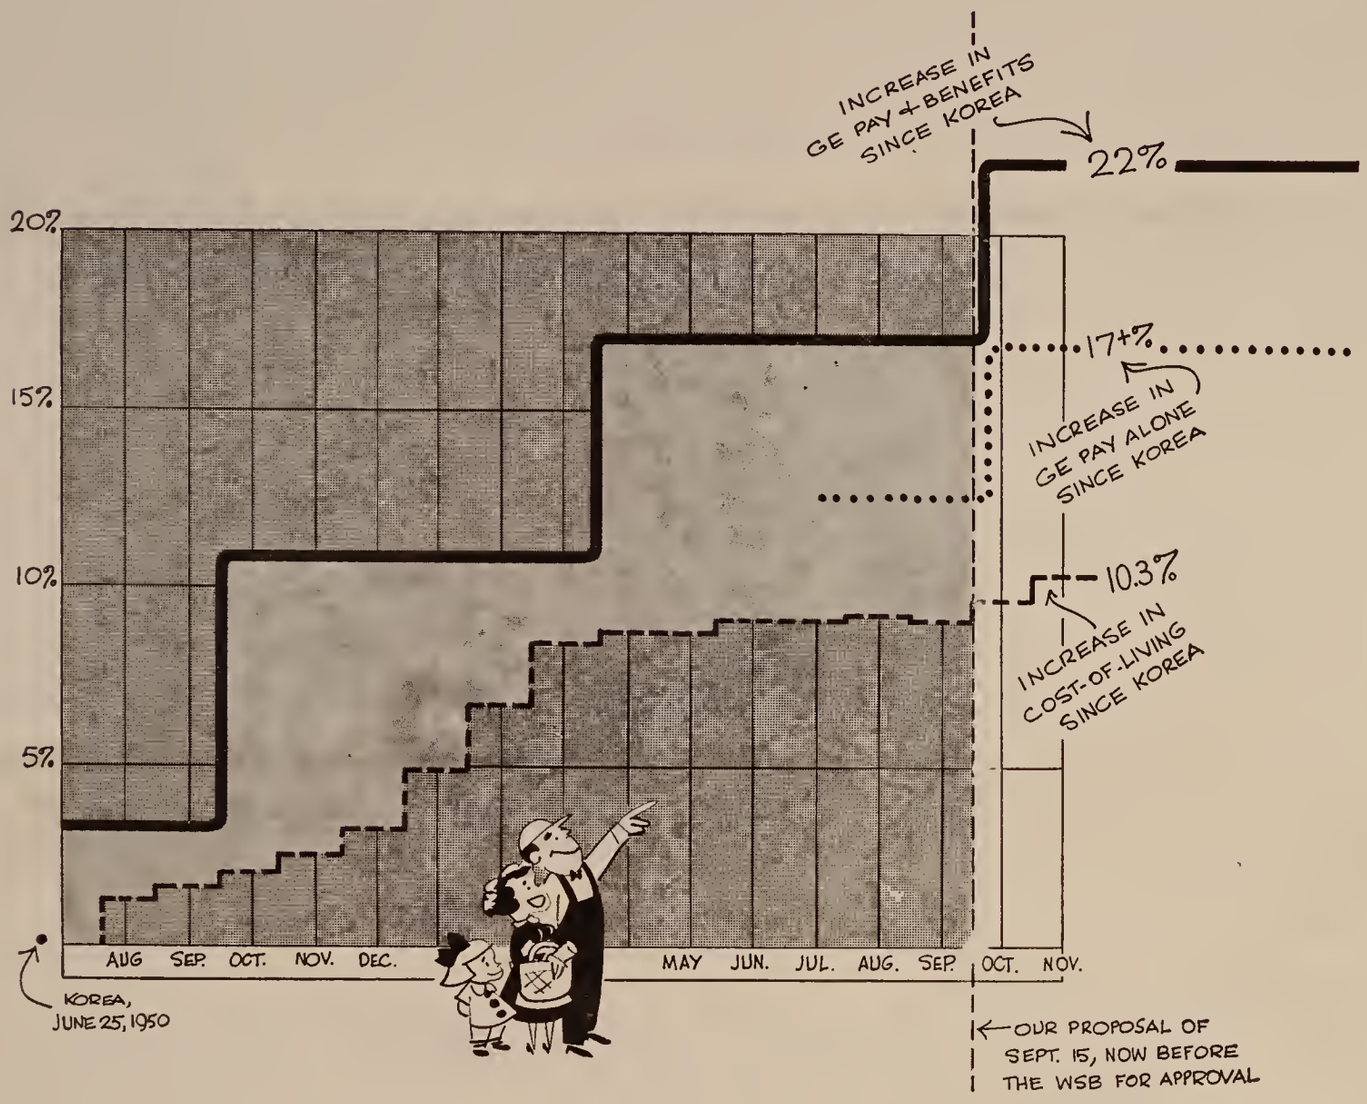
W. G. Keubler Dies Unexpectedly At Home

William G. Keubler, 65, was found dead in bed at 920 Jackson St., Monday, Nov. 19. Mr. Keubler was pensioned from General Electric last April.

He joined the Company in 1926 as an armature worker in Bldg. 4-1. He worked on stator press, hydraulic press and punch press in the same building. In 1928, he was transferred to Bldg. 17-3 to work as a punch press operator.

Two years later, he became a polisher in Bldg. 2-1. He became a drill press operator in Bldg. 4-3 in 1933. He moved to Bldg. 4-1 to become an inspector in 1942. His next job was that of inspector in Bldg. 17-1. In 1949, he went to Bldg. 4-B as an inspector. He held this position until his retirement.

McComb & Sons Funeral Home are handling funeral arrangements.



Services Held Wed. For Thomas Cole, 76

Thomas A. Cole, 76, died at his home, 1428 Stophlet St., Sunday following a stroke. Mr. Cole was pensioned May 27, 1939. He had worked at General Electric for 32 years and was a member of the Quarter Century Club.

Mr. Cole worked as a sweeper when he joined the Company in 1907. He went into assembly work in 1911 and worked as an assembler until 1939, when he transferred to motor repair work. He held this position at the time of his retirement.

Surviving are his wife, one son, one daughter, three brothers and three grandchildren.

Services were held Wednesday at the Chalfant-Perry Funeral Home. The Rev. E. E. Vance officiated. Burial was in Lindenwood Cemetery.

LIVING COSTS STILL STEADY

THE U. S. Department of Labor has just announced that the "cost of living" (Consumers Price Index) rose 1.3 points, or about seven tenths of one percent between September 15 and October 15. This makes the total rise since Korea add up to 10.3%.

But the significant fact of the moment is how the cost of living curve has flattened out during the past 8 months.

Costs are high, of course. But they sometimes just naturally seem higher than they are. And, unfortunately, some selfish people—for reasons of their own—keep misrepresenting living costs as having risen way above what they actually have.

The above chart — with which we hope you are already familiar—has now been extended to include the slight change as of October 15. The comparison is shown here again to aid you in keeping up to date on how much the cost of living has actually increased since Korea—and how your pay and other GE job benefits have gone up a whole lot more than that.

Visitors From Far and Near . . .

From Across The Land—Ned H. Dearborn, president of the National Safety Council, came to the Fort Wayne Works last week to address members of the General Works Safety Committee. He is shown having a post-meeting discussion with this year's two Safety Ace foremen from the plant. Harry Rohrbaugh, Bldg. 20-2, is shown at left and Sam Baumgartner, Bldg. 27, is at right.

From Across The Street—As many children in the area surrounding the Fort Wayne Works get the wanderlust and come to visit here, so little 4-year-old Judy Hughes came from her home on Lindley Ave. to visit with guard F. O. Harold at the east side Broadway gate. Judy is the daughter of James Hughes, Bldg. 6-3.

A Good Target For Suggestions

Needless waste is one of our biggest enemies on the home front today. It's one of the best targets for your suggestions. Conservation of strategic materials, time, or office supplies resulting from your suggestions add up to large savings throughout G-E. Don't forget that your ideas on how to avoid needless waste may net you extra dollars for investment in defense bonds or winter fuel. Bombard the Suggestions Committee with your ideas on how to eliminate waste.

Happy Birthday, Elex!

This week, the Elex Club celebrates its 35th anniversary as a General Electric organization.

Founded Dec. 6, 1916, the club was started by a small group of women, whose only bond was General Electric employment and whose only activities were social get-togethers. Last Sunday, 35 years later, the Christmas program alone brought out 1,400 members. Elex growth, which has been phenomenal, is paralleled only by its good works.

Each year since its founding has brought the organization closer to its goal of developing character and friendship, and of uniting General Electric women in one common bond.

With its broad social, educational and service programs, Elex is not only unique in industry, but it has set a standard for similar organizations throughout the country.

We can indeed be proud of the Elex Club and all it stands for. Many more happy birthdays.

Artistic Reporter

Sally Schimmel To Report News From Bldg. 26-2

Sally Schimmel, Bldg. 26-2, is the division editor of the new WORKS NEWS column, "Loose Ends in Bldg. 26."

Sally, who is general clerk-typist, came to the Company in October. She worked on the high school paper in Auburn, which is her home town. She finds time in between taking eare of her five-month-old son, Fred William III, to do oil painting, water colors and ehareoal sketches.

As a result of her artistie hobby, Sally has sold four oil paintings so far. Her artistie interests extend to all types of needle work also. In aetive sports, Sally enjoys roller skating. She likes basketball from the spectator's angle.

Assisting Sally in reporting for the new eolumn are Aliee Barton, Bonnie Lou Fahl, Betty Phillips, Joan Bibbo and Bonnie Fulmer.

Sally and her husband, Fred Sehimmel, Bldg. 4-6, live in Auburn, but look forward to moving into the new home they are building on Bowser Ave. early next year.

SICK LIST

The following people have been reported on the siek list, dismissed from the hospital and returned to work:

Dismissed from Hospital

Roscoe Hamilton, Alta Campbell, Vietoria Clayton, Charles Donahue, Margaret Kenyon, Vera Neate, Lawrenee Woodward, Oscar Lagerstrom, Ceal Romary, Russell Prinee and Violet Yarman. Robert Porter.

Returned to Work

Donald Alcott, Joyce Druee, Alberta Hudson, Vivian Freshour, Gloria Irvin, Eugene Diehm, Flossie Greek, John Henry, Mary Jane Horrell, Alvina Koomler, Walter Eker, Rebeeca Creech, Nancy Hoekensmith, Alyee Fuehshuber, Raymond Kaar, Harold Drague, Gerald Snowberger, Vera Neate, Harold Patterson, Lila Line, Rebeeca Wagner, William Starke, Gerry Mowery, Donald Reek, Gladys Strong, Frank Mann, Elsie Logue, Clayborne Yates, Verena Morgan, Margaret Stuek, Bonnie Pranger, Elva Shaffer and Esther Oetting.

We all wish to express our sympathies to Ayline Spiece on the death of her grandmother. . . . Allen Gillum wishes to thank the gang for the gift and the dinner. Allen really appreciated working with everyone, and we all hate to see him leave. Good luek, Allen, we hope you aren't gone too long. . . . There will be a private skating party at the Rollerdome Monday, Dee. 10, from 8 p.m. to 12 p.m. Anyone interested should see Mae McCrea or Ronnie Davies for tiekets. . . . Anyone wishing to learn how to save money in these times of high prices should see Jane Eiler. . . . Charlie Whittern is the proud owner of a new Studebaker. . . . We wonder why Joe Walker goes around with that worried look on his face. . . . Good luck to Ernie Pfeiffer who has transferred to dispatching on the hermetie line in Bldg. 26-5. . . . Bob Thomas reported to Indianapolis Tuesday for his army physieal. . . . Doris Reinhold has gone to Florida for a couple of weeks to visit her mother and father, who are there for the winter. They are loeated just a few miles from the winter quarters of the eireus, so we may not see Doris until next Summer when the eireus eomes to town again. . . . Pealy Pequignot moved into his new home last weekend. Now the hard work really starts. It shouldn't be too long now until we have the house warming.

Words by Walt

TO A SON ON HIS TWENTY-FIRST BIRTHDAY

It isn't the fact that you're twenty-one
That makes you a man today.
It isn't a matter of days or years;
A man isn't made that way.

It isn't the places you've been so much,
As what have you really seen?
It isn't the number of birthdays passed,
But what have you done between.

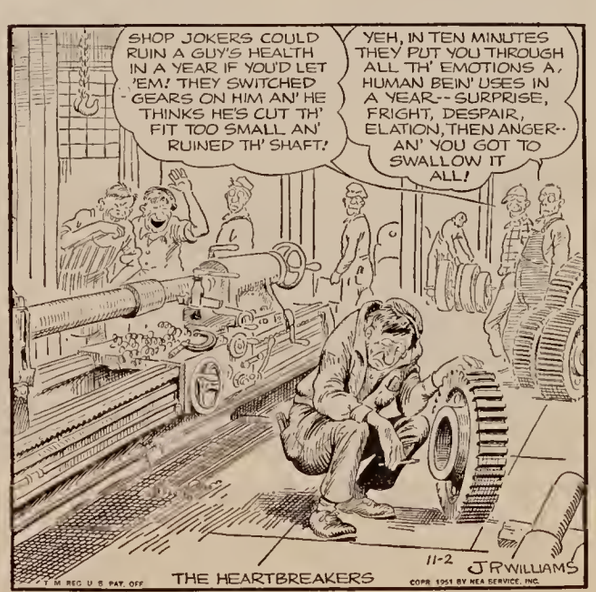
It isn't the list of things you know;
It's how do you use the same?
It isn't the fact that you win or lose,
But how do you play the game?

It isn't the crack of a gun that counts,
It's where will the bullet go?
It isn't the size of a circus tent,
It's what do they have to show?

It isn't the street that you walk along,
It's where do you plan to stop?
It isn't the hill that you're standing on,
It's how did you reach the top?

It isn't the fact that you read this poem,
It's what does it really mean?
It means, my son, since you're twenty-one
Don't act like you're still thirteen.

—W. L. Whonsetler.



Lyle Claphan quit the volleyball team beeause he couldn't keep that consistent score of "60." . . . Ed Brockhall borrowed Paul Boedeker's shotgun to go hunting and found it had a kink in the barrel. After he got that straightened out, he now thinks Paul might improve his average. . . . Anyone wishing any information on how to hook up a water heater should eontact Fred MeAfee. Fred ean tell you how to do it so you have hot water in the toilet. . . . Since my last eolumn, we have lost Ernie Desmonds, George Houck, Charles Boyce and Robert Maggart via the transfer route. Good luek, fellows, in your new jobs. It was niee having you with us. . . . I have been told that Fred Boehm has been trying to get in the column for some time and that a few other fellows are doing all they ean to help him, so no doubt he will be in soon.

Bob Nelson and His Trained Pigs

Four Pro Acts Booked To Entertain Children

The annual Kiddies Christmas Party, sponsored by the G-E Club, will be held Saturday, Dec. 22, and Sunday, Dec. 23, in the auditorium, Gordon L. Smith, entertainment chairman, revealed this week.

A total of six programs will be given, four on Saturday and two on Sunday. Shows will begin at 1, 3, 5 and 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 22. Performances will be given Sunday, Dec. 23, at 2 and 4 p.m.

Tickets will be available for employees' children who are 12 years of age or less. Beginning Monday, tickets may be secured at the G-E Club candy stand or the Taylor St. employment office. Employees may secure tickets for their children by presenting their club membership card at either of these two locations.

Four Acts Booked

Four professional acts have been booked for the two days of performances. The most unsual of the acts to be presented this year is Nelson's Trained Pigs. The trainer, Bob Nelson, has taught the pigs to do tricks, which are especially enjoyed by children.

Another act hooked to entertain the kiddies is Bob McElroy and his Four Stars of Wooden-Wit. Mr. McElroy is an ventriloquist and has four little wooden dolls with which he presents his act.

Florence Cazan, billed as the world's foremost challenge escapist, will also be on the program. The fourth act is a comedy team specializing in homespun humor. The members of this team are Ted Miller and Smiley, who also provide musical entertainment.

Foremen, Supervisors Hear North Side Choir Wednesday

Invitations have been mailed to all members of the Foremen's Association and Supervisors Club for the joint dinner meeting Wednesday in the G-E Club. W. R. Blomker, Supervisors' president, and Ed Klomp, president of the Foremen's organization, urged all members to return the enclosed reply cards as soon as possible.

The program will include Christmas musical selections by the North Side High School A Cappella Choir, under the direction of Raymond C. Beights. Mr. Beights said all types of Christmas music, popular as well as familiar carols, are planned. The choir is composed of 60 students.

Following dinner, the newly-appointed general manager of the Component Products Division, W. C. Wichman, will address the group.

Dinner will be served in two sections; the first at 5:30 p.m. and the second at 6 p.m. Each member has been requested to attend dinner at the time specified on his invitation.

We are glad to see Ray Karr, Gene Diehm and Tony Holocker back to work. . . . Have you seen Artie Hoffman's unique gift? Was there any significance in only getting half of it, Artie? It must be nice to have friends that think that much of you. . . . Happy birthday to Ralph Storm, Gerald Platt and Joe Horniatkewych. . . . Did you know that Bob Dressel is a musician? He says he played double B-flat sax in Fred Waring's band. It seems that Joe Taylor, of the Indiana Red Birds, never heard of a double B-flat sax and is willing to buy it from Bob. As yet, he hasn't been able to show it to Joe. It's a good story anyway, Bob. . . . With all the knitting she has been doing, Mary Jane Howe would make a good member for the Elex Board. She also has a kitten. Mmmmm, you know what's said about knitting and kittens, Mary Jane. . . . Skin McGary says that his tom cat is a much better hunter than Charlie Hartman's coon dog. Ken Furney received a lovely portrait the other day. He must not have appreciated the close resemblance to himself because paint remover was quickly applied. That would be enough to give our painter a complex of some sort. . . . Wonder why Virgil Kline always has to do things the hard way. Instead of going down State St. on the side that is completed, he decided to go down the middle and got stuck in the fresh cement. He has a very flimsy excuse as to how he got there. . . . Got your tickets yet for the Christmas party? The committee is planning a big time again this year—music, food, door prizes and EVERYTHING. It will be worth your while to see what the "everything" is.

Harmon Westrick Elected Apprentice Alumni President

(Picture on Page 8)

Harmon Westrick, Bldg. 19-5, was elected president of the Apprentice Alumni Association, Tuesday, Nov. 27. Other new officers for the 1952 club year are: Gale Rinehart, Bldg. 19-5, vice president; Walter Buesking, Bldg. 17-2, recording secretary; Don Greenler, Bldg. 4-4, financial secretary, and John Allen, Fort Wayne Tool & Die, treasurer.

The newly-elected board of directors is composed of Edward Tennison, Fort Wayne Tool & Die; Richard Burns, Bldg. 19-5; Charles Bracht, Bldg. 19-4, and Donald Alcott, Bldg. 19-4.

The new officers will be officially installed during the month of February, 1952, Wilson Garmon, outgoing president, announced this week.

On behalf of the outgoing officers, Mr. Garmon wished the new officers every success. He expressed thanks to the contact men and all members for their cooperation with this year's officers.

Vets Celebrate Pearl Harbor Day At Dance Tonight

Tickets for the Pearl Harbor Dance, sponsored by the G-E War Veterans Association, will be available at the Rhythm Ranch this evening, Ed Martin, Vets president announced today. Tickets are 50 cents per person.

The informal dance, which is open to members and friends, will be held from 9 to 12 p.m. this evening.

Joe Taylor and the Indiana Red Birds will play for the round and square dancing.

Refreshments will be available and cake walks will be held, Robert Turschman, general chairman, stated. The Rhythm Ranch is located west of the city on the Miller Road.

Square Dance Season Opens Tomorrow Night at G-E Club

The square dancing season at the G-E Club will open tomorrow evening at 8:30 p.m., when the first in a series of square dances will be held.

Providing music for round and square dancing will be Gilbert Brown and the Variety Four. Bill (Cookie) Lee will be the caller.

No Charge

Employees and their friends are invited to attend the dance, which will be held from 8:30 to 11:30 p.m. There is no charge for this club event.

Charlie Wilt, G-E Club manager, has asked that persons attending the dance not wear shoes with heel plates or steel caps in order to protect the floor, which was recently refinished.

UNCLAIMED MBA CHECKS

The Mutual Benefit Association still has refund checks unclaimed because of incorrect addresses, Hubert Myers, general chairman, said today. Anyone knowing the correct addresses for the following persons is asked to send them to the MBA Office, Bldg. 18-3, or telephone Ext. 750.

John Edmondson, Paul D. Beaver, Wilbur H. Staley, Vilas Eizans and Chris R. Brenner.

Mr. Myers also announced that many people have received MBA Dissolution checks, but have not cashed them as yet. He pointed out that there is a 60-day expiration date on each check. Anyone who has held an MBA check beyond this date, should return it immediately to the MBA Office, Bldg. 18-3 for reissue.

Squares Wives to Hold Christmas Party Tues.

The Women's Division of the G-E Squares will hold their annual Christmas party, Tuesday, at the Squares Club Room. The program will begin at 8 p.m.

Mrs. Fred Suhr will present "American Christmas Traditions." The holiday theme will be carried out in the decorations, music and favors. Mrs. Elwood Stanbery, chairman of the party, announced that attendance prizes would be given.

The committee assisting Mrs. Stanbery includes Mrs. Claud Voss, Mrs. Walter Konow, Mrs. Frank Fleischer, Mrs. Wayne L. Henderson, Mrs. C. Ray Atkinson, Mrs. Lee Beard, Mrs. John Taylor, Mrs. Marion Halleck and Mrs. Joe Eitman.

Lab Engineers Go To Conference On Insulation

George C. Martin and Robert K. Drake, both of the Works Laboratory, recently attended a conference on electrical insulation at the Bureau of Standards, Washington, D. C.

The Conference was sponsored by the Division of Engineering and Industrial Research of the National Research Council. This organization was founded in 1920 to serve as a common meeting ground for physicists, chemists, engineers and other scientists, who, though working in widely different fields, have a common interest in the theory and practical application of insulating and allied materials.

Following a report on the conference Mr. Martin and Mr. Drake plan group meetings with interested engineers of the Operating Departments.

Paul Winters is the latest victim of painted heels. We don't know how it was done since Paul is on the go most of the time. . . . L. Radamaker has joined the H-20 Club. Seems he was to polish some motors with a special polish, and for some reason he couldn't get results. Someone had put water in the polish can. . . . I hear that all the drug stores around here have had a run on Hadacol lately, to date haven't heard just why. . . . Dorothy Swank is helping Santa again this year. She is working at the Post Office. . . . Anyone smell a coat burning? Seems Bertha Burnau stood too near a pot belly stove, and now she is wearing a shorty. . . . Frank Fogwell had a short in a motor the other day. John Walters really was enjoying the situation, but Frank fooled him and came out unharmed. . . . Louie Pfueger got a picture through the mail the other day and was disappointed it wasn't his picture with the pretty girl. . . . . Allen Gilliam, son of Eldridge Gilliam, left for the service last Monday. The gang over in Bldg. 26-3 had a chicken dinner in his honor and invited his father over for the affair. Eldridge thanks all of Bldg. 26-3 for everything, as he enjoyed meeting all his son's friends.

We're happy to hear Shirley Cunningham's son is able to return to work after his recent auto accident. . . . It's good to see Wilber Steffen back on the job after seven weeks' illness. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Walter Duhn returned recently from visiting Hot Springs, Ark. . . . You've all heard of the Quiz Kids—seems Bldg. 19-2 has the "Coke Kids," the "Bobs," Everding and Harrod. . . . Cecile Hinton wishes to say "hello" to all her friends, and hopes to be back on the job by the middle of December. . . . Last Friday. We bade Richard (Dick) Beck au revoir. Dick has been with us for the past ten years. Not so long, but long enough that his kindness and jolly disposition will be greatly missed. We wish him the best of luck and good health and hope that he won't forget to visit us often. . . . Elmer Yordy is a patient at Methodist Hospital, and George Kaade a patient at the Veteran's Hospital. . . . This has been a red letter week in the life of Joe Laisure. He moved nito his new office and also starts on a four weeks' vacation, which he hopes to spend in Florida. . . .

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Pendergrass on their new baby daughter, Teresa Ann. . . . We extend our sincere sympathy to Florence Hindman in the death of her father; to Robert Stute in the death of his aunt, and Lee Anderson in the death of bis sister-in-law, Mrs. Harry Zwahlen. . . . Russell Prince underwent surgery recently at the Lutheran Hospital. We hope it will start him on the road to health. . . . We regret to hear of Florence Hindman's mother breaking her arm. . . . Dewey Wickliffe is enjoying a two-weeks' vacation at her sister's home in Uniondale. She's also catching up on her Christmas shopping. . . . Birthday congratulations to Paul Nunemaker and Harold Baker.

Destination India . . .

Thora Robinson waves good-bye to guard H. L. Clark

Refuting Rudyard Kipling's "East is East, and West is West, and never the twain shall meet," Thora Robinson, Bldg. 4-6, will leave New York City tomorrow to travel half-way around the world to India to find out just how great the difference is between the western and eastern hemispheres.

Actually, the quotation credited to Mr. Kipling had little to do with Thora's decision to visit the land of the sacred cows. When she was a student at Purdue a few years ago, she met several Indian students and became interested in their native land.

After graduation in 1947, she decided that some day she would satisfy this fascination she held for India and travel to see it and its people.

Tomorrow that dream will start to become a reality when she sails from New York City aboard the S. S. Mauretania. Her trip will take four months, two of which she will spend traveling in India and renewing acquaintances. Other places of interest she will visit are London and Port Said, Egypt.

Remember how those "yardbirds" and "goldbricks" acted in the army? They use to loaf around doing nothing until some officer came along, and then they would stumble all over themselves trying to look busy. Well, that's how "yardbirds" Ray Feller and Dick Pierce acted when their boss came up unexpectedly, while they were reading newspapers. We hear they nearly fell off their seats. . . . Don't do your shopping uptown, see Evelyn (I can get it for you wholesale) Brunkhart. Anything from needles to new Pontiacs. . . . Harold Niemeyer claims the only difference between Louie and Norb Sordelet is "red hair." . . . I've heard of some lazy people, but Fred Oly takes the cake. He was walking around, with his shoe laces untied, looking for someone who would bend over to tie them. . . . What's this about Halice Grabner being named after her mother's pet horse? . . . Good to see that smiling face of Barbara Shipman around again. . . . Edna Hall has moved to the Blanket Warmer line. . . . Alma and Freda Kaiser are home from the hospital and are doing fine. Lucille Spice and Virginia Kiesler paid them a visit recently. Lucille and Virginia also visited Virginia Neleski, who is getting along fine. She would like to see more girls from the Winding section. . . . Bert Gruber is still hoping that someone will return her lost billfold. Maybe Santa Claus will turn up with it. . . . Norma Smith got 98 per cent on her driver's test. Must have a drag some place! . . . Don't forget the Rollerdome for the Transformer skating party, Dec. 10. See Johnnie Gadomski for tickets. . . . Anyone finding a stray can of milk, return same to Betty Johnston. Better buy a cow, Betty, it will be easier to keep track of. . . . Mary Blanchard is reported to have a new self-service laundry. Open day and night. . . . Smitty nearly lost his pants and his dignity, when the crane hooked in his pants. He got by with a torn shirt. . . . Norma Smith received a request from the Police Dept. to make a donation for illegal parking. Also Doris Coddins, we'll have to call her "speedy," received a ticket for speeding. . . . Greg Abrahamian's secret method of saving money has finally leaked out. Two weeks ago he claimed he was going to buy some new jeans. He came in with a pair that were new ten years ago.

G-E Files $25,000 Damage Suit Against California Appliance Firm

LOS ANGELES, Calif.—The General Electric Company has filed suit in the State Superior Court against a local appliance firm, in which it asks for a restraining injunction and $25,000 damages.

Named as defendants in the complaint are Sydney Maraine, Albert Cadis, William Spencer and others who have operated under the firm names of A. & S. Appliance Company, A. & S. Appliance Sales, and A. & S. Vacuum Cleaner Company.

The complaint charges that the defendants, through untrue and misleading advertising, offered for sale a G-E vacuum cleaner for the sole purpose of "switch selling." Once prospects' names and addresses were secured, they were then persuaded to buy vacuum cleaners of a different make and model, and at a higher price than the cleaner which was advertised.

In detailing the methods of the A. & S. Appliance Co., the complaint states that through Los Angeles radio advertising the public was offered a "brand new, revolutionary, General Electric Premier Tank-type Vacuum Cleaner" at a price of $15.95, which was supposed to effect a saving to the purchaser of better than $80.00.

Misrepresent Facts

The actual cleaner offered by the firm was a "Premier Vac-Kit," a model which has not been manufactured or sold by the General Electric Company since December, 1948. Furthermore, this cleaner was designed solely for "above-the-floor" cleaning. These facts, it is claimed, are well-known to the defendants.

The cleaner, however, was represented as coming with many attachments, including a "rug tool," that it could clean rugs, and even clean a house from top to bottom. It was offered for ten-day home trial without cost or obligation, and was to be delivered at the prospective purchaser's convenience.

The general practice of the defendants, as charged in the complaint, has been to arrange a home demonstration with prospects attracted by the radio advertising. Once contacted, every attempt would be made to switch the prospect to another make of cleaner. Through salesman and agents, an explanation would be made that the General Electric Premier Vac-Kit was too small for general house cleaning, too small for carpets or rugs, that it would burn out if run for more than three to five minutes, and that if kept by the prospect for free trial, would then be a "used" vacuum cleaner on which only a percentage of the purchase price could be refunded.

Charging that its business reputation has been damaged in the sum of $25,000, the General Electric Company not only seeks to recover this amount plus court costs, but also to permanently enjoin and restrain the defendants from further similar practices.

Louise Goudy, while driving home from her Thanksgiving dinner, was following a car down the highway. Suddenly, a rabbit jumped out of the ditch and ran in front of the car preceding Louise. Seeing the fur flying in all directions, Louise said to her sister, "Just look at the feathers fly." Louise claims Kokomo is known for being first in everything, so now I suppose Kokomo will claim having rabbits with feathers. . . . We hope George Yarian won't miss us too much while he is on vacation. . . . Betty Stutz was given a farewell party by the people in Tabulating. They even had applesauce cake. Betty received a beautiful blouse and scarf. Remember to call us once in a while, Betty. We would love to hear from you. . . . Production has a new T. E. answering to the name of Walt DuBlanica. He's from Rome, N. Y. Welcome, Walt. Hope you enjoy working with all of us. . . . Harriet Heany visited her mother and father in Indianapolis over the week-end. We understand she had some trouble taking home some Elex mints to her mother. How about that, Harriet? . . . Imogene Walter, new Elex contact girl, showed super sales ability by buying some of the Elex chocolates and passing them out as samples to the billing section. It was mighty good, Gene. . . . What's this I hear about Bev Gosborn sending a young man through college? . . . . . doesn't like package coal, because it's too difficult to take the paper off! Just what did you do with the paper after you unwrapped the coal - - - - - ? . . . Esther Batchelder brought in a box of her well known divinity fudge last week for the pleasure of the whole office. Say, Esther, just when am I going to get some of that fudge? . . . We are sorry to hear that Edith Biddle is sick with a virus infection, and that Milly Schrader is still confined at home because of an illness. We hope both of you are soon feeling better. . . . Ruth Wichern, schedule girl for Customer Billing, is now a full time housewife. Best wishes with your new job, Ruth. . . . In Regional Warehouse, Orma Heaston is the new girl on the files. . . . Gloria Geesman is now on the night shift in Tabulating. Now Gloria can dodge the work easier! (I'm joking of course.) We will miss you during the day, Gloria. . . . That's about all for now. See you all next week.

If the old saying that love is blind is true, all we can say is it seems to get around pretty well.

G-E DEATHS

Brief Illness Is Fatal

Lewis Reith, 44, Dies In Hospital Tuesday

Lewis G. Reith, 44, died Tuesday at St. Joseph's Hospital after a serious illness of one week.

Born in Kokomo, Mr. Reith had been employed as a chemist with the General Electric Company since 1929. In April, 1946, he was appointed section engineer of the Metalurgical section of the Works Laboratory, his position at the time of his death.

Surviving are his widow, Charlotte; three daughters, Lois Ann, Catherine and Louria, all of the home; one son, Dennis; two sisters, Miss Josephine, of Fort Wayne, and Mrs. Rose Wells, of Kokomo; seven brothers, the Rev. Herman Reith, Notre Dame, John, of Wilmington, Del., Karl of Fort Wayne; Joseph, Emil, Albert and William, all of Kokomo.

Heart Attack Is Fatal To Edward Fischer, 47

A heart attack proved fatal to Edward D. Fischer, 47, Saturday while he was hunting south of Decatur.

He had been an assembler at General Electric since 1928. He was employed in Bldg. 4 until 1946 when he transferred to Taylor St. as a leading operator in FHP Motor Div. 13.

His survivors include his widow, Rose; three sons, Robert, Thomas and Edward, Jr.; three daughters, Patricia and Marilyn and Mrs. Evelyn Crouch; a brother, Harold, and a sister, Mrs. Fred Heaston, of Waterloo.

Rites Held Tuesday For Harry E. Adams

Funeral services were held Tuesday for Harry E. Adams, 30, the victim of an auto crash Nov. 29. Mr. Adams was taken to the Lutheran Hospital following the accident and death resulted from head injuries he had received.

The fatal accident occurred in Van Wert, O., when Mr. Adams failed to make a turn and drove his machine into a parked car. Two passengers riding with Mr. Adams were not injured.

Services were held at the D. O. McComb & Sons Funeral Home, with Dr. L. E. Olson officiating. Burial was in Lindenwood Cemetery.

His survivors include his widow, Pauline, of Haviland, O.; a daughter, Carrol; his mother, Mrs. Blanche Scheeler, Russellville, O., and his father, Harley Adams, of Decatur.

Mr. Adams had been a drill press operator in FHP Motor Div. 14 at Taylor St. since September, 1950.

Division 14's Raconteur

by Carol Altevogt

The other day Abbie Hartman was on the bus before she realized she had wrongly accused someone of wearing her coat home. In the morning she had placed her own coat in a different place so it would be easier to pick up when she left. Are you getting absent-minded, Abbie? . . . Who wrote the poem in the "Gutter Ball" about Smitty? . . . Kenny Rupp was recently observed pacing up and down near W&D's Beauty Shop. What's her name? . . . "Cigarettes have a mysterious way of disappearing on the KC table," says Olive Amburn. . . . Ask Florence how she likes the mirror in the C&H Shoe Store. . . . Lottie's "Spuddie" has been bringing in a gift each night, but Lottie still doesn't like mice as a gift, even from her cat. . . . The steps of a prominent building are being repaired, and Lowell Arnold is the cause of it.

Gas Man

Virg Foland can show you how gas heat is cheaper by day, week or month. Of course, Clara Forbes uses oil heat and does not agree. . . . Anyone interested in knowing how to run an automobile without spark plugs, see Bill Shreeves. . . . Since the Chicago White Sox player trade with the St. Louis Browns recently, Freddie Heinkel has started a chant, "Go-Go-White Sox," but Bill Weber would advise betting on the Yankees. . . . "Hank" Eppel and a co-worker are bringing their lunches since a certain party was laid off and won't be eating in the cafeteria any longer. . . . Mildred Phillips is waiting on Indian Summer so she can plant her tulip bulbs.

Country Boy

John Manns has moved back to the city. It is more convenient. . . . Elsie Brown and Helen Keims would like to find a new code in euchre, since Vivian Tricker and Loretta Runyon discovered the old one. . . . Martha Kruse would like to have a teaspoon from Santa. She now eats her custard with a knife. . . . Otto Brandt and Bob Kissinger have returned from their third week's vacation. Otto picked corn, and Bob fixed his Ford. By the way, belated birthday greetings to Bob. . . . Lester Menze and Bob Hartman went hunting. Les shot and missed a rabbit, but Bob hit it. Nice to have good friends like that. . . . Herb Wise has been smiling since he got back from Anderson. What "hoppen," Herbie? . . . L. Suter went hunting and this time says he saw a two-foot garter snake. Do you usually see snakes this time of year?

First in Line

Clarence Stier went to see Santa Claus come to town. He says Santa is getting smaller every year. Maybe he'll be able to get the job soon. . . . Doesn't Ann Hine know that you are supposted to work on top of the conveyor? . . . Rosamond Schooley and Ann Johnson spent Thanksgiving in Detroit with Ann's parents, and Olive Amburn spent the day in Salem, Ill. . . . Margaret Miller saw the Ice Revue at Indianapolis over the holiday. She was very impressed by the beautiful costumes. . . . Becky Lisle is puzzled about who gave her breakfast rolls the other morning. . . . Some of the girls held a dinner for Margurite Winkelblack, when she left to work in Bldg. 19. . . . Dessie Jackson is leaving to become a lady of leisure. She has been with the Company for 26 years. . . . Marie Kable and Georgia Laurent are leaving the office to work in Bldgs. 4-4 and 26-2, respectively. Lots of luck to them. . . . Our best wishes to Bill Oberly who is leaving to work in Bldg. 4-6. . . . Hugh Neely was worried the other day when three girls walked in front of his car. Really, we're sorry. . . . Welcome to Doris Biltz, Irene Habecker, Eugenia Schrug and Willie Pitts who have joined the first trick.

Soft Heart

Dick Uptgraph caught a mouse, and rather than kill it, Carol Thomas, Mel Shaheen and Dick fixed a box with air holes for it to live in until some future date. . . . Loretta Brenneman had a very nice hair-do Monday morning. She spent the week-end getting it pretty. . . . Such fellows as F. Campbell, H. Neely and R. Turschman are still thinking up excuses for not winning a chicken in their Bowling League. . . . Doris Dimke enjoyed hearing her husband's name over the radio. He got a 683 Series in Bowling.

NEW DEVELOPMENTS

NEW BRIDE: Our Time Clerk, formerly Mary Burkholder, is now Mrs. Roger McWilson. The wedding was solmenized Saturday, Dec. 1. Such a lovely picture the bride made in a beautiful white satin ballerina-length wedding gown and a finger-tip veil. Congratulations and the best of luck to Mr. and Mrs. McWilson. . . . NEW COST SUPERVISOR: Gilbert A. Sloan, who hails from Taylor St., is our newest addition. Welcome, Gil. . . . NEW HAIR-DO: Alice Pflueger recently got a new lovely permanent. Incidentally, Ray Pflueger (otherwise referred to by Alice as "Stubby") is our new welder. . . . NEW ONE-WAY STREETS: Ed (wrong way) Martin is completely baffled. Last week, while driving, he discovered he was going the wrong way on a one-way street. We could just shrug and laugh it off, but lo and behold! he made the very same mistake on the very same street the very same day! . . . NEW SAFETY CHAIRMAN: Carroll Elder was elected safety chairman for the year 1952. I believe we're safe in saying that Carroll will do his utmost to attain another year with no lost-time accidents. We're mighty proud of that eight-year safety record. . . . NEW JACKPOT: Imagine Larry Reed's surprise when he inserted a quarter in the coke machine and got only 15 cents in return. . . . Let's all go to the Christmas Party tomorrow night. For an evening's entertainment, I'm sure you'll enjoy yourself tremendously. There'll be dancing, refreshments, attendance prizes and, of course, most of the gang from Bldg. 17-4 will be there. A wonderful opportunity to spend a social evening with your co-workers. SEE YOU AT THE SOUTHWEST CONSERVATION CLUB TOMORROW EVENING!

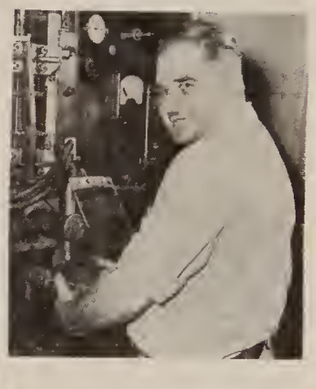
Inquiring Reporter:

WHO IS YOUR FAVORITE COMIC STRIP CHARACTER AND WHY?

ALMETTA TILL

Bldg. 26-3

"'Mary Worth' is my favorite comic strip character. Her activities have a lesson for everyone reading this strip. It shows that if people would help each other more this would be a better world to live in."



OTTO W. WITTE

Bldg. 8-1

"I enjoy reading many of the comic strips, but 'Ella Cinders' is my favorite. She and her family get into and out of so much trouble."

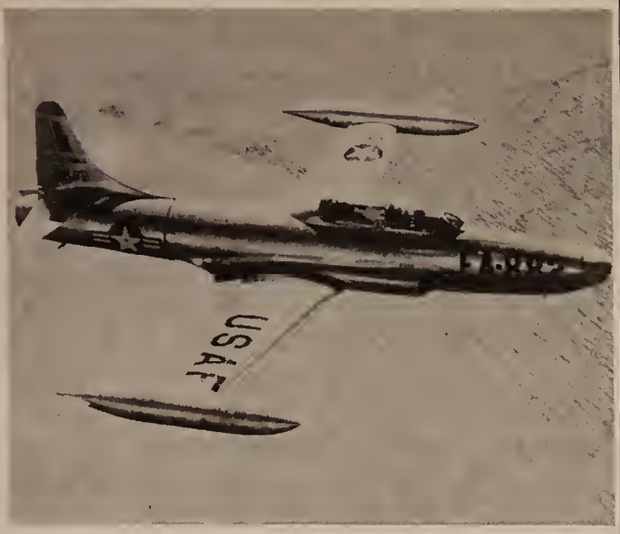
DONALD J. FRAZIER

Bldg. 4-4

"I like 'Buzz Sawyer' because of the many adventures in which he gets involved. I like the way he always completes his assignments no matter how dangerous they are."

GLENN E. GOSHORN

Bldg. 19-3



"I believe Pete Berry of 'Berrys' and Dagwood in 'Blondie' are my favorites. I like to read about them because so many of the events in their lives actually happen in the everyday lives of all of us, who have a couple of children and are trying to live a normal life in this Hurrying Age."

GENEVA L. MENZE

Taylor St.

"Willis of 'The Willets' is the comic strip I like best. His trickery and tormenting of his mother and older sister is so characteristic of boys his age."

Added to G-E Fleet—A Lockheed F-94 fighter similar to this is being added to the fleet of planes based at the General Electric Company's Flight Test Center in Schenectady, N. Y., to test aviation equipment under development for the armed forces. The plane, loaned by the Air Force under a bailment arrangement, will be used to test automatic flight control equipment being developed by the Aeronautic and Ordnance Systems Department.

Information Clinic

Question:
It is rumored that if a suggestion is made in Fort Wayne that it would also apply to other Works, the suggester gets no credit for the savings at these plants. What is the setup on this?

Answer:
The statement made in this rumor is not correct as it is the policy of the Suggestion Committee to refer to other Works all those suggestions which appear to have application at that Works, for which if adopted, the suggester is given credit.

As can readily be seen, it would be impossible and impractical for each plant to send all suggestions to all other Works. Therefore, our Suggestion Committee refers only those suggestions which to their knowledge they feel may have applications elsewhere.

Question:
I have heard that other Works of the Company are adopting a larger per cent of suggestions than is being adopted at Fort Wayne. Why is this?

Answer:
The number of suggestions adopted by the Company for 1950 was 34 per cent. At the Fort Wayne Works it was 41 per cent. Adoptions for the first 10 months of this year at Fort Wayne is 40 per cent. An average of 33 per cent of suggestions adopted is considered to be good by suggestion people.

Question:
If a suggestion is adopted after an employee leaves the service of the Company, will he receive an award?

Answer:
Absolutely. Every effort is made to locate the suggester and his award is forwarded to him. This is also true in case of death to the suggester. His beneficiary receives the award.

Question:
How long has the Company had a suggestion system?

Answer:
It was started in Schenectady in 1906 and formalized in 1923, when the system was put in effect at Fort Wayne. Since 1923, almost one-half million dollars has been paid to the Fort Wayne Works employees for their suggestions. It is interesting to note that in excess of 140,000 suggestions have been submitted at Fort Wayne during this period. In the past five years, the number of suggestions submitted has increased from 293 per 1,000 employees to over 600 per 1,000 employees.

Question:
I would like more information about the G-E Pension Plan which will be paid to my wife after my death.

Answer:
One of the many valuable features of the General Electric Pension Plan is the Survivorship Option. Under this provision a participant may elect to receive a reduced pension so that, upon his death after retirement, his surviving spouse may receive monthly payments during the rest of her life.

In the past, the election of this Survivorship Option was made at the time of retirement. It was then necessary that the participant take a physical examination at the time of retirement.

The Pension Board now permits an employee to elect a Survivorship Option without the necessity of a physical examination; provided, however, that the election of the Survivorship Option be made more than two years prior to normal retirement date.

If the decision to elect a Survivorship Option is not made two years prior to normal retirement date the election may be made as late as the date of normal retirement. However, a physical examination will be required at that time.

All Employees Notified

All employees approaching retirement age are notified of this provision of the Pension Plan in excess of two years prior to their normal retirement age.

Another important provision of the Pension Plan is the five years guaranteed pension accruing to members of the Plan. Beneficiaries of women 55 years of age or men 60 years of age who have not yet retired will receive pensions for five years following the demise of the member of the Pension Plan.

For those who are on optional or normal retirement these beneficiaries will receive the balance of the payments of the five-year guarantee. For instance, an employee who has been on pension for two years dies; his beneficiary will receive three additional years of pension. It should be remembered, however, that the beneficiary will receive the payment EXCLUDING the supplemental or make-up payment which was being paid to the member to complete the guaranteed pension due him under the Pension Plan.

Morgan Fortney has a brand new baby girl at his house, born Nov. 25. . . . We are sorry we are going to lose Doyle Johnson. He is going on third trick by request of Lawrence Klearn. . . . After dinner theme of the day—France is in the fodder, Schurenberg is in the corn, "Little Boy Blue" Klearn, come blow your horn (Test horn). By author Tom Freeman. . . . We think there is really going to be prosperity now. Tom Freeman, Harry Snook and Lawrence Klearn bought new cars just recently, and now Roger Bebout is getting one. This is a lot of money that hasn't been in circulation for a long time. How about you, Jerry Moore? . . . Fay Russel is in Whitley Memorial hospital at Columbia City. We wish her a speedy recovery. . . . It surely is something to see Ray Horstman trying to locate the butterflies on his television aerial. . . . Why was Velma Johnson's face so red last Friday noon? That is the first time any of us ever saw you blush. . . . Leo Klejnot brought his wife home from the hospital last week. She was very ill. We wish her a speedy recovery. . . . Henry Mueller has just four shocks of corn to husk. His brother-in-law can do that. Now Henry can start working on Saturdays and help the Packing section get out of the hole. . . . Paul Carbaugh seems to be in the jewelry business these days. His trade is fairly good, too. . . . We wonder how Tom Freeman can test stabilizers with only nine capacitors when there are supposed to be ten. . . . When better buildings are moved, Bob Enz and Lawrence Klearn will move them.

Office Ouches

June Fluttrow has had trouble explaining the violent gastric disturbance she had Friday through Monday following Thanksgiving. (She cooked the holiday dinner herself). . . . Vivian O'Neill says friend husband heckles her when she irons. Twice she threw the ironing board at him. When asked if the iron wasn't handier, she said, "Oh, I didn't want to ruin it!" . . . Lucky for Clara that Helen Wagner was willing to lead her around Sunday at the Elex Christmas party. She was a little jittery after a burglar episode at 2:30 a.m. . . . Newlywed Jeanie Lineback was asked to do a little specialty number for the office girls Christmas party Dec. 10, but her husband said he wouldn't let her do that. He reserves the right, huh, Jeanie? . . . The party will be a two-way affair—a farewell dinner at the Colonial for Mary Lou Gruber, followed by the gift exchange at her home. . . . Welcome to Jack Bonthron in Wage Rate. Jack is in the Test Training Course program.

Welcome

We would like to welcome Marilyn Boerger to the Green Room from Bldg. 26-5. . . . SPECIAL NOTICE!—A Transformer Skating party will be held Monday night, Dec. 10, at the Rollerdome. Everyone is invited. . . . Who is the person the stackers are calling "Little Tarzan?" It couldn't be Owen Robison, could it??? . . . Happy birthday to Agnes Robison . . . Mary Hall has joined some other women on the widow list. Her husband has gone deer hunting. . . . We are sorry to hear that Helen Mueller's little boy was ill last Saturday, hope he is better now. . . . Mary Sayen's son Junior, is home on a 12-day leave from Great Lakes. When he returns there he will go to Florida for further training. . . . We wonder why Twyla Anderson is so happy? Could it be she is expecting that certain someone home for Christmas. . . . Wonder who Bob Taylor was chasing around the Grand Leader the other day? . . . We welcome the following to second shift: Vivian Long, Hazel Cox, Marie Forst, Marcie Ewart, Alvina Koomler, Harry Hire, Betty Bryan, Charlene Smith, Catherine Dull, Charlene Bandor, Wilma Cross and Lois Edwards.

GOOD NEWS—Mrs. Mary Jane Horrell has returned to work after a long absence. . . . Who's the handy little seamstress in our office? Could it be Bette Haines? I wonder if she does a good job on buttons. . . . Haircuts are popular again. Both George Lambroff and "Dusty" Rhodes showed up freshly clipped. . . . Speaking of "Dusty" R., that charged-up Superman has been shocking everyone lately. Not by his actions, but by the electricity he's been generating. . . . Carl Stout, who do you think you are, coming in at 8:30 a.m.? Do you think you're a banker? . . . Old Rockin' Chair's got Henry Trojan. All he does all day is sit and rock. What a racket! . . . Dorothy Fett must have been affected by the little poodle dog on her sweater. She got her hair cut real short and curled to match the dog's hair. . . . There's a girl whose initials are Evelyn Mayfield who says she knows a lot, but she doesn't think it would be of interest to readers of this column. . . . Bonnie Lou Fahl had better learn to roller skate before she tries any of that fancy stuff. She has black-and-blue marks from her last attempt. . . . THANKS AGAIN—to all my reporters, who include Alice Barton, Margie Boner, Bonnie Lou Fahl, Joan Lee Bibbo, Bonnie Fulmer, Max Lydy and Betty Phillips.

I'm sure that everyone agreed that our Elex Christmas party was super. Also that what Ethel Smith didn't have she didn't need. . . . Noticed that Ralph Armey was there and seemed to enjoy it. . . . SWEET TOOTH? Elex has 1500 of the five-pound boxes of chocolates. Why not give them all, from the small fry to grandma, a treat? Drop in at the Corner Cupboard or see a contact girl. Don't forget that the proceeds go in the defense fund. Our G-E GI guys and gals will appreciate it, too. . . . Happy birthday to Faye Kitteridge, Ella Arn, Stella Kempf and Velma Seibt. . . . Monday mornings Joe Jensen seems to prefer sitting in a tote box rather than on a chair. . . . Glad to see Clara Thomas back in the groove. . . . Also glad to hear that Mary Jane Redding's father is improving. . . . LaVerne Stilwell wishes to thank you for the pretty cards and gifts. She also is on the improved list. . . . Grandmas have a lot of imagination. Edith Bohde's new granddaughter, age two weeks, is trying to say "grandma" already. . . . If you see Steve Kalynyczenko and Jack Underhill carrying a tin cup, it's because they don't want to miss out on a coke, just because the machine has run out of cups. They are still wondering how they can get their nickel back for the ones that ran onto the floor. . . . OUR "HELLO—Hope you like us" mat is out to all our newcomers. . . . If you have MBA troubles, just look for Ross Domer. He is chairman of the "B" section for the coming year. . . . Guess we need larger aisles. Seems as though Sally Lawrence has trouble getting through.

EARLY CHRISTMAS—Many gifts marked Minnie Cashion's (center) retirement from G-E last Friday. Minnie has been a matron since 1943. At the time of her retirement she was working in Bldg. 4-6. Shown at the party in her honor are Carl Steinbacher and Edna Mowery.

Gifts the whole family will enjoy!

GENERAL ELECTRIC

BUCK FEVER: Harold Buck was so anxious to get his paycheck that he tore it in two. . . . WELCOME BACK: Mr. J. McKim is back with the chosen people after spending a few days at DeKalb. . . . VITAMIN WILLITS: Did you ever look in Dwight Willits' desk drawer? We should call it a medicine chest. It's almost as bad as Joe Gardt's desk. . . . CONGRATS: To Joan Coblentz and Gene Berghorn, who are being married Saturday, Dec. 8. The ceremony will take place at 4 p.m. at the West Creighton Church. . . . HOWDY: Welcome to Paul Bachman, a new draftsman with us. Paul started in the Dev. Div. Monday. Also welcome to R. W. Snyder, who will be assistant Div. Engineer. He reports from the Lynn Works and Ralph Bower, a test engineer, who is going to work for Jim Capps. . . . HAPPY BIRTHDAYS: To Don Cunningham, Dec. 2, Hugh Stephenson, Dec. 5, and Marge Murphy, Dec. 5. . . . PIN UP: Dick Dochterman has a colored picture of a pin-up girl and it is his one and only (none other than his daughter). She sure is cute, Dick. . . . WEEK-END TRIP: Rita Alspaugh and Nancy Grosh had an enjoyable week-end in Indianapolis. They had a good time when they went to see the Ice Show. . . . DEEPEST SYMPATHY: We extend our deepest sympathy to Lela Omspach on the death of her mother. . . . BYE, BYE: We bid so long to a swell fellow, Jim Jellison, of Sales. He left last Friday for Philadelphia, Pa. The Sales Div. will also miss Herm Priwer, who has been moved down the hall. He is now working on a specialized line of Fractional Horsepower Motors. . . . BACK AGAIN: We are most happy to have Don Reek back with us again after a few weeks illness. . . . HAPPY BIRTHDAYS AGAIN: We would like to wish Everett Letsinger belated birthday greetings. Everett celebrated his birthday Monday, Dec. 3. Happy birthday also to Alfreda Sutton, Monday, Dec. 10, and W. Berkheiser, Dec. 11. . . . SUGGESTIONS: For the benefit of members of the DC Division, who might happen to have the following names in the Christmas drawing, a few good suggestions for a gift (should you have difficulty in choosing one) are as follows: small rubber balls, bouncing putty, sling shots—to try and bop the guy across the way, well most any toy that would delight the heart of a two-year old. The names of these juvenile-imitating characters are: Toby Tyler, Stape Stapleton, Billie Manecke, Little Curley, and Eddie Whipple, assisted sometimes by a cute little engineering assistant. The above suggestions are the result of the "little boys" playing ball each noon hour, throwing it over the light fixtures, etc. If you don't believe it, come in and see for yourself. . . . BAD SHOE: The squeaking shoe, Gerke annoyance, has been remedied. Gil Baker was seen following our reporter, Walt Gerke, around with an oil can. . . . WELCOME: We would like to have you meet our new TE, Ray Hurd, with Bob Loveland's group. He comes to us from the big state of Rhode Island. He has served three tests, two of which were in Fitchburg and one in Lynn. He holds a degree in mechanical engineering and graduated from Brown University in 1949. . . . HELLO AND GOODBYE: The new little gal in Bill Pringle's office, may not be new to a lot of us, as she formerly worked in the Service Bureau. We are so glad to have you a part of DC, Gwendolyn Griffith, and we know you'll fit right in with the rest of the gang. Gwenn replaces Margaret Taylor, who now works for Marvin Schmidt.

SHIPPING: It pays to advertise. As proof, we submit the super delicious cookies Mrs. Oberwitte sent along with daughter, Kate, as samples. Our compliments to the chef. . . . It's out! All the facts about the Christmas party. Sounds wonderful, so get your reservations in, gang. There'll be music, dancing and FOOD. . . . Birthday greetings in advance, to Mary Murphy, who celebrates the special day next Thursday. . . . A hearty hand shake to Margaret Lawson, our new label typist. Margaret is married, has a son, and hails from Huntertown, Ind. . . . If any of you have noticed a candy shortage (large five pound box variety), the reason is Ruth Sorg. She's really going to eat candy over the holidays. . . . Congratulations to Georgie Mechling, who became a brand new aunt over the week-end. It was a bouncing baby boy, William Randall by name. . . . Betty Stebing had a very disastrous week-end. She fell upstairs and obtained a black and blue shin and then practically riddled a tooth biting into a very brittle piece of peanut brittle. . . . MAILING: Happy birthday to Gerry Hinsch who has reached his 18th birthday and is now in line for greetings from Uncle Sam. . . . Jerry Crowell spent the week-end in Chicago, and really covered lots of territory. . . . Farewell to John Pranger, who is now an employee of Motor Generator department. . . . Welcome to Hazel Rowe, Garvin Trimm and Bill McSorley. Nice to have you aboard, boys and gals. . . . RECEIVING: If Joe Rygowski comes to work with a sour expression on his usually smiling face, it could be because he sometimes eats dill pickles for breakfast. We wonder if he puts cream and sugar on them. . . . Charlie Von Behren was off work for a couple of days, came back full of pep, and got by with pulling a corny joke as to who it was that laid out John L. Sullivan. Of course, all the fellows fell for it and were making guesses as to which boxer it was; but we all know that it was the undertaker. . . . Carol Linnemeier is going to take a ride through the plant on the conveyors. Of course she will be the first employee to do that, but then someone has to get a new idea started. . . . Charlie Strong was telling about his trip to the Toledo zoo last summer, and said that he saw the monkeys, apes and Arabs. We think that he must have make a stop-off in Arabia, because we've been to all kinds of zoos, and never saw an Arab. . . . How did Paul Thomas get his hands injured? Paul will just have to learn which skillet to watch, when he is frying hamburgers. . . . It was rumored that Dwila Parish has six fingers on each hand. We attached no importance to this rumor until we observed that she wears mittens, and has difficulty getting them on. . . . We had a couple of distinguished visitors last week. It must have been Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip, because Dewain Freshwater was observed opening the door for them. As they passed through, he made a low bow from the waist.

It would seem that some of the song writers in Communist Russia have been listening to a few popular songs from America—at the risk of their necks! Now the order has been given them to "stop turning out songs with trashy love lyrics" and concentrate, in both words and music, on the "glory" of life under the iron fist of Stalin.

We are sorry to hear Florence Weber is in the St. Joseph hospital. Get well soon, Florence. . . . If you wish to hear how a story sounds that you told, tell Gene Meier Friday and he will tell it to you on Monday. . . . Could it be possible that Pondo and Bea are working so hard that they are unable to keep up the pace without breaking down. It seems that they both arrived at the dispensary at the same time. . . . Bob Eckert was playing a bang-up game of basketball the other night at the G-E Club gym. He tried to knock the stage down, but the only thing that happened was that he knocked himself out cold and had to be carried to the dispensary. A couple of his lady friends appeared to give him a little consoling. It sure did the trick, because Bob came in to work the next morning under his own power and with his finger nails painted, too. . . . Betty T. said she spent a lot of money to have her car all fixed up and then ran out of gas a block away from work. They just won't run without gas, Betty. . . . Watch your coke cups, folks. The machine plays tricks. Dorothy and Harriet went to get a coke. When they came back, Dorothy had a coke all right, but all Harriet had was a cup of carbonated water. . . . Let's cheer up the Airliner's basketball team, they seem to be having a little trouble winning games. . . . Marcie had zipper trouble Friday and had to wear her skirt backwards, so her apron would cover the broken zipper. . . . It was told that a fellow was going around trying to find a way to ride home. A couple of nice girls offered to take him home, he said nothing doing, HOW ABOUT THAT? . . . I wish to report that the Airliner's bowling team is still in first place by three games. . . . H. Butz, Patterson, Jackson, F. Lare and fellow workers had a little party the other night. They played a favorite game of Mr. Lare's, but he was beaten at his own game. Mr. Jackson's complaint is he thinks there were a couple of pros in the game. . . . Dorothy and Johnny always sit in a secluded place every noon. We don't know if he is singing to her or just talking.

TOOL BITS

By Don Clark

Listen to this, men. You can learn something here. Kenny Smith made the mistake of complaining to his wife that the meat in his sandwiches tasted like cardboard. She really didn't think he believed what he said. So the next day in his lunch Kenny found a luscious looking sandwich, but to his dismay between the lettuce leaves was a generous slice of cardboard. . . . We were glad to have Loren Boxell, John Roebel and Elmer Bly pay us visits recently. . . . Kenny Sefton's reputation for double talk was enhanced the other day. He was on the double talk radio program. . . . Allison VanWormer claims that his wife loves him as much as ever. He knows it's true since she still puts crushed pineapple in his lunch with no spoon. . . . DIE PLANT—Robert "Yukon" Roy hopes to clothe his wife in mink. He is getting the mink one at a time on his trapping lines. . . . Gus Ausderan is anxiously waiting for some slippery streets to try out his new chains. He became over anxious the other day and clanged into work using chains on dry roads. Frank Staley has hopes for a warm winter with those new long sleeve shirts. . . . Charlie Bracht has a good opinion of Lafayette policemen. Wanting to eat something after a football game, Charlie found a parking space downtown, but was not in position to drive into it. A friendly policeman saw his trouble and held the spot open while Charlie drove around the block. . . . Kenneth Frick has an effective way of keeping his friends liking him. He has been bringing in some of his own home made fruit cake and passing it around. Carl Schlenker says it's really good. . . . We wish Bill Sawyer good luck, as he leaves to become a full-fledged milk man. . . . Lloyd Keener hit two out of three suggestions in time to help with the Christmas shopping. . . . Earl Leichtly has forsaken the sport of fishing and is buying his fish wholesale. . . . We know that Wilbur Lane doesn't look like he would get hungry, but did not think he would lose his lunch. Did you look in the corner pocket behind the eight ball, Wilbur? . . . We extend sympathy to Francis Gerardot in the death of his mother. . . . Today is an unusual day among the office group, as we will be saying goodbye to Mildred Wagoner. For several years we have enjoyed working with Mildred and we feel that her pleasant disposition has been a great factor in making the association so pleasant. Therefore, Mildred, we sincerely wish you much happiness. . . . Jerry Widner can be proud of his brother-in-law, Jim Slatter. Jim is playing on the Michigan State College varsity basketball team. . . . Walter Greiner's Die Section is alive with social events this week. All the fellows are invited to Mart Walsh's Friday evening to dedicate his new club rooms in his basement. We understand Mart is furnishing all the refreshments and will give away some valuable door prizes including a cat, a bale of hay and a garden tractor. . . . Sunday evening the fellows are attending the Zollner-Rochester game in a body and intend to give the local boys some very enthusiastic support. The entire Die Section is going, with the exception of Kurt Martin. Kurt says he lives too far away from the North Side Gym. . . . We would like to take this opportunity to congratulate Harmon Westrick and Gale Rinehart on being elected president and vice-president of the Apprentice Alumni. . . . The Tool Division football team is seeking more bench strength for its injury-riddled squad. Manager Jack Schemehorn informs us that his star quarterback, Don Alcott, and half back, Elmer Ueber, will miss this week's game. . . . Woody Hursh and Bill Mowry claim the coon are pretty smart out Leo way. Reports show that they both slipped and fell in the river chasing one of these animals. . . . Joe Mettler has a well-trained dog. He doesn't have to buy the daily paper anymore. The dog brings the neighbor's paper home. . . . Milo Rauner claims that he was the reason the Pistons broke their losing streak. It was the first game he saw in four years. The flu bug is mighty active in the Lathe Section. He picked on Louis Paluszak, John Roemer, John Neukam and Maury Sordelet. . . . Ray Muttun figures his third week's vacation rested him up enough to keep him healthy. . . . Ralph Van Osdale has added some distinction to the Tool Division group. He has been elected president of the Belmont Improvement Association. . . . We congratulate Mr. and Mrs. Max Baron on the birth of a baby boy, Nov. 26. . . . Gale "teen-age" Rinehart brightly demonstrated the latest in bow ties last week. Two more lights and he could have passed for a Christmas tree.

Bldg. 19-3 by Charlene Bloom

Since Kenny Hart moved out on a farm, he decided that a truck was more advantageous to him than a car, so he traded with Loyd Germano, his Pontiac for Loyd's truck. Both parties are satisfied. . . . Did you know that Frank Enderle is now Charlie McCormick's trouble shooter? Frankie seems so flexible that he leans over backwards. It must be wonderful to be such a good all around man. . . . The face of Perch Sickafus has lost its zombie-like look. It is now radiant, and there are stars in his eyes except when he just sits mooning. Can it be that romance has touched him again? By the way, Perch also collected a parking ticket recently on Washington Blvd. . . . Philip Burney ran afoul of the law last week when he was arrested for speeding. Slow down, Phil, my boy. . . . We hear that Roy Prince took off time last week for minor oral surgery. Our sympathy to Roy, and we hope he recovers quickly. . . . Everett Harris was off one afternoon last week to attend his grandmother's funeral. It must be true because the baseball season is over. . . . Russell Neirester refuses from now on to belive anything Ed Dikty tells him. Russ will not be a sucker again. So he says.

The BIG WIND

TAYLOR ST. DIVISION 17 Rachel Mowrey

Joan Tudor is sure happy now. Her husband is out of the service, and she will be leaving us Friday. Good luck, Joan. . . . We're glad to see Lenora back after a week's illness. . . . Everyone was very well pleased over the Christmas party and Ethel Smith. . . . We know now why Ruby DeBolt is working. The way she eats no one person could keep up, but we will say it doesn't hurt her one bit. . . . Iris Hebble gets so interested in talking, she lets the bus pass her up on the corner. . . . Delbert Logan went hunting with Bill Kessler and Jerry McKown and locked his keys in the car. That explains that broken window. . . . How many Elmers does Nora Dudgeon know? . . . Mel Kestner has gone to shooting his own rabbits now instead of leaving Bireley do it for him. . . . Francis Thomas was hunting Saturday and says a quail said "who" to him, so he shot him. Does he know for sure what he was looking at? . . . Oscar Schelper really enjoyed his muskrat sandwich that Dallas Patten brought him. . . . The next time George Miller comes out to visit he had better make the rounds. We were glad to see you, George, even if you do ruin Glen Buckmaster to be near him. . . . Marg Ulrich and Arveda Neal have started their Christmas a little early from what we hear. Will you girls be done by Christmas?

Let none falter who thinks he is right.—Abraham Lincoln.

DETAILS from Drafting

by ED ELLENBURG

This week we welcomed two new employees to the old drafting room. They are Sheila Kuelbs from St. Paul, Minn., and Delbert Hartman from Carl Brandt's drafting school. Since I'm from both Minnesota and the drafting school, I feel qualified to state that of the two I'd much rather be from Brandt's drafting school. (A long ways from it, that is.) . . . The mystery of the week is called: "The Case of the Disappearing Tooth!" In brief, here are the facts. It seems that Ruth Ehrsam's dentist is a bit cross-eyed or maybe near-sighted. Anyway, he pulled the wrong tooth. There is one thing to his credit, however. Ruth didn't even know the tooth was missing 'til she got home and looked in the mirror! . . . And now, the mystery that was solved last week: Several months ago "Kazanova Kazelis" began spending his lunch hour at the desk where all the girls eat their lunch. The question was, just which girl was he trying to make out with. Months of tedious detective work availed us nothing. Finally last week came the clue that broke the case wide open. Mildred Fettinger was absent from work one day last week, and Tony remained at his own desk for the entire lunch period. It doesn't take Sherlock Holmes to figure out the rest of it. . . . P. Ohnesorge has been sending in box tops to the Kellogg Company. Aren't you a little bit old for that Hopalong Cassidy stuff, Paul? . . . Bob Anders' girl left for India last week. What some people won't do to get away from old "Lucky." Can't say I blame her, though. . . . Dick Koop tells me that Helen Campbell and her husband bought a 15-room house. Are they going to start a hotel? Or what? . . . Shella Juillerat came to work this morning with a brand new "chopper." It seems that the old one just wouldn't stay put, and poor Andy nearly choked to death several times. I hear that now he carries the old one on his watch chain like an Elks' tooth. . . . Pennsy R. R. guards please note: Last week a tough looking character by the name of Bob "Bugsy" Henry tried to swipe a keg of R. R. spikes. Just why, I don't know. Maybe he wanted to spike his coke. Oh, well! . . . Compliments of Drafting: I would like to know why Ed should comment on anyone wearing a necktie. The story is told that when Ed was 15 years old, he received a tie for a birthday gift. His mother put it on him, and Ed disappeared. Sometime later she noticed him standing out in front by the hitching rail. Guess he must have been using his horse sense.

Celebrate 68th

Coy Capesius is proud of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Merriman of Albion, who celebrated their 68th wedding anniversary Nov. 11. We wish them many more happy years.

If you saw someone tired but happy, it was Rennie Phelps. She spent Thanksgiving at Canton, Ohio, with her family. . . . Margaret Kenyon spent last week-end in Chicago with friends. . . . We were glad to see Keith Steele back, and we are sure he is glad to be back. . . . Harry Carr is ahead with three pheasants. Anyone who can top this, let us know. . . . Margaret "Harrison" Turney is back in the groove after a week's honeymoon. Congratulations, Margaret. . . . Dorothy Hart has returned from a two weeks' visit in California. . . . Alma Raymer's son has entered the Veterans Hospital here in Fort Wayne. We hope his condition is much better, Alma. . . . We are glad to see Ray Gephart back on the 51 frame. . . . Dorothy Hart's mother fell and broke her hip Saturday, but Dorothy says she is doing okay. . . . We notice Walter Koehlinger is wearing a new cap. . . . What's this about Ernest Brown's car running away. It seems Ernest put a new thermostat in his car and parked the car in the drive. It rolled away, and Ernest seemed to think someone had taken it. . . . Dollie Fodge's favorite food is pork chops, and Thanksgiving Day there were pork chops on the menu until company brought a chicken. Then chicken it was. . . . We wish Velora Drury a very Happy Birthday. Velora treated with ice cream and cake which was delicious. She was given a new watch. The Drury's also have a new car. . . . We want to welcome Virginia Gordon. She replaces Mary Rose, who is going on the day shift. . . . Coy Capesius is the proud owner of a parakeet. More reports later. . . . We really enjoyed Lennie Phelps birthday cake. . . . Have you noticed that Zeta Worthman is back on second trick? . . . We have two fellows with new names. They are "Bones" Drake and "Baldy" Wheeler.

Souder-Ponset Combination Spark Taylor St. Win Over Ballast

Taylor St. eked out a one point decision over a much improved Ballast team in the first overtime game of the year. The losers, looking much better than they did a week ago, led almost to the end of the game. However, some hot shooting by Souder tied up the ball game, and Taylor St. won it in the overtime period on a free throw by Ponset.

Small Motors were handed their first defeat of the year 42 to 37 by Motor-Generator. Ronnie spearheaded the winners attack with 7 baskets and 2 free throws.

Although the Squares played wtihout the services of their leading scorer, Gil Carl, they defeated Transformer 47 to 28. It was just a case of too much Krasienko, who got 17 points. Jim Walley, player coach, also got 6 buckets and one charity toss.

Test Engineers dropped a 44 to 31 ball game to Aircraft.

The Firemen, held to a half-time tie by the Accounting team, warmed up in the last two periods and won easily 51 to 31.

Fractional took the lead in the first quarter and held it all the way to beat Apprentice School 43 to 30.

Bldg. 4-5 Owl Cagers Nose Wire Mill Team 40 to 39

We've been telling you that close competition was to be expected this season. The early game between Bldg. 4-5 and the Wire Mill was just as tight a game as you would see anywhere, with Bldg. 4-5 nosing Wire Mill 40 to 39. They kept that ball rolling around the hoop in the closing minutes, and the winner was not decided until that final horn sounded. That last quarter saw that ball up and down the floor more than in the previous quarters.

Forest Dwyer with 13 points was high for the winners. While a newcomer, Spice Spitzer, was high for the losers with nine.

Chuck Klenke and Joe Schible scored ten points apiece, and Taylor St. edged past Bldg. 26-3 by a score of 34 to 23. Bldg. 26-3 seems to be jinxed by having quarters of low scoring. Last week they spent one scoreless quarter. This week, scoring only one point in the second quarter and only two in the fourth proved to be their downfall, as they were tied at 21 apiece at the three quarter mark. Lynn Veasey with eight points on four baskets was high point man for the losers.

Taylor Scores 14

After a slow start, Bldg. 26 was unable to catch Bldg. 4, finishing 32 to 41. Jim Taylor of Bldg. 26 was high point man of the day with 14 points on five fielders and four from the charity stripe. Jim Klinger was high for the winners with six baskets or 12 points. Baseball pitcher, Mike Lemish, is a member of Bldg. 26 team.

Bldg. 4 appears to be one of the best balanced teams in the league. Warren Wickliff tossed one in from center. The ball was in the air as the horn sounded.

The games scheduled for December 12 will be played Tuesday, December 11.

Witness: "He called you a sculptor, but said you should wash more often." The attorney scowled: "What were his exact words?"

"Well," hesitated the witness, "he said you were a dirty chiseler."

Peachie Farington took a couple of days off to go trapping and live like the old settlers did. Can't you just see him cracking his coffee beans with a hammer? As for his luck trapping—it was good. . . . Paul Hendricks is back from the big game country, and he says there isn't any game up there. About two days later the newspaper had a picture of a man who shot a deer and a bear. Wonder if Paul got buck fever? We have heard that there are lots of goats in that part of the country. . . . Viola Cowan was mighty proud of her father and six brothers who are trainmen on the Pennsy. The brothers took her father on his last trip to Crestline. Fox movietone news service took pictures of the event. . . . What is this about Helen Smith hitchhiking from Huntington to Fort Wayne? Could be the buses are on strike! . . . Why is Walter Bloomberg spending so much time in Bldg. 17-3 these days? . . . Good-by to Elizabeth Dunn, Ida Witte and Barbara Spieth who went over to Bldg. 6-4. . . . The girls in 1x79 held a surprise pot-luck dinner for Terry Theirme who left us this week. . . . Anybody wanting to know how to get rabbits ask Frieda Farley. If she can't shoot them, she runs them down with her car. . . . Mary Warren spent last week-end in Toledo. She is breaking in a brand new Packard. . . . Mary Garrard had a grand birthday last Sunday. She spent some time in Muncie visiting friends. . . . Welcome to Gladys Strong who returned to 1x55 after a long absence. . . . Margaret Chartres and her family had a wonderful time in Upper Sandusky recently. After a lot of walking, she complained about her corns hurting, and her little son offered the remedy. He said to put some corn cobs on them, that they were good for corns. . . . We are very sorry to hear that Tom Dickenson is a patient at the Lutheran Hospital. Tom is a retired employee of Division 1. We hope you are well real soon, Tom. Come and see us when you can. . . . Cecil Foor's wife is getting a piano this evening and a radio phonograph combination this week. He says that he is going to have to build himself a doghouse so he will be able to get some rest! . . . Congratulations to the O'Dell Scott family on their new daughter, Carol Lynn. . . . Avery Spade is now taking orders for Christmas ducks. He lives on East Wildwood. . . . Wilbur Weber was quite sick with the virus infection and lost all the color in his face. What the guys want to know is do you know all about the birds and bees, etc.? . . . Best wishes to Rosemary Golliver. She is wearing a beautiful diamond ring. . . . It was a happy birthday to Marge Han Sunday. Thanks for the lovely cake.

Small Motor Volleyball Team Tops Apprentices

The Small Motor Volleyball team upset the last year's champs, the Apprentice team, Wednesday evening, Nov. 28, by winning two out of three games.

Scores were:

Small Motor: 13-15-15.

Apprentice: 15-2-12.

Previously, the Test Engineers and Trainees gave a good account of their strength, while playing the Apprentices a close game.

The Tool Division and Taylor St. B teams had a see-saw battle, with the Tool Room boys taking two out of three games.

Winter St. almost put the freeze on the Main Office team in their first game, but relaxed in the next two and lost with scores of 12-3-5.

HEY FOLKS!

There's a free evening of fun every Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday at the G-E Club gym, when the basketball and volleyball teams are in action. Interdivision basketball games are played Tuesday and Thursday nights beginning at 6:45 p.m. The Volleyball League games start at 6 p.m. Wednesdays. There's room for the whole family!

The Small Motor league leader is the Tool team with 24 wins and 12 losses. In second place is the Office team with a 22 and 14 record. Contributing and Planning are tied for third place with 21-15 records. Carl Brandt slowed his ball up and really carried the wood. Carl had a 667 count on games of 170-233 and 264.

Harold Boles ended his activity in the Small Motor league by pounding out a 209. Ivan Parrish scored an even 200; Ed (Hoppy) Bowser, 201; Wes Goss, 225; Kammeyer, 202; Bennett, 205; Walt Whonsetler, 203; Howard Hoffman, 204, and Cliff Smead, 205.

Masonic League

The Masonic League shows Doric in the lead with 22 wins and 11 losses. Ionic and Corinthian tied for second place with an 18 and 15 record. Frank (Pappy) Quinn got his lefthanded ball working and racked up a couple of double century counts, 204 and 208. Somers also had two double century counts, 221 and 201. Rastetter had the high single game for the evening —a big 240 count. Kreisher was close behind with a 227 count; Ramsey, 212; Shultz, 211; Ruhl and Buckmaster, 209 each; Thomas, 205, and Lauterberg, 203. Max Buckmaster picked up the 6-7 split.

Thursday Owl League

Swifty Connett now have a record of 25 wins and 5 losses, having gained a couple of games on the league leaders. Burt's Restaurant is in first place with a 28 and 2 record. Katie Batzner had the high game of 154 and high three games of 381 was rolled by Meredith Haver and Minnie Washington.

Transformer League

As the first half nears the end, the battle for top place gets tighter. Toys are now only one game in front, having a 19 won and 11 lost record. In a tie for second place with an 18 and 12 record are the M and Bells teams. Double century counts reported by H. Meeker this week were Hahn 200 and Rhine 207.

Ladies Monday Night

The Alley-Gators took three games from the Sugar Bowlers to move into second place with a 24 won and 15 lost record. The Sugar Bowlers and Fivettes are tied for third place with a 22-17 record. Still in first place with 28-11 is the Pepperettes team. Justine Brown kegled a 193 count, and Eileen Curtis had a 187. Zella Howell picked up the 4-8-10 split. To hook or not to hook was the question facing Ilo Matter. At least she was having trouble in the early stages of the evening and for awhile, she was known as "3 pin Ilo." Full details may be had by seeing Ilo.

Monday Office

Bill Piercy broke into the 600 count Monday night on games of 242-202-182 for a 630 total. Amplydines are out in front with a 27 won and 12 lost record. Drafting is in second place with 26-13, and Aircraft in third place with 25-14. Standardizing rolled a 2941 three game series. Drafting and AC ended a game in a tie with a count of 1011 pins each. Drafting won the roll off with 106 pins. Motor Generator just hit the 1000 mark on the nose, and Reproduction went over with a count of 1001. Rex Oberlin hit a high single game of 243; Vic Rump, 211; Rudy Zelt, 208; John Root, 202; Don Waldrop, 201; Don Stoneman, 201, and Paul Perry, 201.

Interdivision League

The alleys were really waxed just right for Les Shroyer last Wednesday as he rolled games of 227-238-216 for a high total of 681. Nice going, Les. Next time make the 700 club. Shroyer's teammates helped him out on total team score as they rolled 959-1006-1033 for a grand total of 2998 to grab team high three games away from the Firemen. Elmer Schoenlein of Tower Service rolled a nice 230 game. Tower Service defeated Nogoodnix 3 games.

Brouwers dumped the Firemen two games. Doyle Miller and Erv France had games of 205 and 207. Of the Firemen, Walt Seidel had 204, Noah Kuntz, 233.

Hot Shots took two games from Transformer. No 200 games here, but the runway must have been rather slick for Arnold Kiefer, as he was seen bowling from a sitting position. Did it hurt when you fell down, Arnold?

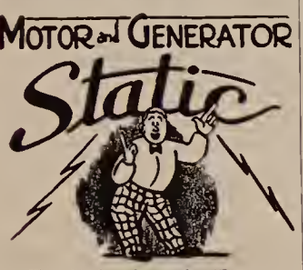
Hermetics won two games from Tools. Four of the Hermetic bowlers had 200 games, namely, Koehl, 201; Roby, 200; Motz, 203, and Soule, 202.

Doodlebug managed to salvage one game from Regionals. Capt. Schrader of Regionals had a 201.

Harvey Bros. took two games from Works Lab.

Decatur

Monday night standings find Office with a 24-12 record; Packers, 20-16, and Stators and Flanges tied with a 14-22 record.



In the Fraternal League, Teeple truck lines are on top with 27 won and 9 lost. Elks and Peterson Elevator have records of 21-15 each, and G-E Club, American Legion have a 19 won and 17 lost standing. Double century counts were made by Steury, 206; Macklin, 212; P. Hoffman, 213; Reynolds, 205; Zelt, 226, and O. Schultz, 221.

Mixed Doubles

There are a few openings left in the 6 p.m. squad for the mixed doubles tournament tomorrow night.

Thought for the week: "It seems that national defense is imperiled by a shortage of copper and a surplus of brass."—Clyde Moore.

We've come a long way—We congratulate Fort Wayne Post 47 American Legion upon the dedication of their new home, 315 to 323 W. Washington Blvd. The formation of this post started August, 1919, when a group of men from one of the local National Guard Units, which had been activated during World War I, began the work of establishing an American Legion Post for Fort Wayne. This new home is indeed a credit to the community, state and nation. The dedication program will start at 2 p.m., Sunday, Dec. 9, until 5 p.m. The public is invited. . . . Window shopping—Seen one evening last week in the 100 block of W. Washington Blvd., Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Saunders, admiring a miniature trailer coach. . . . Important—Production Section wants to know what happened to their "milk stool." . . . Diet—At some time or other each one of us has considered going on a diet. In case you have wondered how Bill Myers keeps his figure looking so trim and neat, here is a diet we do not recommend. Bill was seen recently coming out of a local grocery store, where he had done the family's weekly shopping. His grocery list consisted of six cans of dog food, some Hershey bars and a package of gum. . . . Could be—Monroe Brosius was observed carrying a set of boxing gloves into the Works last week. Can it be that the lad intends to put a little more "punch" into his work? . . . Congratulations—Ludwig Hildner on your appointment as a member of the Board of Safety for the city of Fort Wayne. Motor-Generator feels highly honored that one of our group was chosen for this responsible position. . . . Just a crank—Last Saturday, Ed Foley prepared to come to work. In passing we might mention that when Mr. Foley is dressed for Saturday work, he resembles something that fell off a Christmas tree. King Solomon in all his glory could never compare with our hero. That day Ed wore a bright checked shirt and being a sticker for color harmony, went to the phone and called a "Checker Cab." He spent the next week griping because they sent a "Yellow Cab." Claims the discord was terrible. . . . Help—Thanks to all you nice people who called to inquire why "Motor-Generator Static" was missing in last week's WORKS NEWS. This proves two things to us; first—you read the column, and secondly—you are interested in what you read. . . . Congratulations — Mr. and Mrs. Paul Reddin. Mrs. Reddin was formerly Erna Eley, Bldg. 31-1. They were married Oct. 12. Mr. and Mrs. Cletus Kamphues. Mrs. Kamphues was formerly Goldia Lutz, Bldg. 31-1. They tied the knot Dec. 1. . . . G-E Gossip—Renewal Parts Section—It's surprising how refreshed you can be after a nap. For further information, ask Carol Franke. . . . Bill Starke is back on the ball after a two weeks' span at home. . . . Anyone want a good used referee? Just go to Bldg. 19-1 and call Ed Vaughn. . . . Mr. Bobay was seen at W&D's shopping with his wife and daughter, although he reported he would have rather been at home, where it is peaceful. . . . As from now, Dorothy Anderson is called "dreamer," that is caused by the sudden fall from a chair. She won't comment on what she was dreaming about. What is the matter, Dorothy, is Eugene back on the ball again? . . . Would anyone contribute some extra sleep to Gillie Plummer? He is in great need of it since he has taken such an interest in his television set. . . . Welcome to Bldg. 31-1. Clara Lauer, Blueprint File, and John Pranger, messenger.

It is my judgment that our free enterprise system will function in a most satisfactory and appropriate way if our country's population is as fully informed as possible regarding the operation of stern economic laws and of our total economic system. — William Green, president American Federation of Labor.

The Mayor of Poe, Kenneth Brown, ran out of gas at the corner of Brooklyn and Taylor St. one morning last week. Sure lucky there is a gas station close by. . . . Harold Fletter, Dan Bishop and Brownie attended the Zollner basketball game Sunday night. Harold bought the tickets, and it seemed he forgot to allow enough space on the seat for himself. . . . George Ryan couldn't understand why it was daylight when he awoke one morning last week. It seems he forgot to push the little button on the alarm clock. Did you think you were working second shift, George? . . . We are happy that Carl Reidel is able to be back to work after being ill last week. . . . Beverly Numbers visited her husband, who is stationed in Illinois in the Air Corps, over the weekend. He accompanied her home and returned to Chanute Field Sunday night. . . . Our sincere sympathy to the Earl Fredericks family on the death of his mother-in-law. . . . Congratulations to Herman Watters who has a new grandson. . . . Div. 17x70 welcomes the new man on the P&W machine, Oral Emrick. . . . We are wondering what Melvin Riley has been up to now that he is in hiding or did he just run out of razor blades? We also heard that Mel and his wife went hunting Saturday and that she can imitate a dog barking very well.

Three typewriters! Last week industrious Marguerite O'Connell was using two typewriters, one with a short carriage and another with a long carriage. We understand there is another typewriter on order for Marguerite. She must really be an expert. All she needs now is a private office. . . . Dick White is taking the Manufacturing Training Course. He spent this week getting acquainted with the AC and DC engineering divisions. . . . Larry Gouker is a new draftsman who works in Bill Lautzenheiser's section. . . . WANTED: One beefsteak for Dick Fischer's black (and partly blue-green) eye. Of course, the usual explanation for a black eye is running into a door at night. Wonder what the truth is? . . . Well, leave it to the Elex contact girl to remind everyone to take their membership card to the Christmas party and then arrive without her own. Incidentally, the only complaint we've heard of Ethel Smith's organ program was "not long enough." . . . Plans are underway for a Christmas dinner party for the M&G Engineering Divisions. The party is to be held in the Squares Club rooms on Saturday, Dec. 15. Minnie Ferguson is in charge of the dinner arrangements. Maurice Emling will be master of ceremonies. Bea Heck is planning the entertainment with the help of Joan DeJean, Les Wright, Tye Schuerman and Charlie Brown.

Aldina Harris has returned to work after a recent operation and says, "Thanks, gang, for the flowers I received." Glad to see you back, Aldina. . . . BEWARE, GIRLS! It may not be putting oil in someone's shoes, but she is quite tricky. Who is she? . . . Dilla Carper has a way of getting along with the foreman. Ask him about it. We saw the note. . . . Your columnist believes in second-handed kisses when she gets them first. . . . Clara Wisel better quit complaining or else do some more explaining. Anyway, Clara, the girls all know you can still blush. . . . Betty Collier was very happily surprised on her birthday last week by the placers. She said she really enjoyed the potluck. Many more happy birthdays, Betty. . . . Woody Platt tells us the condemned man has been granted a reprieve. Anyway, Woody gets to stay with us. We hope it is for a long time. . . . Dessie George is ready to go places—all dressed up in a new dress and shoes to match. Just think, no more dry cleaning bills. . . . Come on, girls, take better care of the furniture in Bldg. 6-2 so Joe doesn't have to dust before he can sit down. . . . Bud Kissinger must have thought they ran out of material in regard to Betty Collier's birthday gift. No, sir, Bud, that's just a new model. . . . We want to warn Fern Yoder on her new job that if she gets her hands and apron awfully dirty, it all goes with the work. We hope she'll like it. . . . We wonder if Ted Slough has burned his tongue yet on his "boiling soup." . . . We had some bright smiling faces one day last week when our "Indiana Tech" boys finally got their diplomas. Congratulations, boys. . . . Woody Platt tried to carve rabbits out of shafts all night. He used the excuse he was hunting and didn't get any sleep before he was called in early. . . . We are all wondering what Orville's attraction was that he didn't get stopped soon enough to avoid hitting the guy in front of him. Kind of an expensive Thanksgiving holiday, Orville.

RETIRES FROM G-E—Taylor St. Power House operator Leland Hastings (seated, center) retired from the General Electric employment recently because of illness. Several of his co-workers went to his home to wish him luck. With him are Ralph Latham (left) and Harold Gerke, both of Taylor St.

"Lost" and "Found" articles must be cleared through the Plant Protection office, Bldg. 10-2, or the Plant receptionist, who will place the Ad-let and otherwise advertise the article.

No ad will be received over the telephone. Only one ad per employee may be inserted. Each ad must be limited to 20 words and cannot be repeated. All articles mentioned must be personal property of the employee. Ad will not be accepted unless accompanied by the name, pay number, and division of the employee. VACATIONING: Vacation time claimed Arthur Kelly this week. No report on how he intends to spend it. Perhaps we will get the low down on it after he returns to work. . . . RETURNED: Jeannette Ehinger has returned after having a leave of absence of several weeks. . . . Delphena Reynolds is back on the job after several weeks of illness. Hi, "Curley," nice having you back! . . . FIRE! FIRE! Don't get alarmed, if you should happen to see a heavy smoke screen around a couple of the grinders. Just put on a mask and wade through it. You probably will find that it is just Guy Lister and Larry Franklin trying to prove whether a cigarette or a pipe will make the most smoke. . . . RETIRING: Frank Gillig left us last week to join the retired list. Frank was presented a very nice gift by his fellow workers. We are sorry to have him leave, but hope that he will find time to come back and see us again. . . . DEAR SANTA! I won't ask you to bring me much for Christmas this year. Please, Santa, all I want is a man, just a man. Of course, I prefer an old, old one with loads of money. I will help him spend it. Please try to find one for me, Santa. Your friend, Beverly Sue. . . . This business of getting up in the middle of the night to get to work at 7 a.m. isn't all it is supposed to be. At least that is Jack Teeple's idea. He finds it very difficult to get to work on time. It is so-o-o-o early. . . . The reason for the bulging eyes in the office is due to a certain calendar. Now boys, don't believe everything you read. . . . On Saturday morning, Dec. 3, a shower was given in honor of Joan Borne, Arline Colter and Ruth Gehrig at the home of Mary Maloney. Mary was assisted by Hazel Lichtenstiger, Earleen Steffen, Norma Johnson and Ruth Foreman. A breakfast was served at 8 a.m., after which the honored guests were recipients of many lovely gifts. The office girls were present. . . . The GeCode Club girls recently made a trip to Indianapolis to see Barbara Scott. An enjoyable trip was reported by all. . . . JUST A REMINDER: The G-E Christmas party is next Saturday, Dec. 15, 1951, at 10 a.m. at the Adams theater. Get your tickets from your foreman or from the G-E Club today. All those employees laid off for lack of work are also eligible.

Jack and Naomi Snyder are as proud as can be.
They became the parents of a girl on Friday, Twenty-three.
She tips the scales at 5-2,
And will be known as "Peggy Lou."

Ruth Crockett was recently dubbed the "rag woman" or "collector of the rags." . . . The boys of the bowling league think Fred Wheeler should quit. He's getting too good for them. Fred bowled a score of 202 and 226 on the 14th. . . . Jerry Schlund left us for a few days. He attended meetings at the Lockland, O. Plant in Cincinnati. . . . Marilyn Spice left the ranks of the "free women." She has become engaged to Orville Moore. Congratulations, Marilyn. . . . Vivian Grepke Reitdorf brought her wedding pictures to work Monday. They all turned out beautiful. . . . Birthday wishes to Marilyn Spice, who celebrated her 20th on the sixth. . . . Gladys Sorenson was seen waiting in line to see Santa last Saturday. She didn't get to talk to him, but she said he winked at her. . . . Kathy Roush is making big plans for Christmas. She hopes to be with her husband who is stationed in Alaska. . . . Haven't heard much about Carol Harrington's bowling scores. Maybe she doesn't want it known. . . . Audrey Bradfield has been looking for Rudolph, the Red Nose Reindeer. If anyone comes across him, please let Audrey know. . . . Betty Bartley, Vi Schnieders, Carol Kissinger, Judy Krebs, Marilyn Spice, Audrey Bradfield, Ruth Crockett, Joyce Grieser and Helen Risser enjoyed the talented organist, Ethel Smith, at the annual Elex Christmas party.

G-E's Pension Plan insures members a regular income as long as they live after retirement.

$250 IDEA by G-E employee Anthony Stalpinski, is explained to his sons. G-E employees have won as much as $3,000 for a single suggestion.

Over the years, General Electric has paid out more than $3,000,000 to employees for ideas to increase safety, make jobs easier, save materials, improve quality. Last year 22,275—more than a third of all the suggestions submitted—were adopted and paid for. The G-E Suggestions System, started in 1906, is a part of our ceaseless search for a better way to bring you products designed and built to serve you faithfully.

THREE CHANGES ANNOUNCED IN FINANCE ORGANIZATIONS

STAB Finance Post Goes to E. H. Henry; H. B. Leach to Manage CP General Accounts; Hensick Appointed Works Sup'r of Accounting

E. H. HENRY
Transfers from Bloomfield Plant

H. B. LEACH
New General Accounts Manager

A. C. HENSICK
Promoted in Works Service Accounting

Eugene H. Henry has been named Manager—Finance, Specialty Transformer and Ballast Department, C. H. Rinne, STAB Manager, announced today.

In other financial organizational changes this week, Harold B. Leach was appointed Manager—General Accounts for the Component Products Division's Financial Department, by C. W. Moeller, Division Manager—Finance. A. C. Hensick's appointment as supervisor of accounting for the Works Service Department was disclosed by E. F. Waldschmidt, Works Accountant.

All three appointments became effective Monday.

Mr. Henry comes to Fort Wayne from the Air Conditioning Department in Bloomfield, where he has been serving as accountant since 1949.

He attended Staunton Military Academy and Lehigh University. A member of Phi Beta Kappa, Mr. Henry received a B. S. degree in business administration from Lehigh in 1935.

BTC Graduate

He joined the Company in 1935 in the Business Training Course and served as traveling auditor from 1938 to 1939. From 1940 until 1943, Mr. Henry did general accounting and financial work for the Air Conditioning Department.

In 1943, Mr. Henry was named division accountant of the I M & C divisions. Mr. Henry was appointed department accountant of the Refrigeration Machine Plant at Winter St. in 1948.

Mr. Henry is married and has two children.

Joined G-E in 1937

A native of Eldon, Iowa, Mr. Leach joined the General Electric Company in 1937 as the local representative of the G-E Credit Corporation in Chicago. That same year, he became local manager of the G-E Credit Corporation in Minneapolis and later served in the same capacity in Indianapolis. In 1942, Mr. Leach was named dis-

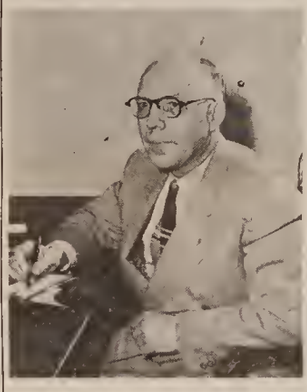
Cost-of-Living Pay Adjustment Awaits WSB OK



According to information received from the New York Regional Office of the Wage and Hour Division — acting agents for the Wage Stabilization Board—the "cost-of-living" pay increase to General Electric employees (1.08 per cent) cannot be placed in effect prior to its approval by the Board.

It was hoped that payment of any retroactive pay due employees under the "cost-of-living" portion of the proposed increases could be paid not later than Dec. 15. However, the formal ruling from the Board states that WSB approval is required before payment can be made.

In the meantime, the Company has announced that every effort will be continued to expedite consideration by the Board of the application for approval of both the 2½ per cent increase and the Cost-of-Living increase.

Bobay Elected President Of Quarter Century Club

Carl V. Bobay, Taylor St. Laboratory, has been elected president of the Quarter Century Club for 1952, W. W. Stocks, chairman of the nominating committee, announced this week.

LOW MAN ON THE TOTEM POLE

More for the Dollar

The traditional guardian of the family purse strings, known as the budget, is being assailed from all sides these days. But in spite of the mounting burden being imposed upon it, more and more families are making group insurance an important part of their budgets, according to a recent survey taken by the Life Insurance Association of America.

The survey brought to life several important facts. First, it showed that the number of group life insurance contracts increased nine per cent over 1949. But more important it revealed by comparison that in almost all phases, General Electric's Insurance Plan offered much more than the average insurance coverage.

G-E Average $5,000

The national average of individual policies is $2,506. G-E's average is $5,000.

The weekly sickness and accident benefits under the Company's Plan average $32.50. Coverage for government employees average $27.84 weekly. Various state plans average even less.

The survey showed hospital benefits averaging $6.81 per day, compared with $10 per day under the G-E Plan. Surgical benefits for the nation as a whole and under the Company Plan run about the same, $175. By comparison dependent hospital and surgical benefits made only slight gains for group insurance plans in general, G-E's Plan provides the same coverage for dependents and employees in these fields.

Although the survey indicated that more and more families are making group insurance an important part of their budgets, General Electric people have long since recognized the importance of such insurance. When the improved Company Insurance Plan became one-year-old December 1, 99 per cent of all G-E employees were participating in it, frank testimony that dollar for dollar, its value is well within the family budget.

Janice Sollberger had quite a surprise the other morning when she went to brush her teeth. It seems she very sleepy-eyed reached into the medicine cabinet to get the tooth paste. Not looking to see what tube she had, she squeezed a very generous amount on her brush, but just as she got it up to her mouth, she noticed it had a very odd smell. Upon taking a look at the tube she had used, she discovered she had the Baum-Bengue. Needless to say, Janice didn't brush her teeth that morning. . . . The Sollbergers also have a new six weeks' old cocker puppy at their house. Everyone in the office has been giving her advice as to how the puppy should be trained. . . . Charles Gable is now the proud owner of a new Chevrolet. From now on Dick Pinkham will have to buy all the cokes because Gable says he sure can't afford any now. . . . The girls in the office are having their annual Christmas dinner Monday evening at the Victory Club. After the dinner we are going to Alma Witte's home for our gift exchange and the rest of the evening. A good time is expected by all . . . Peg Turschman is knitting a pair of mittens for a Christmas gift. After working for nearly two weeks, she now has the mitten half done. We are wondering if she expects to get them both finished for Christmas or if she is planning to give one for Christmas and then the other one for Easter. . . . Question of the Week—What gentleman in the office has the nickname of "Pie." It seems to be a deep dark secret and up to now your reporter has been unable to find out who it is. . . . Lois McWhirter has been taking tap dancing lessons recently and we are hoping for an exhibition of her talents at the Christmas party.

To the reporter of The Mount Dora, Florida paper, Topic, who was investigating an incident, one of the participants gave the name "Topper Moffett." That's a very thinly disguished alias for the gentleman we knew so long as Toppy Moffatt. Knowing him so well, no one in Bldg. 31-2 was deceived. It is disturbing to us that he could not think quickly enough to invent another name. . . . The people in the drafting room bought a Christmas tree, and the girls have it beautifully decorated. The tree is bringing us the Christmas spirit and reminding us—it won't be long now. . . . The M-G girls will get together at a luncheon next Wednesday noon for a Christmas exchange.

Happy birthday to Bud Mendenhall, who has returned to work after recovering from injuries received in an accident. He celebrated his birthday on the ninth. . . . Also, birthday wishes to Dorothy Favorite, who will be celebrating her birthday on the 15th. . . . "A Huntin' We Will Go!" Vi Schnieders, Gene La Favour, and Maxine Householder were after Mr. Rabbit. It's a good thing they weren't planning on a rabbit dinner—no rabbits. . . . Jean Smith returned from her vacation, but she was no longer Jean Smith. She had become Mrs. Robert Lapp in a simple, quiet ceremony. All the happiness in the world, Jean and Bob. . . . Rathy Roush left us Friday. She is joining her husband, who is stationed in Alaska. Jo Quinn, Betty Bartley, and Delores Borne gave her a very nice send-off by taking her out to dinner and then to a show. . . . Phyllis Clifton and her husband spent their wedding anniversary in Chicago. They saw the stage play "South Pacific." Congratulations on your anniversary, Phyllis. . . . Joyce Grieser is back from her vacation. She spent a couple of days in Chicago. Joyce says she is glad to be back to work, though. . . . Maxine Householder poses for a picture in her high top boots, rolled up jeans, her little nephew's cowboy hat, and packin' the little fellow's toy pistol. She isn't as dangerous as she looks—luckily.

Words by Walt

TIME TO GO

For years and years,
A giant cotton-wood has stood
Among all other trees,
A monarch in our neighborhood.

I asked, but fonud,
Nobody old enough to name
The time this giant monarch
Didn't look the same.

Long years ago, close by,
Although I know not where,
There must have stood the mother tree.
With tufts of cotton in her hair.

Who, true to nature's law,
Each year a million seeds set free,
With hope that somehow,
One at least, might grow into a tree.

'Twould seem her hope,
If hope is something nature puts in trees,
Might, well have been supported
By some helpful friendly breeze.

A breeze, that fate ordained
Should find a fertile spot to lay.
This one among a million seeds,
Each year, she casts away.

And so, from this beginning,
Back there years and years ago,
Our giant monarch, then a seed,
Became inspired to grow.

And through the years, with arms
Outstretched and reaching always higher,
It seemed to symbolize
That faith and hope we all require.

Now, after all these many years,
Just why I do not know,
The owner of the spot it stood
Decided it must go.

But even as they sawed the trunk,
And chopped the limbs away,
With arms outstretched,
It still reached up to God, as if to pray.

And when at last it fell,
With one protesting final roar,
I realized we didn't have
Our monarch any more.

'Twas hard to take, but still,
It taught me one thing well to know,
No matter who or what it is
Some time it has to go.

Tickets Still Available at G-E Club For Children's Christmas Party

The doors of the G-E Club will open Saturday, Dec. 22, and Sunday, Dec. 23, to the 16th annual Kiddies Christmas Party, complete with holiday trimmings, four professional acts and Santa Claus with treats for the kiddies.

Six performances have been scheduled to accommodate employees' children. Four shows will be given Saturday at 1, 3, 5 and 7:30 p.m. Two programs are set up for Sunday, one at 2 and the other at 4 p.m.

Charlie Wilt, manager of the G-E Club, reported yesterday that there are tickets available at the G-E Club candy stand for the 5 and 7:30 p.m. Saturday performances and the 4 p.m. Sunday performance. Tickets for the other performances are not available.

There are tickets at the Taylor St. employment office for all of the six performances.

Employees' children who are 12 years old or less may attend the party. Parents may secure tickets for their children at the G-E Club candy stand or the Taylor St. employment office by presenting their club membership cards.

One of the outstanding acts which have been booked to entertain the kiddies is the ventriloquist, Bob McElroy. With his four little wooden dolls, Mr. McElroy has performed at many theaters throughout the country and on television and radio.

Since acts of magic are always rated high on the entertainment list, the entertainment committee has booked Florence Cazan. She is billed as the world's foremost challenge escapist. She offers a $500 reward to any person who can hold her in modern handcuffs or can prove she employs confedcrates or trick cuffs.

The fourth act consists of Ted Miller and Smiley, a comedy team. They specialize in homespun humor and musical entertainment.

The members of the entertainment committee, who will paek the treats for the kiddies Sunday afternoon, are: Gordon L. Smith, chairman, Taylor St.; Art Brockmeyer, Bldg. 2-1; Gayle Griffith, Winter St.; Joe Wyss and Kenny Redding, Taylor St.; Bob Green, Bldg. 26-3; Belle Buchan, Bldg. 2-2; Hubert Myers, Bldg. 18-3; Buck Buchan, Bldg. 19-2; Katherine Gardt and Joe Gardt, Bldg. 4-6; Mamie Allen, Bldg. 17-1; Glen Seabold, Bldg. 28; Johnny August, Bldg. 27, and Earl Stauffer, Bldg. 17-4.

Keep Your Christmas Merry!

This Yuletide, as always, brightly-lighted Christmas trees will shine from front windows of millions of homes, symbolizing the warmth and kindly feelings of the season.

But, before the Christmas season ends, some of those trees will turn into symbols of flaming horror because someone failed to observe a few safety rules.

Christmas can be kept merry if you remember that your Christmas tree is very combustible—being filled with pitch and resin it ignites easily and burns furiously—and follow these common sense rules developed by the National Board of Fire Underwriters:

1. Choose a small tree instead of a large one. A small tree can be just as pretty and it's less of a hazard.
2. Don't set up the tree until just a few days before Christmas. Keep the tree outdoors until ready to install it.
3. Set up the tree in the coolest part of the house, away from radiators, heaters or fireplaces. Stand it in water, which retards the drying out process.
4. Do not use cotton or paper for decorating the tree unless the decorations are flameproof.
5. Do not place electric trains around the tree.
6. Never use candles. Use electric lighting sets only. Inspect every socket and wire to make sure the set is in good condition. Discard sets with frayed wiring. When buying new sets, look for the Underwriters' Laboratories, Inc. label or marker.
7. Use flameproof or fireproof decorations of glass or metal to decorate your tree.
8. Remove gift wrappings promptly after gifts have been opened.
9. Provide a switch some distance from the tree for turning tree lights off and on.
10. Don't leave lights burning when no one is in the house. From time to time, inspect the tree and see whether any of the needles near the lights have started to turn brown. If so, change the position of the lights.
11. When needles start falling, take the tree down and discard it outdoors.

Suggestions Kept On File Six Years Before Destroying

Fort Wayne Works suggestions are kept on file for a period of six years after which time they are removed from the files and destroyed, it was pointed out today by A. C. Hartman, Chairman and Secretary of the Suggestion Committee.

After January 2, the committee will only be able to re-open for consideration those suggestions closed after 1945. This is in accordance with past practice.

Partizan Chapter Plan Annual Christmas Party

Members of Partizan Chapter will hold their annual Christmas Party Tuesday at the home of Wilma Garringer. The meeting will begin at 12:30 p.m.

There will be a 50-cent gift exchange. Co-hostesses are Burnis Cramer, Peggy Flood and Phyllis Wagner. Mrs. Garringer's home is located on the Decatur Rd.

Neil Currie, Jr. Former Works Manager Retires From Company

Neil Currie, Jr., former Fort Wayne Works Manager, retired from General Electric this month after 43 years of service with the Company. At the time of his retirement he was serving as general consultant for the General Electric Company's manufacturing services division.

Mr. Currie was appointed manager of the Fort Wayne Works in 1936 and served in this capacity until 1939. He was a key figure in coordinating facilities and manpower within the Company's former Apparatus Department throughout the war years.

A native of Minnesota, Mr. Currie was graduated from the University of Minnesota with a degree in electrical engineering in 1908, after which he joined the General Electric Company.

Started at Pittsfield

Following early years with the Company at its Pittsfield Works, Mr. Currie was named assistant engineer of the Motor Department there in 1911, engineer of the Motor Department in 1920, and managing engineer of that department in 1925. He was appointed manager of the Company's Philadelphia, Pa. Works in 1929.

In 1939, he was appointed assistant to W. R. Burrows, then vice president in charge of manufacturing. In this capacity Mr. Currie coordinated facilities and manpower of the various G-E apparatus works so that the Company could meet expanding production requirements of industry and government.

Mr. Currie was named manager of manufacturing of the Apparatus Department in 1945, and four years later was appointed administrative assistant to the vice president and general manager of the Apparatus Department.

In February of this year, he was appointed general consultant for the manufacturing services division, the position he held upon his retirement.

Receives 14th Patent

L. W. Wightman Granted Patent

Lawrance W. Wightman, Bldg. 4-6, has been granted a patent on his invention of a tapered rotor for unit bearing motors by the U. S. Patent Office.

Mr. Wightman is the group leader of the Mechanical Design Group of the Fractional Horsepower Motor Development Engineering Division. He has been an employee of the General Electric Company since 1937, and has been in FHP Motor Engineering since 1939.

This is Mr. Wightman's 14th patent.

The Wightmans and their two children live at 340 W. Woodland.

Hear Ye, Hear Ye!—Passersby the Taylor St. plant need no longer wonder what plant lies behind the wire fence across the bridge. A new stainless steel General Electric sign was recently placed above the front entrance to the building to let it be known to one and all that it is a part of the G-E family.

Sloan Named Cost Supervisor In FHP Motor Development

The appointment of Gilbert A. Sloan as supervisor of costs in Fractional Horsepower Motor Department's Product Development Section No. 23 was announced this week by O. J. Mettler, superintendent.

Mr. Sloan worked in central cost in Bldg. 4-6 when he came to the Company in 1944. Two months later, he moved to FHP Div. 13 to work as a statistician. In 1948, he entered central cost at Taylor St. Mr. Sloan began working in government project accounting in 1949. This was his position at the time of his present appointment.

The Sloans and their one child live at 3515 Lillie St.

A LETTER TO SANTA CLAUS

Dear Santa:

We had our annual Christmas Party and such a wonderful time was had by all! Don Thomas, our capable chairman, wishes to express thanks to all the committees for their fine assistance. Of course, we had a few minor casualties. Walt Konow, in a square dance, ended up dancing with Tom Ambrose. "Chip" Hartman is now referred to as "Stick in the Mud" after his car became lodged firmly in the mire. Alice Hahn, in charge of the attendance prize drawing, was amazed (and embarrassed) when she discovered she held the lucky ticket. It was so nice seeing Fritz Stauffer, our pensioner, and his wife. "Emmie" Stock attended, and as you know he has left our floor to go to Taylor St. Please be good to him, Santa, because we all think he's "one fine Joe." Besides being our supervisor, he was a real friend to us. He always was willing to help us solve our problems and his fine sense of humor could brighten any of our dismal days. We'll miss him so much and wish him the best of luck on his new assignment. We've heard so many of our co-workers exclaim, "For Christmas, I'd like .....," so we thought we'd pass these suggestions on to you. Darrell Dennie—a television set; Carl Chadwick—to see the country get out of war and have peace; Arnold Ley—an 8" power saw; Roger Crabill—Peace and Good Will all over the world and not just on a Christmas Card; Joe Prezbindowski—stone cutting and polishing kit; Don Thomas—Four inches of ice on Houghton Lake; Mike Lowe—some new ice fishing clothes; Dick Seidel—a case of Drewry's; Walter Lydy—more damp, foggy nights for coon hunting; Jesse Hart—a nice home about ten miles from town and 20 acres; Al Dolbec—a new Packard; Edna Ward—my two sons, John and Howard, who are in the Navy, in my Christmas stocking; John Howard—ten nice head of beef cattle; Gerry Holdgreve—to have everyone to be perfectly honest just for one week at least: Don Baker—$10,000 to pay for debts my wife is running up for Christmas presents. Here's hoping you come through, Santa.

Q-C Election

he held during 1951.

Approximately 75 per cent of the Q-C membership returned their ballots in this year's election, Mr. Stocks reported. Ballots came from pensioners located in California, Florida, Michigan, Ohio, Arizona, New Mexico, New York and West Virginia, as well as many towns and cities in Indiana.

The nominating committee expressed their thanks to the members of the Quarter Century Club for their cooperation in returning ballots promptly and to the candidates for their cooperation.

On behalf of the committee, Mr. Stocks stated, "We wish to congratulate the newly-elected officers and wish them a happy, successful term of office. We know that all of the members of the organization join us in this message."

G-E and UE Agree on Wage Hike

A wage settlement was reached by the General Electric Company and UE last Friday in New York.

The terms of the settlement call for a wage increase amounting to 3.58 per cent on gross individual earnings and will be retroactive to September 15 upon approval by the Wage Stabilization Board. The increase which was offered all G-E employees, has now been accepted by more than 60 other unions in the Company. Besides the increase, the Company has agreed to provide three week vacations after 15 years of service.

L. R. Boulware, vice president in charge of employee relations, expressed gratification on the settlement of the wage issue, which was under negotiation with UE and the 60 other unions, and amply confirmed that the Company's offer was fair, equitable and as good as could be worked out within the letter and spirit of the wage stabilization program.

The Company and the UE representatives have drawn up a formal contract which closes wage discussions until next March. Boulware said the Company has been making every effort to get wage stabilization board approval of its offer before Christmas, so that the retroactive pay involved could be made before the holidays.

The settlement with UE, which represents about 44,000 employees at 44 plants throughout the country, brings to more than 95 per cent the number of G-E employees in line for the pay raise. This figure includes non-union employees and those under other unions who have signed the agreement and joined in the WSB application.

The 3.58 increase is based on a straight 2½ per cent raise with a 3½ cent minimum, plus a cost of living increase equal to the percentage of increase in the BLS cost of living index between March 15 and Sept. 15, 1951. The index rose 2.0 points or 1.08 per cent in that period.

Applied to hourly rated jobs, the increase will give 4.8 cents per hour for an employee earning $1.20 per hour to over eight cents per hour to an employee earning $2.25 per hour.

This increase coupled with nine cents per hour last March brings the amount the Company has agreed to increase employee wages this year to about 14 cents to more than 17 cents per hour.

E. J. O'Neill Appointed General Stores Supervisor

E. J. O'Neill

E. J. O'Neill has been appointed supervisor of general stores and foreman of stockkeepers, Works Services Department, according to an announcement made by Doyal White, purchasing agent, this week.

When Mr. O'Neill joined the General Electric Company in 1926, he became a clerk in Bldg. 17-4. One year later, he moved to Bldg. 20, where he started stockroom routine for the general service division. He was assistant supervisor of the stockroom at that time.

He moved to Bldg. 8-1 in 1949 to become assistant supervisor of the general stores and maintenance and all oil house materials. He held this position at the time of his present appointment.

He is a member of the Supervisors Club.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Neill and their two children reside at 5319 Fairfield Ave.

Finance Changes

trict credit manager of the Credit Corporation in Chicago.

He first came to Fort Wayne in 1943 as cost statistician and analyst. Mr. Leach transferred to facilities contracts accounting in 1946, as supervisor. The following year, he became assistant supervisor of accounting. He has been serving as assistant Works accountant since 1948.

On Fund Board

Mr. Leach is a member of the Community Services Fund administrative board, serving as a management representative and treasurer. He is also assistant secretary and auditor of the G-E Realty Corporation of Indiana, and a member of the Supervisors Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Leach and their daughter, Molly Jo, live at 1826 Alabama Ave.

Mr. Hensick, the newly-appointed supervisor of Works Service accounting, has been with G-E since 1942. He was first assigned to facilities contracts accounting in connection with the supercharger project. In 1945, he was assigned to the same work for all Fort Wayne government facilities.

Mr. Hensick became supervisor of Billing in the Accounting Division in 1947, and a year later, following decentralization, became section supervisor in the control unit.

He attended Concordia College, and is a member of the Fort Wayne Chapter of the National Association of Cost Accountants and the Supervisors Club.

Married, Mr. Hensick has four children. The Hensicks reside at 709 Packard Ave.

Under the G-E Employees' Savings and Stock Bonus Plan the employee receives the return on U. S. Savings Bonds plus dividends on the G-E stock allocated to him, which will be paid as promptly as practicable at the end of the 5-year period when the stock is delivered to him.

William Nieman Dies In Lutheran Hospital

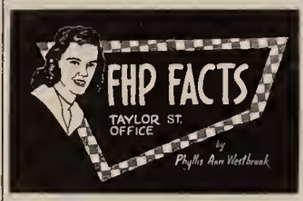
William F. Nieman, 75, died at 11:55 a.m. Saturday at the Lutheran Hospital. He was pensioned from the General Electric Company Nov. 1, 1946.

When Mr. Nieman joined the Company in 1903, he was a foreman in Bldg. 19-4. He became an inspector in the same location and held this position at the time of his retirement.

Mr. Nieman was a member of the Quarter Century Club.

Survivors include his wife, Julia; one son, John, of Churubusco; two grandchildren, Nancy and Johnnie, and a brother, Gottlieb, of Monterey Park, Calif.

Services were held Monday at the Klaehn Funeral Home. The Rev. Erwin Tepker officiated. Burial was in Lindenwood Cemetery.



WE'RE LATE: But in spite of the high cost of living and the increase in taxes Harry Meads still had nerve enough to say "I DO" to Carol Peck, Saturday, Dec. 1. Congratulations, Harry and Carol. We wish you the very best of everything. . . . WANTED: Rabbit's foot or some other good luck charm to present to Priscilla Thrasher. Pat has broken her third vacuum bottle and is carrying her daily ration of warm milk in a quart fruit jar. . . . MISSING: From Bill Rohe's desk—one brown and black oxford. Bill says it would not have been so bad if they had taken a pair, but it had to be one left brown and a right black. He is also of the opinion that any one who would do a thing like that, would also most likely slug the coke and candy machines. . . . MIKE FRIGHT: Tom Hutsell was to sing on Joe Taylor's radio broadcast, but before he got that far, mike fright set in and he went and hid. When finally found, he was standing behind Studio "B" shaking like a leaf. Come now, Tom, get hold of yourself, you're a big boy now. . . . CUTS PRODUCTION: Lois Connet has been buying eggs from Wimpy Lemper. On a recent purchase, she received 11 regular size eggs (question) and one teeney weenie little one just large enough to bring the count up to 12. When Lois confronted Wimpy as to the why and whereof, he said he couldn't help it if his hens cut down on their production. We bet they had a very good reason. You didn't cut down on their feed did you, Lemper, old boy? We understand Wimpy's going to play Santa Claus next Wednesday night. In view of what's happened to Lois we surely feel sorry for those poor children. No doubt he'll give them some of those small eggs and make them believe they're golf balls. . . . BIGGEST RABBIT: Virgil Nash of the Die Room was hunting one recent Saturday, near Virgil Howell's place. Monday, Virgil Nash came in all steamed up. He told everyone he shot the biggest rabbit he ever saw. The same Monday Virgil Howell of Wire Drawing was crying the blues over the loss of the largest buck rabbit he ever owned. What's your conclusion, folks? . . . FOR SALE: '37 Chevy—99,999 true miles; runs like Wire Rolling Mill, and worn out lawnmower. For further details see Carl Hankel, Rolling Mill operator. . . . COST PARTY: K-9 Ranch was the scene of a lively party a week ago Thursday evening, when the Cost Department celebrated the end of pricing Inventory cards. (For this year at least.) Everyone had a very enjoyable time including Duke (that's Loretta Puff's pooch). Those attending and still reporting for work ahead of time Friday morning were: Mary Clark, Willadean Todd, Betty Pickett, Ginny Gillingham, Loretta Puff, Don Reed and Jim Gargett. . . . P.S. We understand that Jim Gargett is just crazy about "Mouse Cheese." He would rather eat mouse cheese than ham. In fact, Jim likes "Mouse Cheese" better than the mice do themselves.

Division 14's Raconteur

by Carol Altevogt

Ronnie Smith comes from a very talented family (Indiana Redbirds), but claims the only instrument he plays is the radio. Who's the blonde (initial G) that Ronnie Smith talks to at noon? . . . Wilbur Poehler usually carries two different kinds of cake in his lunch and will be glad to give out recipes. . . . Beulah Conrad is putting clips in her hair instead of on the coils. . . . Lottie McFarland recently spent a day with Glena Hiatt, a former co-worker now living in Arcola. . . . Eunice McCullum went to a square dance and admits she isn't as young as she used to be. . . . Instead of cars and Buicks in general, "Pappy" Grier is now talking about his recently acquired TV set. . . . Birthday wishes to LaVerne Amstutz, Larry Bergevin, Katherine Thompson, Alice Rogers and Ann Hine. . . . Margaret Evans likes decorations, but not in the form of pink tickets on her windshield. . . . FREE DANCING INSTRUCTIONS—Esther Watson will show you how to do the Rumba to the tune of Jingle Bells. Iva Ettons and Alice Rogers provide the musical background by singing. . . . STRONG STUFF—Elmer Buuck's pipe disappeared and co-workers say it just walked away. . . . Paul Muskey had quite a week. He received a lay off notice one day and his his pre-induction notice another day. . . . Art Bear has given up hunting for the season. The first time he went out, someone shot at him; the second time, his shells were no good, and the third time, he didn't see one rabbit. Such luck! . . . GOOD OLE HOUSEWIFE—Dale Irwin recently bought a tank type G-E sweeper for his wife and was giving a demonstration when he noticed the sweeper was blowing objects away, rather than picking them up. You'd think he would at least watch which button he was pushing. Poor Dale! . . . Paul Sollberger thinks the climate is too cold here and is planning a trip south soon. . . . Bruce Dull has transferred to Bldg. 6-3. . . . Carol Thomas is leaving to serve Uncle Sam. She was honored with a gift from her department. Our best wishes to you, Carol. . . . WELCOME—to Gyneth Baker, Dorothy Burns, Esther Richman, Peggy Kyle, and John Mann from the night trick and Mabel Staley from Section 13. . . . Pauline Cartwright is convalescing after a recent operation. . . . THESE WOMEN DRIVERS—For years we have heard about the careless stunts women drivers pull. One day last week, a planner was following one of these so-called drivers down Taylor St., staying a respectful distance behind, when the lady came to the parking lot, turned on the blinkers signalling a left-hand turn and turned right. It so happened the driver was found to be "Mother" Norbert Gase. Note—He was driving a strange car. (Excuses, Excuses). . . . A truck backed into Dave Miller's car one day when he was at the City Dump and he didn't notice it until he was far from the place. The insurance company just doesn't seem to understand this. . . . George Angle was quite successful in bagging his limit of game, while hunting on his third week's vacation. States he prefers duck hunting to rabbit hunting. . . . Our sincere sympathy to Dorothy Burns on the death of her mother.

Annie Skinner got all wrapped up in her job last Friday. Running the duplicator is new to Annie, and she was amazed to find her master copy disappear into the "innards" of the machine. It finally had the roll going around three spindles. With the aid of half of the department everything turned out all right. . . . Mary Kiblowski and Bill Abraham of Sales Accounting are now on vacation. Vicki Bacin has been enjoying four lovely days of the same. . . . Geneva Buckmaster's hubby, Merald, was recently made a Corporal over in Korea. Golly, it won't be long until he will be head of the Army! Kidding aside, Geneva, tell your husband we all say "hello." Here's hoping he is home before too very long. . . . Harriet Heavy likes to rename her food. Maybe if she would send in a suggestion, they might rename one of her favorite dishes "Nuna Toodle" instead of "Tuna Noodle." . . . Has Dora Holycross gotten all mixed up because of our "spring weather?" If not, why is she taking salt tablets instead of aspirin? They don't have the same result, Dora, and we don't think the temperature will go that high anyway! . . . Is June Gaunt trying to get over being on a diet or what? We can't imagine how anyone could be so hungry. It would take over a dollar for her lunch. . . . Mildred Schrader is still off for illness, and we understand she has to undergo surgery now. Best wishes, Milly, for a speedy recovery. . . . Sales is having quite a shift with their TE's. Bob Braden and Bill Barnett are now over at Broadway, while Sogi Soder, Tom Facius and Joe Truba are now with us here at Taylor St. Jim Draska and Carl Sorenson are with our Broadway Sales Section. Hope you all enjoy your new jobs. . . . Gaylord Morris, a TE with Sales, will soon be leaving us. He will go back to the University of Cincinnati to finish his schooling. We will no doubt see Gaylord back here next fall, unless the draft board wants to see him. Good luck, Gay. Let us hear from you once in awhile. . . . Jim Jellison is now in the Philadelphia office, and Charlotte will follow soon. May we wish you success with your new job, Jim. It will seem strange not seeing either of you around the office. We will miss you, so let us hear from you. . . . That's about all for now. I'll see you all next week.

SHOULD U.S. BUSINESS GIVE FINANCIAL AID TO THE NATION'S PRIVATELY ENDOWED COLLEGES?

WILLIAM R. EPPERSON

Bldg. 17-1

"I think that U. S. Business should give financial aid to the nation's privately endowed colleges. Since many of these colleges require passing marks on an examination or a certain high school class standing before accepting a student, they stand a good chance of really turning out quality graduates."

MARTHA RUHL

Bldg. 19-1

"Small colleges must be sustained and recognized by U. S. industry. Since industry is lacking and in need of college trained personnel, they should bear the cost of education, for they reap its profit."

WILLIAM JOHNLOZ

Bldg. 20-1

"It would be a good idea for U. S. business to appropriate a reasonable sum to help finance our nation's colleges. It would help develop scientists and technicians which in turn may discover new ways and short cuts for processing raw materials for their products."

DONALD FORD

Bldg. 26-1

"Yes, I think they should. However, the graduates of these schools should have complete freedom in selecting the place of their employment after they are out of school. Business should not place any demands upon the colleges to which it gives financial aid."

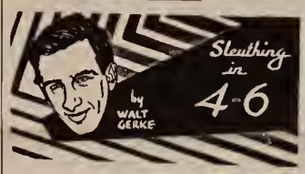
RUTH DANNECKER

Taylor St.

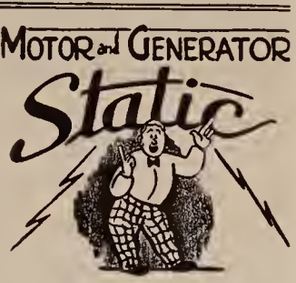
"No. The only aid should be in the form of endowments for scholarships in accredited state universities."

WINDS UP G-E CAREER—Dessie Jackson (right), a G-E employee since 1925, retired the end of November. She has been a hand winder and a coil placer during her years with the Company, and at the time of retirement was employed on the second shift of FHP Motor Div. 14 at Taylor St. With Dessie are Elva Hake (left) and Florence Schlosser.

SHIPPING: Boy! Have you seen the Christmas decorations that have appeared like magic? Telegraph has a beautiful winter scene on their door; mailing department has a real pretty tree, and, of course, shipping section is all decked out in holiday gaity. . . . May we introduce our very charming brunette requisition file girl, Deaneane Bonthron. Deaneane is married and she and hubby (who is also a member of the G-E family) both hail from Oak Park, Ill. . . . We extend our deepest sympathy to Gilbert Bond upon the death of his mother. . . . We were very sorry to hear of the illness of Viola Haiber's sister, but we hope she's feeling much better by this time. . . . Newest thing out is the marvelous variety of cookies that have hit the department in loads. With a little persuasion, the bakers have allowed their secret recipes to be published. . . . Happy birthday today to Sherm "The General" Welch. . . . We bow our head in shame at our blunder in last week's column, where we stated that Mary Murphy had a birthday yesterday. The fact is that Mary's birthday is really next Thursday, the 20th. Sorry, Mary. . . . RECEIVING: Sam King, made a trip to Lima, O. recently and in that distance of approximately 62 miles, he passed 100 trucks. If Robert Ripley were alive today, he would put that in his "Believe It or Not" column. . . . Santa Claus made an early visit to the Receiving Division and left a dolly for Ruby Flaugh. He must have known she couldn't be a good girl until Christmas. . . . If you find any old brooms, even with only a few whiskers left, save them for Paul Thomas or Charlie Von Behren. They must be planning a trip for next Halloween. . . . We had a "hoss-thief" in our midst last week. Dewain Freshwater's horse disappeared just after he had received a generous offer to sell it to a riding academy. The horse was returned sometime later and Dewain was so upset from the strain of it all that he took the horse and headed for home, immediately. . . . Frank Parker is back to work, after being absent from work for nine weeks with a broken wrist. Do be careful, Frank. We enjoy having you around. . . . If in trouble, call the sheriff, even if you live at Wallen. . . . MAILING: Welcome to Kenneth Schenk.



We certainly are a busy bunch of people, all shopping for Christmas. Lou Heckman spent Saturday shopping and Mary Jane Bakle is through with her shopping. . . . Adele Wietfeldt went to Indianapolis to the ice show last weekend. She says it was very pretty. . . . We are glad to see Magdalena Laughlin back to work after an illness. . . . Velora and Charles Drury went stepping to a formal dance Saturday evening. . . . The cake Mary Rose served us on her departure was very good. We will miss your smiling face around here in the evening, Mary. . . . We wish to welcome Doyle Sheets and Stanley Converse to our second shift. . . . Rebecca Fogwell purchased one of those mystery balls and couldn't wait to get home and have her husband catch it. . . . The girls on the 11-21 frame have been passing around recipes and bringing in samples. Last weekend Agnes Stansberry tried her luck. Agnes, you can't eat what you hurn up. . . . Charlie Drury has been complaining about the loose bolts on his new car, so Charlie lost a few hours sleep and got up early and took the car down for a check-up. Everything was fine. Not a bolt was loose and the signal light worked. Just like a car, Charlie. . . . John McKee has waited weeks for a carpenter, and at last they will get the kitchen all prettied up. . . . We wish Bob Huhn a very happy birthday and many, many more.



By Don Clark

We understand Lloyd Welbaum has a double barrel shot gun for sale for five dollars and Joe Mettler is selling a duffle bag for 25 cents. It seems like some boys in Roy Paulson's section will soon snap these up at such a bargain price. . . . Bob Branning won a $1.25 bowling prize, but when he came out of the club someone had pushed his car in front of a fire hydrant. He was awarded a pink ticket to the policeman's ball which costs $1 plus tax. . . . Have you seen the new driving manual by Frank Druhot on how to park a car" According to Frank, you should be careful of lamp posts situated close to the street. He claims that both of his banged up fenders are from these vicious hazards. . . . We have word that Eldon Mee's son Bobby has advanced from corporal to seargeant. . . . The chief cook at Mart Walsh's party was Kurt Martin. He prepared the delicious hamburgers with only one dissatisfied customer in Elmer Sauerwein. Elmer claimed his hamburger had the taint of onion, but Kurt claimed all the onion Elmer could smell was on Glenn Ramsey's breath. . . . We understand the basketball party was a howling success. All the fellows thanked Marion Moore most graciously for pulling some strings aud getting those wonderful seats behind Hilliard Gates. Things as usual happened to Mart Walsh. He stepped on a woman's foot getting to his seat. Getting out of North Side's gym, he became confused and turned up lost at the corner of State and Spy Run. Luckily, Elmer Sauerwein and Walter Greiner happened by and directed him to his car a half a block away. . . . Glenn Hoon, Carl Mosser and Dick Poehler attended an auction Saturday and came home with some prize bargains. Dick bought a violin case without a violin. Carl bid up a double barrel shot gun, only to find that one firing pin was missing. Glenn was fortunate to buy some water bags that leaked. . . . Rufus Niblick proved that he was in good condition as he won the race to catch the bus. He was disappointed, however, to find it was the wrong but and he ended up in Waynedale. . . . Bob Palmer is anticipating an exciting Christmas this year. He bought his daughter an electric train. Arnold Korte has received the not-so-pleasant news that his son Arnold will soon be called to active duty in the armed forces. . . . Loaded with cigars and candy, Carl Click has happily returned to work in the Die Plant. Carl just joined the married men's class. . . . Bob Sowards hopes there is very little snow this winter—especially in his living room. He has installed a new TV set. . . . Chet Rennecker is on a spending spree this week. They are plastering the walls in his new home. Did you know that Harold Buell's hunting dates are subject to approval" Maurice Geunther says the Buell family has the final word. What do you say, Harold? . . . Jack Schemehorn has a heart to help his fellow G-E comrade. He spent considerable effort to find the person who left their car in the parking lot with the lights on. The welcome mat is out for Roger Hovey and Dick White in the design section and Wanda Dirr in the planning section. Paul Shives new glasses are deceiving him as he recently noticed a new girl working in the office. It turned out to be Phyllis Jacquay, who has only been here for 16 months. . . . It happened some time ago, but Everett Kelley and George Luker are still hearing about it. When the Chevy failed the boys hitched a ride to work in a milk truck. . . . A card from Bernie English informs us that he is enjoying his three weeks in Florida, especially those ball games played in the three-quarter century league.

MR. AND MRS.: It's Joan Berghorn now. She traded Coblentz for a different name. The newlyweds are living on Thompson Ave. I wonder if Gene is beginning to like strong coffee and burned toast for breakfast? . . . NO NEWS: What's happened to the AC gang? Can it be that everyone just sits and works without playing pranks or talking about their funny home experiences? You don't need to be afraid to talk to D. Miller. He never tells anyone, he just writes. Why doesn't someone fall off his chair or knock off a telephone? . . . STARVATION: Save your appetites for Christmas dinner. We expect to have a good dinner. We're even trying to locate a spare pair of choppers for Tommy. Maybe Jean Riedel will let someone use hers, if she doesn't go to the dinner. . . . HOTFOOT: The reason M. L. Schmidt was running around like Pegleg Pete (with a waste-paper basket on his foot) was because he was trying to stamp out a small fire. . . . DOWN YONDER: Word was received from Thora Robinson that before boarding her ship for India, a portion of her time was spent in Macy's bargain basement. Do you suppose she expects to buy things of value from the natives with these bargains? . . . LOVE BUG ITCH: Most people stay home from work with common ills like colds, flu, etc., but not Karl Feiertag. He has to have phlebitis (pronounced flea-bite-us). What is it? You loog it up; I had to —to spell it. . . . DOIN' WHAT COMES NATURALLY: We have many sportsmen in our midst, but did you know we have an expert at roller-skating? This expert can do stunts on wheels, that even the wildest of imaginations can't visualize. . . She can actually fall flat on her face while holding on to the rail with both hands. Her name—it begins with Margie and ends with Murphy. . . . HEY GOOD LOOKIN' . . . Here is a candid view of our new draftsman in Dev.: Height, when he stands, between five and six feet. Hair, what little he didn't have cut off, brunette. Eyes, brown, near the pupil, green toward the outer edge. Name, Paul Bachman. Education: he came from Tri-State and Carl Brandt's drafting school. . . . BIRTHDAYS COMING: Joe Rowan, Dec. 15; Birthdays gone: Jim Capps, Dec. 11; Don Harbour, Dec. 4; Eldon Cunningham, Dec. 2. . . . WILL NOT SIGN: We hear Willie Pringle refused to sign his name near a certain portrait adorning his office. Could it be Gwen's remarks made Willie's ears turn red? . . . CONGRATS: To Walter J. Brake, who will celebrate another one of his 39th birthdays, Sunday, Dec. 16. How nice to rate a birthday on Sunday! . . . WONDERFUL FLORIDA: Have you heard the latest? Ray Jones wnats G-E to move to Florida. Judging from the cards he sends he really must be enjoying the warm weather. Ray will have to come back next week, whether he likes it or not. "All play and no work makes Jack a dull boy" or something. . . . CHRISTMAS IN FLORIDA: The Claude Voss family is now enjoying a three-week vacation at St. Petersburg, Fla. Wonder what Christmas in Florida is like. . . . SURPRISE: Did you know our quiet little engineering assistant, Norma Jane Close, reporting to Bob Loveland, will change her name to Mrs. Lindsey Dale Miller, tomorrow, Dec. 15! Isn't that a nice Christmas present? Best of luck, Norma, and we wish you all the happiness in the world.

Thought for the Week — "How can one declare world capitalism dead, receive aid from the corpse and then ask for more?"—Anthony Eden. . . . Well—Well—Anybody wanting to sell camping equipment, see Bill David. It seems that someone traded topcoats with Bill and his keys were in the pocket. Result —Bill was laboriously calling his co-workers till the wee hours, trying to find an empty bed. . . . Information Please—An unknown admirer left a small token of affection on Elaine Norr's desk the other morning, but neglected to put his name on it. Elaine is very anxious to find out who left it so she can properly thank him. She would appreciate it if anyone can give her any information regarding same.

Dorothy's Song

I'm a dreamer,—aren't we all
Off a swivel chair, I fall,
Fall upon the office floor,
Let's not do it anymore.

I'm a dreamer,—aren't we all?
Wake me up, oh, won't you, Paul?
Or let Jack be my errand boy—
That would really give me joy.

Don't let Foley find this out,
For he'd whoop and he would shout,
He migh even write this up
And prove he's worser than a pup.

Motor-Generator Party—A Christmas party is being planned for Motor-Generator employees. Husbands, wives and sweethearts are cordially invited, too. It is for Saturday evening, Dec. 22 at the New Haven Conservation Club, one fourth mile east of New Haven, on U. S. Route 24. Party will start at 8 p.m. and will last until? Refreshments will be served. Each one is requested to bring a 25 cent Christmas gift. Be sure and have your reservations in and taken care of by Monday, Dec. 17. Turn your reservations over to one of the following: Cost, Accounting & Payroll—Carl Koester. Methods, Planning & Wage Rate—Jack Toole. Service Bureau, Paper Making—Ruth Schafenacker, Production—Ed Foley. Purchasing — Jim O'Brien. Sales—Ted Appelman. . . . Remember—There are only nine more shopping days until Christmas. . . . Notice—Anyone having an old sweeper, see Helen Staley, Test Office, Bldg. 19-1. . . . Marion Wolfe, Bldg. 31-2, advises that the only way she can get her name in the WORKS NEWS is to call up and complain when the column is not in. . . . Hick Town: Where the post office closes for lunch. . . . We wish to welcome Robert McDaniel, who will be in Planning.

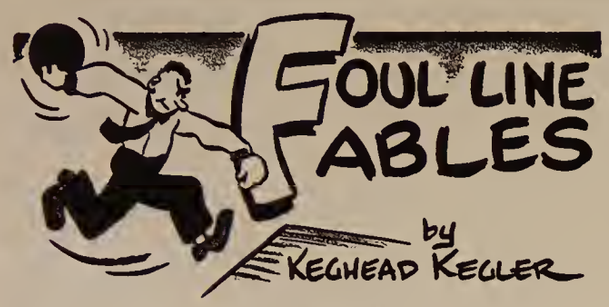
Mr. and Mrs. John Green celebrated their 14th wedding anniversary recently. . . . Lee Mohr seems to have a lot of trouble with iron dust. We wonder why? . . . Edith Johnson went to the post office to get her hair done, and to top it all—forgot the "Mail." . . . Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Schweizer celebrated their third wedding anniversary recently. . . . Marjorie Boon, who is that dark, handsome Romeo courting you these days? . . . Nettie Englebrecht paid us a visit the other day. . . . We are certainly happy to see Walt Ecker back with us. . . . Canary Inn, of Leo, is the place for fried chicken. The manager is none other than Betty Melchi from the Green Room. . . . Anyone wanting beautiful silverware, may contact Evelyn Buckles in the Green Room. Her husband is a salesman these days. . . . Gladys Newcomer surely looks becoming in her polka dot blouse. . . . Donna Barcle's boy friend is home on furlough from the Air Force. . . . Happy wedding anniversary to Mr. and Mrs. Hubert (Bud) Eme—their tenth. . . . Stacy Sterle is quite a "day dreamer" these days. We wonder why? . . . Jimmy Breedlove, after half a century, has a new baby girl at his house—born Dec. 8. Nice Christmas present, Jim. Congratulations! . . . Paul Peterson has sold the old homestead and bought a new home in Lafayette Place. Hope you and your family enjoy the new home, Pete. . . . Mel France looks very much "rested up" after his vacation last week. . . . Fay Russell is on the mend now. He went home from the hospital last Saturday. We hope to see you back in Bldg. 26-4 soon, Fay. . . . Oral Hiser needs one good instructor to teach him how to get something besides snow on his television set. . . . We hear that Paul Frantz has a new style rocking chair in his home. It has some sort of built-in features. Tell us more about this chair will you, Paul? . . . It is rumored that Charlie (Bing Bang) France has missed every open shot he has had on rabbits this season. . . . We surely would like to know who shot out the lights in Murder Row the other night when Pete asked them to work overtime. . . . Office Ouches—What's this about Bob Altevogt taking the "little man who wasn't there" home from work? It seems Bob had offered to take Ed Dickey home the other day because he had so many Christmas packages. Somehow, Bob got to the parking lot first, picked up another passenger and started home. His companion finally inquired why they were going a different route, and Bob said, "Why, I'm taking Dickey home." In the interim, Dickey struggled onto a bus and reached home the hard way. . . . Welcome to Les Redding, new Cost Estimator and Cost Reduction man. He comes to us from the Bldg. 26-3 Production Section. . . . Who were the mean, mean boys who refused to remove a mouse-in-a-trap from under the desk of a helpless little Wage Rate girl? For shame! . . . The girls in the Cost Department swear that Jack Farris, native Oklahoman, talks exactly like the "Lone Ranger." Jack came to Fort Wayne several months ago from the Lockland G-E plant near Cincinnati, and is participating in the Manufacturing Training program. He's an asset to our office. . . . Keith Spiker is looking for a "big wheel" who can use influence toward getting him a residence phone. Keith came to us last spring from International G-E, New York, and has purchased a home in Anthony Wayne Village. There are rumors afloat that he has stacks of juicy steaks in his deep freeze. Guess he's already found a "big wheel" cattleman. . . . We hear Vic Grotehouse will move soon from an apartment to a house. Don't get lost in all those rooms, Vic. . . . We are glad to hear that Violet Yarman is home from the hospital. . . . We are sorry to lose some of the girls on first trick who have been laid off or put on third trick. Don't forget us. . . . Shirley (Martin) Click's sister-in-law had a shower recently. A few of the girls from Terminal Cleaning who attended were: Novella Pope, Dorothy Luellen, Gladys Payne, and Nora Spencer. "Mrs." Click would like to thank the girls for their gift. She received a beautiful yellow chenille bedspread. . . . I'm sure everyone hopes Dorothy Gianinni's husband, who was injured in a truck accident, will soon be well. . . . We also wish Mary Hall a speedy recovery. . . . Happy Birthday to Mary Carver. . . . The girls on Bushing Assembly are getting a new girl from Winter St. Hope she likes us. Her name is Mary Leiter. . . . Les Pade has more pep lately. Could it be because he was married a week ago? . . . Violet Martz went to Cleveland to a Christmas party last weekend. . . . Mary Sayen's son is home on a 12-day leave. H was formerly employed at the Winter St. Plant.

Hermetic Finishing held a potluck for Agnes Shane, who took a sick leave. Ruby Brandt knocked the onions for the hot dogs off the window sill. We don't know whether she did the dastardly deed on purpose, but, anyhow, Louie Sordelet managed to send someone to the rescue. . . . Francis "Buzz" Gnau seems to take a delight in giving "Corky" Bendel and Norma Baker a bad time. However, the gals got even, as Buzz found out when he sat down in a puddle of coke! . . . Bea Marsh and Doris Coddins entertained a guest on the floor recently—a pigeon! Bea was feeding the pigeon some crackers, and, in the meantime, forgot about placing some cheese on her chair! Bea sat on the cheese all afternoon. New way of making grilled cheese, I guess! . . . We wish a speedy recovery to Joyce Kryder, who went to the hospital for an operation. . . . Garnet Borne is a proud grandmother again. Garnet's daughter presented her with another grandson. . . . How does it happen that Bernice Hughes gets her waste can emptied three times a day? . . . We hear Mary Lou Hartman has a little trouble driving her car, too! . . . Elvie Dafforn came into work Monday after being off ill. From the looks of Elvie, he should have stayed home yet! . . . Did you know Walt Mertz has a new name? Just call him "Shakey."

Betty Madden took a brief visit to the blue grass state of Kentucky. . . . We'll miss the following gals: Dorothy Scherry, Alice Justus, Doris Doehla, and Ida May Humbarger, who have all gone on days; Mary Lee Fleck to Bldg. 6-4, and Marlene Hile to Bldg. 4-6 office. . . . Maxine DiGregory wishes to thank everyone for their lovely cards and gifts during her recent illness. We are also glad to report that Maxine is getting along fine. . . . When the inspectors worked overtime this week, Helen Houser tried to keep them wide awake by singing to them. Her voice seemed to have the opposite effect and put them to sleep. . . . We are sorry to hear that Lightnin' Liz (Reggie Engeman) is through doing errands. . . . Joan La Ba is wearing a beautiful diamond on her third finger now. Congratulations and the best of luck, Joan. . . . Jo Lee Zimmerman believes in being very punctual. On hearing there were three birthdays to celebrate, Jo hustles uptown and comes totin' in three nice pins. One for each. Then she learned the birthdays were Katy Putt, Thelma Kouder, and Kenny Boggs; so Mrs. Boggs will have a new pin. . . . Betty Madden finally got up enough nerve to put on roller skates. But we looked around the second time and no Betty. . . . MORE CHANGES: Vera Neate has gone to 1x29, Delores Johnston and Barbara Ray have left us also. . . . We hear that June Hines made a special trip to Chicago to purchase a wool coat with a fur collar. . . . Ralph Gilbert has left for the Navy. He should have joined the Air Corps to get his coat down. We will look forward to seeing you soon, Ralph. . . . Clarice Fyock just wishes her telephone would pick a different time to ring each day. Maybe she should change her bathing time. . . . Happy birthday to little Rena Jo Zimmerman, and we hope you really enjoy your party. . . . Jim Ryder is now available as an after dinner speaker. His farewell speech for Ralph Gilbert was so successful that he's thinking of making a career of public speaking. . . . Evaline Best found out that hot parafin really burns. She found out the hard way though. . . . Kenny Boggs is all set for the colds he may get this winter. With the plentiful supply of hankies he received for his birthday he has about a winter's supply. . . . Velma LeCogue is grandma to a brand new baby girl born on Thanksgiving Day. . . . Sweet smelling perfume doesn't agree with Clarence Norris. After being sprayed, he had to take a couple of days off to air out. . . . Betty Madden is looking for someone to hold her hand while she pays a visit to the dentist. The line forms to the right, please. . . . Howard Pfeiffer should be in show business after his latest demonstration. . . . Deep thought possessed Jim Ryder to such an extent he couldn't hear when spoken to. But then Jim was thinking of better things.

TE's to Hold Christmas Dance Tomorrow Night

The Test Engineers Club will hold its annual Christmas dance tomorrow night for members and friends, Steve Wilson, president, announced this week.



The dance, a highlight of the Test Engineers social activities this year, will be held at Bojrab Hall, east of Fort Wayne. Music for the event will be provided by the Baer Field orchestra. Refreshments will be served.

Tickets are available from dance committee members and TE contact men.

Employees need only one year of service to apply for a G-E Educational Fund Loan or Scholarship for themselves or a payroll deduction loan to assist their children.

Mixed Doubles Tournament

Mrs. Norma Anderson and Frank "DoDo" Matthews walked off with the first prize of $25. They had a total of 1300 pins. Frank had the only 600 series of the tournament—a 606 on games of 212, 200, and 194.

Emma Vaughn and her husband came in second with 1237, good for a prize of $20. Emma had a neat 566 series on scores of 167, 210, and 189.

Other standings as follows:

3rd	Bea Stolte-K. Fletter	1234 $15
4th	M. Norris-R. Winkler	1232 12
5th	E. Leitzky-J. Eifrid	1229 10
6th	E. McClymonds-D. Hoffan	1227 8
7th	Genevieve and Walter Rieger	1223 7
8th	Liz Scherer-P. Perry	1219 5
9th	Marilyn and Frank Schlink	1216 5
10th	J. Miller-P. Patterson	1215 4
11th	Mildred and M. Satterwaite	1198 4
12th	Louise and Harodl Fanning	1196 4

First prize of $25 was donated by the Club, which helped the prize fund tremendously. The tournament was a huge success with 47 entries out of a possible 48.

High scores of the tournament were Bea Stolte 176-173; Mary Norris, 175, 160, 168—503; Joe Eifrid, 211; Liz Scherer 167, 167, 201—535; Frank Schlink, 203, 201; Louise Fanning, 170; Harold Fanning, 204, 207; Andy Anderson, 224; R. Eber, 227; Mary Jane Kramer, 180; Vivian Allmandinger, 183; Elsie Koehl, 190; Tommie Williams, 180; N. Longsworth, 177.

Prize money can be picked up at the G-E Club counter.

The standings in the Transformer league show Toys out in front with a 21 won, 12 lost record. In second place and coming up fast is the M team with a 20-13 record. The Bells are the third place team with 19 wins against 14 losses. The dark horse team, Autos, are only 3 games behind tbe leaders and have won 18 while losing 15.

Miller had some friends who were very generous in their cash support last Friday night. Of course, games of 191, 196, and 232 for a total of 619 had a little something to do with generosity. C. Gnau spilled the maples for a 208 count.

Ladies' Thursday Owl League

Swifty Connett team took advantage of Burt's Restaurant loss of two games and are now only one game behind the leaders, having won 28 while losing only 5 games. M. Haver had a 147 for high game in the league, and E. Purkiser had the high 3 game series of 390.

In the Masonic league F. Peters found the alleys working real good and came up with a 619 series on games of 210, 207, and 202. G. Hughes spilled the maples for the league high single count of 224; A. Altevogt collected a 220; Gilchrist, 212; Larson, 211, and Crayton, 208. The Corinthians rolled the league's high team score—a 2737 count. Trowels had a 973. E. Crabill has the individual high count for the league with a 256 single count and a 3 game score of 651. J. Smith converted the 6-7-10 split. E. Meyer picked up the 5-7, and R. Dale made the 5-10 split.

Apparatus League

Team No. 11 is leading the league with 26 wins and 10 losses. Wayne (Windy) Boester had a terrific night getting a big 624 count on games of 228, 233, and a Dimke special, 163. In spite of Windy, big count Team No. 2 lost 2 games to Team No. 6. Double century counts were made by D. Stanley, 200; B. Blomker, 210; L. Parrish, 200; K. Pickell, 215, and H. Rodermund, sporting a 138 average, rolled a big 226 count. John Zuniga, bowling on alley No. 9, received an assist from Bob Blomker, bowling on alley No. 11. Bob sent a pin from alley No. 11 to pick up the 5 pin on alley No. 9 which Johnny had left standing on his first ball.

Small Motor

Just one game out in front, the Tool team is being pushed to stay out there. Office and Contributing are in second place with a record of 24 wins and 15 losses each. Contributing's advance was made at the expense of the slow-starting Planning team who just couldn't get started and lost 3 games. The pins were toppling for the boys, Bucher, 238; Brandt, 225; A. Koorsen, 222; E. Bauer, 228; R. Hurst, 202; F. Wheeler, 204; Kammeyer, 202; J. Margarum, 209; Roggensee, 205; W. Lamboley, 212; Bennett, 211, and Keghead, 205.

Interdivision League

Ford Burnan of Brouwers ended up last Wednesday night with a 616 total on games of 169, 202, 245. George Luedeman had a 206 in the Brouwers three game victory over Transformer. Burnan's 245 tied Vic Rump for individual high one game.

Doodlebugs added two more victories to their win column as they downed Harvey Bros. 2 out of 3. Adam Farrel was high man in the single game column with a 185.

Don Hoffman's Hot Shots gained 3 victories over Tools to advance another notch closer to the lead. They are now only 4 games behind the leaders.

Hermetics continued winning by defeating Regionals 3 games. "Jerry" Koehl had a 202 game. We wonder just how "Jerry" would bowl if his wife and daughter were not in the bleachers to cheer him on.

Vic Rump got another 200 game to his credit by hitting a 220 in his first game, dropping down to 158, then 151. "Wassa Matta" Vic?

Noah Kuntz's 235 in his first game helped the Firemen win their only game over the Nogoodnix. Maybe it was Deward Franke of Nogoodnix who helped the Firemen, as he had a 101 in his first game.

The Firemen wish to thank "Erv" France for the popcorn he brought from home. It might be cheaper for you "Erv," but? Gonna bring some more next week? Huh!

Ladies' Monday Night

With Joyce Brumbaugh being ill, Ilo Matter reports the happenings this week. The standings show Pepperettes out in front with 30 wins and 12 losses. Alley-Gators are in second place, 26 and 16. The Fivettes are creeping up slowly but surely and are now tied for third place with the Sugar Bowlers, each having a record of 24 wins and 18 losses. Helen Wagner was splitting the wood and ended up with a 530 count on games of 171, 194, and 165. Justine Brown had games of 156 and 167, then in the third game collected 177 pins for an even 500 series for the night. High games for the evening included Bonnie Wolf, 188; Marian Wolf, 191; Dorothy Fuhs, 183; Helen Studier, 176; Pearl Houtz, 193; Ilo Matter, 175. The high single game of the evening was a big 205 count by Ester Muzzillo.

G-E Office League

Amplidynes are leading the league with a 29 win and 13 loss record. Drafting is in second place with 28-14. Standardizing, Aircraft, and Motor Generator are in a 3-way tie for the third spot with 26 wins and 16 losses. Gil Baker rolled a reverse ladder series starting out with a 174, then a 173, ending with a 172. Double century counts were rolled by Bob Blomker, 224; Rudy Zelt, 214; Irv. Aumann, 213; Clarence Rump, 213; Don Stoneman, 213; Wendell Miller, 212; Ed Hagadorn, 211; Frank Schlink, 208; Dan Ewing, 203. It seems that Parrish also rolled a 220 count.

Ladies' Friday Night

The Ladies' Friday Night league really got the pins judging from some of the counts reported. Liz Shearer had a 524 series on games of 194, 166, and 164. The high single game of the evening was rolled by Ella Hardick, a 200 right on the nose. Joan Korn had a 195; Alberta Roth, 190, and Millie Sitcler, 180. Team No. 4 is leading the league with a 29-10 record, while right on their heels come Team No. 12 with 28 and 11.

Decatur

The standings show Office in front by one game with 26 and 16. In second place ar the Packers with 25-17. McIntosh had the high single, a 222 score. Sheets and August had identical counts of 204, and Reynolds scored a 201.

In the Fraternal league, Teeple are leading the league with 28 wins against 11 losses. Peterson are in second place with 23 and 16. Third place is held down by the Elks team with 22 and 17 record. High single games were rolled by O. Schultz, a 218 count; Berry, 215; Petrie, 201; Andrews, 200; Laurent, 200 and 210; Faulkner, 201; Ladd, 208 and 203; J. Ahr, 200; Burke, 202, and L. Hoffman, 210.

The Women's league shows Team No. 3 in first place with 23 and 10 record. Team No. 2 in second place with 20 and 13. Third place is Team No. 4 with 15 and 13. Schafer had a high series of 492 on games of 157, 157, and 178.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Joe Walker, who were married the first of the week. . . . Television is becoming rather common these days, so Audrey Oberley has to go just a little better. She has a smell-o-vision set. Recently, she turned her set on and soon noticed a burning odor. After checking, she found a dead mouse in the rear of the set. So Audrey put on her fur coat, raised the window, and still watched the program. At last reports, the window was still open. . . . The final-gang received a letter from Allen Gillum last week and were glad to hear from him. . . . Dorothy McGowen received one of the nicest Christmas presents possible. Her son has been discharged from the Navy. This will be his first Christmas at home in four years. . . . Roy Reichman is the proud father of a baby girl. . . . Bernie Ternet has turned over a new leaf—his work comes before eating. . . . Danny Reuille thinks of the "Black and Blue Waltz" whenever he sees a truck on the elevator. Wha' hoppen, Danny? . . . Vera Hoover tells us of her new square dance instructor from California. Can that be the reason for the black eye. . . . It seems Lonnie Rockstroh didn't show up for work last Friday. Don't you like your new job? . . . Ruth Freeland must think it is "Be Kind to Animal Week." She was seen keeping a cute fat mouse warm on her foot. . . . Sharon Dasher has left us temporarily to work in Bldg. 6. We miss you a lot, so hurry back, "Doll." . . . Was Bob Wiehe really cut or was that just another rumor? . . . Welcome to Gene LeFavour, our new wire boy direct from Taylor St. He replaces Dick Decker who is going on set up. Hope we spelled your name right, Gene. . . . We hope Santa brings Norm Graves a new alarm clock, so he can get to work on time. . . . Everyone is glad to see Ruth Derloshon return to work, since becoming a proud mother. . . . Walter Reinhold wasn't the only one wanting Doris to have a corsage. Upon her arrival at the depot, there was another one waiting for her. . . . A shopping reminder to Martha. After making a purchase and paying for it, take it home and don't leave it laying around on the counter. . . . Chola Weitzman, getting ready for a hard winter, had two of her coats shortened. Then came the spring weather. . . . We hope all co-workers of group 312 enjoyed themselves when they had their Christmas dinner and gift exchange in the French Room of the Hotel Van Orman. . . . Group 335 will have an early Christmas potluck and exchange because Ada Herpst is being transferred. We all hate to see Ada leave. . . . It's good to see Betty Warnick back to work. Sorry you couldn't bring little Cindy Lou along. . . . Harold Deem really must like bananas. One noon he opened his lunch bucket, and it was crammed full of them.

Betty Collier has a new twist in making out her day work slips. Tell us about it, Betty. . . . Your columnist, Dessie George, and Betty Collier were commenting on their driving adventures recently. They were quite interesting, girls. . . . Evelyn Krueger and Catherine Stanton are trying very hard to make pool. They even forget to put all the wedges in the pole pieces. . . . When Connie Harris went to the doctor to get her finger stitched, she told him she needed some air. As it was, she was so scared, she really intended to run home. We don't blame you, Connie. We've all been scared sometime. . . . Whitey Finger really enjoys his electric razor. He didn't get up in time the other morning, and and he had to shave after he got to work. . . . Marie Bruggenerate has a new name due to her fine job of painting—"Rembrandt"... Mada Caudle informs us her son, Grover, is in Alaska. . . . Mildred Cutchen was saying it didn't seem like Christmas unless you gave gifts, but Evelyn Krueger says it's Christmas when you receive something.

Grover Caudle

Pre-Game Handshake—Two player-managers, Jim Walley (left), of the Squares' team, and Ronnie Young (right), Motor Generator team, are shown before their game last week. Referee Hank La Master is about to toss up the opening tip-off.

Squares Win 4th Game Beat M-G by 14 Points

by Ray Quinn

The second-place Squares basketball team kept right on rolling last week with a victory over Motor-Generator. It was an even ball game the first half, but in the third quarter the Squares took a 14 point lead and won easily.

Small Motors stayed up there by beating Taylor St. 43 to 33.

The Ballast team got their first victory beating Transformer 45 to 42. It was a seesaw affair all the way with Bollinger almost pulling it out of the fire for Transformer in the last quarter.

Fractional, a hard-driving bunch of young fellows, dropped the Accounting Dept. 52 to 35.

The Firemen, forced into an overtime period by a fast improving Aircraft team, came out on top 40 to 38.

Paul Brandt's boys looked very good and will be no pushover for any team in the league.

The Apprentice Team beat the Test Engineers 34 to 19. Both teams did little scoring in the first half, but in the third quarter the winners started to roll.

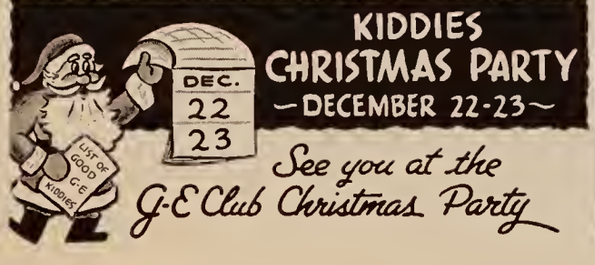
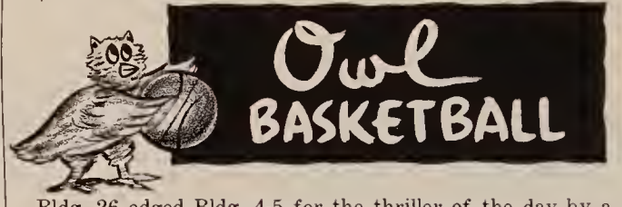
Welcome to George Dykhuizen and Gerry Doeden. George is on test, and Gerry comes to us from engineering. . . . Walt Riedinger left us for three months to work in Motor Generator. Hurry back, Walt. . . . Joe Behm has taken a real interest in Life magazine. 'Tis said he reads every issue. . . . Ray Keiffer has purchased a home and is planning on bringing the family down to ole Fort Wayne soon. . . . Ted Lamm is off on a three-week vacation to New Orleans and there-abouts. . . . Salona Hunter was feated at a luncheon by the gals in the office Thursday. Salona is leaving us to attend to duties as a full-time housewife. . . . Our "Confederate" Yankee is back from Atlanta, Ga. Lou Goehring is sporting a yellow and gold cap. Man, them's fighting words around here.

Freedom without obligation is anarchy—freedom with obligation is democracy.—Earl Riney.



That shirt Joyce Schroeder had on which was the color of bright sun rays sure should keep her warm. . . . Henry Shirley bought some educated sheep. At least he says they are educated. He bought them from the University of Illinois. We think Louie Scherer must be in partnership with him on the deal. . . . The boys were glad to see Harold Stricker and James Leslie home from duty in Korea and back at work once again. . . . We wish Louie Davis' wife, who is on the sick list, a speedy recovery. . . . Sam Taylor has a bandaged hand, and the fellows say he got it from feeding Avery Spade's ducks. Avery, you should train your ducks not to bite the hand that feeds them! . . . Don Mason got the worse end of the deal when his three year old son ran off, and he tried to spank him. He noticed that the boy had something in his hand but didn't pay particular attention to what it was. The boy put his hand behind to protect himself from the spanking, and Don got a big cut on the hand as the boy was holding a broken milk bottle in his hand. Don thinks the boy is trying to get rid of his old man, as this is not the first time he suffered the most! . . . George Crickmore had a birthday the ninth, and he is all of 16½ years old plus a few. . . . The fur cape that Santa Claus has around his neck has Mrs. Frank Voirol's name on it. . . . Herb Bauer is out to catch a deer in the hills of Pennsylvania. Hope you have some luck, Herb! . . . Wonder why Ray O'Brian was paging Avery Spade on the bus Monday morning? . . . If you want a good laugh at a party, invite Marie Griffin. There is never a dull moment when she is around. . . . So long to Lola Rowe who moved from 1x55 to 1x29. Hope you're back again soon. . . . Would someone please give Clarabell Sapp some directions? She wanted some tickets to the IUE's children's Christmas party. She went over to the Credit Union and also the G-E Club. . . . Welcome to Eleanor Hoffman and Beulah Imler who came back on 1st shift this week. . . . Malinda Behrman will have her third week of vacation next week. She will spent the week getting ready for Christmas. . . . Goodbye to Mary Parent who left us this week. . . . Clara and Elsa Frede wish to thank all the girls for the lovely house warming party in their honor. The girls had a wonderful time, and those attending were Martha Scherzinger, Edna Houser, Mildred Green, Mildred Gaffer, Marjorie Michaloski, Marie Griffin, Berniece Johnston, Augusta Gallmeier, Malinda Behrman, Treasa Trout, Julia Hohnhaus, and Helen White. One of the highlights of the evening were the bugs which Martha Scherzinger drew. We never realized she was quite the artist she is. The girls presented Clara and Elsa with a beautiful G-E steam iron. . . . We would like to know what goes with Bill Schultz. Everyday he craves crackers and dill pickles!



by ED ELLENBURG

Someone's been spiking the column lately. It must be someone with hitching racks on the brain and since Leo (unincorporated) is the only one-horse town around here, it isn't too difficult to figure out who the joker is. . . . With Christmas just around the corner, Dora Aughenbaughensteinovitchski is looking all over for Santa Claus (or a reasonable facsimile). She wants him to know that she wants some kittens for Christmas. That will be quite a trick if she can do it. . . . Jack Beckerstein is going into the junk business. He got his first contribution through the mail last week. There would be a good chance for Dick Koop to get rid of his Plymouth. . . . Speaking of cars, Tony tells me that his Olds is ready for its 1000-mile check-up, which he had done every 50 miles. . . . Wendell Miller rolled a 619 series Friday night to win $3.80 from various suckers in Transformer Drafting. That's just one of the many reasons why Wendell is considered so lucky. . . . W. W. Hahn was wounded Friday, while crossing Broadway. He tripped and fell down a sewer while carrying some papers for Mr. Ellis. Pvt. Hahn was presented with the "Purple Tail" for wounds received in action and the "Order of the Hammer and Sickle" for bravery above and beyond the call of duty. . . . Lt. Col. R. Thor Anders of the "Weak-End Warriors" is getting to be quite a wheel. He even rates a private "office." . . . If the price is right, W. Miller says he'll buy Shella's extra false tooth. It seems Wendell lost one of his, chewing taffy apples at George Owens' house Saturday night. . . . Mauri Cox says that he'll take us all out for a big dinner the day before Christmas. I'd like to go, but I don't care much for those Coney Island hot dogs.

Guard Christmas pleasures by safety measures.

Bldg. 26 edged Bldg. 4-5 for the thriller of the day by a score of 40 to 36. Bldg. 26 was aided by Furhman's height under the boards. With Bldg. 4-5 leading 27 to 22 at the half, Bob Schinbeckler got his fifth foul and soon after they lost the lead. Mike Lemish for the winners and Jim Scherer for the losers scored 16 points each. To likeable Freddie Phillip go the laurels for being the most improved ball player.

The Wire Mill and Bldg. 26-3 put on a good game for the second of the morning. Wire Mill was more effective under the boards than their opponents. Bldg. 26-3 apparently has gotten by their jinx, as they scored in all four quarters of the game. Spice with 12 points was high for the winners. Gene Dwyer was high for the losers with eight points.

The apparent power and with superb passing appears to be strong points of the Bldg. 4 team. They started out very hot and were leading 19 to 7 at the half. Taylor St. picked up in the second half, but could not catch up with the shooting of Bldg. 4. Jim Klinger was high for the winners with 14. Bill Hayden with eight was high for the losers.

More good games are in store in the league.

SHAFT SHAVINGS

Bldg. 19-3 by Charlene Bloom

Perch Sickafus must have had hard luck riding on his shoulder last week. One evening he started out for Wabash and along the highway a passing motorist hailed him and told him his car was on fire. Perch stopped and looked. Sure enough, smoke was curling up from under the car. So our hero, despite his best clothes, had to crawl under and put out the blaze. Well, that was that. However, next morning he left for work too late to catch the first bus. By dint of hard running he managed to make the second one only to find to his horror that he had no money with him. He had to get off and walk to work and so was late. . . . Ask Bob McNally how he gives smarties on the telephone the old treatment even if they are foremen. . . . Funny What Some People Will Do: Fred Paul and Hank Buesching, Bldg. 19-3, tried to steal chickens from their good friend Charles Dixon; and rabbit feet from we do not know who, but could ask Laurence Pequignot. . . . Elmer Warner and his son are having a lot of trouble with their pigs. It seems as though one of the pigs just can't stay in its pen. It gets up in the wagon of corn and helps itself. Then roams over to the garden and fills up the rest of his tummy. Elmer, if you would only feed your pigs right that wouldn't happen. . . . This will be about my last story to write for the WORKS NEWS. I am leaving for East Hartford, Conn., and from there will join my husband in Europe. I will sail about the first week in April. I have enjoyed writing for the WORKS NEWS very much and hate to leave here.

The BIG WIND

TAYLOR ST. DIVISION 17 by Rachel Mourey

We are very sorry to see Bob Walters leave for the Army, but we wish you lots of good luck, Bob. . . . Berniece Gephart has more excuses on how she got her stiff neck. . . . Congratulations to Garland Herron on the arrival of an eight pound boy named Gala Lee. . . . Ruth Shoup is on vacation this week. . . . Elmer Jones is in Pennsylvania deer hunting, but we are wondering how you spell the deer. . . . Maxine Herbst is attracting Chicago boys to Fort Wayne. . . . We are glad to hear Glen Miller's wife has come home from the hospital. . . . We hear Bernadine Warner had to pay the judge 16 dollars the other night, besides fixing her own car. The girls say they sure do feel sorry for her husband. . . . Virginia Reed has turned over a new leaf and is going to be a good girl. We wonder. . . . Clarence Meyers really looks sharp with his new hair cut. . . . Mary Schmenk's husband pulled a good one on her. She was taking her driver's test and couldn't keep the motor running. We're glad to hear you passed the test and that your husband had had the car worked on. . . . It's a good thing Skeeter spoke up when she did, or she wouldn't of had any pliers the other day. . . . George Snyder can really cut some fancy capers down by the coke machine. Let us know when you're in the mood for it again, George. . . . The reason for Robert Boone's unhappiness is that there aren't any more horse shows. He also says the Buick isn't for sale. . . . P. Ballinger has received his new appointment as safety man. So be careful, for your own sake. . . . Kenneth Kamphues came in with his chest all swelled out and we had great hopes for him. We found out later it was his niece who had the baby. Now he is a great uncle. . . . Owen Winters is waiting till after New Year's to move in his new home. . . . Paul Boedecker had a little trouble with his bowling last week. To remedy it, he is practicing with his little boy's ball Saturday afternoons. . . . Moe Satterwaite was such a gentleman in the mixed doubles Saturday night. He left Tommy Williams beat him two games. . . . We hear Norm Wolf is getting religious lately. . . . If North Side loses any games, you always see Harold Mosshammer paying off the next morning.

Congratulations to Ross Strodel, who is starting this week on his 34th year with G-E. . . . We welcome Doyle Sheets back on days and are looking forward to the return of Gus Harrison on days next week. . . . Our sincere sympathy to Iva Powell on the sudden death of her husband. . . . We wish Vadas Putt a speedy recovery and hope she will soon be able to be back with us. . . . Fred Young is driving a new Lincoln. We all would like to meet that Santa Claus. . . . Maybe we could win some suggestion awards, if we would let some of the large tobacco companies in on a secret. It seems that George Marschand and Bob Johnson smoked cigars with rubber bands inside and said they were the best cigars they ever smoked. . . . Harry Todd says he didn't have a life lease on the check pool. He lost out on the fourth round. . . . Clyde Boyce was missing from last Wednesday until Monday. He is looking much better and has a clearer vision. . . . Richard Walters is very put out. He spent all his money for a new suit and radio, then couldn't afford to go out on a date this week-end. . . . Ernie Krause sure likes that new Plymouth, as he shines his shoes every night after work. . . . Howard Householders is trying to be good for Santa. . . . Herman Myers has a lot of trouble collecting Al Meyers' suggestion check. . . . Our sympathy to Bill Brown on the death of his father. . . . Clyde Helms is known as cake face since the Vets square dance Friday night.

TALES from TAYLOR

by Harry Parker

Irene Michel was the personification of absent-mindedness one evening last week, which no doubt will cost her in the neighborhood of 100 dollars. As you all know, she wears false teeth. Upon arriving home, she had a lot of house work to do, but her teeth worried her so that she removed them and placed them beside some articles which were to be discarded. Then she busied herself about the house. Forgetting all about her teeth, she hurriedly grabbed up the aforementioned articles and threw them in the stove. You guessed it, her teeth were among them, now Irene has a date with the dentist. . . . Ad Man—Brice Martin enjoys reading the classified ad section of the newspaper. He spends hours looking them over and tells us that he obtains more real information out of these pages than if he read the news items. Last Monday, one of his co-workers brought him a newspaper which contained 28 pages of classifiedd ads. It should keep him busy for some time. However, he desires it to be known that if any of you have any out-of-town newspapers, he would like very much to have them. . . . Phillip "Tiny" Schoppman is now operating in direct competition with other eating houses in Fort Wayne. His establishment being a strictly short order one. For the noon meal, he serves a hot soup of questionable quality, hot dogs, mule and bull burgers, also sloppy Joe and Tom sandwiches, ersatz coffee and cake. He desires that you give his joint a trial, he is certain that you will be satisfied. . . . Darcie Campbell a-hunting went. His dogs scared up a kitten which took refuge in a brush pile. Now, not having obtained any game up until this time and not knowing what the dogs were so excited about, he thought sure that he had something. He tore into the brush pile, taking it apart piece by piece. When he arrived at the center of the pile, there sat the little kitten. As the hour was growing late, he decided to call it quits and go home, so he put the kitten in his hunting jacket and brought it home to the children.

FLOOR LORE

Herbie Jehl was a daddy last Friday night, just as the lights went out, but Mr. Stork found his way via flashlight, and the young lady's name is Karin Sue. . . . John Walters went rabbit hunting last Saturday, but didn't get any. John said they were too fast for him. We've heard that kind of report from several men around here lately. . . . Clarence Didier had some pictures of his new home in St. Petersburg, Fla. which is just being completed, and we can't blame him for wanting to live down there. . . . Edith Venrick is now at home to all her friends at 1310½ Union. . . . Byron Neuman held an office on the MBA Board of Directors for the shortest time in history—15 minutes. It was caused by all the ballots not being counted. . . . Jim Carey is under the impression that four nines are better than four aces. Disappointing, isn't it. . . . I hear Florence Fett's hubby was serenading her the other night. We know music has charms, but remember, Florence, the family must sleep. . . . Bertha Burnau had a date for 2:30 last Thursday. At three o'clock she thought about it, so Bertha worked until 3:30 p.m. We hope no one was standing on the corner waiting for her. . . . Arnold Bienz was seen running back in the corner. The fellows told me it was because yours truly was coming down the isle. He knows that in most cases motors are needed on rush basis. . . . We hear that the reason Frank Fogwell left his farm was because he didn't have his cows trained. . . . L. Radamaker's face is getting longer by the day, because this warm weather has taken the ice off the lake. Roddy planned to go ice fishing on his third week of vacation. . . . Remember the Section party Dec. 22.

DAYS OF LEISURE AHEAD—Fishing, hunting, gardening and just resting are the new occupations of Earl Custard (second from left) since his retirement this month. He has been working in Bldg. 26-2 since 1949. He joined the Company in 1942. Left to right congratulating him are Ted Mullen, Dorothy Bartholomew, and Pauline Neddo.

Question:

Why does General Electric continue to limit weekly deductions of $10 on our Bond-Bonus Plan? Increased bond sales would prevail if this maximum amount would be raised or removed.

Answer:

A limit of $10 a week is placed on the savings eligible for the Stock Bonus Plan so as to give every employee an opportunity to participate in the bonus. The Company's contribution to the plan is limited to $4,500,000 a year and no more than $30,000,000 a year of savings can be covered with the 15 per cent stock bonus. If there were no limit on the amount of employee contributions, subscriptions might quickly exhaust the $4,500,000 Company contribution and leave some subscribers without the bonus.

It is the wish of the Company that each employee will have an opportunity to avail himself of the advantages under the Stock Bonus Plan. If the limit was removed it is conceivable that a few might be given the benefit of the advantages of the plan to the exclusion of others just as deserving.

SCIENCE QUESTION BOX

by SCIENTISTS OF THE G.E. RESEARCH LABORATORY

Q. Just how does the eye change its focus for near and distant objects?

A. This is accomplished by a muscle around the lens of the eye which alters its shape. When the muscle is relaxed, the lens is thick, while contraction of the muscle pulls on the lens from all sides so then it is flattened. When thick, the lens is in focus for nearby objects and, when thinner, is adjusted for those which are farther away. Thus it is different from a camera lens, which retains the same shape, but is moved nearer the film for photographing distant scenes, and farther away for closeups.

Q. What element is there in fine corn meal or flour to cause an explosion, such as may occur in a flour mill?

A. Such an explosion is not due to the presence in the grain or flour of any particular explosive material, but it may occur with any finely divided inflammable material such as flour, coal dust or saw dust, which floats in the air as a cloud. If it is piled on the ground and you poke a lighted match into it, the match will go out because there is not enough oxygen to support the burning process. However, if the same material is floating in the air, there is around each tiny grain a relatively large amount of oxygen, ample to let it burn. Thus, when a flame or spark starts such a cloud burning it spreads instantly. The air being heated, suddenly expands to many times its former volume, and this is the explosion, which causes the damage.

"Lost" and "Found" articles must be cleared through the Plant Protection office, Bldg. 10-2, or the Plant receptionist, who will place the Ad-let and otherwise advertise the article.

No ad will be received over the telephone. Only one ad per employee may be inserted. Each ad must be limited to 20 words and cannot be repeated. All articles mentioned must be personal property of the employee. Ad will not be accepted unless accompanied by the name, pay number, and division of the employee. No works building or telephone number may appear in any ad except transportation ads, only the home telephone number or address.

WITH G-E 35 YEARS—Thirty-five years with the Company is the service record of Norbert Meyer (second from (right). Shown congratulating Mr. Meyer are (l-r) Carl Reynolds, John Burnett and Fred Campbell. Mr. Meyer has been a dispatcher in FHP Motor Div. 14 at Taylor St. for the last two years.

How did the community soap get into Lois Ulrey's pocket? Lois is trusted with the funds and purchase of the girls soap in Bldg. 20-2. Recently, when asked for soap, she stated that the stock was completely depleted. Now everyone is wondering how the last bar got into her coat pocket. Does Lois always carry a bar of soap? Were the Ulrey's completely out at home? or did the "curley" headed fellow of the office put it there? As of this date, the star witness of the mystery has not been available for questioning. . . . Wallace Geller is getting our votes for the "Meanest Man of the Season" Club. He took some small relatives to see Santa Claus, and everything went along fine till Wallace called Santa by his first name. It seems "Santa" works at Taylor St. . . . Hey, hey, hey, Bill Altekruse you should keep track of the agenda of the foremen's meetings, especially if you keep notes. . . . Did you know that Benny Clouse is on a pepsi diet? Pepsi and what, Benny? . . . Frank Meggison bought five sheep, and the next day four of them were dead. He is now working up a deal with Ernie Yost for some goats. . . . Charlie Hartman bought a second hand truck and thought he really had a deal until he discovered that it didn't have much pick-up. Naturally, the first thing he thought of was lead in the tires, so he examined all of them. That wasn't it, so he took the motor completely apart. After being fully convinced that he had a lemon, he found a little device called a governor. He could have saved himself all the trouble if he would have just hitched his coon dogs to the front bumper. . . . George Miller is sometimes fondly called a mechanic. The Christmas Story Never Grows Old

Now more than at any other time, when, by the millions, we are groping through life seeking satisfaetion in all the eomplieations of modern living, the simple story of how "Mary brought forth her first-born son, and wrapped him in swaddling elothes, and laid him in a manger, beeause there was no room for them in the inn" should be told and retold.

For, as cares, frustrations and disappointments multiply, the story of the life of One who died for the sins of others remains unchanged. Every man's search for a solution to his problems—a rest for his burdens—an end to his struggles, lies at the stable in Bethlehem.

To all who are laden with the crush of life come again the words of the angel of the Lord saying to all frightened shepherds: "Fear not: for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, whieh shall be to all people.

"For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord."

At this one time of the year, men put aside their pride, their sophistication, their greed and, like little children, listen to the angel's story.

And Christmas is a spirit which cannot be ignored, even by a disbeliever. For to one and all it brings a sweet and often strange happiness to the heart. Christmas proves the power in kindness, generosity and faith, and we all become better for it in spite of ourselves.

Christmas speaks to everyone, for whatever their faith, men of good will find a common bond in a season whieh celebrates the finest, the most gentle and most noble of human feelings.

This Week's Issue

Throughout the years one of the traditional and most-loved ways of celebrating Christmas has been through music. This issue of the WORKS NEWS has been designed around the Christmas song.

Shown on Page 1 gathered around a book of Christmas carols are the Jack Cavanaugh family. Their children are Carol, age two and a half, and Jackie, age eight. Mr. Cavanaugh is employed in FHP Motor Div. 14 at Taylor St.

Unto You

Unto you, this day, in Bethlehem, Judea,
A Saviour, God's Eternat Son, was born.
Unto you, no finer gift was ever given,
Than this, God's gift supreme, on Christmas Morn.

Unto you, this day, was given light for guidance.
Unto you, this day, 'twas given this to know:
A Saviour had been born to walk beside you
Forever—and wherever you may go.

Unto you, may something in the Christmas Story,
Give guidance for your conduct and behavior.
Unto you, may it be given to remember
That Christmas is the birthday of your Saviour.

Unto you, may Christ bring love and understanding,
Abundantly, to light your Christmas tree.
Unto you, may Christmas be an inspiration,
To be what God intended you to be.

—W. L. Whonsetler.

AND it came to pass in those days, that there went out a decree from Caesar Augustus, that all the world should be taxed.

(And this taxing was first made when Cyrenius was governor of Syria.)

And all went to be taxed, every one into his own city.

And Joseph also went up from Galilee, out of the city of Nazareth, into Judea, unto the eity of David, whieh is ealled Bethlehem (because he was of the house and lineage of David).

To be taxed with Mary his espoused wife, being great with child.

And so it was, that, while they were there, the days were accomplished that she should be delivered.

And she brought forth her firstborn son, and wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a manger; because there was no room for them in the inn.

And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flock by night.

And, lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them; and they were sore afraid.

And the angel said unto them, Fear not: for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, whieh shall be to all people.

For unto you is born this day, in the city of David, a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord:

And this shall be a sign unto you: Ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling elothes, lying in a manger.

And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the Heavenly host, praising God, and saying,

Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men.

And it came to pass, as the angels were gone away from them into heaven, the shepherds said one to another: Let us now go even unto Bethlehem, and see this thing which is come to pass, which the Lord hath made known unto us.

And they came with haste, and found Mary, and Joseph, and the babe lying in a manger.

And when they had seen it, they made known abroad the saying which was told them concerning this child.

And all they that heard it wondered at those things which were told them by the shepherds.

But Mary kept all these things, and pondered them in her heart.

And the shepherds returned, glorifying and praising God for all the things that they had heard and seen, as it was told unto them.

—Luke II: 1 to 20.

Vacations, 1952

Salaried and Hourly Rated Employees

The Broadway and Taylor Street Plants will close Saturday, July 26, 1952, for two weeks for vacation purposes, reopening for usual operations on Monday, August 11, 1952.

It is expected that this vacation shutdown will be as near 100 per cent as possible.

Some employees will be required to work during the shutdown period as follows:

1. It will be necessary for some few employees to work in order to protect the plant.
2. It may be necessary for some operating divisions to maintain a small skeleton force.
3. It also may be found practical to utilize this shutdown period for the completion of some physical rearrangement of facilities or the accomplishment of some essential maintenance work that cannot be done effectively in the usual working periods.
4. Government defense work may require some operations not known at this time. Where this becomes necessary, as much advance notice as possible will be given to employees.

In all cases, Department Heads will arrange for this work and will notify those employees who are needed to be present during the shutdown period as far in advance as possible.

In accordance with the vacation plan, employees entitled to a third week of vacation will schedule this week immediately before or after the shutdown period; however, by mutual agreement, the third week may be scheduled at some other time.

Those becoming eligible for vacation allowance after the shutdown period and who were absent during the shutdown will not be required to take additional time off but will receive full payment when they qualify.

Fred S. Hunting Former Manager Dies In Cincinnati

General Manager—1916-1922

Fred S. Hunting, 84, general manager of the Fort Wayne Works from 1916 until 1922, died early Tuesday morning in a Cincinnati hospital. He had been in failing health for the last six months.

Upon graduation from Worcester Polytechnic Institute in 1888, Mr. Hunting joined the Fort Wayne Jenney Electric Light Company as a draftsman. He continued to work at the Company for 34 years through various changes of corporate organization.

After holding the position of general manager for six years, he resigned to become president of Robbins & Myers Co., Springfield, O., in 1922.

He retired from active business in 1927 and went to Los Angeles. In 1933, he returned to Fort Wayne to become president of the newly-organized Fort Wayne National Bank. He served in this capacity until 1941, when he was elected chairman of the Board of Directors of the Fort Wayne National Bank.

Mr. Hunting went to Cincinnati in 1947 to make his home after retiring as an active officer of the bank.

Survivors include four sons, Ralph, Lawrence and Stanley, of California, and Dr. William F., Cincinnati; five grandchildren, and several great-grandchildren.

Services were held Thursday at the Plymouth Congregational Church. The Rev. Elmer E. Voelkel officiated. Burial was in Lindenwood Cemetery.

John L. Laymon, Jr. Named To New FHP Div. 10 Post

Time Standards Specialist

John L. Laymon, Jr. has been appointed time standards specialist in Fractional Horsepower Motor Department Div. 10, according to announcement made this week by George E. Hicks, supervisor of Wage Rates.

Mr. Laymon was a production clerk at Winter St. when he joined the Company in 1935. In 1939, he transferred to FHP renewal parts sales, Bldg. 4-6, where he became a quotation clerk. He became an operations planner in 1942 in the same location. He moved to Bldg. 4-5 one year later to work in the wage rate section.

After he entered the Army in 1943, he was stationed at the General Headquarters of the U. S. Armed Forces in the Far East. When he was discharged from the service in 1946, he returned to the Company to work in the wage rate section of FHP Div. 16, Bldg. 2-2. In 1948, he moved to the FHP general wage rate section at Taylor St. He was assigned to wage rate procedures and training at this location. This was the position he held at the time of his present appointment.

Mr. Laymon is a member of the Decimal Minute Men and the Supervisors Club. He, his wife, and their two daughters live at 302 McKinnie Circle.

Maurice Roe is known as Rudolph now. Could it be the reflection from his red cap or his nose? . . . The boys are wondering if Kenneth Brown has a television set on his telephone at home. He was seen giving a pantomine over the wires while talking with his wife. . . . Frank Smith and Dan Bishop attended the Central-North Side basketball game Friday night. Smith says we were robbed, and Dan says he can't figure it out. . . . The girls would like to know if George was to see Laura Gerber and kept her up so late that she overslept Monday morning. She didn't make it to work until 7:30 a.m. . . . Anyone wishing help in selecting a Christmas tree see Peggy Bandt. . . . We wonder about those fish stories that Ralph Hare tells from his Florida trip. We haven't seen any fish. I guess we must just envy him. . . . Clara Gidley thought Fred Young was getting into the Christmas spirit early the other day when he grabbed her check in the cafeteria. However, he left his in exchange, and it turned out to be less than Clara's. Moral: Be sure you know what you're getting, Fred, before you grab next time. . . . We are happy that Mildred LeCoque is able to be back to work this week after being ill a couple of days last week. . . . Tom Freeman, we all wish you a very Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year. You have furnished us with a lot of entertainment this last year. . . . We're sorry to hear that Bernice Kratzeh's mother, Mrs. Riley, is ill. We wish her a very speedy recovery. . . . It seems that Otto (Herman) Braun was highly indignant because his name was not in the WORKS NEWS last week. . . . Ray Horstman doesn't charge his friends to watch his TV programs, but he does sell them pop corn at a $1 per five cent bag. . . . The Transformer skating party at the Rollerdome, turned out to be quite a success. We had Jack Loos playing the organ, Mac McCray, Connie Craig, Mrs. Keller and Lucy Keller taking turns in the office collecting tickets. We are hoping we will see even more of you at the next party. It will be held Jan. 21, at Bell's Skating Rink. . . . Happy birthday to Retta Biddle. . . . We would like to welcome to the Green Room Helen Mueller and Mary Foreman. . . . Nora Spencer is wading in snow with no boots and carrying an umbrella. What is it, Nora, a new fad? A very Merry Christmas and Happy New Year to all.

MERRY CHRISTMAS

I wanted this to be a Christmas poem,
But somehow, nothing I could say would rhyme.
I don't know why, but that's the way it happens
Whenever I am pressed for a bit of time.

I had a rather novel Christmas greeting,
A little thought, I felt would make a hit.
But when I tried to put it in a poem,
I couldn't seem to make the meter fit.

I checked a lot of other poems I'd written,
To see if there was some poetic trick,
I might have used before, but there was nothing;
I couldn't find a thing that seemed to click.

And so this clever thought I had for Christmas
Must still remain enlangled in my mind.
Enlangled with a lot of words and phrases,
Devoid of any rhythm, I could find.

Well, anyway, I wish you Merry Christmas,
I hope the good Lord smiles on you this day.
That's just the old, old standard Christmas greeting,
But after all, that's what I want to say.

—W. L. Whonseller.

Santa is Coming to Town

CELEBRITY OF THE MONTH — John Craig

To Play Favorite Role for 14th Season

As young faces turn eagerly toward him, John Craig, Bldg. 4-2, will step from behind the curtain onto the G-E Club stage this week-end and begin his 14th season as Santa Claus at the annual Kiddies Christmas Party.

Although Mr. Craig remarks that his holiday job is the hardest day's work he has all year, he adds that it is also made the most thrilling by a child's hug and smile.

However, the reactions of the 7,000 children who come to see and talk with Santa every year at the Club are varied indeed, and not all of them are in the form of a hug.

Some Doubt

The children's emotions run the gamut from fear, to shyness, to overconfidence that John isn't Santa at all. To cope with the emotions and energies of the small fry a good deal of psychology is needed, John states.

The job has taught Mr. Craig that children are very impressionable. In talking with them, he must consider such conditions as the status of the country and the child's background. These factors affect both Santa's conversations with the young people and their wishes. John has found that during war years, youngsters want guns, tanks, and similar toys. During the depression, they wanted baby sisters and brothers.

As Santa, John must keep himself prepared to answer all sorts of questions about himself, his sleigh and reindeer.

Knows Names

The fact that John has been with the Company since 1919 enables him to know many parents' and children's names and backgrounds. He stores this knowledge, which has been acquired through the years, in his mind and puts it to good use each yuletide season.

. . . Santa Craig and one of his helpers, Joe Gardt, Bldg. 4-6.

"It makes a child very happy when I call him or his father by name," John explains. It convinces the children that Santa is informed of their activities throughout the year.

Each year, parents will ask Santa to tell their offspring to eat their meals, or a certain food. John says that he has told so many children to eat their cereal that he feels he must have boosted sales of cereal quite a lot.

Big Appetite

However, one time his advice on eating backfired. After one year's show, a fellow employee told John, "My child eats me out of house and home now, and you tell him to eat more."

When anyone asks Mr. Craig how he began doing this work, he tells them that he was picked for the part because he doesn't need any padding. However, this red-headed jolly gentleman has many other qualities which fit him for the part of Santa besides his 235 pounds, distributed over 5 feet 8½ inches.

One of these qualities is his showmanship. He is a natural showman, having followed and participated in show business for many years. He caught the acting bug while in his teens, when he had a part in a church play. This part snowballed into acting in many plays in various civic groups and landed him on the calling list of actors at the old Majestic Theatre. He also performed in minstrel shows. This experience is helpful, he states, when he leads the kiddies in singing carols.

Loves Children

Another important quality which Mr. Craig possesses is his fond affection for children. A father himself, his daughter, Alice, now works in Bldg. 26-2.

Although his active days in the theater are over, Mr. Craig still attends all Civic Theatre plays and likes to consider himself somewhat of a critic.

Tomorrow and Sunday, the tables will be turned, when John will again appear before his toughest critics in the most important role of his career. Good luck and Merry Christmas, Santa Claus.

SHIPPING: Jingle Bells! Jingle Bells! Oh boy, it's almost here, and excitement has reached a fever pitch. Tonight is the big Shipping Christmas party, and today noon the lunch brigade had a carry-in for their special Christmas treat. . . . Happy birthday, Monday, to Herman (Curley) Ebel. . . . Welcome to our new file gal, Pat Manter, who transferred from Bldg. 4-4 to shipping this past week. Pat is married and lives here in good old Fort Wayne. . . . Dorothy Johnson and hubby are spending a few days in sunny Florida before hubby leaves for Uncle Sam's Army. . . . Bob Gebert, currently of the U. S. Army, is home on Christmas furlough. . . . Christmas greetings were forthcoming from pensioners, Addie Levenberger and Buck Buchanan, and also from Betty Campbell, way down Texas way. . . . MAILING: Happy returns of the day to Frank Goetz, upon the occasion of his birthday the 18th. . . . Mailing is hoping you all have your Christmas shopping tucked neatly away, as Christmas is pretty close at hand. . . . It is the personal opinion of Ed Blotkamp that if there were judges for the best Christmas tree in this entire division, Shipping Dept. would win hands down, 'cause it's such a knockout. . . . Belated birthday greetings to Gerald Hensch, Don Hensler and Bill Fackler. . . . FROM ALL THE GANG IN SHIPPING, RECEIVING, MAILING, AND TELEGRAPH DEPARTMENTS COMES FONDEST WISHES FOR A VERY MERRY CHRISTMAS AND MAY THE NEW YEAR HOLD ALL THE BEST FOR EACH OF YOU.

Employee Stores Open Monday

The Employee Stores at Broadway and Taylor St. will be open for business from 10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Monday, Ray Fischbach, Employee Store manager, announced today.

We Wish You a

Holiday Greetings

To All Employees Of The General Electric Company:

As we approach the end of the year 1951, I extend to all employees my sincere thanks for your loyal and effective help in making our association together so pleasant and mutually rewarding.

My wish for you and your families is a most Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Sincerely.

Ralph J. Cordiner

To All Employees Of The Component Products Division:

At this season of the year, so well named Advent, all Christians prepare to celebrate the anniversary of their Saviour's birth, and men of good will who hold other faiths join in feeling the joy and inspiration of the Season's message. We find this in the Gospel according to St. John:

> "In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God . . . . . and the Word was made flesh and dwelt among us. (and we beheld his glory, the glory as of the only begotten of the Father) full of grace and truth."

As we meditate upon this sublime passage, we can see a loving Father "Who so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son so that all who believed in Him might not perish, but have everlasting life."

Christ's message—His word, was love of man for his fellows and for his Maker, and it is this that we consider anew this Christmas tide.

I know that in addition to the many other problems and cares, doubts and perplexities which beset us today, there falls upon many of our people the burden of unemployment, or a short working week, although as a whole, we have fared much better employment-wise than most of us predicted a year ago.

Can we not, however, turn to the inspiration which forever resides in the Divine Word, and sincerely thank God for His many blessings and His Goodness toward us? Let us also ask His continued help and guidance, not only for us in solving our individual problems, but for all Mankind in its constant struggle toward the Good Life.

May I wish for you and yours joy extending through and beyond the Christmas Season, and a happy and fruitful year to come.

William C. Wickman

Merry Christmas

Inquiring Reporter:

WHAT IS YOUR CHRISTMAS WISH?

CARL E. WIEGMANN
Bldg. 19-3

"My Christmas wish is that all mankind will turn their hearts to God in heaven in fervent prayer, that He restore peace on earth, good will toward men and that the world will be free from all wars, murder and bloodshed."

PAUL BLACK
Bldg. 26-3

"My Christmas wish is that we may never have the privilege of celebrating a religious Christmas taken from us, as in communist-controlled countries."

LYDIA M. SCHOTT
Bldg. 16-2

"Giving includes love, service, good will—even a handclasp or a smile. These are not insignificant. They count with God. Love is the greatest gift. My Christmas wish is that each of us may express more of these divine qualities of Christ, pray more and thus abolish the deadly curse of war."

MILDRED L. WALKENSTINE
Bldg. 1-4

"I believe my first Christmas wish is for peace and good will among the people of all nations so that the men and women in our Armed Forces can return to their homes and families."

MARY LOUISE MERTENS
Taylor St.

"I wish for a permanent World Peace, so that all soldiers would be able to find the happiness and security for which they have been fighting."

It's only a few days till Christmas, so everyone is busy with last minute shopping, and they don't have time to gather news for your reporter. . . . Mada Caudle reports a new granddaughter, Betty Lou Caudle. . . . We wish to welcome Edith Waite to our group. She came to us from Div. 13, Taylor St. Hope you like us, Edith. . . . Joe Tricker had an accident the other evening, caught his trouser leg on a tote box and had to do a little job of tailoring. We sure would hate to pay him to do any tailoring for us. . . . Marie Bruggencrate was very angry last Saturday and really wanted to rant, but had a bad case of laryngitis, so she didn't have to apologize to anyone. Lucky you, Marie. . . . Your reporter wishes she was as clever as Berdena Musser. She tells us she has her Christmas shopping all done, also her wrapping. If you care to, Berdena, you can donate some time for the rest of us.

THE WORD: "Was made flesh and dwelt among us. He shall come to judge both the living and the dead." Folks, if you have not already put Christ back into Christmas, although time is running out, there is still time. Have Him in your heart at least by Christmas morning. This is the only way you can truly celebrate the birthday of your Lord and Saviour, Jesus Christ. Merry Christmas to one and all.

Here's a thought for the coming week while we're filled with the Christmas spirit. "Walking with God means the most beautiful scenery, the most interesting conversation, the safest route, and a certainty of destination which can be found in no other way—walk with Him." . . . Top Floor was well represented at the recent Transformer skating party. Those who attended included, John Gadomski, Steve Libbing, Elaine Nicodemus, Harold Clark, Maxine George, Carl Blair, Mr. and Mrs. Stan Gongoware, Janette Lehman, Marilyn Languell, Ginny Keesler, Don Zumbrun, and Mary Bryie. . . . Phil Shulze is the proud father of a baby girl, named Theresa Ann. Phil was asked by Marilyn Languell, where the double 00 was on a micrometer. Phil was in a jam until he found there was no 00. . . . Paul Gruber was one of those unfortunate souls who was unable to get his car started one cold morning. Fortunately for Paul, the paper boy came along on a bicycle equipped with tire chains. Paul, being desperate, begged for a little assistance. The paper boy hooked his hike on to Paul's Henry J., gave a good pull, and pulled the entire front end out, shock absorbers and all!

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Gene Miller on the birth of their new baby girl, and to our new grandmother, Mae Null. . . . I'm happy to report that Elmer Yordy is greatly improved and is at home again. . . . We extend our sincere sympathy to Ann Fairbanks in the loss of her mother. . . . I get it on the grapevine that Buck Buchan has started a collection of 1951 calendars. It's a little late in the year, but just another hobby, no doubt. . . . We welcome Katherine Eckenbarger, our new time clerk, in the west office. Katherine is replacing Lucille Strong, who is going to Bldg. 31-1. We wish both girls the best of luck. . . . Nellie Parr is enjoying a week's vacation. . . . We're happy to have Cecile Hinton back on the job after several weeks' illness.

Now that Vern Castle has an automatic gas furnace, he is using up that coal-shoveling energy by going hunting and shoveling his car out of the snow. . . . Bob Dent must have lost an ounce or two. We see him eating candy bars again. . . . We welcome Joyce Horstmeyer to our department. Joyce is the daughter of our old friend, Paul Horstmeyer. Also, for the time being any way, Bob Turschman is working in our office. . . . Well this bad weather has put the two Buchan's on a cake, candy, pie and whipped cream diet. It's like this. I was supposed to have the Birthday Club Christmas party at my house, but due to the sub-zero weather, the party was cancelled. If we look like Humpty Dumpty in a week or so, blame it on the Birthday Club. . . . We are awfully sorry to be so late in extending our sympathy to Harold Boles in the death of his father, but we are very sincere any way.

I'll be Home for Christmas

DETAILS from Drafting
by ED ELLENBURG

A lot of the fellows around here are going in business for themselves. For instance, every day Leonard Harsch puts on his hat and coat and makes the rounds of the coke machines looking for nickels in the coin return slot. . . . Dick Koop has a new method of getting the girls over to his desk. He writes a poem about himself, hangs it over his desk and calls the girls over to look at it. To an OUTSIDER it would seem that Dick is a very popular guy. . . . The following article is brought to you through the courtesy of Les Hahn, Jim Henry, and Hank Lantz, of Leo (unincorporated). They put their heads (?) together and came up with the marvelous deduction that Mildred (Fanny) Fettinger must come from the windy city of Chicago. They based their deduction on Mildred's inability to get along without a large number of fans, which creates a small hurricane in their section of the drafting room. . . . Tony Kazelis has really been making news lately. First he tried an experiment with his car, trying to get it to run without gas (it didn't work). Then he made his radio debut Friday in a bowling program from Key Lanes. Since then, everyone has been after his autograph which embarrasses Tony because he can't write. . . . Norma Arnold went to a dance Saturday night with one of the engineers. She must not be used to late hours. Before the dance was even half over she was dancing with her eyes closed. . . . Mauri Cox has been circulating his private jokes through the drafting room. I think that is very thoughtful of "Chubby" to try to raise our morale like that.

PENSIONER PARADE

William Fritz and his wife will travel to southern Indiana for the holidays to spend Christmas with their grandchildren. Afterward, they plan to go to Little Rock, Ark., to visit their daughter and family. They will conclude their southern excursion by spending a few weeks in Texas.

Curtis F. Martin sends his wishes for a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to all employees of the Fort Wayne Works and pensioners.

From the sunswept state of Florida, LeRoy Briggs sends word that he and his wife are spending the winter there. He went there in September for his health.

Summer's Memory Lingers On

Although Mr. and Mrs. O. Elmer Bly won't be spending the winter months in the warm southland, they can look back at the past summer they spent at Lake George, when Mrs. Bly caught a 9¾ pound pike. She is shown above holding her catch, which was 35¾ inches long. The Bly's daughter, Mrs. June Barnes, is assisting in holding the fish.

Betty T. must have been hungry the other day when she went to the Employees Store. When her number was called, instead of asking for a certain pattern of light bulbs, she ask for peanut butter. . . . We are sorry to lose Virginia McCoy to the second trick. . . . We wish to congratulate Dorothy Rebber for her thirty years' service with the Company. . . . What could Mildred Carpenter have been thinking about when she asked for a "dish" to put her work in. Could it have been about the potluck? . . . Lillian Kidder celebrated another birthday on Dec. 19. COME ON, LILLIAN, AND CONFESS. HOW MANY BIRTHDAYS HAVE YOU HAD? . . . Ruth Baker spent last week-end in Dayton, O. . . . Dortha Ramsey claims her new bowling ball has helped to bring her average up in bowling. Here's hoping you continue to improve your games. . . . Grandpa Freddie Sarasien seems to be just as spry as ever, even though he has a new grandson. The mother is the former Gloria Meehling. . . . The Airliner's bowling team won three games again Thursday. We are five games in the lead with just two more nights in the first half. . . . I appreciate the help that Lillian Kidder has put forth in collecting news in her group for me. Again I thank you very much, Lillian. . . . A WISH FOR A VERY MERRY CHRISTMAS TO ONE AND ALL FROM YOUR NEWS REPORTER. "ANDY."

Bulletin
WAGE BOARD ACTION

Unofficial information from Washington indicates that the analysis staff of WSB has completed its work on the wage increase application filed with the wage stabilization board. The application was scheduled to be presented to the appeals and review section of the board on Thursday of this week.

As we went to press, Company representatives were in Washington attempting to secure approval of our application, but there were indications that the case might yet have to go before the full wage stabilization board for final action.

Sixty-eight unions thus far have joined the Company in its application for the wage increase, and less than 2 per cent of employees are at present represented by unions which have not reached agreement with the Company on the proposal.

As soon as definite action is announced by WSB, a prompt announcement will be made.

PICK-UPS from BLDG. 26-3
by EARLE BARTLING

Mae McCrea has asked us to thank everyone who attended the recent Transformer skating party. Present plans call for another party to be held at Bell's Skating Rink Jan. 21. They also figure on having a free party later on in the season. . . . Good luck to Bob Withe, who has transferred to Bldg. 26-4, where he will work as group leader. . . . Betty Gates would like to thank Ruth Schmidt for the three lovely dish rags. Total now 27. . . . Welcome home to Doris Reinhold. Glad you had such a nice trip. . . . We are sorry to see Rita Gillie leave and hope she is back soon. . . . We are glad to see Johnny Hixson back to work again. . . . Mary Cordell was so bright the first time she called on Ilean Young, the lights all went out. . . . We wish a happy birthday to Margaret Deck. . . . The four musketeers, Cora, Jenny, Millie, and Mary had a dinner and Christmas exchange Thursday evening at the Plantation in Auburn. . . . Walter McDonald is leaving us to go on the third trick in Bldg. 26-4. . . . Carl Brincefield will be

Deck the Halls

Bob Bevington thumbed his way to work last week. His car stalled at the county line. . . . Bill Widdifield celebrated 40 years of wedded bliss last Friday. Congratulations, Bill. . . . Best wishes for a lifetime of happiness for Joan Romary (one of the office girls) who became Mrs. Ralph Grish last Wednesday. . . . John Figley had some Spedidry at home the other day. His wife thought it was cream of wheat and so did John until he ate a few mouthfuls and started to dry up! He decided then that the hest way to use it was to build up his driveway. . . . Jim Stauffer is out of boot training and will be home for the holidays. . . . Ross Sonday was up to see us last week. He went back to California for some more training. . . . I was told to wish an especial Merry Christmas to Jerry Kraft and Bob Blocher. . . . We wonder if Audrey Brindle has scratched her new Buick on the garage lately? . . . Ed Glenwith has the last word in golfers' alibis now. He bumped his glasses and said he was looking out of one bifocal and the top of the other. Then he complained because his game was so poor. . . . Don Mason and Ed Kirschner were protecting John Figley at the water fountain when Delbert Scherer came walking up. It seared them both when they faced each other. John choked on the water, and Delbert won first place on his quick take-off! . . . Ed Robbins was limping around last week. Was "Robbinetta" the cause? . . . Herb Bauer got back from the big deer hunt in Pennsylvania—no deer. This is the third year without results. Better start after the smaller game. You might get a rabbit once in a while. . . . A very merry Christmas to each and everyone of you.

"The proper means of increasing the love we bear to our native country is to reside some time in a foreign one."—Shenstone.

Santa's Helpers—Four members of the General Service Division made preparations for the holidays ahead by decorating the large tree and shrubs next to the G-E Club this week. Shown (l-r) are Ross Sills, Kenneth Greene, Everett Sink, and Thurman Lusk.

Owl BASKETBALL

Our basketball games continue to get better. One was decided by one point and a second by two points. The third game had only a point difference at the half.

In the first game, Bldg. 4-5 led Taylor St. by 24 to 23 at the half, but in the last two quarters pulled away to a twelve point difference. Forest Scherer scored fourteen points for the winner; and Bill Hayden, eighteen or one half the points for the losers.

In the second game, which was a thriller to the end, Bldg. 26 was trailing Wire Mill 14 to 20. Was tied at 22 all at the end of third quarter. The lead changed back and forth in the fourth quarter. With four seconds to go, Bernie Ainsley hit one from the side that won for Bldg. 26 by one point. Jim Taylor was high for the winners with ten points, while Pen Penkul and Spicy Spice scored ten apiece for the losers.

Team Bldg. 26-3 started slow, but stayed within distance of undefeated Bldg. 4 going down by only two points. Bldg. 26-3 led at stages of the game and came close to upsetting the leaders. Warren Wickliffe, with thirteen, was high for the winners, and Bud Pfafman was high for the losers with twenty.

With four games played, Forest Scherer leads the individual scoring with 49 points, followed by Bud Pfafman with 44. Jim Dwyer and Jim Taylor tied at 43 each.

In the Masonic league W. Gidley toppled the pins for a 606 count on games of 232, 206, and 168. High individual honors in the Taylor St. league have been taken over by Art Seidel.

Art started out with 8 in a row, had a spare, and then struck out for a 279 count. The 279 game plus a 230 and his last game of 183 gave Art a big 692.

In the Transformer league, Nelson put together games of 207, 185, and 247 for a big 639 series. Justin (Souphone) Heaston took over second place in the individual 3-game standing in the Apparatus league with games of 190, 208, and 207 for a 605 count.

We wish to extend to all our readers (I hope we have more than one) a very Merry Christmas from the league secretaries and Keghead.

G-E Song Writer Scores With Two Christmas Hits

A few years ago, Erich Gawehn, Bldg. 31-2, sat down at a piano and started playing a melody which had been running through his mind. None of his friends or relatives who heard the music recognized it.

After Mr. Gawehn had played his song for many music teachers in the Fort Wayne area and none of these people recognized the melody, he discovered that he had an original song.

During the four years that followed, this first melody gave rise to others and culminated when Mr. Gawehn reached the height of becoming a professional song writer this year.

Among the Christmas songs heard this yuletide season are two by Mr. Gawehn, "Santa's Coming" and "Merry Christmas." These songs appear both in the form of records and on sheet music.

Hard Climb

However, Mr. Gawehn states emphatically that his rise to the ranks of a professional was not an easy one. "It is very hard to break into the song writing business," he assures everyone.

"When the code among publishing houses and recording companies is that no publisher of sheet music will publish a song unless it is on a record, or no recording company will record a song unless it is on sheet music, it seems impossible to get anywhere with your song," he adds.

Mr. Gawehn overcame this obstacle by getting a professional artist to record his songs. After trying unsuccessfully for more than a year to get an audience for his songs with companies in Chicago and New York, he heard that Ken Griffin, organist, would be playing several engagements in Indiana.

After following this artist all over the state for 12 weeks, Mr. Gawehn finally got him to listen to a few of his songs, which he had had recorded by local talent. Mr. Griffin immediately liked his two Christmas songs, and recorded them on Rondo records.

Four More Recorded

When this record was completed, Mr. Gawehn had four more of his songs recorded by the same company and a publishing house published sheet music of four of his songs. Once he was able to get his songs recorded, the company would not use any talent but their artists to make the recording.

Although Mr. Gawehn states that there are many difficulties connected with this profession, he is very enthusiastic about it. "Nothing worthwhile comes easy," is his motto.

To him, song writing is an inspiration. When he was writing one of the 60 songs which he has completed thus far, he had difficulty with part of it. After he went to bed one night, he heard his song in his dreams. When he awoke he finished the music.

Musical Family

Proof that song writing is an inspiration with Mr. Gawehn is the fact that he studied piano for only one year about 25 years ago. Coming from a musical family, he has collaborated with his sister on some songs; he writes the music and she does the lyrics.

The songs that he has recorded besides the two Christmas numbers are "I'm Cuckoo Over You," "The Indiana Waltz," "Nothing Can Keep Back the Dawn," and "We're From the Good Old U. S. A." It is quite a thrill for Mr. Gawehn to see his songs advertised in local record shops.

Mr. Gawehn places his aim for the New Year at getting a big hit, which would mean something like $60,000 in royalties for him.

. . . Christmas Songs Brought Him Luck.

With only ten days left before Christmas, much to Rennie Phelps surprise, she found out when Christmas is. Rennie thought she had plenty of time to do all the things to be done; and now since time grows near, she is working day and night to get ready for Santa. . . . Virginia Worley and Marcille Harris are the proud mothers of baby girls. . . . We know Donna Smith and her husband had a tough time the night they went to a basketball game. They paid to park their car and went in to buy their tickets, but the tickets were all gone. When they returned to their car, they couldn't get out. They took a taxi home and returned later for the car. . . . We wish to welcome Edith Dmuth and Bob Andrews to our division and Ruth Gunn and Bob Bauer on the second shift. . . . Hugh Thuerer is on the sick list, and we hope he will soon be back to work. . . . We miss Hattie Springer, who left us to work days. . . . We hear Millie Rietdorf has purchased a shotgun and is watching for the prowler around her house. . . . Yours truly wishes everyone a Merry Christmas.

SONG OF KOREA

Down in Korea, jutting out in the sea,
Brave ones are fighting for you and for me.
They never will fail us in facing the foe.
We're proud of our laddies wherever they go.

Marines! Sailors! All soldiers so grand,
Fight for world freedoms in that foreign land.
E're war is soon over, they return from the fray
Some soldiers may die "But Shall Never Fade Away."

We shall ever remember brave deeds they have done
Fighting and dying until they have won.
May God ever bless them for their all having given
And grant each a home eternally in Heaven.

The above verse was written by Joseph Faurote, Bldg. 10. He is now setting it to music. . . . Andy Frank was seen buying a girl's bicycle, which he said is a Christmas gift. It is the opinion of a few that Andy bought it for himself and got a girl's bike because of his short legs. . . . Is Harold Smith really interested in buying the toys at Brouwers or is that just a good way to spend his lunch period? . . . Wonder who Dutch Gaskill will believe, Roy Taylor or Otto Hans. Roy is trying to sell Dutch a rabbit that is four months old and weighs eight pounds, dressed. Otto says that it couldn't weigh that much if it's only four months old and told Dutch it is probably a coon. Dutch would like the help of anyone who can recognize the difference between a rabbit and a coon after it is dressed. . . . Arnold Landis came to work Monday with practically all of his fingers frost-bitten. After the party Saturday night, he helped Art Everett get his car out of a snowdrift in rather a short time, but Dick Everett's car took a little longer. Would anyone like to donate gloves for our helpful hero? He discovered that he can't push a car with his hands in his pockets. . . . If Ernie Hanauer and Art Siedel say they are from Texas, don't let it throw you. They probably have it "stilled" into them. . . . The happiest Christmas ever to all of you.

SICK LIST

The following people have been reported on the sick list, dismissed from the hospital and returned to work:

Sick List

Ralph Schlop, Dale Walda, Miles Reynolds, R. Miriam Walters, Walter Schuler, Thelda Aker, Albert Givens, Cornelius Farrell, Celeste Farrell, Richard Hewitt, Edith Venrick, Gertrude Turner, Carl Schafianski, Clayton Schultz, Jacob Sappington, Arthur Stute, Jackie Miller, Walter Rietdorf, Amy Rupp, Louis Scherer, Aylene Speice, Erma Lucas, Clarence Williams, Marie Anderson, Louis Iacona, Paul Habecker, Opal Cook, Lynn Fredrick, Ramona Bostick, Warren Brighty, Doris Hill, Virgil France, Ocie Jackson, Arthur Knoll, Joyce Kryder, Charles Cope, and Vernon Wike.

Dismissed From Hospital

Elmer Yordy, Marveen LeFever, Clarence Williams, Mildred Schroeder, Pauline Cartwright, Joyce Kryder, Marybelle Armstrong, Doris Hill, and Warren Brighty.

Returned To Work

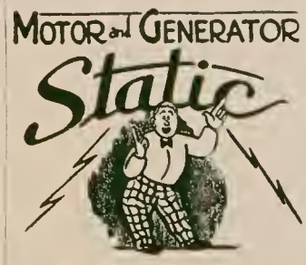
O Little Town of Bethlehem

Why was it Perry Jefferies couldn't get that motor to run the other night? Can't do it on capacitor leads, even if you would have had the correct stator in it, so we hear. . . . Walter Sollberger says it is awfully dull around here on the second shift. . . . We are wondering how Ralph Snyder gets to Auburn so fast in that 1938 Ford —got wings, Ralph? . . . Seems Bill Morton and Howard Mills were a little peeved at Paul Winters, beeause they both forgot their aprons last Monday morning, and he sorta passed the news around. . . . Edith Venriek is off sick. We will be glad to have her back again. . . . We all know around here L. Radamaker has been watching the weather to see if it is ice-making. He finally heard that there are 3 inches on the lake up in Michigan, so the other night he caught a 3-lb. bluegill. All the papers wanted a picture of it. Maybe the Governor of Michigan wanted it, too, from all the excitement, but Roddy finally got it home. Gosh wasn't it awful—it was only a dream? . . . Ray Schuckel asked Bill Putt if he was going to get the chicken next week bowling. Bill said, "No, I've been getting the bird every week now for a long time." . . . Seems Frank Fogwell started a fire back there again with another motor. If he keeps on, he might give John Walters a happy moment yet.

WATCH THOSE STEPS! The first one is a bad one, Ernie Lake remained at home this week to recover from the aches and pains resulting from a hasty flight down the stairs. The first step threw him and the rest of the flight was a hit-and-miss affair. . . . A week-end visit in Marion, Ohio, was enjoyed recently by Ada Owens and Mina Lampy. They visited with Ada's sister. . . . VACATIONING: Ralph Stanley will spend the week at home, or so he says. Wonder if he is trying to get a preview of his Christmas gifts, or whether he has to hurry now to do his Christmas shopping. . . . Ray Shackley is having a two-week vacation. Ray, are you doing your shopping or did you know the cold weather was coming? . . . DUTY CALLS: Among those reported missing from their jobs lately are Elmer Chase and Curt Baxter. Of course, both have a very good excuse for not showing up as they have to be on duty elsewhere—jury duty, that is. . . . WAS MY FACE RED? And the bright reflection did not come from Rudolph the Red Nosed Reindeer. Instead it was from "Kokomo" Mounscy's face when he was shown a gift reeeived along the line. . . . THANKS SO MUCH: "I surely appreeiate the time and effort spent by my friends selecting those gifts for me," said Emma Lou. At the present time they have me well supplied with certain items, and I wish they would give me something else to go with them. . . . ON THE SICK LIST: Jeannette Ehinger is a patient at the local hospital where she is recovering from a recent operation. . . . Huhert Krick is now at home recuperating from a recent operation. He is getting along fine and is anxious to get back on the job. . . . Jay Baker, of the Personnel Dept., is confined to the local hospital reeovering from surgery. We wish him a speedy rccovery. . . . CONGRATS: If Ray Leitz's hat doesn't fit properly, it might be that his head has expanded slightly since the arrival of a new grandson, Timothy, to Mary and Jim Edington. . . . Anyone knowing the route to the Fort Wayne Country Club please contact Emma Goldner, Eloise Noll, or Harriet Pollock. . . . Ruth Foreman has expressed the desire to see her name in print—here 'tis! . . . RETURNED: Effie McGill has returned after several days of illness. We are glad to see you back, Effie. . . . In spite of the very cold weather, a large crowd of kiddies, children of employees, attended the annual G-E Club Kiddies Christmas party and show at the Adams Theatre on Saturday, Dec. 15. Santa Claus was on hand to pass out appropriate gifts and treats to the children. The program featured a Donald Duek Christmas cartoon and several other comedy shorts. Dick Steele was chairman of the program. . . . MERRY CHRISTMAS AND HAPPY NEW YEAR: Decaturites take this opportunity to extend season's greetings to the reporters, who have contributed the news items to this eolumn; to the employees, who have allowed us to use their names in the news items; to the WORKS NEWS Editor and staff, and to all of those who have contributed in any way to the support of our eolumn. While the thought is in my mind, may I at this time make a New Year's resolution to try to make "Decaturites" column better and more interesting in 1952.

All of us in the Shaft, Commutator, and Core sections take this time to say good-by and bon voyage to Charlene Bloom, our office girl and former editor of this column. Charlene will join her husband, Sgt. Jack Bloom of Baer Field, who is stationed in the American Zone in Germany. We'll all miss the redhead, I know. . . . At the same time we welcome Blanche Cowell, who has replaced Charlene. We trust she will enjoy working with us, especially the commutator seetion who are, to put it charitably, a bunch of diamonds in the rough. Okay, boys. You ean stop twisting my arm now. . . . One of the gang, a romantic lad from Hoagland, even wanted to kiss Charlene good-by. It was a sadly misplaeed osculatory effort though and landed on her ear. . . . And now a very Merry Christmas to all of you from Shaft Shavings, and may good Saint Niek land so hard on your roof Christmas Eve that he will loosen the shingles.

Vic Barcus says thanks for the 29 suggestions. Fifty-eight suggestions are still needed to meet the goal. Why not send yours in now! The extra cash will help pay those Christmas hills. . . . It looks like Doris Patton's mother is determined to live within her budget. Doris bit into a sandwich the other noon and exclaimed that it tasted flat. Why shouldn't it? Her mother included the pickle, but forgot the meat. . . . Leo Schlaudroff saved his vacation to go hunting. Then he only went out one day and never fired a shot. Too much work in cleaning them, says Leo. . . . Sinee Ed Sehafenacker received only one hirthday greeting, we are extending a belated happy birthday. . . . Paul Dole had a first-hand view from his house of the burning truck at the underpass recently. It really woke up the neighborhood. . . . We wish an early recovery to Bob Sowards. . . . Hank Wittber celebrated his birthday last week by passing out the candy. . . . The cold wave sure brightened up the lathe section with colorful wool shirts. . . . Chet Reynolds was presented with a premature Christmas gift last Saturday. His wife brought out a new snow shovel. . . . Art Jenne plans on eating free this week. He won a basket of groceries on a radio program. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Welbaum are entertaining their daughter from New York City over the holidays. . . . Glancing over the society pages recently, we saw pictures of Mrs. Henry (Toni) Sandkuhler and Mrs. Paul (Evelyn) Brinkroeger, of which the boys are very proud. . . . Have you heard of the Ehresman proving grounds located in Jim's basement? Santa is presenting the twins with a new electric train and Jim claims he's just getting the bugs out before Christmas. . . . One of the newer fellows on our floor observed Lowell Welker wearing a different bowling shirt every day and decided Lowell was a B. T. O. B. (big time operator bowler) or he was picking up some pin money for wearing that advertising on his back. Lowell tells us he was just waiting for his laundry to come back.



This holiday season we are all more or less conscious of the needs of our fellow men—so the following from "The Easy Christmas Book" is just another thought for this busy time:

Lonely little pup, shivering in the snow;
Cold, forlorn, and hungry, with no place to go.
Doesn't know it's Christmas! Hasn't any home—
Only the streets in which to roam.
Lonely little pup! Just stop for a while.
He's not too dumb for a word and a smile;
A good Christmas dinner would taste good to him.
Maybe he'll get one—but chances look slim.
He hasn't a collar upon his neck.
He collects curses by the peck.
Just try whistling; see how he flies
Straight to your feet with questioning eyes.
One of God's creatures, lonely and blue,
Waiting just for a sign from you.
Don't go so blindly upon your way.
Take him along! It's Christmas Day.

May your hearts be gay for Christmas and the spirit of the "Lighted Candle" carry on through the year.

'Twas the night before Christmas and all through the house, not a creature was stirring, not even Jo Lee Zimmerman. Jo Lee is on her best behavior these days. . . . We hope Evaline Best enjoys her mechanical toys. . . . Helen Thieme and Martha Scott had to drink frozen cream in their coffee. The hot coffee wouldn't thaw out the cream. . . . Helen isn't such a good chicken guard. Jo slipped two pieces out. . . . Dick Claney is a new member of the heater club, an honorary member, too. . . . Jackson Clark, Thelma Kouder and Polly Crider are transferred to Bldg. 6-4. . . . Is your face red, Clarence? . . . Betty Zollars is looking forward to the Christmas party Tuesday night. . . . Martha Scott has all her shopping to do yet. Poor Martha will get lost in the shuffle. . . . Your columnist wishes each of you the very merriest Christmas ever and the happiest holiday season.

A MERRY CHRISTMAS TO ALL OF YOU FROM ALL OF US!

I'm Dreaming of a White Christmas

WINTER WONDERLAND—Ice and snow lend enchantment to Bldg. 19 and G-E grounds, giving the General Electric Company a truly Christmas look by night.

Squares' Dance Tickets Limited To 125 Couples

Ticket sales for the G-E Squares' New Year's Eve Dance, to be held Monday, Dec. 31, will be limited to 125 couples, Leon Argo, ticket chairman, announced this week.

Members who plan to attend should make arrangements to secure tickets as soon as possible, Mr. Argo added.

The semi-formal dance, featuring the Bel-Aire Quintette, will begin at 9:30 p.m. Ray Tinkle is the vocalist.

The New Year's Eve event will be held in the Squares Hall, on East Berry St., J. F. Jamison, general chairman of the dance, announced.

The Quintette (shown at bottom of page) has been featured at the Prom Terrace, Berghoff Gardens, and the Coral Room at the Van Orman Hotel.

Question:

Do pensioners pay income tax on their pensions? If so, on what portion of their pension do they pay taxes?

Is income tax paid on social security?

Answer:

Pensioners do not pay income tax on the amount of pension received from their contributions. However, the portion of pension paid by the General Electric Company is taxable, both gross and federal. Government contributions to social security are taxable. However, taxes do not begin until the individual's contributions are used up.

TO CY SEYMOUR

On a cold day in January—the year we'll not supply,
Theodore was born—you know him as "Cy".
When old enough to learn the golden rule,
He got his learning at Washington school.
Famous for football and we're heard that it's true
He enjoyed watching monkeys at the zoo.
In Jack Smith's Pool Room, a derby he'd wear,
A jaunt in his walk and his head in the air.
In the year '21, on a job-hunting spree,
He chose the finest—that's G-E.
The Seymours I'll mention in this episode,
On Edgewood Drive make their abode.
"Let's go out for dinner," to his wife he'll chime,
"Hot dogs are my favorite, and they're only a dime."
When his Ford no longer he could revive,
He decided the Lincoln was the car to drive.
Any point of discussion with Cy you'll collide,
'Cause he's always in there pitching for the other side.
"Who'll win the pennant this year," we ask and he'll beam,
"Why, the Boston Red Sox—they're the league's best team."
Now, seriously, Cy, without further ado
Here's the way we really feel about you.
We doubt if anyone on the floor
Is not acquainted with Cy Seymour.
Your laugh, so jolly—it's really a treat,
Your sense of humor just can't be beat.
And your disposition, so warm and so true,
Always willing to see another's point of view.
Thirty years with the Company and we Offer congratulations and a prayer for many more.
Merry Christmas, Cy, and best wishes, too,
For health and happiness in '52.

Your editor wishes to take this opportunity to express a very Merry Christmas to all.

The world is keeping Christmas,
Hearts grow tender once again,
And across the earth comes sounding
That sweet "Peace, good will to men."
May all the meaning of the Day
Rejoice your heart anew,
And be a world of Peace, Good Will
And Happiness for you.
Merry Christmas, everybody.

EDUCATED PIGS: Hugh Tigges said he wouldn't dare let his kids go to the Christmas party at the G-E Club, because he has been telling them (since the price of meat is so high) that they don't make pigs anymore. Hugh might have a private Christmas party and have Eunice Zehr to do the entertaining. She does some very clever skits for entertainment, and Hugh could keep his secret. . . . VACATIONS: Mary Wright is on vacation this week. Next week Bertha Witham, Violet Brower, Ruth Lemert, Ella Arn and Laura Starner will be on vacation. . . . We certainly had a parade of people wearing one bright blue ring around the ear just about the size of a telephone receiver. Whodunit? . . . We're glad to see Johnny Magley back in the groove. . . . Also to report that our matron, Goldie Rodich, is improving. If you want to send her a card, just address it to Markle, Ind. . . . Hazel Lockwood paid us a visit last week. . . . Barbara Longbrake is nursing aches and pains because her car decided to do a sliding act on the ice last week. . . . The people working on "80" frame had a Christmas potluck today. . . . Our sincere

THREE GET NEW POSTS IN FHP MOTOR DIV. 15

Happy New Year!—Vivacious Jackie Noirot, a Taylor St. employee, eagerly welcomes 1952 with a smile and not even a tear for the old year's passing. Jackie easily slipped into the holiday spirit a trifle early this week to pose for the photographer as the WORKS NEWS New Year's cover girl, and give a preview of how millions of Americans will celebrate Monday night.

Three appointments in Fractional Horsepower Motor Div. 15 have been announced by H. G. Siebold, superintendent.

Bruce A. Rohn has been appointed assistant superintendent of FHP Div. 15 in charge of the Starter Generator Section.

F. L. Gale has been named assistant superintendent of FHP Div. 15 in charge of Mechanical Parts Section.

Marvin E. Hamilton has been appiointed assistant superintendent of FHP Div. 15 in charge of B C Electronics and Defense Motors. All appointments became effective Monday, Dec. 24.

B. A. Rohn

Mr. Rohn joined the Company in 1945, when he entered the advanced manufacturing course at the Schenectady Works. While on the course, he went to Erie in 1946 and came to Fort Wayne one year later, where he completed the course.

Assembly Foreman

In 1947, Mr. Rohn became an assembly foreman in FHP Div. 14, at Taylor St. He went to FHP Div. 16 in 1948 as a staff assistant in Bldg. 2-2. He became supervisor of planning one year later in the same location. Last year, he was transferred to FHP Div. 15, where he was assistant to the superintendent. This was the position he held at the time of his present appointment.

A graduate of the Naval Academy at Annapolis, Mr. Rohn received a B.S. degree in 1940. He also attended the University of Michigan for two years.

He is a member of the Supervisors Club, the Squares Club, and the Foremen's Association.

Mr. and Mrs. Rohn and their two children live at 207 Metts, Ossian.

F. L. Gale

Apprentice Grad

Mr. Gale entered the Apprentice School when he came to the Company in 1928. After graduation as an electrical tester in 1931, he went to the Meter Department to work as an inspector.

In 1933, Mr. Gale transferred to the FHP Department as an inspector in Bldg. 4-3 and later entered the production organization in the same location. In 1934, he moved to Bldg. 17-3 in the production organization.

One year later, he went to Bldg. 4-6 to work in central production. He moved to FHP Div. 19 as a

Research Reduces Prices

Millions of dollars are spent each year for manufacturing research to reduce costs on countless items, improve products, create new markets and devices.

Back in 1910 a housewife paid $2 for an electric light bulb and even then they were hard to get. Today the housewife goes down to the corner store and gets all she wants for 15 cents each. Constant research and development lead to mass production and jobs—and low prices for the consumer.

You Can't Win

The great horse Citation, recently retired, won more than a million bucks—$1,085,760 to be exact. Yet his brilliant record is grim testimony to the fact that horse bettors already are aware of: Only horses beat horses regularly; people rarely beat them.

If you had wagered $2 on the nose of Citation every time he ran, you would have made about enough to buy a pair of shoes. Citation ran in 43 betting races, won 31 times. Thus, at the rate of $2 a race, you would have invested $86. Citation's win mutuels totaled $99.50, so you would have made a profit of $13.50.

If you deposited $86 in the credit union of the place where you work on April 22, 1947—the day Citation won his first race—the sum would have netted you $14.59 by July 14, 1951, the date of Citation's last race. Thus, the credit union at four per cent paid $1.09 more than Citation.

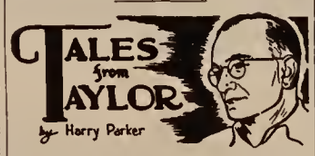
SICK LIST

The following people have been reported on the sick list, dismissed from the hospital and returned to work:

Sick List



Alfred Woehnker, Jesse Moore, Olga Lindenberg, Albert Givens, Wilbur Diehl, Ralph Campbell, Wayne Abbott, Doris Jones, Herbert Kohler, Joseph Moritz, Donald Thorn, Elsie Logue, Marguerite Woodward, Clyde Boyce, Nina Curtis, Eileen Vaughn, George Adams, Emily Colvin, Charles Gibson, Ivan Miller, Robert Stephens, Pearl Michael, Walter Schuler, Henry Lowe, Hugh Theurer, Geneva J. Worden, Russel Lageman, Robert Rehrer, William Kizer, Henry Huey, Mary Hake, Emerson Ferris, Ruby DeBolt, Romona Bostick, Joan Baker, Carl Baermann, Thelda Aker, George Aikens, Joseph Alexander, Olene Amburn, Otto Huffman, Louis Scherer, Frieda Morin, Charles O'Connor, Alvin Meyers, Wayne Colby, Frank Glenn, Glenn Shaw, and Betty Carper.

Dismissed From Hospital

Opal Cook, Alma Anderson, Ramona Bostick, Emerson Ferris, Emmett, Ewart, Olene Amburn, Dale Walda, Clayton Schultz, Leo Miller, Marjorie Livezey.

Returned To Work

Wilma Redding, Dorsey Wendell, Carl Schafianski, Edith Venrick, Aylene Speice, Louis Scherer, Alice Robinson, Vernon Wike, Amy Rupp, R. Miriam Walters, Arthur Stute, Ethel O'Leary, Lavern Stilwell, Gerald B. Elser, Russell Jones, Karl Kiel, Fernando Crick, Russell Golliver, Richard Hewitt, Victoria Clayton, and Nancy Hockensmith.

Art Brandenberger reports that George Cowan has an ingenious prowler alarm rigged up at his home. It not only sets off an alarm, but knocks said prowler out as well, according to Art. It consists of brick bats and two by four's assembled in such a manner that the miscreant first trips over the bricks, then a heavy wooden beam drops, clubbing him over the head. So beware all of you who intend calling upon him during the holidays. Inform him when you plan to come, so he can unhitch this death dealing device. . . . A few Saturdays ago Pete Miller's wife baked two luscious apple pies. After taking them from the oven, she placed them on a small table on the back porch to cool, intending to have them for the noon meal. Meanwhile, Pete, busying himself about the premises, decided to turn his hound dog loose to run while. Not paying much attention to the dog, Pete took a run to the corner grocery. Upon his return, his wife asked him if he knew what happened to the pies. Pete replied in the negative, but they both strongly suspected the dog, as the pans were lying in the yard licked clean.

Plenty of Power

Kenny Applegate claims to have the most powerful Ford afloat. He tells us that he can push the largest and heaviest trucks built, or pull them out of ditches, not being afraid to tackle the toughest push or pull job there is. It makes no difference if the highways are piled high with snow. Only the other day while driving west on Taylor St., a locomotive became derailed at the crossing. Kenny, giving the crew the high sign, eased up to the monster of the rails and in a masterful demonstration of automotive handling, he rerailed it in less than ten minutes. . . . Brice Martin now has a brand new tractor of which he is justly proud and is getting a thrill out of driving it. He has plowed up every inch of his premises, including the front lawn, much to his wife's disgust. So enthusiastic is he about driving said tractor that he is plowing up his neighbors farms free. So if any of you have some land you would like to have manicured, call Brice quickly before the newness wears off.

After two weeks George Marshand and Bob Johnson are still undecided whether there were natural or synthetic rubber bands in their cigars. They think that Fred House should buy them some more. . . . We think Howard Householder's wife will have to make some alterations in his shirts, since he is sprouting wings. . . . Smitty, the driller and fatalist, does not know whether to come down with the flu or to take a rest. . . . Dick Watters is still having trouble getting enough sleep and making his money hold out. . . . Ruth Peck drives her car with the emergency brake on and wonders what is wrong. . . . Why do they call Dick Patton "Can't wait Patton?" What is the secret all about, Dick? . . . Santa Claus should bring Bob Robertson a new alarm clock, as he has been late three out of four mornings. . . . It takes Maurice Roe so long to find his boots in the evening, that he can't accomplish much work in his new house. . . . Cold weather doesn't agree with Neol Bolinger's Buick so he is all set again to trade. . . . Gus Harrison is still taking offense at being called "Lover Boy," but we are happy to have him back with us on days. . . . Famous last words of Dan Bishop: "It all boils down to this" or "I'll take it from there." . . . Famous last words of Gus Harrison: "No comment." . . . Congratulations to Edna Wolf, who is now Mrs. Leroy Sill. We wish you lots of happiness. . . . We wish a Merry Christmas to our absent members, Vadas Putt, Alberta Watt, Iva Powell, Florence Minnick, Rosella Koons, and Betty Pion. The girls really appreciated the beautiful cake Alberta Watt sent in to add to their Christmas dinner. . . . Elinor Laux must be playing hop scotch on her way to work, as she starts out with only one overshoe. . . . Hilda LeCoque is looking for some fruit from her parents Mr. and Mrs. Elbon Brown, who are spending the winter in Florida. Mr. Brown is one of our G-E pensioners. . . . Lona Cook is taking precaution these days when she rides with Melvin Riley. . . . What is wrong with Marshand? Even with his nobby ties, he can't get to work on time.

WHILE MIDNIGHT BELLS ARE RINGING

Into the past, while midnight bells are ringing
A welcome for the Happy New Year Day,
Battered and worn, dejected and pathetic,
The old year, disillusioned, limps away.

Into the past, where everything is measured,
Where all events for history are arranged;
Into the past, where deeds are all recorded,
Where nothing that has happened can be changed.

Into the past, the old year takes experience;
Out of the past, the new year takes advice;
Into the past, are thrown all things ugly;
Out of the past are salvaged all things nice.

Into the past, the old year takes our errors,
Along with all our foolish, stupid acts;
Out of the past, the new year takes our wisdom,
Our knowledge, and our well-accepted facts.

Into the past, while midnight bells are ringing,
Let's throw our selfish thoughts, our hate and greed;
Out of the past, let's pull back understanding,
For that's one thing, I'm sure we really need.

Into the past, I hope your grief and worries
May go, and find some spot to hide away;
Out of the past, I hope some pleasant memory
May come, to help inspire you New Year's Day.

Into the future, go and do for others
Those things you hope that others do for you;
For others then will come a happy new year,
And you will have a happy new year too.

R. D. Tyler to Join FHP Dept. On Special Assignments

Richard D. Tyler will join the Fractional Horsepower Motor Department Wednesday, with responsibility for designated special assignments, R. C. Hanna, manager of marketing, announced today. This appointment becomes effective Tuesday.

Joins FHP Organization

Previous to this appointment, Mr. Tyler was associated with Hotpoint Inc., Chicago, where he was assistant to the vice president of sales. Before his employment at Hotpoint, he was associated with Telechron Inc., Ashland, Mass. from 1945 to 1950.

While with Telechron, he was a factory worker, time study trainee, methods engineer trainee, sales trainee, and a salesman. In 1947, he became district manager of Telechron's Pittsburgh area. One year later, he became manager of the Philadelphia district.

He returned to Ashland in 1949 as merchandising manager of all products, and subsequently became sales manager of the clock division and manager of the clock division.

A graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, Mr. Tyler received a B.S. degree in economics from the Wharton School of Finance and Commerce.

Mr. and Mrs. Tyler have three boys.

Elex to Feature Kathryn Turney Garten At Meetings for Both Shifts Monday, Jan. 7

Kathryn Turney Garten will give a book review of "The President's Lady" at a luncheon and dinner meeting of Elex Club members, Monday, Jan. 7.

The meeting for second-shift members will be held at the YWCA. It will begin at 12 noon.

The dinner meeting for the first-shift members will be held at the G-E Club. Dinner will be from 4:45 to 6:15 p.m. The program will begin at 6:15 p.m.

Tickets, which are $1.25 per person, may be secured from contact girls. The deadline for reservations is Thursday, Jan. 3. Members may also secure tickets for guests.

Several copies of "The President's Lady," autographed by Mrs. Garten, will be given as attendance prizes.

ELEX CLUB TO HOLD SPECIAL PECAN SALE

A special after-Christmas sale of pecans was announced today by Irene Meyers, Elex Club advisor. Pecans have been reduced to $1.25 per pound, Miss Meyers said. They are on sale in the Employee Store at Broadway and in the Women's Activities Office at Taylor St.

Money will buy a fine dog, but only love will make him wag his tail.

HAPPY NEW YEAR . . . TO ALL OF YOU FROM ALL OF US.

Squares Complete Plans For New Year's Party Monday Evening

Arrangements for the G-E Squares Club New Year's Eve Party have been completed, J. F. Jamison, chairman, announced this week.

The members will hold their semi-formal dance at the Squares Hall Monday, Dec. 31. The Bel-Aire Quintette will provide music for the dance, which will begin at 9:30 p.m. Ray Tinkle is featured as vocalist.

G-E Products Completely Equip U.S. Navy Sub

The prototype U. S. Navy submarine U. S. S. Trout, now in construction at the Electric Boat Company's Groton, Connecticut shipyard, will be completely furnished with electrical equipment supplied by the General Electric Company.

G-E equipment going on the new long-range submersible includes many of the vessel's most vital electrical components.

A member of the high speed "563" class of fleet submarines, the Trout was especially designed for long-range operations.

The Trout represents a new trend in American submarine engineering, since its super strong hull was built to withstand compression at greater depths.

G-E Vets to Open Membership Drive

The G-E War Veterans Association will open their 1952 membership drive Wednesday, Jan. 2, Harold Ely, chairman of the drive, announced this week.

The following members have been appointed divisional contact men:

Hugh Neely, Taylor St.
Wilmer Bock, Winter St.
Al Adams, Broadway, West
Andrew Lee, Broadway, East

Decatur All Decked-Out—The Decatur Plant put on its Holiday garb last week in keeping with the season. The display featured Santa Claus, his sleigh, and his reindeer, making their annual round of visits.

Paul Boyer and Joseph Tricker Named FHP Section 15 Foremen in Training

Paul F. Boyer

The appointments of two foremen in training were announced this week by H. G. Siebold, superintendent of Fractional Horsepower Motor Department Section 15.

Paul F. Boyer will assume foremen's duties in the Black and White Armature Section and Joseph E. Tricker has been assigned to Winding Groups in Section 15.

When Mr. Boyer came to the General Electric Company in 1940, he worked in Bldg. 17-2 as a rotor grinder. He entered the specialist training course that same year. In 1941, he became a bench lathe operator in Bldg. 4-1.

One year later, he moved to Bldg. 4-2, where he held jobs as a gear hobbing and monarch lathe operator. In 1946, he became leading operator in the same location. He held this position at the time of his present appointment in Bldg. 4-2.

Volunteer Fireman

A member of the Volunteer Firemen's Association, Mr. Boyer also managed the Owl basketball and softball teams for several years.

Mr. and Mrs. Boyer, their two sons and two daughters reside at 1214 Park Ave.

Joined G-E In 1940

When he joined the Company in 1940, Mr. Tricker was a punch press operator at the Decatur Plant. One year later, he moved to the Fort Wayne Works and entered the specialist training course in Bldg. 12-2.

Upon completion of this course a few months later, he went to Bldg. 6-4 to work on turret lathes and Potter and Johnson machines. In 1945, he transferred to Bldg. 4-4 on winding machines. He became leading operator in Bldg. 4-2 in 1950. One year later, he became a dispatcher in the same location. He was on this job at the time of his present appointment.

Mr. and Mrs. Tricker and their four girls live at 813 Russell, Decatur.

In 1948, Mr. Gale returned to the Fort Wayne Works to become assistant to the production manager in Bldg. 4-6. This was the position he held at the time of his present appointment.

The Gales and their three children live at 2631 Leroy Ave.

Started at Erie

Mr. Hamilton entered the Erie Works when he joined the Company in 1947. At that time, he was on the manufacturing training program. He transferred to the Fort Wayne Works in 1948.

He became a foreman in FHP Div. 17 in 1949. In 1951, Mr. Hamilton became supervisor of cost reduction and expense control for the FHP Department. He held this position at the time of his present appointment.

A 1947 graduate of the University of Michigan, Mr. Hamilton received a B.S.M.E. degree. He is a member of the Supervisors Club and the Squares Club.

Works Lab Men Present Papers At G-E Meeting

R. D. Hodges and W. W. Warcham, of the Works Laboratory, presented papers on "Formex Finish Over Teflon" and "Silicone Coatings on Copper and Aluminum Wire" at a Company-wide Symposium, held Monday and Tuesday, Dec. 3 and 4, at the Research Laboratory, The Knolls, Schenectady Works.

At the evening session, J. J. Clarkson, FHP manager of engineering, discussed "Possibilities for High Temperature Insulation in the General Electric Company."

The subject matter presented by Mr. Hodges is covered by joint patent application with C. J. Herman, of the FHP engineering section.

The theme of the symposium, which was organized by Dr. B. W. Nordlander, of the Research Laboratory, was High Temperature Wire Insulation.

G-E Assembly-line Radar Gives U. S. Jet Pilots Shooting Edge

A small automatic radar for fighter planes, credited with giving American jet pilots a decided shooting edge over enemy planes in Korea, is the first radar ever to be produced on an assembly-line basis, a General Electric Company official said here today.

Dr. W. R. G. Baker, G-E vice president and general manager of the Electronics Division, said the unit is the most widely used radar in the world today, and that it is being produced at a rate greater than that of all types of radar during World War II.

Conceived by G-E scientists shortly after the last war, the radar was sponsored by the U. S. Bureau of Aeronautics and put into production by G-E. It has been jointly standardized by all air arms, and is now being installed in Air Force, Navy and Marine Corps fighters throughout the world, he said.

Cuts Out Guess-work

The radar device eliminates guess work on the part of the pilot. It feeds information into a computing gunsight. If the pilot keeps his enemy on the cross-hairs of this sight, he is assured a hit.

Use of the radar in Korea represents the first combat application of precision radar techniques to direct the firing of weapons from jet fighter planes. The new radar is extremely small and light in weight, both critical factors in the installation of radar in small fighter planes, Dr. Baker said.

Amazing Accuracy

The radar is so accurate that inexperienced pilots, during aerial gunnery practice, have constantly downed towed targets with their first bursts. Reports from Korea substantiate this accuracy, and express the belief that Russian-built jet planes have nothing comparable in the way of gun-directing equipment.

Teams of G-E electronics engineers are now training Navy and Air Force personnel throughout the world to install and maintain the device in planes already in service. Many types of fighter aircraft now incorporate the radar at the time of manufacture, and others are scheduled to receive it in the near future.

G-E Announces New Low Cost AC Locomotive

A new low-cost electric locomotive which can handle electrified lines is the electrical industry's most significant 1951 contribution to the railroads.

In announcing the new G-E a-c locomotive designed for quantity production, G. W. Wilson, manager of General Electric's Locomotive and Car Equipment Department, today stressed the railroads' increased use of electrical equipment to help move goods and people efficiently.

"Heavier trains and higher speeds characterize modern railroading," Mr. Wilson said, "and versatile, more powerful locomotives are needed to supplement or replace those now operating on existing electrified lines."

The G-E executive poined out that rising transportation costs have forced the railroad industry to seek a relatively inexpensive standard electric locomotive which can operate efficiently at a low maintenance cost.

General Electric's contribution is a single-phase, a-c locomotive which is designed for mass production. The design is based on fundamentals proved by 50 years experience in electric locomotive manufacture. The streamlined cab carried on two 2-axle swivel trucks is essentially similar to the diesel-electric freight locomotives now popular on American railroads. All axles are powered by a-c commutator motors. Dynamic braking is used—the first time it has been applied to this type of locomotive in the United States.

M. D. Aughinbaugh Graduates From Apprentice School

Merle D. Aughinbaugh graduates today from the Apprentice School as a machinist toolmaker.

When he came to the Company in 1946, Mr. Aughinbaugh went to work in the mailing section, Bldg. 18-B. One year later, he moved to Bldg. 4-3, where he was a commutator setter. He enrolled in the Apprentice School in June, 1948.

Mr. and Mrs. Aughinbaugh live at 1609 Spy Run Ave.

G-E DEATHS

Dies In Retirement

George Louthan Dies In Veterans Hospital

George Louthan, Sr., died Tuesday, Dec. 18 at the Veterans Hospital, Marion. Mr. Louthan retired from the General Electric Company in April, 1949.

He joined the Company in 1919 as a bench hand. He worked in Bldg. 17 and Bldg. 4 as an assembler and at the time of his retirement was employed in FHP Motor Div. 1, Bldg. 4, as a punch press operator.

Mr. Louthan was a member of the Quarter Century Club and a veteran of World War I.

Surviving are his widow, Agnes; three sons, George, Jr., William, nad Robert, all of Fort Wayne; a sister, Mrs. Della Frame, West Palm Beach, Fla.; three brothers, Tim, Wolcottville, Orville, Fort Wayne, and Kenneth, Denver, Colo.; and three grandchildren.

Services were held Friday, Dec. 21, at the C. M. Sloan & Sons Funeral Home, with the Rev. Charles Ford officiating. Burial was in Lindenwood Cemetery.

7-Month Illness Fatal To Otis H. Herndon, 58

Otis H. Herndon, 58, died at 1:50 a.m. Wednesday, Dec. 19, at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Mr. Herndon joined the General Electric Company in 1942 as a helper at Taylor St. He worked at the Winter St. Plant from 1945 until 1949. He was employed in Bldg. 17-2 when he left the Company for illness in April.

He is survived by a brother, Curtis, of Fort Wayne; a sister, Mrs. Howard Jones, of Hornell, N. Y.; two step-brothers, Samuel Mower, of Fort Wayne, and Marvin Mower, Huntington, and a step-sister, Mrs. Theda Podesta, San Francisco.

Services were held Friday, Dec. 21, at the C. M. Sloan Funeral Home, with the Rev. L. E. Olsen officiating. Burial was in Greenlawn Memorial Park.

Services Held Thurs. For Annie M. Allen

Funeral services for Annie M. Allen, 63 a retired G-E employee, were held yesterday at her home, 836 Wilt St. Dr. Elmer E. Voelkel officiated. Miss Allen died Tuesday at the Methodist Hospital. She had been ill for two years.

Miss Allen came to the General Electric Company in 1919 as a winder in Bldg. 4-5. Until her retirement in 1942, she worked as an inspector and tester, connecter, and wedger in the same location.

Survivors include a sister, Miss Corinne Allen, and a brother, Edward Allen.

Burial was in Lindenwood Cemetery.

Edward Smethers, 44 Dies Wed. Dec. 19

Edward Smethers, 44, a die sharpener in FHP Motor Div. 13 at Taylor St., died at his home Wednesday, Dec. 19.

Mr. Smethers joined the Company in 1942 as a drill press operator in Bldg. 4-1. He transferred to the Taylor St. plant in 1946.

His survivors include his widow, Rosella; a daughter, Jeanette; a sister, Mrs. Fred Fitch, Detroit; a half-sister, Mrs. George Brossard, of Fort Wayne, and three half-brothers, Lawrence, Fort Wayne; Clarence, Decatur, Ill., and Arthur, Richmond, Calif.

Adolph Strasser, 56 Dies at Home Dec. 21

Services for Adolph E. Strasser, 56, who died at his home Friday, Dec. 21, were held Monday at the Wellman Funeral Home and at the Emmaus Lutheran Church. The Rev. Erwin Tepker officiated.

A lifelong resident of Fort Wayne, Mr. Strasser joined the Company in 1919 as a draftsman in Bldg. 18-5. At the time of his death, he was a draftsman in Bldg. 4-6. He was a member of the Quarter Century Club.

Surviving are his widow, Hulda; one son, Edward, and three brothers, Walter G. and Harold F., of Fort Wayne, and Carl R., of Lombard, Ill.

Burial was in Lindenwood Cemetery.

Stormy Weather

FROM 17-4

By Betty Gentile

Listen my children, and you shall hear
Of resolutions we're making for the coming year.
So lend an ear 'cause here's a clue
Of improvements we'll have in '52.

I RESOLVE:

Not to lost my temper—Maxine Baker. . . . To keep my hair combed neatly at all times—Lester Stauch. . . . To get along with the girls in the Winding Section—Jim Smith. . . . To buy a Lincoln with all the standard equipment included; such as a tow chain, snow shovel and a battery charger—Cy Seymour. . . . To give up girls and be a confirmed woman hater — Earl Sweeney. . . . To faithfully keep our wedding vows we made in the past year for the rest of our lives—Mary McWilson and Betty Gentile. . . . To finish some of the things I didn't get done in 1951—Ed Klomp. . . . To not argue (very much) with Clarence Nussel. (You can't win!)—Mike Lowe. . . . To win all the money I can from the girls at our card games (squarely or otherwise) — Walt Konow. . . . Not to let any further low remarks keep me from backing the Chicago Cubs and the Chicago Bears—Bill Hurtt. . . . To quit breathing and conserve air for other employees in the office—Howard Brooks. . . . To remove the fish hooks from the pocket in which I keep my money—Clarence Nussel. . . . To quit fooling around and get to work—Larry Reed. . . . To learn to cook something besides spaghetti and meat balls—Betty Gentile. . . . To give up—Walter Beeth.

In closing we quote Otto Proehl, "New Year's resolutions are all right—they indicate that we do have a good thought once a year, at least."

We resolve in '52 to be on the ball,
Happy New Year—one and all.

Christine Cormier was on the sick list for a few days with the flu. We are glad to see you back, CHRISSIE. . . . Vacation days are here again for Hamilton McCoy. He is taking next week off. He plans to spend a few days with his parents in Ohio, and then the rest at home. . . . Daisy Ford will also take life easy next week, as she will be on her vacation, too. . . . Arnold Sprunger is expecting his son home from the Army to spend the holidays. He is stationed at Camp Brackenridge, Ky. . . . We were wondering if Ruth Baker had changed to office hours, when she came to work at 8 a.m. Our curiosity was put at ease when she said she forgot to set the alarm the night before. . . . Bea Webster stopped in to see her co-workers in group 1x35. She had been in a slight automobile accident, but was able to be up after a few day's rest in bed. . . . Lula McCaque's little daughter Marsha celebrated her fifth birthday on Dec. 18. . . . Former co-workers of Henrietta Deck were glad to see her while Christmas shopping down town. She and Joe are making arrangements to spend the remainder of the winter in Florida. That is certainly life and they both are enjoying it. . . . Freddie S. says that Moe's Packard is so big, he has to have a hinge in the middle to turn corners. That's hard to believe. . . . If somebody is having a New Year's Party and have room for a nice boy, please invite Pondo. I am informed he is running himself crazy trying to find a place to have a party. . . . Lillian K. is having her troubles, too. It seems that after spending a lot of time and money on Christmas presents, the water heater burst and the presents got wet. I will say that she did have a problem. . . . Daisy Ford received a slight injury to her finger while working on the drill press. She said it wouldn't have hurt so much, if she had countersunk her finger, instead of counterboring it. . . . We want to mention that Ralph Lee had a birthday Dec. 21. Hope you have a lot of them, Ralph. A HAPPY AND PROSPEROUS NEW YEAR EVERYBODY.

WHAT ONE PERSON WOULD YOU NAME AS OUTSTANDING DURING 1951?

RAYMOND L. ANDERSON
Taylor St.

"General MacArthur because of his firm stand against the type of war we are fighting in Korea."

VIRGIL ROLLINS
Bldg. 6-B

"Major General Dean. He typifies the outstanding men of 1951—the courageous men who are fighting, suffering, and dying to preserve our way of life."

GRACE HUNT
Bldg. 26-5

"I would say General MacArthur is the most outstanding personality of 1951, due to the wide publicity he received when he left Japan and returned to the United States."

HOWARD HICKMAN
Bldg. 27

"General Douglas MacArthur for his perseverance and integrity in standing firm on his Asian policy in the face of very bitter criticism by the inept authorities, who subsequently removed him from his command. Nevertheless, he was given a tremendous ovation and acclaim by the American people when he returned home."

ARDIS TILLER
Bldg. 4-6

"My husband is the most outstanding person of 1951 to me because we were married this year."

Looks like Steve Libbing has worked here too long. Steve was going through the motions of a violinist one morning. Guess he was serenading one of the testers. . . . For several years now I've been proud of belonging to the G-E Volunteer Fire Dept. That is, until last week when Betty Lupton asked me if that was a Junior G-Man's badge I was wearing! . . . One Saturday when few people were working, Louie Sordelet decided to look around for his overshoes that had been missing for quite some time. Louie searched in every nook and cranny and finally came up with a pair of boots. He took them to the wash room and removed that "cow pasture look." With the boots bright and shiny Louie went back to his desk. He was somewhat taken back when Ernie Pfeiffer informed him that the boots were his! . . . Some of our gals are going high class, or "Fifth Avenue" on us. Recently, Mary Blanchard, Garnett Marshall, Edna Hall, Rozella Momper, Lavon Lanzer, Heddy Koch, Delores Sheckart, Suzie Dove, and Bea Marsh held a candlelight supper and Christmas exchange at the Glass House. Everyone had a swell time. Garnett came well-equipped, one purse over her shoulder, and one on her arm. . . . We hear there is a certain engineer who is interested in a certain gal whose name we won't mention, but whose initials are I. H. He has been making numerous trips up to top floor. . . . Jim Witzigreuter passed out the cigars and candy celebrating a Christmas present in the form of a new baby girl! . . . I would like to have seen that three-point landing Maxine Bakle made down town. . . . Carles Jacobs must have attempted to fly through some of those high snowdrifts. Anyhow he ruined his transmission and wore out a set of tire chains.

Transportation's Christmas Present—The week before Christmas, Santa stopped at the Fort Wayne Works to deliver a new bus, shown in operation, to the Transportation Section. Replacing the well-known, elongated Ford, which retired after four years of faithful duty, the new bus has such features as a modern heater, safety door at the rear, and dual tires which resist skidding.

Because of all the Christmas shoplifting I've had to do and all the "rip-snorting" Christmas parties I've been "forced" (?) to attend, I find it rather difficult to stay awake for any length of time during the day. So I'm sure that you will all understand if I cut this short and get back to sleep. I hope everyone had a very Merry Christmas, including our new draftsman, Joe Paige. Incidentally, Happy New Year, too.

Popularity? It is glory's small change.

ARTIST: La Donna Gulley is to be well complimented for her good job on the AC Division's Christmas card. . . . BYE BYE: Farewell to Joan Buennagel, who left Friday to join her husband in Georgia, where he is stationed. . . . HAPPY BIRTHDAYS: To Betty Rose on Dec. 24 and Johnny Reuille on Jan. 4. . . . GOOD HELPERS: Who were Betty Puff's little helpers in the parking lot, Wednesday night? It's a good thing she invited Marge Murphy and Mary Ellen Hulvey to ride along with her down town. . . . DEEPEST SYMPATHY: We offer our sympathy to Bruce Curley on the death of his mother. . . . SURPRISE: Mrs. Lin Miller (formerly Norma Close) was pleasantly surprised at the DC Christmas exchange, when she received several wedding gifts from under the tree last Monday. . . . THANK YOU: We'd like to thank Everett Letsinger for the beautiful tree he brought in to add holiday cheer to the DC office. . . . TOO BAD: Were you one of the victims of the mistletoe area near Johnny Leffers' desk? . . . GOOD: I'd like to give the committee in charge of the DC Christmas party this year a big hand for the office decorations and the party as a whole. Wouldn't it be nice if the Christmas spirit prevailed the whole year through. Don Miller and Sol London should be congratulated also for the swell AC Christmas party.

VOLUME 16 DECEMBER 28, 1951 No. 12

Exposed To The New Year . . . All dressed up in his best smile, one-year-old David Monroe has just taken his first peep at General Electric's 1952 calendar and realizes it's time to wish a Happy New Year to his public. He's the son of Stuart S. Monroe, Supervisor of personnel at the DeKalb, Illinois, plant.

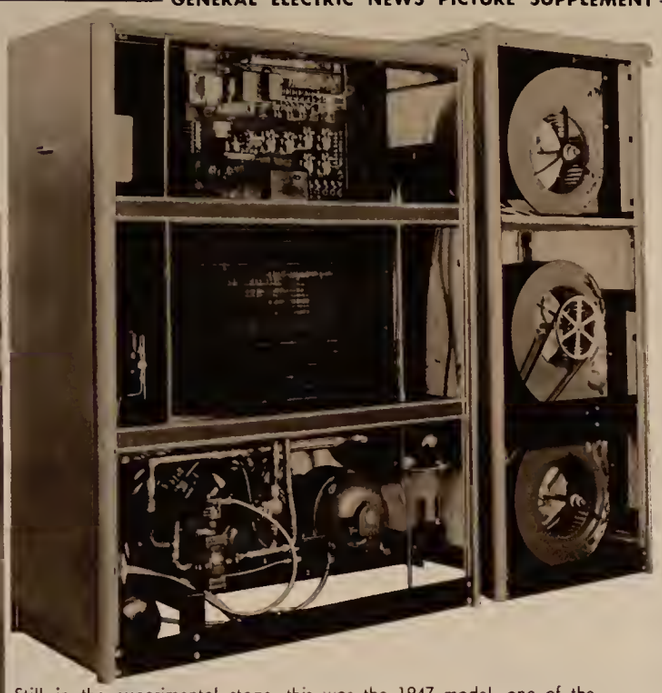
50 Years' Service Noted . . . Jesse M. Gordenier (left) of Schenectady Works gets his 50-year pin from Joseph Eckel, monager of Large Motor and Generotor, as co-workers gather to congratulate him. When Mr. Gardenier retires in February, he plans to make his home in Fort Lauderdale, Florida for year-round fishing, golfing and swimming.



Sunny Moment . . . Four-year-old Sandra Wachowiak is delighted with chocolote turkey her mother and father brought her at Milwaukee Children's Hospital. The Wachowiaks have 11 children and Sandra is one of two children in their family who came down with polio almost at the same time. They are now in the recovery stage and fairly complete recuperations are expected. Sandra's father is Frank Wachowiak, one of the plant guards at GE's X-Ray Department in Milwaukee.

First lab-built model of Heat Pump with cardboard panels. As early as 1930, lab experimenting was done in Schenectady by F. H. Faust and E. W. Raessler.

Still in the experimental stage, this was the 1947 model, one of the first GE reverse-cycle refrigeration units with front covers removed.

YEAR after year, General Electric research and engineering bring new benefits to all of us. Hundreds of new products have been brought into daily use which were developed over the years through the combined efforts of GE men and women.

One such newly developed product is the Heat Pump, which is now in assembly line production. After 17 years of experimentation, General Electric has successfully adapted the principle of reverse-cycle refrigeration to make the Heat Pump practical. It is an important development making possible the cooling and heating af a home in summer and winter from a single, all-electric operated unit.

While GE engineers have adapted the principle to provide year 'round comfort for the home, it was first expressed by Lord Kelvin more than 100 years ago. In Schenectady as early as 1926, the late Dr. A. R. Stevenson, Jr., who fostered the "disposal", saw the future possibilities for GE in the field of refrigeration as a means of cooling homes.

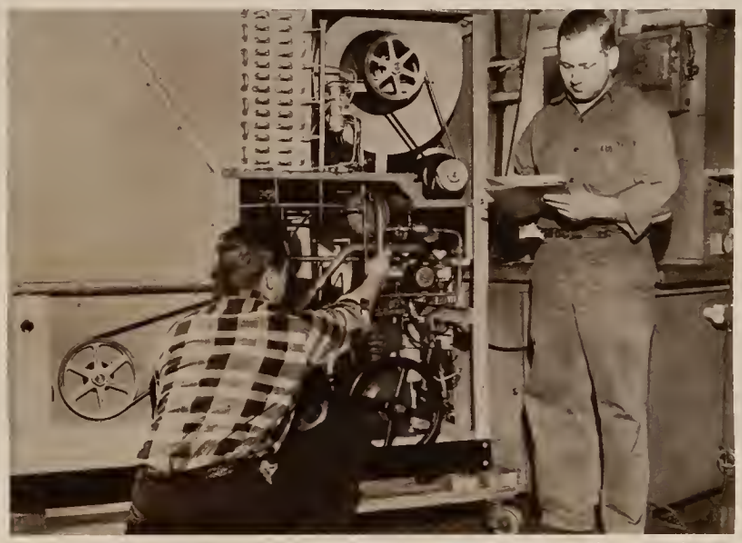
A number of years following were spent in investigating this field by GE engineers. Then in 1934, General Electric, together with the American Gas and Electric Company, designed and installed a heat pump system in Salem, N. J., one of the first successful applications in this country. GE has since made other installations throughout the country in homes, stores, industrial plants and office buildings — all having undergone constant improvement. Today, both packaged and custom-built systems are giving good, economical service under varying weather conditions.



Pictured on these pages are a few of the highlights of the heat pump story — and the men whose work in research and development have made possible its present production at the Bloomfield plant of the Air Conditioning Division.

After yeors of development and field testing, the Heot Pump is in production, obove. First complete units are expected to be instolled in the southern port of the country where year 'round oir conditioning is in greoter demand.

Working toword improvement in the GE Heot Pump of the future, W. M. Smith, right, droftsmon, Engineering Dept., discusses bosic design with Justin Neuhoff, Monager af Development Engineering.

The GE Heat Pump Uses These Basic Laws of Nature

1 — Heat exists in air at all temperatures — below freezing as well as above.

2 — Heat always tends to flow from a higher temperature to a lower one.

3 — Heat is absorbed by evaporating a refrigerant. Compressing a refrigerant raises its temperature, permitting it to give off heat.

The G-E Packaged Heat Pump merely evaporates the refrigerant to absorb heat, and condenses refrigerant vapor to give off heat. An automatic switchover valve controls the system. In winter, heat is captured from outdoor air and used to heat the indoor air. In summer, heat and excessive moisture are removed from indoor air. The heat is discharged to the outdoor air, and moisture is drained off, leaving the home cool and comfortable

RED CROSS THANKS G-E BLOOD DONORS

FORT WAYNE-ALLEN COUNTY CHAPTER
AMERICAN RED CROSS
CHAPTER HOUSE - 406 WEST BERRY ST.
FORT WAYNE 2, INDIANA

November 28, 1951

Employees, Fort Wayne Works
General Electric Company
1635 Broadway
Fort Wayne 2, Indiana

Dear Friends:

The manner in which you have recognized and accepted the needs of the Fort Wayne Regional Blood Center should be a source of great satisfaction to each of you and a contribution to the community and national welfare which cannot be tabulated in terms of dollars and cents.

The steady flow of volunteer donors from your organization is helping to make possible the success of our program, and it is our wish that each person taking part in the donor pledge activity of the General Electric Company consider this a personal letter of thanks and gratitude.

Sincerely yours,

Frederic A. Doppelt, D.D.
Chapter Chairman.

Among the many lists of statistics compiled as 1951 draws to a close, the one which Americans are sorting out and putting uppermost in their minds concerns the number of lives saved in Korea.

In many cases, the deciding factor of whether a number is added to the death list, or wounded and recuperated list depends upon a pint of blood plasma.

Approximately 2,000 employees of the Fort Wayne Works have recognized this need and have joined in the blood campaign being conducted by the American Red Cross. More than 600 employees have become donors since August, when a campaign was conducted within the plant to obtain pledges.

In appreciation of the response of employees, Frederick A. Doppelt, chapter chairman, sent the above letter to the Fort Wayne Works.

However, the success of this program depends upon the continued cooperation of citizens throughout the country. In order to meet the need for plasma, a quota of 40 donors from the Fort Wayne Works is needed every week.

Any employee who wishes to support this program and has not previously pledged his support may do so by calling Marguerite Fenner, Ext. 2365, or Marjorie Meyer, Ext. 471, and make an appointment to go to the local Red Cross Chapter at 406 W. Berry St.

An hour of someone's time and a pint of their blood may mean a lifetime to a serviceman in Korea.

It seems that Instructor Paul Black should have an instructor on how to use a stapler after he stapled his own finger. . . . G. Pequignot really must eat a big breakfast—it cost him one dollar extra Wednesday morning. . . . VACATIONS: Helen Coryell and Luella Lahymeyer were on vacation last week, and Lawrence Schuster is in Florida on vacation for two weeks. Lucky boy! . . . Emma Meyers and Nellie Wendt were also on vacation this week. . . . We have seen everything now. Murray Sherman got some snow down his neck which really made bim hot under the collar. . . . How come Ted Keller is now in charge of final stock room and Frank Schultz is leading operator on the small lot line? . . . We wonder who will buy the Christmas tree next year in the Lieberenz home. . . . Loraine Papp must have ambitions to open a pet shop. Last Saturday she had a bird and bird cage—"some canary." . . . Nancy McCrea is going to stop inviting guests to dinner if they insist on eating sweet smelling Limburger cheese wtih their chicken dinner. . . . Velma Rose doesn't seem to like the deep snow. She even got stuck in her own drive during the recent storm. . . . Lois Bailey and Wanda Grimm both have a big dinner planned if weather conditions continue. If you are looking for a real Sunday dinner, you might visit them. Bring your own refreshments. . . . The Christmas music sounds wonderful outside but we wonder wby we can't have it inside next year. . . . Arnold Wolf is still trying to hit 600 on his bowling score. (Is that for five games?) . . . Wonder who ate the most at the potluck. . . . We wish everybody the happiest holidays possible and may the next year be prosperous for all.

Division 14's Raconteur

by Carol Altevogt

The office girls' Christmas party was held at Rose Manor, Dec. 19 at 7 p.m. Guests were Mary Louise Smiley and Mary Jane Runkel. The girls ate a meal of either ham or turkey, exchanged gifts, and sang Christmas carols. Special mention goes to Dorothy Money who made the arrangements for the party. Margaret Lissner played the piano and sang solos. One of the carols was dedicated to Mary Geiger. Everyone was so pleased to receive such nice gifts. Becky Lisle and Marie Kable particularly had a good time. They laughed so long we were beginning to wonder if they would stop. It was something about a monkey. On the way home, Loretta Brenneman's husband blew a fuse in the car. He hunted for a new one, got hold of a bad one, threw it out, and the fuse holder with it. There he was hunting around in the deep snow for the missing part. He found it after a time and went on his way again to take all the girls home.

Old Jokes!

Herb Habig to Ruth Bartles, "I hear you're a good artist." Ruth to Herb, "No, really, I can't draw a thing." Herb to Ruth, "Well, Mike Brayer says you draw flies." . . . With all this snow, there seem to have been some accidents. Russell Beamer was hit by one of those "women" drivers. Victor Nahrwold also met a car at an intersection and damaged the front of his car. Nothing reported as to who hit him. . . . HOUSE OF DAVID BOYS —The boys on the conveyor are going to let their hair grow for a time. No shaves, no haircuts. . . . Did Andy Kutter get his new "yeller" shirt at Levy's Fire Sale? . . . Bert Wittie hasn't taken exercises lately, since she lost her balance and fell under the table. . . . Everyone received beautiful gifts on the finishing table. Nellie Johnston has decided to go into the dairy business, starting with one cow named Elsie Bert Olive for Christmas.

Pig in a Poke

Bob Davis wrote a letter to Santa Claus asking him to find the dog he recently bought from Theron Kitchen. The dog disappeared during the transaction, and Bob never saw what he bought. Could Santa help? . . . Marie Wickleman must like chicken according to a recent picture. . . . Esther Watson entertained the Birthday Club the other night. The girls decided to go on a diet after the dinner. . . . Lowell Arnold must like the old lunch hour better than the new time. He was seen going to the cafeteria at 11 a.m. instead of with the office force at 12 noon. . . . Ann Johnson is a friend to many, or should I say her Alka-Seltzer bottle is. . . . Elsie Brown had a 7-9-10 split in bowling the other Tuesday. Winnie had a high of 174 and Eunice, a 179. . . . FAMOUS WORDS OF JIMMIE WOLF—"I had an article for the WORKS NEWS, but I forgot to tell you." . . . Winnie Scheurich went head first into a snow bank the other night on the way to bowl. She must have been thinking about bowling scores. . . . Bert Wittie now wears a different kind of earring on each ear. Could it become a new style? . . . Zella Sheehan coughed so hard the other day she tore her glove off her hand. Oh my!

Twinkle Toes

For dancing lessons, see Marie Wickleman and Katherine Erwin. They had a large class the other night. . . . Best wishes to Norval Banter, who has been off for some time with a broken ankle. . . . Dorothy Klug and Bill Curess are to be congratulated on the fine job they did trimming the Christmas tree in the office. . . . FRIENDLY HELP: "Wax your snow shovel with floor wax and snow will not stick to your shovel, says Arthur Bear. . . . The reporters and I want to send along our wishes to everyone for a very happy holiday season.

SURPRISE! Wonder who were the most surprised? A group of the girls were planning to go out for lunch and help Mina Lampy celebrate her birthday. As is often the way with the best made plans, something happened. Along came the girls with no lunch, and the deep snow kept the gang from going out. Results were a very slim lunch for all, and not even the birthday cake arrived on time. . . . LOST, STRAYED OR? What became of the three members of the choir? Why did they show up for their public appearance at the Country Club so late? Yes, it was a rather spectacular entrance made by Emma Goldner, Harriett Pollock, and Eloise Noll. . . . Who said that a dog is a dumb animal? We hear of one belonging to a G-E worker that seems to be able to tell time. At least he doesn't get up an extra hour earlier in the morning. For further details contact Anne. . . . An important business trip was made recently by Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Miller. The reason was to bring back tax exemptions. In fact, it was a double exemption in the form of ten-month-old twin boys, who are coming to make their future home with the Miller family. Congratulations, Jerry. . . . "Motts" Roop is better known as Rudolph to his close associates. . . . HAVE YOU NOTICED? Mary Ann Laurent has a song in her heart and a gleam in her eye. . . . GOOD LUCK, GORDON: Gordon Sprunger, who is joining the forces of Bldg. 4-5, Fort Wayne, was presented with a billfold from the office force. Come back and see us occasionally, Gordon! . . . "Beech" Berry represents an octopus when on ice. . . . $5 RANSOM —For information leading to the apprehension of a catnipper operating in the vicinity of Dave Embler's residencc. . . . We wish to express in this way the "pushing" gratitude of our friends for their kindness shown when we were recently hung up in the snow. Signed—Francis Eady, James Staley, Tom Haubold, and Charles Langston. . . . Gene Myers, former employee of Bldg. 1 who is serving with the Marines, is spending the Christmas Holiday with his wife, Phyllis. . . . Joan Borne, Payroll Dept., is leaving us to live with her husband down in Georgia. So long, Joan. . . . Our sincerest sympathies to Randolph and Florence Brandyberry upon the death of their brother. Also to Milton Chronister upon the death of his grandson.

Nine employees were honored for their ten years of service with the G-E Volunteer Fire Department at the Firemen's Annual Winter Banquet, Friday, Dec. 14.

George M. Wile

The men, who were awardcd ten-year service buttons by E. M. Hanauer, G-E fire chief, are I. Schaffer, E. Dancher, E. Bowser, C. Miller, W. Bilcer, D. Brayer, A. Rudasky, M. Spade, and G. Maloney.

George M. Wile, vicc president of Arkwright Mutual Insurance Company, Boston, Mass., was the guest speaker. In his discussion of "Factory Mutual Loss Prevention," Mr. Wile emphasized the human element in loss prevention and plant self-protection.

"IN HONOR OF YOUR SERVICE—with the Volunteer Fire Department," E. M. Hanauer, G-E fire chief, says as he pins a ten-year service button on A. Rudasky. Donald Brayer (left), another recipient of the ten-year award, watches.

Among the guests were officials of the City Fire Department, Police Department, County Sheriff's office, personnel from the Wabash Cabinet plant, and Company superintendents and staff members.

Especially at this time of the year, it is with the deepest regrct that we learned of the passing of one of our fellow-workers, Edward M. Smethers. I'm sure we will miss Ed's cheery smile and hearty laugh. To his family, we extend our heartfelt sympathy. . . . To those who are shut in, especially Louis Watt, who is missing this holiday season, we hope you can be with us again soon. . . . With the heavy snow that has made it so difficult to get about, the Nine O'Clock Club has done quite well. Ozzie Nahrwold, Jess Batchelder, Cecil Strong, and Howard McMaken have come through with flying colors. . . . Ray Bowers and Paul Armstrong have transferred from our group. We wish them the best of luck in their new assignments. . . . Lyle Claphan just realized that he is again in the 60 score, using all those 60 Rockwell pats. . . . Hubert (Curley Boy) Sherlock just can't make it without those double lunches. . . . Gurney Lindley paid us a visit after his return from Texas and Florida. He said he came home for the holidays, but I'll bet he wishes he was back in the Deep South. . . . Bill Johnson, Bob Repine, Paul Boedeker, and his brother-in-law, Bill Barter, went fishing at Houghton Lake, Mich. (Yes, they went fishing.) Anyway Paul's two small sons, Bob and Paul, Jr., ate the combined catch of the group. Their biggest amusement was watching Bob Repine trying to catch a "Honey Bear." . . . Paul Armstrong believes in "BE KIND TO ANIMALS." During the recent cold spell, Paul left his kitchen door open one night so the cats and dogs of the neighborhood could keep warm. . . . Bill Walde, Clarence Stolte, Ardell Hambrock, Jack Pollock, Bob Repine, Jess Batchelder, Bill Johnson, and Ward Staley Sr. have been enjoying those cold weather vacations. . . . And now a personal word—A HAPPY AND PROSPEROUS NEW YEAR TO ALL.

The annual Christmas party of the Motor-Generator engineers got under way after a wait of an hour and a half for the caterer to bring the groceries. Comments on the "banquet" included—"they kept the hide and threw the cow away"—"salad from yesteryear"—"pie a la Goodrich" — and other witticisms of like tenor. We must report, though, that the gang took it in stride and enjoyed themselves with old-fashioned parlor games, contests, and Christmas carols. We regret that those who were forced to leave before refreshments had to miss all the fun. . . . A touch of the Wild West was added to the office when Tex Brown paraded through the office in buckaroo regalia—spurs, gun, plaid shirt and all. . . . We are beginning to agree with the comment which we heard on the bus the other day—these people who have been dreaming of a "white Christmas" must be having nightmares. . . . Happy Holidays folks.

With the Christmas rush over and things getting back to normal, the pins will once more begin to topple over for the bowlers. Some of the boys didn't let Santa Claus interfere with their bowling. Ed Bauer took home a chicken in the Small Motor league on a 626 series resulting from games of 202-182-242.

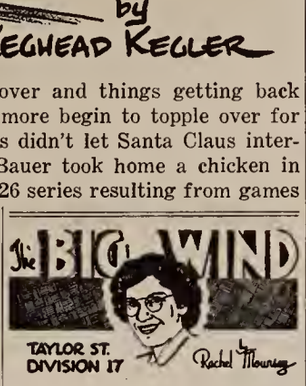
The league is all tied up with Office Tools and Contributing each with 28 wins and 17 losses. C. Brandt kegled a 203; C. Lindemuth, 201; W. Whonsetler, 205; H. Hoffman got chicken happy and rolled 93 pins over his average, including a 209 count. F. Gitter, another chicken-eater kegled a 235 count; H. Kern, 207, but no chicken; Rhine got a 202 count; E. Haugh didn't win a chicken, but last reports have it that Kenny Williams contributed three cigars to the cause.

279 Count

Art Seidel kegled a big 279 count to go into second place in the city single game sweepstake. A wiggling pin that refused to topple in the 9th frame ruined his 300-game for Art struck out in the 10th frame. Games of 230 and 183 added to his first game gave Art a big 692 for high 3-game series at the G-E Club alleys this season to date.

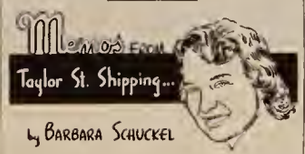
Office

The first half has ended with Amplydines in the first place with 31 wins and 14 losses. Motor-Generator and Drafting were tied with 29 and 16 record. Chicken winners included: A. Johnson, L. Ray, P. Motter, H. Brown, H. Dalman, and F. Bendel. Not a chicken winner, but getting the high single game for the evening, was R. Knepple with a 233. Other 200 counts for the night were made by A. Johnson, 219; R. Zelt, 214; W. France, 210; F. Bendel, 209; R. Blomker, 201, and K. Parks, 201.



In The Thursday Owl League

Burti Restaurant is leading the league with 31 wins and 5 losses and Swifty Connett is in second place with a 29-7 record. M. Washington rolled a 162 for high single game and M. Haver scored 422 for high series.



Report From Frank Quinn

Secretary of the Masonic league shows the Doric team in top spot with 25 wins compared to 17 losses. A record of 22 wins and 20 losses has been set by the Ionic, Trowels, Corinthian, and the Squares. Smith had the high single game for the night, a 232 count. Lauterberg rolled a 219; Harris, 214; Somers, 207; Rastetter, 203, and Hoelle, 201. Chicken winners were Somers, Smith, Crayton, Harris, Kohlenberg, and L. Huges.

"Out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh."—Matthew 12:34.

George Saunders had better try getting a new kind of Packard—one that the windows won't fall out of when it turns cold. . . . Vi Minnicks is very happy her son is home from Korea. . . . The sound room held their Christmas party at Esther Schlagenhauffer's and had a very nice time. . . . Welcome to Phyllis Ping on inspection and test. . . . Doris Moon is going to wear a bib just to eat "franks" in the cafeteria. . . . Ethel Koontz went to Howard Johnson's for their Christmas party and says the eats were wonderful. . . . Glad to see Roy Hills back again. . . . Has Virginia Reed found a red ribbon big enough yet? . . . Where did Lucy Fiechter stay for a couple of days when she couldn't come in. . . . Peg Ballinger can really tell the story when it comes to telling how he can get hurt. . . . Where was Oscar Schlyser during the big snow? . . . Bob Boone is pretty happy now that he can rent his sleigh out and get part of his money back. . . . Dorothy Huffman has had her share of bad luck. Her husband was laid off last week, and this week he had to be operated on for appendicitis.

Nancy Woodhull and Mary Caruso don't have to go outside to feel the cold of the snow. It comes right in to them. Seems there is a hole in the roof; and when the wind blows, down comes the snow on their heads. . . . Santa Claus came a week early to Carol Kissinger and surprised her with a diamond engagement ring from Dick Patten. We've never seen Carol so happy. Congratulations, kids. . . . Maxine Householder came to work last week wearing her Christmas present from her boy friend, Maynard Peterson—a beautiful wrist watch. Santa must have had Maxine on his "good girl" list. . . . A lot of folks have been digging their way to work through this unpredicted snow. It was a little too far for Mary Wakeman to dig from Churubusco. . . . Marilyn Spice can tell you something new in fantastic dreams. She's simply loaded with them. . . . Faye Alexander loves to sneak a look at pictures over men's shoulders. Was her face red! How about it, Faye? . . . We, the people of the Taylor St. Shipping office, wish everybody a very "Happy New Year!"

City Bowling Tourney To Be Held Jan. 14

The Bowling Date of G-E Club teams entered in the City Tournament has been changed from the week of January 7 to the week of January 14, Les Shroyer, G-E Club Bowling chairman, announced today.

Well, with the new year coming up, we are all thinking of our New Year's resolutions. You know, those rules we make but never keep. Jim Lindley is resolving to get more and better rabbits. We shall see. . . . Christmas is gone for another year, but for a few Christmas remembrances. Everyone for the most part spent Christmas day with their families and friends. We are mighty thankful that we live in a land where this is a reality and not just wishful thinking. . . . Martha Bulleit got a terriffic bang out of the explosive matches. . . . Clarice Fyock was much surprised in the gift exchange, as she was expecting the worst. . . . Jo Lee Zimmerman surprised us all when she turned out to be a model. . . . Poor Clarence Norris just didn't know what to expect, but then neither did Dick Clancy. . . . Mrs. Ellis, our matron, wishes to thank everyone for their remembrance. . . . Otto Roehm was presented with a gift from the department, but we were hoping for a speech, Otto. . . . CONGRATULATIONS: Jennifer Marie has put in her appearance at the Cliff Garbison home. Jenny weighed 7 lb. 12 oz. Congratulations to all three Garbisons. . . . Evaline Best has the latest thing in cushions. Guaranteed soundproof. . . . Hazel Maxon wished that Jo Lee had a button so she could turn her off. . . . Naomi Lallow has transferred to Bldg. 6-4 on days. We will miss you, Naomi. . . . Pearl Michaels is off on sick leave. . . . Pat Perry and Helen have gone to Bldg. 6-4. . . . Skippy Kurtz is trying to restore the good old Christmas spirit. Having any luck, Skippy? . . . Howard Pfeiffer has many talents. His newest acquired is the art of plucking—not eyebrows. . . . What happened to Betty Zollar's eye? . . . Helga Wickliffe says she is all ready for Santa Claus. . . . Alice Robinson always screams when she sees Jo Lee, but then I don't blame her as she usually has good reason. . . . Howard doesn't answer the phone like most of us do. He doesn't use either hand. . . . Cliff Garbison thanks everyone for the beautiful gift for Jennifer. Since Jenny can't thank you in person, Papa will. . . . Carol Eastes, we are surprised at you, But you were as much surprised as we were. . . . GOOD DEED DOTTIE: Dorothy Groves did her good deed by helping to push Jim Lindley out of the snow. After Dorothy got in her car, she found she was stuck also, so Jim had to return the good deed. . . . Marianne Miles had to push her way out of the snow. Speaking of getting stuck, Otto Roehm got stuck so often one day, he gave it up for a bad job and went home sweet home. . . . Don Ritter and Howard Pfeiffer are trying to knock each other out by the heavy, heavy hang method. . . . We are glad Esther Weeks escaped injury in that accident last week. . . . To each and every one, I wish the new Year of 1952 to be filled with prosperity, happiness, and a permanent peace. Happy New Year!

In the first game last week, Bldg. 4 easily downed Wire Mill by 40 to 23. Warren Wickliff with ten points was high for the winners. Dick Spice was high for the losers with eight points.

The reserve strength of Bldg. 26 was too much for Taylor St., final score 33 to 24. Furman, the tallest man of the squad, scored 15 points for the winners. Doug Drake and Darwin Klenke were high for the losers with eight points apiece.

The third game was not as close as was expected with Bldg. 4-5 downing Bldg. 26-3 by 48 to 26. Bldg. 26-3 was without the services of their high-scoring Bud Pfafman. This game was noticeable for the Dwyer brothers, Gene and Jim, playing opposite each other. Forrest Scherer with 16 points was high for the winners. Bud Manz was high for the losers with 10 points.

There are still openings for basketball players. Call Bob Crosley on Ext. 2576.

L. Radamaker tried his luck fishing last Sunday, but most of the lakes were open so he didn't get any fish. He did go in for some sport though, sliding on his tummy, but not with a sled. There was a slight casualty—a broken thermos bottle. Of course, he got his face washed and some snow down his neck. The fellows working with Roddy say that anyone who would go out in 14 below to catch a poor numb fish is pretty numb, or is that the word they used? Roddy says all that's the matter with them is jealousy, so we will let the fellows argue it out. . . . You can always tell when cold weather comes around, as Bill Morton comes out in his bright red shirt. . . . Ed Bowser and Cece Onion were pouring over a map of the Canal Zone the other day. Both of their sons are down there in the service. . . . Florence Fett's hubby got her a new mandolin for Christmas. Now they can make music together. Florence tells me they have great times around bome in the evenings with music and singing. . . . It seems Frank Fogwell got his seasons mixed the otber day and put his sheep out to pasture. Now he has to haul hay out to them. Frank tells me that the sheep can get in the barn if they get cold, so I'm sure that will make John Walters and Eldridge Gilliom feel better. . . . Arnold Bienz expects his work to be done even though be carries it around in his pocket for several days. . . . The fellows around here are out to get the bird tonight in the bowling league. Your reporter hopes you had a very Merry Christmas.

Joe Troendly, Ray Horstmann, and Al (Teahound) Topp are on vacation this week. Ray and Joe are going to get some rabbit hunting done, but Al says he's just staying home and having "Bridge" (his wife) serve him breakfast in bed every day. What a sweet racket that boy has! Tom (Cowboy) Freeman says if Al wasn't such a pantywaist he'd go up to the lake and get in some ice fishing. . . . We hear the fire went out in "Moneybags" Keller's "Fireball Engine" Buick. Anyway, Benny couldn't get it started during the recent cold wave. . . . Benny Keller, Buick enthusiast, kept his riders waiting out in the cold the other night. His Buick wouldn't run because he left his keys in the building. The second trick boys took good care of him, putting his tools away and locking his drawer, also listening to his alibis. . . . We would like Emil Schurenberg to keep one of his employees named Tom Freeman in his squirrel cage. We don't like him running around loose on the floor. He is a bad influence on Murder's Row. . . . Ida Pyle, second trick winder, has been absent. Her mother-in-law has been seriously ill. We wish her a speedy recovery. . . . Ovel Puryear (Bing-Bang), Charlie's bosom pal, has missed nine out of ten rabbits this season. He blames it on shotless shells. . . . Welcome to Jim Savio. He's back on the floor again. . . . Herb Harter and Norb Weeks did pretty well on the night of the big snow, until they got stuck in their respective driveways. . . . New traffic regulations uptown now for the holidays. Double parking is now in order. All interested persons see Dutch Norwalt. . . . Benny Keller has already had to buy a new battery for the Buick. He says the batteries in Buicks are not as good as they used to be in Oldsmobiles. . . . There were a few different potluck dinners in the Green Room Thursday before Christmas. We hope everyone had a good time and wish them a Merry Christmas. . . . Another Christmas "Mirage"—We saw a be-au-ti-ful blue-eyed blonde standing on Bill Rectanus' desk. What about this, Bill? . . . Happy birthday to Eva Johnson and Wilda Miller. . . . Anyone having dreams lately: You've read of dogs biting people, but have you ever heard of women biting their husbands? Ask Eva Johnson, she knows. . . . Alma Darnall had some bad luck. She went Christmas shopping, came home, and friends called saying she lost $50 by not being present when they called her name in a drawing at Zanesville Merchants. . . . News has gotten around about a certain boss turning child again. He borrowed his little girl's Hopalong Cassidy thermos bottle. Could this news be correct, Olen? . . . Notice: Archie Ryan, don't wait for your nephew when the fish are biting. . . . Office Ouches—Harold Jones, who came to the Planning Department from Bldg. 20, says he would have sold a trailer cheap last week, when its connecting water pipes froze. . . . We all thought that something was biting Louie Swager the other day. He was digging frantically under his shirt where (he claimed) he had put his timestudies to keep from losing them. Louie and family will soon be moving into their new home, as it is almost completed. . . . How about Wayne Weimer trying to snitch a candy cane off the Christmas tree? It doesn't seem logical. We know he's allergic to peppermint. . . . A hearty welcome to Syl Engelmann, new man in the Planning Section. He works with Ed Bangert in Bldg. 26-3. . . . Doris Lampe has been voted prize spaghetti and meat ball cook around these parts. . . . We were happy to see Helen Wagner's smiling face again after a several days' illness. . . . Bouquets to those who decorated the office Christmas tree. It's a beautiful job, and we're really enjoying it. . . . We were all pleased to receive a Christmas card from Mary Mudrack, the matron on our floor. Mary does her Christmas "giving" all year 'round and seems very happy about it. . . . Happy New Year everyone—don't make any resolutions you won't keep.

Ted Bain was either sleepy or clumsy when he cracked his toe one morning last week. Maybe he was walking in his sleep. . . . There was quite a sale on Ed Glemwith's new rubber boots—had several prospective buyers but turned out they were not for sale. Hank Shirley was looking them over, but the following morning came to work with a new pair lined with wool from his prize sheep. . . . Why does Lloyd Jacobs (Judge Puffle) always blush when people mention a certain neck tie? The boys would like to know what this tie looks like, as they have never seen it. . . . Bob Bevington sure got some nice gifts—a beautiful corset, the kind you lace up, and a tee-shirt with all the trimmings. . . . Fern Hollowell got the latest in hose and shoes. . . . Bill Widdifield's bean turned out to be the biggest gift in the world. . . . Deer meat is getting higher by the pound, as far as Herb Bauer is concerned and so is his temper! . . . Willard Smith is as proud of his '41 Plymouth as can be. It takes the snowdrifts as good as a new one! . . . Fern Painter sure enjoyed her walk in the snow. How did it taste, Fern? . . . Vi Elliott gave Helen Boedeker some Christmas cards to mail and then happened to think one of them didn't have an address on. Blame it on the Christmas rush. . . . Cathy Traughber enjoyed the snow too. After shoveling their car out, she got to work two hours late. . . . Margaret Chartres got just what she wanted for Christmas—an antique organ. At the rate she's going, it will be worn out by New Year's. . . . Eunice Taylor Richmond is now in Grahm, Texas, and she says it really agrees with her. . . . Kathryn Hepker saw a Model T going down the street on the snow and ice. It was really doing better than the later cars, and now Kathryn wishes she had one. . . . Gene Beaverforden isn't so dumb. She had an old radio that didn't work. She took it all apart, put it together again and now it works. The only drawback is that you have to turn it upside down. . . . Clarabell Sapp was snowbound and couldn't get home last week. Surely hope she made it for Christmas. . . . We wish Irene Kreger's little boy a speedy recovery. . . . Imagine Gene Haifley's chagrin when he came to work the other day and found twins on his desk. The day before Ray Soest discovered a bassinet in 1x79! . . . Here's hoping each and every one of you have a very happy and prospeorus New Year!

The G-E Insurance Plan will pay for special services you receive while a bed patient in the hospital up to $100.

Hidden Danger—William Leimenstoll, Taylor St., points out pieces of lumber and equipment which he found lying on the edge of air vents in the Wire Mill. This equipment was left on the overhead vents after they were erected and presented a potential safety hazard.

Vic Barcus was so pleased over getting so many suggestions that he passed out 18 checks ranging from $5 to $35. Better turn in that idea you have in mind. You could be a winner, too! . . . It appears that Ed Schafenacker and Ed Gruber should be invited to our safety committee meetings. Better set a good example, boys. Ed Schafenacker's arm was caught between the tire and fender of his car. He was putting on chains and the jack slipped. Ed was stuck so he yelled and yelled for help. Finally, he aroused his son who came to his rescue with his anatomy only partly clothed. You disturb people at the most unusual times, Ed. . . . Dave Bartle doesn't mind the snow as long as he wears his boots. We didn't see any snow last Tuesday on the fifth floor, Dave. . . . Die Plant: Newlywed Carl Click was busy shoveling snow the other morning and in order to be on time, he didn't eat at home. Instead, he brought ham and bread along, toasted the bread on a hot plate, and had a warm breakfast. . . . One of the most unfortunate snow victims was John Bartle, who missed Tuesday, and was even late the next day. . . . After tracks were broken by other cars from Ossian, Bob Sowards came in about Tuesday noon. . . . Ralph Baysinger is wishing the Mercury people would install larger ash trays in their cars, since he traded for a new '51 to replace the '51 he smashed up last week. . . . You have heard of people losing face. That's what happened to Arnold Korte's Dodge, when he unexpectedly boosted a fellow up the alley, and his brakes failed to hold on the ice. . . . Bob Palmer also gave his car some new lines, when he failed to negotiate a turn around the corner of his house. . . . No matter how hard Bielsmith tries, he just can't drink cokes as fast as the machine makes them. . . . Second Trick: Congratulations to Bebee Blauvelt and wife on the new arrival of a son, Jackie —8 lb. 6 oz. . . . The first big snow and Clayton Patten and Elmer Fuhrman both decided to sell their Buicks and buy Fords. . . . Hayden Rice started to overhaul his car two weeks ago. Now, two weeks and four frozen fingers later, it runs. . . . Wilbur Lane and Howard Markey decided to go ice fishing this week. It sounds like a big fish fry for all who remember where Wilbur Lane lives. . . . Frank Armstrong was selected to operate the new machine a few weeks ago, Frank, who calls it a lathe, is very happy. . . . Cleo Baird bought an expensive piece of candy for a nickel the other day. He broke off a tooth while eating it and the dental bill was plenty. . . . Bill Trumbower has no worries in getting out of his lane when the snow is heavy. He just waits until the milk truck comes to pick up his milk. Then, Bill hooks on behind and is pulled out to the highway. Of course, with this method, he doesn't get to work until noon. . . . Another "Hot Rod Driver" is gaining fame. He is "Whirlaway Wherry" from Coesse. . . . LeRoy Paulson went Hollywood on the boys. He's been wearing dark glasses. . . . Since Cal Bear got chains on his Plymouth, he is agreeing with Zig Einsiedel. He likes a lot of snow. Zig claims he wouldn't care if we got four or five feet of snow. We wouldn't care either, Cal, as long as it just fell in the Hanna-McKinnie St. area. . . . Joe Mettler's snow plow on his garden tractor works so good that he is now branching out doing custom work, including scraping sidewalks and streets at Zanesville, Poe and Ossian. . . . Bob Truelove still likes his Studebaker even if he has to leave the battery charger and heat lamp on all night and pull it with a tractor every morning. . . . Paul Brinkroeger's daughter sang Christmas carols over the speakers on the Lincoln Tower. Perhaps she is a possible up-and-coming singing star, he hopes. . . . We understand Leo Schlaudroff and Walter Greiner bought their farmer friend, Ed Schafenacker, a toy mule with a spinning tail for Christmas. Ed says at least he won't have to feed it. . . . Virginia Simon thinks Christmas should be a two-day holiday. One to celebrate Christmas, and the 26th to celebrate her birthday. . . . Our congratulations to Jack Hurless, as he walks the aisle of matrimony. . . . May we all resolve to do our best to keep the new year free from lost-time accidents. It only takes one and it could be you!

SHAFT SHAVINGS

Bldg. 19-3

Forrest Reed, our modern version of Daniel Boone, enjoyed his third week of vacation pursuing that elusive member of the hare family, Lepus cuniculus (rabbit to you) and announced considerable success. He also wound up his time off by attending a big banquet at Concordia gym Saturday evening with Mrs. Reed. "The steak was delicious and the entertainment grand," said Forrest. How do you crash these affairs, Reed? . . . Perch Sickafus was laid up Dec. 17 with a twisted back, it is alleged. Perch, that ailing back story is not worthy of your talents. It's not original. . . . Everett Harris also failed to put in an appearance a week ago last Monday. His new Ford was indisposed and didn't care to buck the heavy snow. . . . Kenny Hart came in all right, but part of the trip he drove sideways. In the process, he sideswiped another car. He was quite unhappy about the incident. . . . A Happy and Prosperous New Year everybody!

Idea Winners—E. J. Thomas, STAB manager of engineering, presents prizes to P. A. Vance, Glen Walters, and W. L. Henderson for their suggestions for products that had not been proposed or developed at the time of the meeting of the STAB engineers, Monday, Dec. 10. A contest was conducted at the dinner meeting to stimulate interest in discovering and developing new products which could be added to the STAB line.

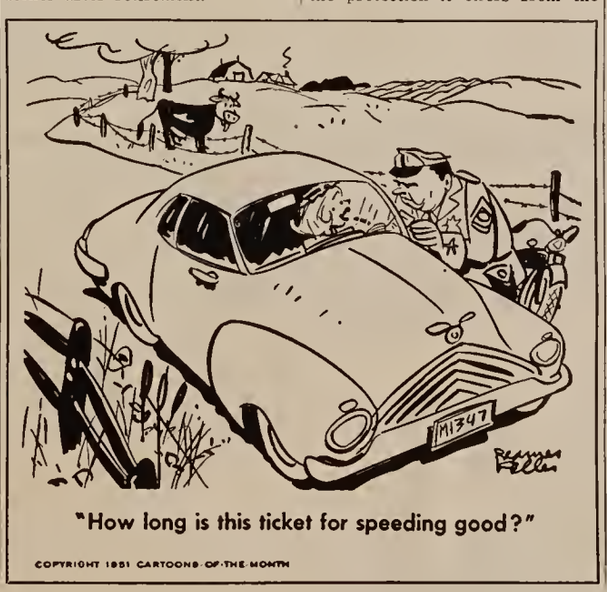
Insurance Claims Prove Daily Witness To Life and Times of G-E Employees

A daily witness to the life and times of most General Electric employees is the Employee Benefit Plans Department in Schenectady, across whose desks pass the insurance claims for the dead, the ill and the new-born.

These tragedies and joys which are reflected in the insurance claims reveal that the tragedies hit the young as well as the old.

Life insurance payments recently were paid to a beneficiary of a G-E pensioner who was crowding one hundred years. His life insurance continued in effect even after retirement, although at a reduced rate, because it is maintained without cost to the pensioner after retirement.

Life is not always as rewarding as it was to the pensioner who lived the full measure. There is the recent case recalled by the Employee Benefit Plans Department of the young man who worked just one day for General Electric. He signed up for the Company Insurance package that day, even though he looked forward to a full life. On his way home that evening he was killed in an automobile accident.



There are on record several other cases where employees died within a few days of employment. The Employee Benefit Plans Department points out that in many plans these new employees would not be eligible for insurance, but emphasizes that under General Electric's Plan an employee can have the protection it offers from the very first day of employment.

Other cases have illustrated the value of the new accidental death and dismemberment provision. These cases involved unexpected payments to the beneficiaries because the claims as presented did not call attention to the accidental deaths. However, as a result of review by the Employee Benefit Plans Department who requested fuller investigations by the insurance company, the additional benefits were paid.

Not all the claims that are handled reflect the tragic. Life with its humorous vein often is revealed in accident and health claims.

A woman employee at one of G-E's plants had been drawing benefits for several weeks because of what her doctor identified as a nervous disorder. Evidently dissatisfied with her doctor, she switched to another, who informed her she would soon be able to file a claim for maternity benefits.

Then there was the case of a proud new father who very enthusiastically suggested that he should be eligible for double maternity benefits. His wife had given birth to twins.

Elex Thank-You Note

Members of the Elex Club wish to express their thanks to employees for their generosity in contributing to the Club's annual Christmas Service Collection, Irene Meyers, club advisor, stated today.

The donations were used to aid local needy families.

Disability payments under the G-E Insurance Plan will continue during the period of total disability up to 26 weeks.

SCIENCE QUESTION BOX

by SCIENTISTS OF THE G.E. RESEARCH LABORATORY

Q. What makes waves on ocean and lakes?

A. Waves in general are caused by the wind. A breeze of as little as three miles per hour is enough to start ripples from one to three inches between their crests. A gale of 100 miles per hour, on the other hand, blowing over a thousand-mile stretch, may raise waves that average 70 feet in height and are nearly a mile apart. Even if the wind stops, of course, the waves may continue far beyond the place of their origin. Several sets of waves may occur simultaneously. There may be long, slow swells from a distance with shorter waves on top of them, produced by winds close by.

Q. How could a rocket ship be steered, if there is no air for a rudder to press against?

A. A rocket is propelled by the recoil of a stream of heated gases which is discharged at high speed. It tends to move in the direction opposite to that at which these gases are expelled. In the V-2 rocket, there are carbon blades in the exhaust. These can be moved to deflect the stream one way or the other, and the direction of motion of the rocket is correspondingly altered. Perhaps, in a rocket ship, there might be auxiliary rockets on the side, pointing in various directions, and which could be fired as it became necessary to maneuver the ship.

Q. When water boils rapidly, does it get hotter than when it boils gently?

A. No. Boiling takes place (at normal sea-level air pressure) at 212 degrees F, regardless of whether it is slow or fast. When cold water is put on the stove, the heat absorbed goes first to raising the temperature. When it reaches the boiling point the additional heat no longer makes it hotter, but changes the liquid (water) into vapor (steam). If the burner is turned up high, so that more heat is utilized, a larger quantity of water per second is turned to steam, and it will boil away more rapidly.

Q. How much coal is there left to mine in the United States?

A. According to a recent report, issued by the U. S. Geological Survey, somewhat over 24,000,000,000 tons of bituminous coal have already been produced in the United States, while of what remains more than 616,300,000,000 tons are still recoverable, assuming 50 per cent recovery of these reserves. With all kinds, that is bituminous, subbituminous, lignite, anthracite and semi-anthracite, nearly 30,000,000,000 tons have been mined while over 1,200,000,000,000 tons are still capable of recovery. If our use of coal continued at the same average annual rate as between 1940 and 1950, this would last until the year 3563.

G-E To Produce Electric Blankets In North Carolina

ASHEBORO, N. C.—Production of General Electric automatic blankets will be transferred to this city from Bridgeport, Conn., early next year.

Robert O. Fickes, general manager of the automatic blanket department, said that the Company has acquired here a 132,000-square-foot factory that was formerly occupied by the National Chair Manufacturing Co. Upwards of 300 persons will be employed in the new plant.

Connecticut workers who will be affected by the move are expected to be absorbed in defense work at the Bridgeport plant.

Mr. Fickes said that the move is necessitated by the steady growth of the automatic blanket business. "By enlarging and improving our manufacturing facilities and by locating in North Carolina—closer to the mills now making our blanket fabric—we expect to be able to increase production smoothly and economically as the demand warrants," he said.

Employee Stores Close

The Employee Stores at Broadway and Taylor St. will be closed for inventory today, Dec. 28; Monday, Dec. 31, and Wednesday, Jan. 2. The stores will reopen for business as usual Thursday, Jan. 3, R. L. Fischbach, Employee Store manager said today.

Congratulations to the husband of Frances Wilkie. He won first prize in the contest, "What America Means to Me." Bet they will enjoy that new refrigerator, too. . . . Happy birthday to Mary Secrist. . . . Howdy Do-dee to all our newcomers. Hope you like us. . . . Glad to see Laverne Stilwell back in the groove. . . . A farewell potluck was given for Mildred Schoenlein. She is leaving us to take up small garment making. . . . We wish lots of happiness to the daughter of Jerry Snyder, who will be married tomorrow evening. . . . Clara Thomas went to Tennessee for Christmas. . . . We hope that all the workers both active and inactive that are on the sick list will be greatly improved and can enjoy the holidays. . . . Our sincere sympathy to Dorothy Burns in the death of her mother.

We wish to extend to one and all a very Happy New Year. . . . Dessie George should explain herself better or go to church oftener. . . . The girls shouldn't hold mistletoe over Kay Dolan, especially when she is talking to her husband. . . . Everyone complains of being tired these days so it's a good thing the New Year is just around the corner. Happy New Year.

Purdue Center Offers 12-Week Engineering Review Course

A 12-weeks course "Engineering Review" will be offered at Purdue University Center starting Tuesday, Jan. 8 at 7:30 p.m.

The course is being offered for the benefit of those engineers who are planning to take the Indiana State Professional Engineers examination to be given in April.

The first six weeks of the course will be devoted to review of the academic aspects of Mathematics, Physics, Engineering Law, Mechanics and Strength of Materials. The last six weeks will be devoted to solving practical application problems in various Engineering fields under the broad divisions of Mechanical, Electrical, Civil and Chemical engineering.

Class Open To Engineers

The class is open to all graduate engineers and those engineers who, lacking formal academic education, have actively been engaged in engineering for eight years or more.

Mr. Paul Cox, a former G-E employee, Assistant Professor at Purdue Center, will be the instructor-coordinator of the class. Other lecturers for the course will be announced later.

The course is being planned by Dr. R. M. Bateman, director of Purdue University Center, Mr. Otto Gumpper and Mr. Cox, instructors at the Center; Mr. Charles Kronmiller, General Electric Company, and Mr. Clifford Sawyer, President of the Fort Wayne I.S.P.E.

Additional information about the course and registration details can be had by contacting Purdue University Center, Jefferson at Barr street, phone A-3171.

PIN BOYS WANTED

Employees' sons are wanted for pin boys at the G-E Club alleys, Charlie Wilt, Club manager said today. Boys must be 16 years of age or older. Apply directly to Mr. Wilt in the G-E Club.

Everyone is happy since Santa found us. With all the good eats and candies we have gained a few pounds. . . . Lois Yager and Mabel Moser brought in some home made candy and cookies that were mighty good. . . . Adele Wietfeldt had a week's vacation, and we think it was at a good time, when the weather was rough. . . . Coy Capesius spent Christmas in Albion, then in Elkhart and did all right by two dinners. . . . Margaret Turney kept nice and warm Christmas in a new fur coat. . . . Rebecca Fogwell spent Christmas cooking a turkey and all the trimmings. . . . What is this about Irma Beard losing an elephant? . . . WEDDING BELLS: Congratulations to Wanetta Shoaff who was married Dec. 15. . . . Darold Emrick is spending a week's vacation in sunny Florida. . . . Homer Huser has a new brand of tobacco now. It's half and half—half washers and half tobacco. . . . Lorin Prince got stuck in the snow Monday night a short distance from his home. . . . Dorothy Hart received word Wednesday that her son, Dale, had landed safely in Germany. . . . Ruth LaPradd had a terrible time shopping last week, and then the busses passed her up. . . . HAPPY NEW YEAR EVERYBODY!

It is estimated that today there is a skilled labor force of 8,000,000 men and women in our country.

Hits 45-Year Service Record—Clarence Hartman (center) joined the ranks of the few General Electric employees with 45 years of service Friday, Dec. 14. Shown congratulating him on his anniversary are (l-r) Louis Becker, Robert Spitler, Ed Robin, Lester Franke, Mr. Hartman, L. D. Hodell and Florian Korte. Mr. Hartman is employed in FHP Motor Div. 1.
